YOUTH LEADER SPEAKS

Doctor Herbert Gezork, a world traveler, author, and formerly Christian Youth Leader in Germany, now a professor of Social Ethics at Andover Newton Theological School, and Lecturer at Wellesley College was the guest speaker. April 3, 1945.

German by birth.

Doctor Gezork was born and educated in Germany, having attended the University of Bonn and the University of Rostock, Germany, and University of Hamburgh. He was an exchange student at the University of Cambridge from 1928 to 1930. He then travelled around the world and visited with Kagawa in Japan, Hamburg, and Paris. He then went to India for a year. While in India, he was General Secretary of the German Baptist Youth Movement. Dr. Gezork has travelled and lectured in twelve European countries, Canada, the United States, and Mexico. He is the author of "So sah die Welt", a book published in Germany.

Done with Germany after the Armistice, he has been an exile for some years.

His topic was "What Should Be Done with Germany after the Armistice?"

Among the programs that have been suggested are the following: the destruction of the Nazi people; the division of Germany into three parts; the re-education of the German people. The last suggestion is a more important one and Mr. Gezork believes that a number of different factors enter into it, and that it is impossible to take care of them all in these simplified statements.

Enumerates Plans

In the first place, the German people should be occupied militarily by Allied forces to keep them out of order. The government of Germany must rise out of the German people.

What should be done with the territory? They will lose a great deal of it because Poland has to have some compensation for the land given to Russia. Germany will only be two-thirds of her present territory, and the other three parts will have to be ceded to Germany up politically. That would mean an economic burden which might make the other Balkan. The tide of the world has been for the small states to come so leave Germany as it stands.

The third group consists of the in-between ones. The large majority of the (continued on page 3)

Tillinghast Style Show

HORACE MANN AUDITORIUM was recently the scene of a spring style show presented by students of Tillinghast Hall for the benefit of the Red Cross. The scenes were done in the style of the famous screenwriter, as a tableau, each group containing a number of the Vicki-Ann Dress Shop, Bridgewater, Massachusetts. The styles were shown in five groups: suits, half-length butcher bay linen coat to be worn over slacks or shorts, soft jersey paddlers for biking, and blazer-plaid skirt combinations.

Coments are well represented

The program presented was as follows:

Ruth Gralton and Gertrude Gerstein did an excellent job of planning and organizing the event. Edith Rodol was the commentator, and the program was in charge of Lorimine Christian and Genevieve Crow.

The program included a three-quarter-length butcher bay linen coat to be worn over slacks or shorts, soft jersey paddlers for biking, and blazer-plaid skirt combinations.

What should happen to German industry?

The German people will have to be forced to return stolen industries, and the rest of the industry should be kept under strict control.

The last problem is re-educating the German people. First, as far as possible divide them into three groups. The first group should be the industrialists. They should be kept under strict control. The second group should be the Nazis. There are great segments of German youth that have become disaffected with Nazism and are deviated inwardly and outwardly. Out of their midst must come the leadership for Germany. The third group is the Communists, but the tendency will be toward democracy.

Red Cross Drive Held

From March 5 to 27

The annual Red Cross Drive was held from March 5 to 27 under the chairmanship of Helen More. There is no need to stress the importance of such a drive in times like these.

Drive Results in Great Success

The drive was a great success bringing in the total of $522.62. The contributors were as follows: Faculty $413.00; Day students $74.00; Men $16.85. This is a great success. The more money we raised the more we can do.

"Wood" Entertainment

Presented March 19

Woodward Dormitory helped to put the Red Cross Drive over the top at Bridgewater on March 19, by presenting an amusing series of impersonations by some talented members of "Wood". The Horace Mann Auditorium was transferred into a South Pacific U.S. club for the evening, as star after star appeared before the eager audience.

Participants give clever impersonations

Participants give clever impersonations of characters such as "Vorthy Playwright; Constance Moorey, as Inner Guard; Frances Burns, as the Honorable Promoter.

For the theme this year we presented an "All American Girl" from each class. They were selected by the members of the four classes and were as follows:

The purpose of the theme was to demonstrate to the audience what the American Girl at Bridgewater is doing.

Others and friends of the participants and some principals, supervisors, prospective freshmen were invited to attend. From their attitude and the reception with which they received us, we deduce that they did not regret coming to see what we had to offer.

Although much discussion was had on its being a good benefit production no admission was charged.

The program presented was as follows:

IN TRIBUTE

"... Today we are faced with the pre-eminence of closing the world that democracy can triumph over even the most daunting disaster. We will have to view as a challenge, to the treacherous standards we had expected one man to encounter alone. We will have to give every atom of support to Harry Truman, our new President, who has so abruptly acquired the unenviable position of having to live up to the expectations of the entire world.

