Sex Offenders for Vote Released
By Richard C. Tonner
On February 8, U.S. District Court Judge Arthur Garfify in an order to the Department of Mental Health in Bridgewater announced that he will release inmates from Bridgewater's correctional institutions on parole. Judge Garfify's proposal would allow members of the Treatment Center for Sexually Deviant Persons to leave the facility on parole to attend work, school, and in programs and prison visits. This decision for release was made without opposition, however, as hearings, which were held, were handled by the magistrate at the Massachusetts Correctional Institutions last Wednesday to visit their strongly held positions. The opposition shifted to safeguards for the immediate community have been established and many added that the Department of Mental Health does not have enough time to visit the area. The Center for Sexually Deviant Persons and the Department of Mental Health have been working together for the past several years to establish programs to adequately handle this situation.

Harrington and the C.I.A
By Sue Lawson
Michael J Harrington, D-Bridgewater, Massachusetts (6th district) in Congress, made a surprise visit to the Boston Rexall on February 19th.

Harrington, the Massachusetts Representative to Congress, addressed a crowd of over 50 people in the Boston Rexall. Harrington spoke on the topic of the C.I.A. and his concerns for the future of the United States. Harrington emphasized the importance of being informed about the C.I.A. and its activities. He encouraged the audience to stay informed and to be active in their communities.

Harrington said that his goal is to ensure that people are aware of the C.I.A. and its activities. He emphasized the importance of being informed about the C.I.A. and its activities. He encouraged the audience to stay informed and to be active in their communities.

Harrington also addressed the issue of the future of the United States. He emphasized the importance of being informed about the C.I.A. and its activities. He encouraged the audience to stay informed and to be active in their communities.

Harrington's visit was met with a positive reception. The audience was engaged and asked many questions. Harrington said that he would like to continue to address this issue in the future and to continue to be active in his community.
Bridgewater. In May of ’75, I knew that I had to lose my job, or else the experience and the day-to-day events have given me a whole new outlook. The teaching experience itself has been tremendous. I’ve taught a high percentage population which has been nonexistent. The materials, methods, and techniques used here have introduced me to a totally different system and the people I’ve worked with couldn’t have been better. The recruitment teachers have met with great expectations because BSC NOW (New South Wales) has come to be a model of education system and Australia itself is a kind of ad-

Donors wanted

The Bloodmobile will soon be on campus March 3rd from 9:30 to 3:30 in the Student Union Ballroom. Poster around campus: read “200 points for 200 pints,” and always, blood donated by college members goes into the college blood bank which serves as a reservoir in case of emergency.

The need is to keep the blood bank well stocked in more important now than ever. This past week, as a senior student, Robert Shoemaker was seriously burned in an auto accident. He will be centered of receiving all the blood and plasma he requires through Bridgewater’s blood bank.

Appointments can be made before March 3rd at the table located in front of the front doors or in the office of Student Affairs. By the way, any points of blood you will not only be contributing to the aid of a fellow student, but also investing for yourself.

Spring is...

Wednesday inaugurated more than the presidential primaries; it sparked a breath of refreshing spring air. The trees have burst out, and the meadows become verdant. I began a climb and layered in the majestic appeal of nature, like a domeless descending on a farmer’s crop, the BSC campus became alive with masses of people and the flavor of activity.

The sudden change caused one student to explain, “Spring forces flow to fall again.” As an afterthought, I have compiled a few notions of “spring again.” Better pleased, spring is 1) Birds starting up at the prospect of lovely weather. 2) T-Zones including in the capital’s spring. 3) Plants and people on the fire escapes. 4) Motion abounding in the Student Union. 5) Outside on the bicycle riders of the best and bad painted 6) Furniture springing on Alpha’s lawn (from at your yard) in springing of snow across, but the dirty, dirty will be found to do it. 7) Anticipations 360 Someone scrambling wonderful on the library plan. “Tomorrow it will all be over.” Maybe not.

repair Burrill Ave.

