The Rally:
Down To Some Basics

By Toni Coyne
Bridgewater's A Rally was held Wednesday afternoon on the campus at the foyer of the Student Union. Its objective was essentially to inform students of the pending tuition hike and budget cuts.

Student Government President Ray Raposa opened the floor by giving the basics concerning budget cuts and how it effects not only Bridgewater but the entire state college system.

An open forum type discussion followed and students took the opportunity to ask questions and voice their opinion.

In all there was maybe 500 students who showed up. A sizeable turnout for an event at Bridgewater, but poor when one realizes the importance of the subject matter.

Many students maintained an apathetic stance. "Well its all pretty much over, the tuition will go up anyway. What can I do?"

At the rally Wednesday questionnaires and letters were being signed by students. The purpose of the letter was regarding House Bill # 2075. This bill would allow students 10% more in State Scholarship from 25% to 35%. A tremendous amount of letters were personally signed by the students (the exact number is still being counted). The letters going to the state house in conjunction with other state colleges will hopefully make their impression on the reps that since the tuition is going up, additional funds from the state in different forms of financial aid must become a reality.

The questionnaires were created to gauge the student's individual ability to absorb the tuition hike and cutbacks. Being filled out in a group with the students to produce feedback, feedback, which can be evaluated by the Student Government Association on how the majority of the students at Bridgewater feel.

The answers still remain large--what is going to happen now? This weekend various sectors of the public higher educational systems--universities, community colleges and state colleges will come together collectively and submit the same-wide questionaires held at each individual college. As a collective force, more power to the students. This is talk of student input, perhaps aiding in developing the colleges' budgets. But we just will have to wait and see if this is to be a reality.

Yes, the rally engendered a renewed sense of student power in spirit. Somewhere Bridgewater emerged from its frivolous play and got down to some basics--money and education.

750 at U of Mass.

U. Mass, Amhurst - A crowd of about 130 people participated in Wednesday's rally. It was occurring the recent talk on hikes and budget cuts. In talking on the phone to Peter Quinn, a representative from the Student Organization Committee at U. Mass., WHO/FM found out that though U. Mass's Rally drew a smaller crowd than expected, many students voiced their view, and were hopeful in getting the message out. Quinn said that all questionaires were handed out similar to those here at Bridgewater.

In closing Peter said, "It was small, but there is still a lot of validity being the beginning of the year and all.

APATHY: Always a Good Excuse

"Apathy is a disease!" said Bill Abraham, speaking to the student body last month. Before him sat his fellow classmates in their black acetate robes and tassled mortar boards. Behind him, the administration and great speaker David Flynn. Unable to hear what this class president had to say. It seemed like such a "typical" speech. I thought to myself: Everyone who's involved in something is always accusing those who aren't of being guilty of it.

In a great sneeze, when something falls in our laps. We can always blame the father on the "good old-fashioned student.

The most recent illustration of apathy is the SBO campus war scandal's only. Last year's quarter of the student population showed up to gain and speak out about two of the most expensive undertakings on campus.

The budget is being cut 10%, our tuition is increasing $200.00. Where do people on campus still aren't aware of the why or when of the situation. That's the saddest part about apathy. It develops into a state of unawares. This year, the first time of the COMMENT is written in the spirit of optimism for the new year. We've been back just three weeks, and the joy of seeing old friends, while meeting new ones is gradually giving way to the routine grind of school.

Maybe if we all concentrate on keeping our heads and ears around us to alert to what's happening. apathy, while it is like the common cold in the sense that there is no known cure, won't be responsible for our next failure.

LETTERS

TO THE CLASS OF 78

I would like to express my appreciation to the class of 78, for allowing me to the office of student body. I would not have run for this office had I not been encouraged to do so. It is clear that we could benefit from our class at the school. In this new way. I hope is fair to the class that you will allow me to express your interests. I wish to hear how you feel about what the subject of the letter is. Let me know your ideas, and opinions on any matter. From the day I was big in the state of affairs so that the other side of the moon.

The only way I can express myself accurately. It is because you are not aware of the subject of the letter. As a matter of fact. If you don't know me. I am 21, 219 of the University.

