State Teachers College At Bridgewater, Massachusetts

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The spiritual vacuum in America today is the fruit of an educational policy which for all too long has ignored God.

Over three hundred years ago the great poet John Milton wrote, "The end of learning is to know God aright, and out of that knowledge to love Him, to imitate Him, to be like Him, as we may the nearest by possessing our souls of true virtue, which being united to the heavenly grace of faith makes up the highest perfection."

Man's ascent through the ages has been long and hard, and at each step he has accumulated new knowledge about things, about people, about the relationship of men, one to the other, in accordance with the Divine Plan. It is important that those who guide the thinking of the student of today and make of him the responsible citizen of tomorrow should be men and women of sound ideas. We must never forget that what is in the teacher's head and heart passes into the minds of the young.

As teachers, we must bring back into the classrooms these and other Christian truths which form the basis of our existence and the existence of our United States of America.

Education must train the human will along with the intellect. It must produce a "free man." This is the basic education which our Founding Fathers urged as needed for the perpetuation of the Republic.

To be a teacher is to have a great mission in life. The teacher is one of the great channels whereby the heritage and traditions of civilization are transmitted to the young whose habits, ideas, and ways of life will determine the course of our national and world future. There can be no greater work.

May you be recognized and respected by those who have a true philosophy for right living, as

A TEACHER.

JOHN J. KELLY President

DEDICATION

The Alpha Yearbook of 1951 is hereby dedicated to George H. Durgin, a veteran of twenty-five years teaching experience at Bridgewater State Teachers College.

A graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, class of 1911, Mr. Durgin furthered his studies at Harvard University, receiving the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Education. During World War I he served as "watch officer on a gunboat in the Mediterranean and as an executive officer of a Navy transport between British and French ports." In 1926, after five years of teaching in local high schools, a new day dawned for Mr. Durgin: he became a mathematics instructor at Bridgewater State Teachers College. The years sped by and once again the war clouds burst in Europe. The cry of battle sounded forth and Mr. Durgin answered to its call. As Commander Durgin writes: "I served four years in World War II at various naval stations from Boston to Okinawa. I also served one year with Women Appointed for Voluntary Emergency Service — as one of the original men behind the women behind the guns." After a quarter century of teaching experience at Bridgewater, Mr. Durgin notes that the distinctive feature of this college is the friendliness of the students and the faculty. He has also watched, with keen interest, the growing up of his students into parents and grandparents.

We salute you, George H. Durgin, mathematician, philosopher, humorist and friend.

APPRECIATION

In recognition of her many years of service, we, the class of 1951, bid farewell to Miss Ruth I. Low, Assistant Professor of English and Speech at Bridgewater State Teachers College.

*Not to be ministered unto,
but to minister*

ALMA MATER

*Within thy life we grew;
The task you set we knew;
To burn thy beacon bright
Where fall the rays of light.*

Chorus

*O Alma Mater, thy children strive
To keep thy faith alive;
O Alma Mater, we sing for thee
This song of loyalty.
O Alma Mater, thy voice alone
Will guide in paths unknown.*

*Within thy life we sang
Of love and peace that rang
Throughout thy sounding halls,
Now memories in thy walls.*

*Beyond thy life we raise
Thy worthy name in praise;
Where e'er we chance to be,
We honor B. T. C.*

Let's face it.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Yearbook Staff wishes to express their gratitude to those members of the faculty, the student body and the outside community whose valuable assistance made possible the creation of the 1951 Alpha.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

Alpha Psi Omega, a National Dramatic Fraternity, strives under the leadership of Miss Frances Guerin, to forward dramatic art at Bridgewater.

CAMERA CLUB

Although this organization was only recently resurrected from a six-year sleep, its contributions to the college since that time have been immense—especially in the preparation of the yearbook itself.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Published once each month, Campus Comment, the College newspaper, has achieved national recognition as an outstanding student publication.

DAY STUDENT COUNCIL

The regulation of all matters that pertain primarily to the life of the commuters is the purpose of this group. In the past four years the organization has grown considerably and has sponsored many dances, suppers, and entertainments.

WOODWARD HOUSE BOARD

Woodward House Board functions in much the same manner as its Tillinghast counterpart: governing the dorm, intervening between the administration and the resident girl students, and sponsoring social activities.

DORMITORY COUNCIL

The duties of this association, composed of elected delegates of both dormitories, are many and varied; they supervise the Christmas banquet proceedings, Alumni Week-end Luncheon, Graduation Luncheon and Open House as well as having responsibility for table assignments in the dining hall and for observance of dormitory rules.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Directed by Miss Frances Guerin, and presenting three plays each year, the Dramatic Club, by its fine presentations, has greatly enhanced the theatrical arts at Bridgewater.