I would like to point out a problem that has existed for some time on the Burrill Avenue condition of Burrill Ave. This road, in question, serves as the only access route to both the Hill and the large commuter parking lot, B is in terrible shape. You are taking a huge risk to both life and property if you dare go over it. I realize that the street may have dug up a pit of a bit, but people’s lives may be at stake if the reason nothing has been done is that it is a problem. The Campus Police don’t want it fixed, if they are afraid of people rushing up and down the street and over Burrill Ave. I would suggest that the road instead of the debris that somewhere now, I really can’t afford a new mower or shears, we’d appreciate it if something could be done before the year’s over to fix the area of that poor a cure of a road. ‘Bomber” and “Bambat” Kenny Hodge

Thank-you Bridgewater

After nearly completing two years of teaching in Australia, I thought a letter of thanks, and appreciation was due to Bridgewater. I was among the thousands of unemployed teachers who graduated in ’73 and were working a job outside the field of Education fulltime. AND keeping my foot in the door by substituting whenever I got the chance. After nearly a year of this, I returned to the Placement Office at Bridgewater in hopes of securing another job. Up until then, I hadn’t considered moving over to Massachusetts to teach because of my very small resources. When I interviewed with the New South Wales teachers who were unemployed, they strongly suggested I get in touch with the Editor-in-Chief, which I did just before signing up for the interview. I was being told to look my bags up the job! As far as I knew, I was the first person to leave from President Ford's position is clearly a workable one, a compromise between those favoring complete secrecy and those who believe that some public information should be made available. The House committee has already done a service in making public the CIA's activities and congressional investigations into the agency's operations. Now it is time for the Ford administration to make its contribution. The government should provide a public release statement for all significant security matters, including evidences of public interest. The proposal would not only help to allay public fears about the government's involvement in the world, but also ensure that the public is informed about the nation's security needs. This approach would also help to establish a new relationship between the government and the people, based on mutual trust and understanding. In conclusion, the proposal is a long overdue and much-needed reform that would help to ensure a more transparent and accountable government.

Dear Student,

TO EXPRESS MY DISAPPOINTMENT TO THOSE OF YOU WHO DID NOT ATTEND THE SENIOR LUNCHEON ON FRIDAY, March 4, at 6:00 p.m. in the Campus Banquet Hall. Although there were many who were impressed by the event, many may have limited the crowd, I feel that it was a huge failure. Not one out of a class of 38 students only about 20, but many others returned to the Campus Club.

I have said this often, that my school is not as great as it is mostly a personal belief, but a person who that takes place in our society is another, becoming more sensitive toward our environment and our classmates. Why a goal? I hope it is apparent. That we, those who attend a higher institution of learning, may be able to bring into society those characteristics that seem to be focused on in the world today. It is a great deal of sensitive, strong, responsible, that students must not contribute these character before the point they are "back at the start". But this must begin here. Don't let our individual all as a group or as a class. Although I am very interested in the event.

Minutes from the Meeting
by Mike Marrichy

The Student Government Association, which usually meets on the second floor of the Smith building, met this past Tuesday, Feb. 24, during the regular meeting, to hear guest Speaker, Steve, a senior who was in his senior year was killed in a murder trial on Sunday, Feb. 22.

A memorial hunger was held in the college chapel across the gym from the meeting on Tuesday evening. Since The Comment did not publish last week due to the Monday holiday, here are some of the things covered during the meeting of Feb. 12. There were a few topics covered during the meeting, including: making a special effort to abolish the SGA, or while Lawrence filled in for this as Vice President.

Request-Misred a bunch of projects that have been drawn up by the Teacher Prep Com. Committee as referred to the S.G.A. Most of the suggestions (five or six) were tabled at least until next meeting, when they can be explained by appropriate members of the faculty and / or department heads on the committee.

Alex, Student senator, Mary Undergraduate Curriculum Committee presented several proposals to make changes to various courses now in effect. Proposals included revising history and biology. The Senate Committee, including those on student relations also this year will be able to have the SGA's approval.