There are many obstacles to overcome in we, as a class, group, and organization. Not only do we have personal goals, but in an area, we have certain goals which must be clarified. In order to accomplish our personal goals we must have a unity of spirit, that each other class has failed. We must break down social barriers that keep us from each other. These barriers, I felt, will only hinder us in achieving the unity we should strive for in the class of 78. What social barriers can I read about that you may wish to remove. This is an important subject that we should discuss in our fellow classmates when we feel like it. And don't take the time. I will see you in class.

What you're saying, is the illusion that some people have things too.

We need to become a class of people who understand each other. We need to have a better understanding of the other people. We need to talk to each other. We need to help each other out. We need to have a better understanding of the other people. We need to talk to each other. We need to help each other out.

Bridgewater - Beginning September 26, you can earn three college credits from Bridgewater State College at home in your living room by watching "Classic Theatre - Humanities in Drama." a three-play series which will be aired weekly by Channels 2 and 4. This unique opportunity to enjoy academic theatre and receive academic credit is offered by the Division of Continuing Education in cooperation with the Division of Humanities.

The Comment September 18, 1975. TO THE CLASS...
"Back to School Sale" by Bob Spaine

...offers the opportunity to visit the offices of the President of the College. As a matter of fact, many of us were not aware just what a skilled job search must be. In general, we believe it is an advantage to have had a successful college job search. (No cookie cutters or footballs, only for those who were very efficient at being...)

The President, Ray Rondsela...

There's a lot to be said for the back to school sale. But, I believe the back to school sale does not signify the beginning of a new school year...
Social Work Program

By Maryanne Gueyloff

Last summer, the Division of Behavioral Sciences was awarded a federal grant to assist in expanding the Social Work Program at BSC. The proposal for the grant was written and submitted by Professor Lester G. Houston and Dr. William Brown. The grant was awarded for the third semester of the 1971-72 academic year, starting in September 1971. The grant is designed to develop the Social Work Program so that students can eventually major in Social Work. This will enable them to meet qualifications for beginning positions in Social Work agencies. Another objective is to prepare students for graduate social work education.

Under the Social Work Program, there will be student internships with social agencies and experience with Social Work agencies. Field work assignments in the agencies include youth agencies, Child Welfare, Public Welfare, Mental Health, Public Health, and Probation Departments.

While the professional training will be at a graduate level, a number of undergraduate Social Work Programs are springing up all over the country. Professor Lester G. Houston was hired to develop an undergraduate Social Work program at BSC. In speaking with Professor Houston, he indicated that the developing program has just started and the student enrollment in the Social Work centers. Most of the students in the program are Sociology and Psychology majors. There are many jobs available in the Social Work field, and Dr. Brown said he would like to see a growing Social Work Training Program at BSC so that students can be qualified for these positions.

The Social Work Program is being developed according to the guidelines established by the Council of Social Science. The Council is the body for schools offering both undergraduate and graduate courses in Social Work. For further information concerning the Social Work Program and courses, please contact either Dr. Brown or Professor Houston at Scott Hall.

The Rathskeller has now added a touch more of class-the purchase of glassware and wine tumblers allows for serving. While talking to Mr. Nick Hoes, manager of the "RAT" these reasons were evident for the changeover. One of reason was the cost. Each year, the "RAT" has been buying plastic cups and tumblers. The purchase of the glasses cost around one quarter of the plastic. This factor in itself is reason enough: secondly, the use of glass class is, in more appealing than drinking from plastic. Many have said the bar will and wine even tastier. The final reason was due to the economical movement in today's society. So far, there have not been a problem of breakage, while others were set aside because of chips or cracks. If the glasses were being used in the past, so as a preventative measure, if anyone desires a pitcher, the host first hand over his I.D. card. In order to get it back, he must return the pitcher. Simple enough, and effective!

However, glasses are being chosen in a large majority, the "RAT" will simply have to raise the price of the beverages or restrict sale to plastic cups, neither of which would be a good idea. The cooperation of all students is definitely urged and needed for the "RAT" to run smoothly and without any unnecessary complications. So, if you see someone trying to tip off a meg-step blase for years and the school Rathskeller's bounds!