FRENCH CLUB

Under the leadership of Mrs. Edith B. Frost and sponsoring the bi-yearly Mardi Gras festival, this club, representing a high cultural plane at B.T.C., has done much to enrich the lives of those who belong.

GLEE CLUB

The Christmas Concert, probably the finest presentation put on by any club during the school year, marks the high noon of the Christmas week. This club, under the very able supervision of Miss Frieda Rand, and created from a group of girls whose voices blend into a harmonious whole, also puts on an excellent concert every spring.

Left to right: P. Emery (Librarian), D. Gould (Pres.), J. Bissell (Librarian), M. Cummings (V. Pres.).

KAPPA DELTA PI

Epsilon Iota Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi (a national honor society in education) embodies those students who, by means of high scholarship, commendable personal qualities and contributions to the school, have shown interest in maintaining a high standard of intellectual, social and professional life.

KINDERGARTEN PRIMARY CLUB

A branch of the American Childhood Education Association, the Kindergarten-Primary Club is, as the name suggests, primarily interested in developing and maintaining the proper educational ideals in the lower elementary grades. Workshop periods are often held under the leadership of Miss Mary L. Marks of the Training School.

M.A.A.

Although its main purpose is to promote inter-scholastic and intramural athletics, the Men's Athletic Association, which is directed by Dean Frederick Meier and Athletic Director Edward Swenson, and composed of all the men in the college, also writes, directs and produces the annual Young Howard men's show.

SPORTS

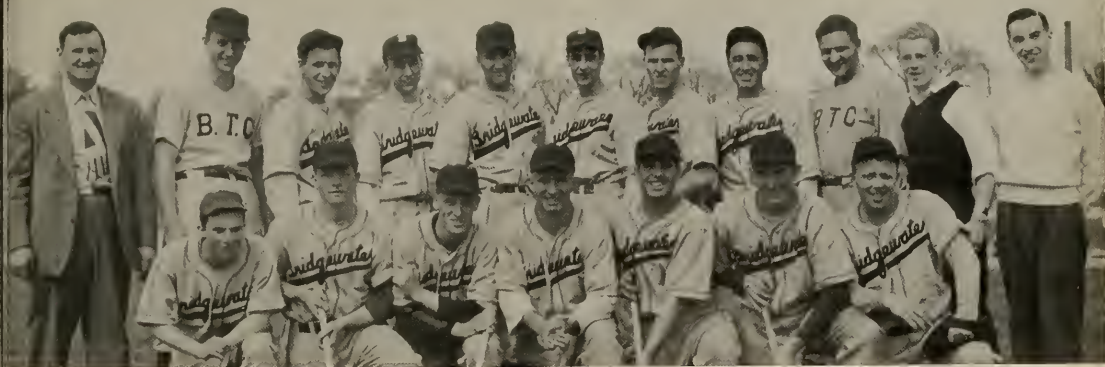

SOCCKER 1950

With the return of several varsity players and new frosh material, the B. T. C. soccer team, under the captainship of Chet Smoleski, looked forward to a great season. However, after a slow start with defeats suffered at the hands of New Bedford Textile twice (3-0 & 2-1) and Fitchburg Teachers (4-1), the team began to click and score. Bridgewater then tied Durfee Tech (2-2) and New England College (3-3) while at the same time strengthening its defense. Goalie Dan Cagnina, improving with each game, began to see less of opposing forwards. Victory smiled on the B. T. C. squad as they cavorted to wins over Suffolk U. (5-0), R. I. C. E. (5-1) and Durfee Tech (2-0) with the scoring line of Zoino, O'Brien, Chase, Christie and Fletcher adding the necessary points. In the Suffolk U. game Johnny Zoino booted in all five goals. The final game of the season pitted Boston U. and the Teachers in what was supposed to be a romp for B. U. After holding their own in a fine defensive game, B. U. scored in the waning moments of play, a goal that was bitterly disputed, to eke out a 1 to 0 victory. The final team record: 3 wins, 4 losses, 2 ties, and an even better season to look forward to.

BASEBALL 1950

Coach Ed Swenson decided to hold this year's spring training in the south so all the erstwhile candidates carried their gloves and spikes southward—to Lower Campus. The team, with a few mainstays, brought out the talents of the many freshmen, and the varsity team featured many a new face. We opened the season at home, where we and Suffolk U. were both beaten by Jupiter Pluvius. After winning a close contest from Stonehill, B. T. C. defeated Curry (6-2), here at Legion Field. Recovering, but not completely, from a 10-run deficit, B. T. C. was just edged by Durfee Tech. (12-11). In the best played game of the year, B. T. C. edged out Durfee Tech. at Fall River, in extra innings. Red Nolan tripled Will Ford home and later scored himself. The play that saved the game for the teachers was a Hughes to Ford to Bielski double play which erased the winning run for Durfee. New Bedford continued to jinx our boys by edging them twice (2-0; 8-5). Good defensive play kept the games close, a Ford to LeVasseur to Morey double play and one by Douthart unassisted. It looks as if the boys are moving up to the majors?