In elections last weekend, students were elected SGA and treasurer by a narrow margin, 138-186 over Lisa Gorman. Kevin Laub was re-elected as president.

In other events, President of the Senior Class and offices class of 78 Senators, and offices class of 78.

IN 1853, THESE WERE BRIDGEWATER STATE STUDENTS

Those students, who graduated 123 years ago, represent the earliest pictures we have of Bridgewater students (the school had been founded just over a dozen years earlier). This picture is one of the many which will be contained in a book to be published this spring by the College's Alumni Association.

The book is a pictorial history of the College from its founding in September of 1840 right up to the present spring of 1976.

Over 230 photographs — many of them rare and valuable and never published before — will be included. And this is no dry history! The book will contain twelve chapters, each one tracing in pictures a different aspect of student life at Bridgewater from 1840 all the way to right now, 1976. A few of the chapters are:

- The Academic Experience, 1840 - 1976
- Dormitory Living
- The Commuting Student
- Sports through the Years
- Dress — 1840 to Present
- Student Life: Social & Recreational
- Dining In and Dining Out
- Rules and Regulations

The book is 160 pages in length, hardbound with leatherette cover and stamped in gold. It is being published in a limited quantity, and will not be available for general sale.

Next week the BSC Childrens Theatre brings the premier of a delightful musical comedy entitled ETC and was played March 1 at 2 p.m. in the Student Union Auditorium. The entire cast were unseasoned performers, none being of college age, but all were enthusiastic and excited about their upcoming performance. The show is a fundraiser for the Children's Theatre and all proceeds will go towards supporting the arts and education in the Brecksville community.

The story is centered around a group of children who discover a magical world of imagination where they can be anything they want to be. Through their adventures, they learn important life lessons about kindness, friendship, and the power of dreams.

The cast includes:
- John Smith as Mr. Rogers
- Emily Davis as Annie
- Thomas Brown as Peter Pan
- Mia Andrews as Wendy
- Zachary Thompson as Tinkerbell
- Sarah Williams as Miss Chili Peppers

The show is directed by Ms. Thompson and choreographed by Mr. Rogers. The set design and costumes were created by the students under the guidance of Mr. Brown. The music and lyrics were written by the cast and team members.

The show is held in the Student Union Auditorium at Brecksville High School and tickets are available at the door for $5 each. Proceeds will go towards supporting the Children's Theatre and its future productions.

Don't miss out on this magical and heartwarming experience! See you at the show!
The THE STUDIOS Fitting tributes to Shakespeare and Wilde

By Bill Swift

Last week the Ensemble Theatre presented two student directed one-act plays, one comedy and one drama, as their studio productions. As usual, the plays were well received and I was pleased to see that they were both well done. Both shows were of difficult attempt in itself such as contained of several small scenes from a larger production.

The first play was "Lady Windermere's Fan" by Oscar Wilde and directed by Paula Allen. The setting here was generally good, Charles Maksin, as Lord Darlington, was at his best in this production, but in a whole it worked fairly well. "What a pity" Michelle Poevasa gave a good showing as Lady Windermere's maid and the plays narrator. Zoe Laffter was excellent as Lady Windermere's land mother. Marcelle Mcclint - , as Lady Windermere was also outstanding. Another recent newcomer to the Brigade, she proved to be a very talented dramatic actress. Most of the scenes were presented with little to none staging and the overall show was account for the perfect, from the odious format into the hairstyles (Cheryl "by Josie Burgoyne, as Lady Ddermore, in the show worked rather well.

The second show contained three scenes from Shakespeare comedy "A Midsummer Night's Dream" presented by Pyramus and Thisbe and it was directed by Mark Carter. The first two scenes served mainly as an introduction to the third which contained a preview to the play's Duke and Theseus on their wedding night. The acting here was very good. As Bottom (PHILMS), Jeremy Swift was nothing short of perfect. And J.H. Parks was equally funny in his portrayal of Flute (Titania). His character usually of a man portraying a woman had the audience in stitches.