The immortality of Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be consummated only if we pursue the high standards he sacrificed his life to establish. To combat destruction with construction, as he did, and to perpetuate his unaltering faith in humanity will be the most eloquent tribute we can ever offer to the memory of our most beloved President.

FRENCH CLUB

The club contributed three dollars to the recent Red Cross Drive. As a project for French class Douglas Christofferson, vice-president of the club, made a record, in French on one side and English on the other, to send to her brother in France.

Our political antipathies have seemed insignificant before the overwhelming confidence we all have had in President Roosevelt's ability to see us through the crucial moments of the future,—if only by dint of his own dynamic personality and his lofty ideals. To many of us students Franklin Roosevelt is the only President we have ever had, and the heights he has reached have been so inspiring that we can only hope for the same.

Before final victory has been achieved, and before the foundations for a peace have been established, it is profoundly tragic to lose the commander-in-chief who has led us thus far. Once again, a Moses has been denied entrance into the Promised Land and he gave his life to win.

It will take all of our national strength to prove to an apprehensive world that democracy can triumph over even the most daunting disaster. We will have to unite as a people, and the more we ask of us as members of the French Club, the more we must remember that the road is long and the work is hard.

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT
DEAR ALUMNI:

Want some news about your Alma Mater's doings? That's what we figure, so here goes on an open letter, just to remind you of a few landmarks. Remember the Tower Light feature? You will never forget it. It was dimmed in 1942, but this year it will be turned on once again in all its glory, and is appreciated all the more for its absence.

Another landmark, Carter's Pond, isn't appreciated as much as it was in February, but it is still used to go about the advantage of its own setting. Due to the absence of the "gardenyard shift", the tombs are covering with moss and the grass grows wild.

Remember the beautiful evergreens on the Lower Campus? Since the recent hurricane, Miss Graves and the other Nature lovers of B.T.C. are mourning the loss of a few of those as well as some of the graceful maples.

But, there are all external things. Let's come in from those few brave rays of Spring sunshine and look at the halls of Learning. What is the going within? For one thing, the painters and decorators are busily at work repairing the damage of the terrific onslaught of winter weather we have experienced. The mood in the Tropics can be grateful if you have had your palm trees, warm sun and the regular succession of spring days.

There is a wartime seed in Red Cross drives, too, that you would be glad to see. Last Friday in Chapel, Helen Mokr made the first appeal and from the April 20th, but it is still used to go about the advantage of its own setting. Hope we can make it.

Just to forecast a few events-S.C.A.-Alpha Floor, another student-gym, and class productions are all in the air. Before I make you any more homework for the chapel, Mr. Mokr will bring his close to a close. Will write again soon.

OTHER RECENT CHAPEL PROGRAMS VARY

The Irish harp Dan, Gladys C. and Kenneth D. Cantacuzo, played for us during chapel March 20, 1945. Mrs. Cantacuzo told us something about the harp between numbers. The Irish harp goes back to the Middle Ages. During the latter part of the first century the large harp was invented. The first number was "Eccentric Dance". Then they played an Irish Carol that was three hundred years old entitled "Shepheard's Leave Your Work".

The lower harp strings are made of steel wire. The strings are of a different color for each key. All the C's are green; the F's blue, and the others red. In playing the harp the little finger is never used. On the small harp there are no pedals, but there are seven strings. The technique is used for modulation and change of key. The music is written the same as for a piano.

The harp plays harmonized chords so that no other instrument is necessary. There is a series of books across the top of the instrument, and these are the sharps and flats. Most small harps are for accompaniment.

Some more selections were played including the "Voicen Breaid" and "The Winning of the Green", an Irish reel, which was gay and enthusiastic, and the closing number, "The Recruit of the O'Donnell".

"Education for World Peace" was the topic of Miss Mary Gunton, who has been an authority in World Peace. Miss Gunton has charge of adult education in Massachusetts. The text of Miss Gunton's speech is as follows:

International peace is what each and everyone of us is looking forward to see as a goal. The whole world looks to America for leadership politically, socially, and in every other manner. We live in a democratic form of government and it is our responsibility.

Miss Sarah R. Taylor of the research department of Harvard University, made the address on "Some Aspects of Intercultural Relations" in chapel on March 27, 1945. The following problem some of the text of the Taylor's speech:

"Why must we be talking about prejudice? When, in fact, we may be talking about opportunity to make the most of himself. We are opposed to discrimination. But now, it seems that something has happened. We see, that prejudice is not a new thing, although now it is more widespread. The first conflict came between the early colonists and the Indians. As Americans we should not be prejudiced. We have an ideal that democratic living gives everyone the opportunity to make the most of himself. We are opposed to discrimination.
