Bridgewater State College
The following spring, U.S. Congressman Joseph Moakley announced the awarding of a ten million dollar federal grant — the largest federal grant ever awarded to any state college in America — to build an educational technology center. In recognition of his efforts to secure that grant, the college dedicated the building in his name at a groundbreaking ceremony in November, 1992. The John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications opened in the fall of 1995 and is a resource for improving education, especially in grades K-12, particularly in mathematics and science.

Another significant development occurred at spring commencement, 1992, when Ms. Terry Hart Cogan, class of 1951, announced a gift to the college of one million dollars, the largest gift from a graduate in the history of the college. In announcing her gift, Ms. Cogan echoed sentiments often expressed by Bridgewater alumni when she told the members of the class of 1992: “I left, as you will today, a graduate well-prepared for a chosen profession . . . I returned a year ago to celebrate my fortieth class reunion to a quite transformed, greatly expanded, beautiful campus which rekindled my pride in this institution, which had been my home for four years. Now it is time for me to give something back to this community when it is needed most . . . I encourage other alumni, young and old, to remain active members of this community, giving as freely of your time, talents, and financial support you can.”

Bridgewater State College is an institution with a distinguished history and an exciting future.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE
DEDICATION: 1996
The Bridgewater State College Yearbook would like to thank Professor John Heller for his dedication and kindness to the campus community.
To the class of 1996:

Yours is a class that has seen, and has helped shape, many significant changes at Bridgewater State College. Today the college is a different institution than it was when your class first entered in September, 1992 -- new academic programs have been added, new services for students introduced, more land acquired for future growth, and one of the nation's premier educational technology facilities, the John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications, has been built and opened.

What matters most, however, and what will endure in your lives, are the personal and professional relationships you developed here. The faculty with whom you learned, your fellow students with whom you became friends, and the many other people who were part of your Bridgewater experience are the bonds that connect you to this campus. Every time you open this yearbook memories of those who were special to you will come back, and you will feel again the happiness of the good times you shared here.

I want you to know that Bridgewater will always be glad to see you again, that your presence is welcome. We rely very much on the interest and involvement of our alumni to sustain us for they have the best interests of the college at heart. I am proud that last fall the college's new baseball and softball complex was dedicated as "Alumni Park" because it was alumni who led the effort to create this impressive facility for the campus.

I hope you will see your graduation from Bridgewater as one more milestone in a lifelong affiliation with your alma mater, and that you add even more good memories through your continuing contacts with us.

Sincerely,

Adrian Tinsley

President Bill Clinton prepared for a new political battle: the 1996 presidential election.

The much-traveled Pope John Paul II returned to the United States for his fourth papal trip. The 75-year old Pope showed no signs of slowing down. He repeatedly spoke of leading the Roman Catholic Church into Christianity's third millennium. As the Polish Pope, he is the first non-Italian to head the church in 455 years.

Miss Oklahoma, Shawntel Smith, got an extra birthday present for her 24th birthday: she was crowned Miss America. But she had to share the attention. Swimsuits also took center stage as television viewers voted to retain the swimsuit competition, keeping with 75 years of pageant history.

Baltimore Orioles shortstop Cal Ripken marched into the record books when he broke Lou Gehrig's record and played in 2,131 consecutive baseball games. Gehrig had held the record since 1939. Ripken broke the record on September 6 and went on to finish the season having played in 2,153 consecutive games — the last 70 of them without an error.

Boyz II Men, the Philadelphia-based quartet has had a presence on the top-selling charts for several years. They are more pop than either soul or rhythm and blues, but whatever their style, they are a massive success.
Russian President Boris Yeltsin held on to a shaky first term as president. Yeltsin was hospitalized with heart trouble and rumors persisted that his drinking was out of control.

Timothy McVeigh is a well-guarded prisoner. He and one other man, Terry Nichols, are charged with 11 counts in the bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. The explosion on April 19 killed 169 people and injured more than 500.

After months of arduous negotiations and a tense last-minute flurry of crises and walkouts, Israel and the Palestinians concluded a major agreement. Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat said the 400-page document spells out in detail, the withdrawal of Israeli forces from much of the territory Israel has occupied since the 1967 war.

The Cranberries are threatening U2’s reign as America’s favorite Irish band. Their last two albums sold more than six million copies. The Cranberries are on to something big.