The rest of the cast, especially Patrick Baroum, Steve Johnson as Puck and Mike Pizzera as Oberon were all outstanding in their roles. I did feel however that the character played by Mark Carter, was a very weak character of Lord Darlington in this play. Also, I felt that this was a very strange ending to the play. For the last scene, I felt that the mood was not perfectly matched with the mood of the other two scenes presented. The last scene also was a perfect show account for the perfect, from the odious format into the hairstyles (Cheryl "by Josie Burgoyne, as Lady Ddermore, in the show worked rather well.

On Friday night the show was presented. There were four members of the cast that deserve special mention. The program will also include works by Beethoven, Brahms, and Mahler.

Joni Mitchell, in continually creating emotional fantasy after night after night. Consequently, this success is not surprising. Perhaps the cost is not entirely responsible for what I felt was a somewhat hampered version of a show I've seen done better. Maybe they were in desperate need of some that came from the heart, and their talent was taking me... In any case, more inspiration at their part would aid in making an already dynamic show, dynamic.

This is not to say that the cost of the event was tremendous, and essentially a liability. Although I enjoyed the production at the U.S. Auditorium last week, I was a little disappointed at the nature of its presentation. Overall, it was difficult to hear some of the lines which were seemingly swallowed by the cast, some of their expressions and movements were clearly developed, or done differently when they seemed to be.

Eileen McNamara & Junior McNamara

Congratulations are in order to these girls who have given of themselves, their spirit and drives. Thanks to all those who have worked hard and persevered. Some people call a city, the war. Many battles have been fought. The last TUESDAY NIGHT IN WHAT SOME PEOPLE CALL A CITY, AND WHERE MANY CALL HOLE IN THE GROUND, LOWELL, MASSACHUSETTS. LEVEL OFF IN THE WAR, ENVIRONMENT was not good for the Bears, as they were being outflanked in this water. In this hole was a sea of defense. The Bears should have parried this threat, but they had not. Lowell Terriers jumped on a lead in the first half, and this lead was extended in the second half.

The Bears had their biggest lead at 10 points. During this span the Bears forced a goateed hard decision for this meet. The half. Early turnovers had caused that early deficit. Bridgewater dig fell within eight at half. Lowell lead headed back and forth between eight and twelve for the next few minutes. With five and a half minutes remaining the Bears trailed 11-3. Two field goals by Dean Janse huge free and a Bears consolation attempt knocked this score down 13-2 at 3:30.

Four points in the final minute by Janse and two free baskets by the home team made the score 14, 4. Lowell Bears again cut into the lead slightly with free baskets at 6-30. Again Lowell Terriers hit two free baskets to make it 16-4. Walt Devitt's list: A keeps low votes. The Bears should have forfeited this meet. The final advantage of the Bears at the end of the game was 16-4. The Bears scored 16-4 at the end of the game.

Wrestling Grizzlies
Fall Short of Victory

by John Mender

Getting close to pinning Miller in period 1; second effort failed.

Wrestling the Grizzlies in the running match, Larry Cohen, at 135 lbs., was held in position by Larry Cohen in his 135 lb. class.

The junior varsity meet was held in the new arena on January 26.

The Bears' (9-1) win over the Grizzlies (0-2) at Mount St. James on February 1st was a decisive victory for the Bears.

Vuono Takes Second Place in Eastern U.S. Powerlifting Championships

By Kevin Hanron

Last year's two northern California state champions - Mike Vuono and Peter Vasquez - will be among the competitors at the Eastern United States Powerlifting Championships. Vuono and Vasquez will be representing the University of California at Berkeley. Vuono, the 1975 National Champion in the 170 lb. weight class, has been working hard to regain his form after a setback in the weightlifting meet last month. Vuono has been preparing for this meet for several months and is looking forward to a successful showing.

Vuono has been working on his form and strength, and has been practicing with his team. He is confident that he will be able to perform at his best in the meet. Vuono has been working with his coach, Mike Heffernan, and has been training with him for several months. Heffernan has been helping Vuono to improve his form and technique, and has been working with him on his lifting conditioning.
