Ceramics and Jewelry of John Heller

John Heller, who was Professor of Art at the College for more than thirty years (1968–2001), died unexpectedly on February 17, 2001. His friends and colleagues will never forget John's generosity, his intelligence, his wit and his unstinting service to the College. Fortunately, despite the many hours he devoted to his students, his colleagues and to the many committees on which he served, John still found time for his own creative work. The next four pages offer a sampling of the hundreds of original pieces, many now in private collections, which he created.
