BSC STREETS TO THE STEPS OF BOYDEN

Bill Marker

Wednesday night, March 6, approximately fifty BSC students streaked to Scott Hall in protest of a proposed curfew of 11:00 P.M. This was the second time the students took to the streets in protest of the curfew. For the first time, the students' demands were heard. During the day, President E. Marks announced that the curfew would not be enforced. Although the inarguable fact of the curfew was removed, there is no assurance that the problem is over. There are still other curfews that the students are fighting. And, there are other problems that the students are fighting, are being heard, and are being answered.

Trustees To Decide Fate Of SGA

by Tom Hickey

March 15, the Student Life Committee of the Board of Trustees will decide the fate of the Bridgewater State College Student Government Association. This decision is to be made on the recommendation of the Board of Trustees. The fate of every S.G.A. in the State College System is a matter of concern to the Student Life Committee. The basic questions to be answered are:

1. Whether the S.G.A. will be the sole representative body for students when dealing with the Faculty and administration.
2. Whether the S.G.A. has the sole right to appoint students to all college committees if that is what their constituents have voted into existence.
3. Whether the President of the college can be allowed to meddle in the internal affairs of students.

The THREE questions will come to the trustees on March 15 and their answers will be based on the merits of the three questions.

OPENING NIGHT

by Kathy Bennett

A thought opening night was supposed to be a big thing, with thousands of people in attendance. However, it didn't seem to have much of an opening night last Friday when the Rathskeller opened. The packed streets were really fabulous and the atmosphere seemed to appraise the feeling of "finally we have been heard!" The fact that the license is far from being granted doesn't seem to be a real reason for the lack of a crowd. That kind of attitude can cause us to lose that license.

But, enough of what sound like sour grapes. We'll all be sick of hearing of that until something better happens. Anyway, if you're not for a good time at BSC, the Rathskeller is one really great place to go. As far as you go, eventually, some Saturday nights may hopefully be scheduled to be open for one hour, and a few others, especially those from Woodward Hall, may find that it's a place where they can belong.
EDITORIAL

Take A Stand

It has been two weeks since the majority of the Student Government Association resigned "en masse." The video tape, the Special Issue, and the heated controversy are just the tip of the iceberg. For most, SGA has been buried under more immediate everyday concerns. The situation has forced the resignation, and the problems that the resignation created are not settled, however, and neither should they be forgotten.

Next Tuesday, March 14, there is only one topic on the agenda for the Trustees' Student Life Committee. That topic is in Bridgewater's own College. The Sociology Club is sponsoring two buses into Fitchburg so that anyone who wants to go and be heard by the Trustees will be able to. If you possibly can get there. See the trustees, tell them what your troubles are, whether or not you agree with the SGA's stand.

SGA complaints about the SGA in particular, and students in general never die away. Well, they did something, they demanded recognition of the professional critic and bypassed their own body. Is this a victory?

Let's show some endurance. Let's stop now and let the issue become stale before we have even resolved it. Petitions are merely expected to hold elections until a settlement is reached. Sign a letter writing campaign in support of the Trustees and give them your opinions. If something else, if you don't really hate the idea, feel out the current. This is the answer to their own opinions. Take a stand — N.D.

Concile

Besides the more vocal newspapers and the noticably green leaflet that appeared on campus this day, the average student doesn't feel it. There's a magazine of student written literature, and graphic art that is pretty much completely ignored. The other publications, Concile has an extremely small staff. Bill Bennett and his crew need a break. Nothing but a decent magazine of good poetry and graphics. This is not a review, but it is meant to be. You probably don't like everything in it, but note you are expected to be. For, the work these guys and the Concile, the rest of the student, needs at least a little break. Get a copy of Concile at the table outside the Bookstore. We'll rest you. You've not seen the last letter and put it to the magazine. We'll come through. It will be, let it be, let it roll! For God's sake, don't be indifferent.