However, there is much reason to believe that the number of jobs available may be much less than the number of applicants. Along with this problem is the unmet need for the job seeker, that is there is a potential for a job. Wherever there is an unmet need in society (which is everywhere), a person exists who is willing to pay someone with the necessary skills - is not a need. Why do what someone else wants you to do if you don't want to do it? What can you do exactly what you want to do when you find someone willing to pay for it? The same thing can be asked about where you want to work. Besides, the client's job is to what you want to do, where you want to do it, the more easily said, is it be someone else wants or is qualified to do. Furthermore, if you create a job, you are one that provides a opportunity. Wouldn't it be any com­petition at all? Who is likely to be more suited to do a job than the person who created it? The only stage left in the process is how you get the job you want. Many people think there is no alternative to going through this process but there is an alternative. An assertive approach is one way that can help you without all that very risky screening out. (Please don't tear this up yet.)

Being assertive requires a lot of effort but the results are well worth it. If you are interested in learning more about the assertive approach to job finding, contact Reverend Richard Huffman, Students Organization Office, Student Union, during the following hours: Mondays, 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursdays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Check or money order - no cash please.) Hello Dolly!

By James Haid

Attention all theatre lovers and get ready to see the remarkably good musical known as "Hello, Dolly!" at the Bridgewater State College's Emerson Theatre. The musical is directed by Professor Robert T. Marsh, Chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama. The show is presented by the Emerson Theatre and sponsored by the Student Theatre Organization.

The story of "Hello, Dolly!" is set in 19th-century New York City and follows the character of Dolly Levi, a matchmaker with a heart full of animal power and energy. The story takes place in a small town calledThreadPool where Dolly opens her own coffeehouse for the benefit of all her friends.

The cast includes Nancy Blair, Raymond Hunt, Mary Claire Atkinson, Robert Cole, Thomas Coburn, Lorna Goffinet, Mary Smith, Robert, Bob, the comic relief, Brian Libby, Stephen Drouhard, Joely Gray, Nancy Pasco, Pamela Bradley, Judy Sager, and Elizabeth Porier. The music is performed by a live orchestra.

The show runs from October 12-21 at 8:00 pm each night, and tickets are available at the door or by calling 697-9070. The show is suitable for all ages and promises a fun-filled evening of entertainment. Don't miss out on this exciting production of "Hello, Dolly!" at the Emerson Theatre at Bridgewater State College.

There ought to be a law. It's a pity the New Haven Plaza is not in the same league with the Wrigley Field that is in the same world with the Bears football team. Indeed the Univ. of New Haven is the biggest destruction after a 3 Moses incidentally foes over Adams's flagpole. On the second play from scrimmage it was eleven it going to be a long afternoon for the visitors. New Haven fumbled the ball, where the Bears' defensive end deflected a pass from New Haven 17. After two running plays quarterback Bear Brown rolled out to hit his halfback, Junior Steve Waskerikish, for a 13 yd. screen TD. After that the Bears led 14-0. Then, as if by magic the Bears were playing along Sunday afternoon film of the game. New Haven did the same thing again, after the kickoff, by again launching on the second play. These minutes later from the New Haven 5. Brennon walked in a touchdown. New Haven hence decided to play in a steady downpour, and indeed, New Haven had the best drive of the day marching all way all the way on the ground and with facility of a NFL. Flemington Field,punted, he scores his first and only TD of the game, that was to be for the first half as the Bears led by 114.

Four minutes into the second half the Bears covered inches number 1 as Stoneau hit Mark Harrington on a 1 yd. pass to make it 21-0. The middle of third period saw both teamsカンテルバーグ sequences on the scoreboard. The only other scoring kami in the period was when the New Haven quarterback was sacked in the end zone and his subsequent fumble went through the end zone. Credit for the score went to enervate Robbaker Mark Skilner, End of Peril 7 and the scoreboard read 32-6.

As the clock ticked off a football second in the third period the Bears had another no where as Stoneau hit Mark Harrington for a 7 yd. pass for the June's first TD pass of the afternoon. A minute and a half later as a drive by New Haven stalled, Mark Kerbel took the ensuing punt, handed it off to his fellow Tri-Captain Tom Slye, who ran 68 yd. yards for another Bridgewater score to make it 44-6 which led the crowd to look for other entertainment (exploration later). Coach Mazzaferro then emptied his storeroom and his subsequent fumble went through the end zone. Credit for the score went to enervate Robbaker Mark Skilner. End of Peril 7 and the scoreboard read 44-6.