Blues Traveler is a down-home Tennessee band with a unique style. On their most recent album, “Four,” the group lets their talent shine through with some catchy tunes.
Pete Sampras outlasted Andre Agassi and captured a third U.S. Open title and gained the No. 1 ranking. Sampras' aggressive stylerocked Agassi with 24 aces to win the prestigious title. Two months earlier Sampras won his third straight Wimbledon.

The civil war in the former Yugoslavia continued as the 1995-96 school year began. Four years after the wars of Yugoslavia's destruction began, there was still no peace among the Croats and the Serbs and the Muslims. More than 3 million people have lost their homes, more than 200,000 have been killed and tens of thousands have become refugees.

Sen. Bob Dole, a Republican from Kansas, wanted to be president of the United States. When school began in September, Dole, the Senate Majority Leader, was a leading conservative candidate. The run for the high office was nothing new for Dole. He ran for vice president once, in 1976, and for president in the primaries of 1980 and 1988. If he won this time, he would be 73-year-old when he entered office, older than any newly elected president.

Gen. Colin Powell, 58-year-old career Army officer was national security officer under President Reagan and was appointed chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by President Bush. He came to national attention during the Persian Gulf War against Iraq and never left the public eye. Although he ruled out running for the president as a Democrat, he said he was always attracted to politics and early in the presidential campaign he looked very much like a candidate.
It was nearly three decades ago, after a series of race riots in Los Angeles, Newark and Detroit, that a commitment began to use race-based programs to improve the lives of blacks. It was called affirmative action. But in 1995-96 affirmative action plans began to get weaker. The Supreme Court issued decisions making it harder to justify giving minorities and women preferences in the awarding of federal contracts; and the Clinton Administration was re-evaluating federal affirmative action programs.

Triple Grammy winner Sheryl Crow and her band have toured without a break since her debut in 1993. Every time they schedule a break, the album zooms up the charts.

When Texas Sen. Phil Gramm entered the 1996 presidential race, aides contended he had the three assets most critical to any candidate: message, money and the discipline to stick to a game plan.

Blues Traveler is a down-home Tennessee band with a unique style. On their most recent album, "Four," the group lets their talent shine through with some catchy tunes. As one critic said: "These tunes can be described as a spicy combo of on-the-edge rock 'n' roll and hard-line country/western bluegrass music."
There have been so many titles, so many magic moments in the marvelous tennis career of Steffi Graf. There was the Grand Slam sweep in 1988, when she stamped herself as one of the best players in the world. But none of the triumphs matched the emotional victory over Monica Seles in the U.S. Open finals. "This was the biggest win that I have ever achieved," said Graf, who owns 18 Grand Slam titles.

The Dave Matthews Band may have come out of nowhere, but the band is here to stay. More than 150,000 copies of "Remember Two Things," the album the quintet recorded for about $12,000 and sold at shows or mail order. But the group's second album, "Under the Table and Dreaming" is a major label success. It rocketed up the charts without a hit single or video hype.

Garth Brooks was the first country artist to sell like a pop star in the early 1990s. Today, Garth Brooks is part of the old guard. The summit was "No Fences" recorded in 1990, which sold more than 12 million copies. A limited-edition greatest hits record, "The Hits," was a major success, selling about 10 million copies. And the 32-year-old artist from Tulsa, Okla., is just getting started.

The Atlantic region's hurricane season this year was so active that it has produced the most named storms since the National Hurricane Center started assigning names in 1953. Storms are named in alphabetical order, but names beginning with Q, U, X, Y and Z are excluded because of their scarcity. This year, officials were preparing to reach the end of the list and begin naming storms after the Greek alphabet, starting with Alpha.
Mickey Mantle was one of the greatest baseball players who ever lived. From the time he broke into the major league in 1951, six months shy of his 20th birthday, until he retired following the 1968 season at the age of 37, Mickey Mantle inspired generations of fans with his power and ability. He died of a fast-spreading liver cancer at the age of 63, two months after a liver transplant.

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton had difficulty this year in finding an appropriate role for herself, one that Americans could be comfortable with, after her prominent leadership of the administration’s failed health-care reform campaign. But in public, Mrs. Clinton concentrated on tasks more traditionally associated with first ladies — tasks such as her crusade to improve the lives of women, children and families.

The murder trial of O.J. Simpson ended. Not guilty. It took the jury less than four hours to reach a verdict. The jury of 10 women and two men found that Simpson did not kill his former wife, Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend, Ronald Goldman in June, 1994. Judge Lance Ito presided over the trial in which Los Angeles Police Detective Mark Fuhrman’s racial slurs and attitudes became one of the focal points of Simpson’s defense.
"The advent of this facility gives us at Bridgewater the opportunity to participate once again in what amounts to a reshaping of American education, a process that is already in progress."