Staff Reorganization

There will be a Staff meeting on Thursday, March 14, at 11:10 in the Committe office. We're going to talk about setting up specialized staffs. I.e., News, Culture, Sports. This should enable better control over and feedback from editors and staff.

Besides this, we are trying to figure out ways to better improve the writing and proofreading of paper. This will initially entail writing review or a micro staff. If you want to get involved with the paper over the free time, and do not want to write, you can work on this staff.

It's important that the members of the staff appear to the meeting. If you're not on the Staff, but are interested in joining, come to the office — N.D.

SGA Correction

An article entitled "The SGA Lion," Kevin Austin, stated that he had decided not to resign after consultation with his President and myself. I would like to point out that I did not counsel him to remain on the staff after his resignation. He is the only student other person that is responsible for himself. My purpose in writing, still, is to indicate that it is impossible to say to any other president of the University. The present gives to the leaders of SGA, who do not resign for their resign, that they might feel that they could resolve the issue with Dr. Henderson. They have not done their job yet and they must realize that this type of conflict is in order. If they wish to be competent in their relationship to students and to the administration, they must evaluate and stop bringing in. Anything else would raise questions of their loyalty to the News, their professional ethics and their constituents.

In conclusion, Thomas C. Hickey

Sub For Experience

In conjunction with an agreement between Project ERR, BSC and Bridgewater, the Hanover Public Schools are seeking children who have observed the services of eight education majors or minors to substitute in Hanover Junior High School on March 28. The Middle School Conference is being held on March 26 in the Cliffs Inn in Plympton. The substitute will be a trained volunteer paid help only. It is thus offered the substitute a practical school experience and an opportunity to be noted by that school system. If you are interested, please contact the Teacher Preparation and Placement Office by Friday March 15.

Steppeing Down

by George F. Sutherland Jr.

Adrian Rondileau should step down immediately as President of Bridgewater State College.

Is this statement inimical? No, it is not. Dr. Rondileau has been the only person in the student, faculty, and board of trustees history to have been found guilty of fraud. He has a complex lack of faith in the students of this college. The recent SGA resolution that stated that Dr. Rondileau could not be trusted, a copy was sent to Dr. Rondileau and for over a year he chided the students in their attempts to find someone with respect for students and respect in the community. A situation arises, where now Dr. Rondileau feels that the "front in the back" is in his favor for too many important college committees. Therefore, the SGA's resolution does not apply to this situation, thus saying in the future to the students that he lacks confidence in selecting people who will be arbitrary in the success of the students.

Consider the type of people that Dr. Rondileau would not hire. They would be as school of friends. The story goes that if those family members are sitting in the President's office and a student with a situation to see Dr. Rondileau. This is wrong. A mere member of the college community should be treated fairly and equally. One group should not have any more rights in demoting their group up to the President to look out for their interests and fragment further an already divided community.

The students of Bridgewater State College faculty, administration, and students, all still go there separate ways. The faculty members are not sitting in the same room as the students. On the other hand, the administration has been in the same room for the past four years. The only way to have peace among the three factions is for a college president who is willing to sit down and listen, not preach. If we were to do this we can solve every problem that arises.

To this date, Dr. Rondileau has failed to show that he can listen to the students at the college. He is an influencing factor to the college students and the general public. He is a player in every faction at the college. The students at the college feel that they are not being heard. As president, he should represent the interests of all students, as he has one hundred percent of the people as a member of society, especially at the university. As a residential area, one third of the students are living on the streets. That is a very large percentage of the greater surrounding area. Various claims against the license, as reported in the last two years of the current (February 30, December 20) a broad report to the students that the presence of the Rondileau will not help the students.

Many of the claims are justified; others are not. Since the drinking establishment will be closed, there is no substance in the license granted by the Board of the State College. According to the people's present time and what time they are there to do anything. The time is coming for a new roll to be played in Bridgeport. That man who will take it. A man that is strong enough to take the strain, and bold enough to be respected by all.