BASKETBALL 1950

Bridgewater basketball players received new uniforms this year and a new scoreboard in the gym. But, unfortunately, that was all they got. Marsh Douthart, captain of this year's team, Don Morey and Red Nolan were the only hold-overs from last year's varsity five. Johnny Zoino and Chris Christie were the other two starters on the floor at the tap-off. BTC started their season by beating one of the finest alumni teams to appear here. But then the deluge started. Inability to play fine, fast basketball during the late stages of the game, injuries, failure to capitalize on control of the backboards, and the fouling out of "first-stringers" proved to be the downfall of the team. Leads that were built up the hard way during the first half disappeared and when the game ended Bridgewater would find itself on the short end of the score. There is no doubt that the caliber of the opponent's basketball game greatly improved, but BTC just couldn't keep up with the pace. Outstanding for the Teachers during the season were Douthart, Zoino, Morey, Nolan, Christie, O'Brien and LeVasseur. Regardless of the record we have to say that win, lose or draw, Bridgewater always fought to the last whistle. Wait till next year.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Softball

The Seniors were no match for the rest of the loop as they ran away with the honors in the softball league. With superb pitching, hitting, and all-around defensive play they proved their right to the crown. Next year four groups will scramble to occupy the vacated throne.

Football

For the second year in a row the Juniors, co-captained by Bill Whalon and Bob Cooper, swept to their second straight championship by taking five straight games. Each game had its thrill as Tiny Lemieux drew up five different combinations in an attempt to defeat the Junior set but to no avail. The Juniors will be out in an effort to make it three consecutive championship years next season. Who will stop them?

Basketball

Thirty-five rugged men of the college started the intramural basketball season. Under the competent direction of Dan Cagnina six teams were formed and a thrilling season loomed up. The first round ended with the Oilers capturing the honors without suffering a defeat. Close behind were the Whalers. The other teams were, in the order of their finish: Bullets, Packers, Celtics and Stags.

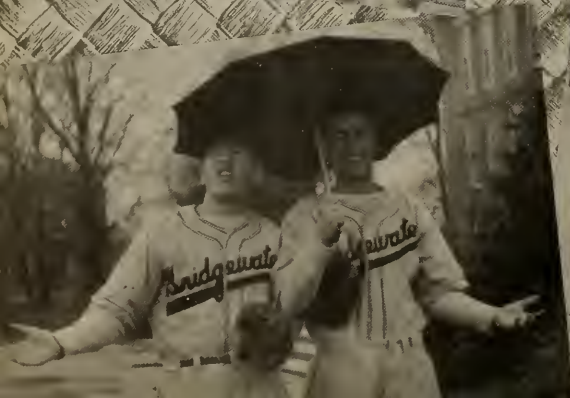

M. A. A. FATHER AND SON BANQUET

Men's Athletic Association, in conjunction with all the varsity sports, gave their annual Father and Son banquet at Tillinghast Dining Hall. The banquet was not the only highlight of the day, for it was preceded by a baseball game in the morning. Bridgewater sent Stonehill down to defeat and started the festivities that were to last for the remainder of the day.

After a satisfying meal, the speakers of the evening were introduced by Coach Swenson. The first speaker, Denny Myers, then coach of the Boston College football team, spoke about the merits of sports in the college and the part that they play in building up the character of the individual. Gerry Nason, sports editor of the Boston Post, then delivered his address, which included many an amusing anecdote about famous sports figures of the past and present. Mr. Nason also stressed the fact that we, the students of Bridgewater, must be aware of our responsibilities in the field of teaching. At the conclusion of the banquet Coach Edward Swenson awarded the members of the varsity squads with certificates and charms to attest to their athletic prowess. "I am sure," said Coach Swenson, "that these men of Bridgewater will make a noble showing whatever be their field of combat."

I

Mellow autumn afternoons and the warming sun
Beam upon a brilliant year for nineteen-fifty-one.

II

Cheers rise from the hockey field,
They play with heart and soul.
On every side the voices cry,
"Teammates, get that goal!"

III

Hiking songs and weary feet,
Autumn's slipping by,
Biking 'long the broad highway
—A flat! — A weary sigh.

IV

Inside once more as winter strikes
And blankets fields with snow,
Pyramids, handstands, mats out,
catch!
A "squash" this time, "Let's go!"

V

The "B's" of winter come in threes
And magnify the gym,
The teams, the cheers, the coaching cries,
"One basket and we'll win!"