BUILDING
The Moakley Center is a 50,000 square foot building with a 180-seat amphitheater, state-of-the-art television studio and teleconference room, and three floors of computer labs and electronic classrooms. A full range service center is on the main floor where students, faculty, staff, and alumni may purchase or lease computers and computer equipment. The center supports many platforms, including equipment from Digital, Apple, Hewlett-Packard and others. Digital has 147 of these centers around the nation, but only three at college or university campuses: Fordham University, the University of Pennsylvania, and now at Bridgewater.

HISTORY
In 1991 U.S. Congressman John Joseph Moakley embraced the concept of the technology center, and began searching for funding for the project. He was not alone in the vision of a technology center that would enhance Bridgewater State College as well as set a precedent for all higher education institutions across the nation.

Congress could see his vision and appropriated $10 million dollars that would go towards the planning and construction of the center. This was the largest federal grant awarded to a state college in history.

The center now bears the name of John Moakley which was dedicated to him by the colleges Board of Trustees.

MISSION FOR THE MOAKLEY CENTER
The major missions of the Moakley Center are:
• Enhance undergraduate education through appropriate application of electronics technologies to the curricula.
• Direct support for educational reform and enhancement of K-12 education through development of technologically based curricula and training of inservice and preservice teachers.
• Provide assistance to businesses in the Commonwealth and especially new, emerging, and small businesses in the South-eastern Massachusetts region through training, credit and non-credit education, videoconferencing, and public-private partnerships.
Papers, Exams, Midterms, and Finals, we have passed all of our challenges.

On Friday, January 26, 475 students graduated from Bridgewater State College with Bachelor's degrees, Master's degrees as well as certificates of advanced graduate studies. Two honorary degrees were awarded in addition. President Adrian Tinsley addressed the graduating class with her words of wisdom saying that she desired "... for you, just as I desire for this college, the strength and fortitude and the ambition to make the most of all of the exciting possibilities that will surely be in the grasp of those who have the willingness and the determination to seek them out."

Audrey Flack

On March 28, as a part of Women’s History Month, Bridgewater State College welcomed artist Audrey Flack as a guest speaker.

Audrey Flack is an established artist known primarily for her photorealism paintings. Her work appears in art history books as well as in galleries and museums. However, she has since changed her focus to sculpture. In particular, her “goddess” sculptures have earned acclaim. Flack noted that she began sculpting 15 years ago, and she has not painted since.

Flack studied art at Cooper Union and received her BFA from Yale. As well as pursuing her own artistic endeavors, she has taught art at the college level.

Flack talked and showed slides of her work, including both of her paintings and her sculptures. She spoke mostly of her sculptures, sharing their conception, how they were made, and her personal intentions for making them. Flack said of her “goddesses,” “they’re people; they have character.”
On Wednesday, November 29 at 8:30 p.m., former U.S. Surgeon General, Joycelyn Elders, visited Bridgewater State College as a part of the SGA lecture series. Her controversial ideas were the subject of hot debate in the United States, which eventually led President Clinton to ask for her resignation.
On Wednesday February 7, Katie Koestner paid a visit to BSC. She shared her story of being an acquaintance rape victim/survivor with over fifty students at BSC. Her story is not unusual to us in this day and age. What is unusual is that this woman uses her negative experience to teach people about how to protect their own rights. Although everyone whom she was taught to trust and believe in turned against her, Katie still spoke out. By coming to BSC she heightened our awareness into this subject and taught us how to become a survivor and not a victim.

As the Editor-in-Chief of the 1996 Bridgewater State College Yearbook, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who helped make this yearbook happen:

First off I would like to thank my managing editor (and partner in crime), Ann-Marie Sweeney for giving me the support and dedication that only comes from true friendship. Without Ann-Marie, this experience wouldn’t have been nearly as... interesting.

Next, I would like to thank my entire yearbook staff; Heather, Nicole, Laurie, Cherilyn, Teri, Tracy and Donna. Heather, Nicole, Laurie and Cherilyn for your long hours, and for never complaining even when I gave you the most un-exciting jobs to do, I thank you. Teri, thank you for your dedication to this yearbook until the very end. Tracy and Donna, thank you for your professionalism and creativity.

Finally, I would like to thank Public Affairs for their kindness and endless patience with my staff and their constant requests for photos.

In closing, I would like to wish the best of luck to the Class of ’96. May you always remember the friends and good times you had at Bridgewater State College.