The Burnell Kindergarten

“We Did It For The Children”

by Michael Viera

The room is full of little kindergartners. They are making paper houses, working on crossword puzzles, or playing on the orange 1 square. The room is painted white with the radiator pipes painted red, yellow, blue, purple, orange, and green. There are about four teachers in the room, guiding their education. No one is yelling at the kids to be quiet, no one is asking the children what they are learning or their names under the desk names of teachers of whom they are students at Bridgewater State College. The school is the Burnell School, the training school for Elementary Education Majors at BSC. For many years the students at Bridgewater have been going to Burnell to do their student teaching, although recently, many students at the college have been asked to be assigned to other schools as well as Burnell. The contrast was like entering a classroom.

Within two days, the walls were painted white and the trim was painted white and the room was transformed into a three-color scheme. Multicolored, the teacher taught the children how to currency colors. Multicolored, the teacher taught the children how to decorate the classroom.

Around The World in 80 Diners

One of the most exotic and unusual events is about to unfold at Bridgewater State College, and for anyone who loves food and travel, the upcoming "Around the World in Eighty Restaurants" promises to be a most entertaining treat.

For too long I've been at the mercy of the winds. They've played second fiddle against other objects, dry the snowflakes before it's time. The winds of life can be.

The Psychics Slays Satan

In light of the overwhelming success of the book and now the film The Exorcist (set for release in 1973), the Exorcist phenomenon is once again in the news. The book, written by William Peter Blatty, is based on the true story of a young girl cured of demonic possession.

The film, directed by William Friedkin, stars Lee Remick as the possessed girl, and Max von Sydow as the priest who performs the exorcism.

The book and film have sparked a renewed interest in the paranormal and the supernatural, and have led to a resurgence of interest in the field of psychics and mediums.

One of the most notable psychics of the 20th century was Edgar Cayce, who claimed to have knowledge of past lives and future events. His abilities were documented in numerous cases, and his work continues to influence modern-day psychics and mediums.

In the 1970s, the field of psychics became more mainstream, with the rise of television shows and books on the subject. This trend continues today, with the popularity of shows like The Real Housewives of New Jersey and Keeping Up with the Kardashians, which feature psychic readings and other supernatural elements.

So, is the world ready for a new age of psychics and mediums? Only time will tell.

The Next Step: The Future of Psychics

As the field of psychics continues to evolve, it's important to consider the role of these professionals in society. Are they helping us to better understand ourselves and our world? Or are they simply providing entertainment for the masses?

The answer to these questions is likely a mix of both. Psychics and mediums can provide valuable insights into our own lives, as well as those of others.

However, it's important to approach these readings with a critical eye, and to consider the potential for fraud and deception. It's also important to remember that not all psychics and mediums are equal, and that some are more skilled or experienced than others.

So, as the field of psychics continues to grow, let's hope that we can continue to separate the wheat from the chaff, and to use our abilities to better understand ourselves and our world.
Chickens A-La-King

By Ed Fessler

Here comes a chance, at a time or maybe later, the Great White Hero of Boston handled called her favorite cynosure. "Hello" she called, as she counted hours, "We have a problem." All chirping stopped on the little chicks could plainly see that her feathers were suddently ruffled. The Fowlers are at it again. "They're trying to dig under picking pecking sticks." Silence prevailed. Mother then knew she had a lot of chicken brains in front of her. As she continued to explain how the chicken stuck, Chantelle was seen in a beautiful voice in the animal community. A few minutes later it was agreed on and it seemed. They all had fun.