VI

"Side out" — that makes it ten
to nine,
Take the net right down,
It's time to get some exercise
And bowling's right down town.

Gym Jam memories that will last
A term we all admire,
And each year as the classes
leave,
The next one reaches higher.

VIII

Weekly trips to get a swim
In freezing H₂O,
Curly hair and nice warm dorms
We sacrifice to go.

IX

A smoky haze as paddles clash
Ping-pong is the rage,
Shuffleboard is coming fast,
To see, turn back a page.

X

Dreamy music, lights burn low,
Fox trot Wednesday light,
This co-ed program in the gym
Is everyone's delight.

XI

Modern dance, creativeness,
Where dreams of life take shape,
A leap, a sigh, a bird soars
by,
A goddess in a drape.

XII

The harsh and changing sounds create
A background bright for spring,
As horseshoes clash, the earth
resounds
And voices clearly ring.

XIII

"You're out!" — well-known battle cry,
A voice rings out from first,
And weary from this beating sun
A "coke" will quench our thirst.

XIV

A sight to see most any day,
Down they rush in shorts,
A serve — net ball — the fun —
the game,
We'll always miss the courts.

XV

Our President has given us
A code to take along,
Stability and Sportsmanship
This is our final song.

To Triton

Pipe a song, O Triton, and calm the sea
That ripples on the sand beneath my feet.
Play on thy hollow conch again and free
The waves from murmured quietness, thou sweet
Enchanter of the seas. Thy voice, when through The trumpet shell is heard, speaks like the silver
Melody of reeds. Thy songs imbue
The wide wild ocean hauntingly as myrrh
Dissolves its scent into the woodland streams.
How long, O merman son of Amphitrite,
Will thou be playing on thy flute? The themes
Of Greece have long since vanished in the night
For you are from an age that is no more.

Wm. K. Sprague, Jr.

To Phaeton's Sisters

In Lombardy the long-leaved poplars weep
Although he died a thousand years ago.
They weep for Phaeton though he lies in sleep —
Hurled from the heavens to the world below.
They sadly whisper his beloved name,
But no more does he answer to their cry.
Along the blue Italian Po the flame
Of hope burns low; its smouldering embers lie
In scattered heaps across the void of time,
Despoiled with fire by the hand of Jove.
And yet the sisters sigh and act the mime
Of grief. O sweetness of a sister's love,
How long we search and we may find you not,
But though unseen thy love is not unsought.

Wm. K. Sprague, Jr.

Age

Age is to some an awful thing,
Although it cannot be controlled
You dread the day the feeling comes
That you are growing old.

When you begin to doubt and fear,
And dread those darkened things untold,
When you cannot laugh at yourself,
Then you are growing old.

When you lose hope and you lose faith,
And then become bitter and cold,
When you have left your dreams behind,
Then you are growing old.

But age is always in your mind
If life's gifts and love you can hold,
No matter how the years fly by,
You never will grow old.

Marie Corcoran

To Keats, 129 Years After His Death

A moment more of life and Adonais
Might have reached the stars. But one brief moment
From eternity and with the impetus
Of years he would have sung with ravishment.
"Where wert thou might mother when he lay,
When thy son lay pierced by the shaft which flies
In darkness?" But he had vanished far away.
Now Shakespeare is secure upon his throne
Though hundreds sing, for Adonais died
Before his lyric song had fully grown.
The earth wept, the murmured forest sighed
Unwanted grief, though with his fragrant breath
He oft had welcomed the approach of death.

Wm. K. Sprague, Jr.

CLASS ODE

1.

Sing, chorus, sing; softly sing a sweet farewell
And let thy music echo in our hearts.
Ring out yet bells and, with thy ringing, quell
The inner voice whose speaking still imparts
An air of sadness to a scene of gladness
And delight. Sing, chorus, sing; sing a song
Of beauty and of light and drive away
The solemn prophetess
Of night. They sang, the music whispered long,
Then faded in the morning of the coming day.

Oh light! Oh life! Oh glorious dawn
Of youth. The world before us lies
In shadows, but arise! Ascend upon
The wings of morn and, soaring, touch the skies
In which the long-winged swallow flies. The night
Is near and far away the cannon roar;
But they are fleeting shadows on the plain
Of life. Awake! The light
Of freedom lies beyond, though with the lore
Of earth we live and love and for a moment reign.

3.

Now we are gone; yet still the ivy twines.
The autumn comes, the green of spring has turned
To burnished gold and still the ivy twines.
And now the flickering flame which once burned
Fiercely in our souls flares forth, the thoughts
Of youth emerge from out the endless throng
Of years, as on the air a once familiar
Melody is wrought.
Oh hark! It is the Alma Mater song
Throbbing like the strain of some angelic choir.