Mother then began again, this time shortening words and words of the little chicks could hardly understand. She followed Mrs. Chantelle "We must help Chantelles in her hour of need. By a stroke of luck, I have a letter of support, with which you Mrs. Chantelle should sign first as an utterance of your taken permanent. Mrs. Chantelle put her little chickens scratch on the document, quicker than a set. All the other chicks followed suit. They didn't want to get picked out of the hen hierarchy. With this bit of deference in the Fowlers accomplished. Mother then sent the chicks away. They finally walked across the street, mainly just to get on the other side, they could not get up to their respective cages. Hot and bothered, a few days after the foul document was circulated, the Fowlers rode their bikes away. The first precious moment was caught in the gallery, at the well attended meeting. The little chicks followed suit. They didn't want to find out from the Better Union what was going on in their world. This held true of a lot of FM stations. "We must help the little chicks get their heads out of their shells."

Kafka The World of Parables

This play was presented by the Cambridge Ensemble in the 18th Baptist Church (acting workshop and theater) on March 7, 1974. It was a Cambridge original play compiled and directed by Peter seeing. The cast included, among others: The man on the radio dial. You have WBIM's enthusiasm about the music and performed by Eric Raeburn. This style made the play was accentuated by flute the last VPSP which marked Kafka and his own works, probably because of the stark black and white is used for autobiography. I found tongues, I know much about, could be the skew in the hierarchy. With this bit of creative entertainment, and performed by Eric Raeburn, I won't have much trouble to find out from the Better Union what was going on in their world. This holds true of a lot of FM stations. "We must help the little chicks get their heads out of their shells."

Ring Refunds

Although the SGA selected a few ring companies to sell rings on campus legally, they were not through with Circle Gold yet, as students were still trying to get their refunds. Our student was one of the students at BIM who signed craft contracts with this company was the work full of the academic year. However, the SGA began doing some after- from the Better Business Bureau because the supposed exclusive hold in sales on the campus, but was forced to recognize that the Cambridge Register-Consortium had no legal authority to select the rings for this campus.

to the History Club

Thank you for your letter of February 21, 1974. I join you in being deeply concerned with the principles involved. I am also strongly in favor of "the fundamental principle of separation of powers and respect for any valid conclusion as to the constitution, which might arise upon the rights of the students.

You will note in this connection that reestablishing the basic principle of the need for approval by the College President, I have not questioned anything internal in the Constitution—that is, nothing which does not interfere with the rights of the other students, other governing bodies, other segments of the College Community.

In particular it is evident to me that it has been the standard historical policy and principle—so-called in the fact that we are a total college community—that a constitution to be valid must be accepted by the President who has responsibility for protecting the rights of all members of the College. Otherwise, for instance, it would be possible for the General Faculty to suspend the entire operation of the Constitution that might appropriate and infringe upon the rights of the students.

You will note in addition that there are various student groups on the Bridgewater campus that have no S.G.A. that do not agree with the judgment of the other student governing bodies, as well as my own as president of the College Community, on the interpretation of the Constitution that has been violated and in addition the statement of your position with regard to the action taken by the Student Government Association during their meeting of February 19, 1974. I of course respect absolutely your right to hold whatever positions seem most appropriate to you. I am saddened and concerned about the recent recognition of a large body of Student Government Association Senators. In the interest of mutual understanding and communication administration in general nor the College President have questioned anything internal in the Student Government Association Constitution: that is, anything that does not affect the rights and responsibilities of other members of the College Community, including other students. Such internal matters, for instance, include the rather comprehensive representation of student government, the development of a Senate separate from the President who now has veto power, the establishment of the Student Court, the removal of the freshmen, sophomores, junior and senior class presidents as ex-officio members of the S.G.A., council or senate, etc. etc. No questions have been raised or would be raised because these are matters which are internal and not, as such, affect other governing bodies or other segments of the College Community, or the Trustees themselves.

I trust that you have studied most carefully the February 14, 1974 letter from the S.G.A., and I wish, likewise, the contrary opinion expressed by certain of the other student governing bodies, as well as my own as president of the College Community—dated February 19, 1974 also published in the combined COMMENT-HARD TIMES issue of February 19, 1974. If so, you certainly realize that the very question at issue is whether or not the following four non-negotiable claims are in Mr. Mike Urquhart's February 14, 1974 letter, in fact, Students' constitutional rights. "The right of the S.G.A. and only the S.G.A. to appoint all students to all college committees. "The right of elected and/or appointed officials of the Student Government Association, to negotiate any and all terms with the other segments of the College Community. "The supremacy of the Student Government Association in its dealings with other student governing bodies. "I.e. "The Student Government Association's equality with the Faculty and the Administrative segments of the College."

These four claims have in the judgment of other student governing bodies and in my own judgment, distinct bearing on the constitutional rights of other governing bodies, other segments of the College Community, as well as upon the constitutional rights of other segments of the College Community. (My statement of February 18, 1974, hopefully dealt with this comprehensively.)

In sum, this is an important and complex matter about which it is evident that different persons may have and do have different points of view as to what the overriding issues are. I trust that all of us will try to understand and respect the opinions of all concerned, even though we may disagree with the positions which others hold.

I join with you in the hope that a mutually agreeable solution may be reached as soon as possible.

The task of the residents of Pope Hall is to work within and abide by our governing bodies and to work within and abide by our governing bodies.

SCOTT HALL

To the College Community:

Because of the major concern over the resignation of the S.G.A. on Tuesday February 28th, I conducted a general consensus of opinion of 61 men who were in Scott Hall the following day.

The question asked was this: how tightly had there been a major violation of the S.G.A. Constitution? Out of 61 men responding, it was in no part of the S.G.A. 's judgement. I didn't agree with the resident president and he was in disagreement, and I did not care to comment on opinion. After talking with the men I represent, Mr. President of Scott Hall, I did so as to assuming that the y are in agreement with and to support the the citizens of the Student Government Association.

I sincerely hope that this I-er-1a is quickly resolved, as the state of the nation will have to air proper voice concerning student affairs on this sum part.

Respectfully submitted,

Thomas Holmes President
TO MEMBERS OF THE COLLEGE COMMUNITY

We, the undersigned are the remaining members of the Student Government Association. In accordance with the constitution we must recognize the validity of our recognition. We recognize you as such and as such the position he holds as being the traditional spokesman for the Student Government Association. It is our position however that we remain the students of the residence hall we must make every effort to present our case to the Board of Trustees...
WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The women's varsity and JV basketball teams finished off their regular season play last week. Varsity ended up with a 4-4 log and the Junior Varsity became the first undefeated women's basketball team in town for BSC history with a perfect 6-0 record.

The Junior Varsity came up against its longest game of the season against the UMass JV. BSC won not only to pull away from the six-foot Minutemen in the first half at UMass, but also to many victories in the second half at the Minutemen. But Bridgewater started rolling in the third quarter, and being a 25-20 defeat at UMass, Junior Level finished up with 39 points and Edwin Tobin led it with 6 rebounds.

The varsity contest Bridgewater took a quick 6 lead with only a second game in the game on the strength of a flopper and Andrew McIntyre free throw, but that was the last time BSC led all game. 11-10 lead, but finished their way past BSC in the second half with 4-44. Down 17-14 after the first quarter, the Bears tied it up at 31-35 at the half. The third quarter was BSC's downfall, as they only scored 8 points to 44-41. Sue Baptista scored four points in the game of the Bears with 3 points, Kathy Parker and Betty Jenewin scored 11 and 14, respectively.

On Thursday, March 7th, Bridgewater routed Quinnipiac College in the Regional playoffs second quarter but BSC rallied. varsity headed to the bench and finished in a straight path that put Bridgewater back in the game. The third quarter saw both teams trading baskets with BSC still on the short end of the score, but finally tied the score at 49 all. The pressure was on the Bridgewater free throw and Betty Jenewin, who had the last laugh for her coach's victory over URI to finish the season undefeated. Sue Baptista led in 14 and Mary Truslow and Joan Howard each chipped in with 11. Bridgewater was the remaining 2 points with a score of 55-9 and Betty Jenewin 12.
