In 1963 Violence Subsided

By Peter Taylor

In 1963, the U.S. and Cuban governments, under the leadership of President John F. Kennedy, signed a joint agreement to end the conflict that had been ongoing since the Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961. This treaty, known as the Kennedy-Nasser agreement, was a major victory for both nations and marked a significant step towards peace in the Caribbean region. The treaty was negotiated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Cuban Foreign Minister Raúl Rojas, and it called for the withdrawal of Cuba from the joint Soviet-American military base in Cuba and the repatriation of Cuban exiles to Cuba. The treaty also called for the establishment of a joint commission to monitor compliance with the agreement. The terms of the treaty were widely seen as a diplomatic triumph for Kennedy, who had been under intense pressure to end the conflict. The treaty was signed on March 31, 1963, and it was implemented gradually over the following months. The Cuban government began to withdraw its troops from the joint base in May, and by June, the bases had been fully vacated. The treaty also called for the gradual return of Cuban exiles to Cuba, and this process was also implemented over the following years. The treaty was widely seen as a sign of the easing of tensions between the United States and Cuba, and it helped to lay the groundwork for future diplomatic relations between the two countries. The treaty was also seen as a sign of the limits on American foreign policy, and it helped to shape American foreign policy for decades to come. The treaty was a significant victory for Kennedy, who was under pressure to end the conflict, and it helped to establish him as a leader in foreign policy. The treaty was signed on March 31, 1963, and it is still in effect today.
To the Editor:

I just wanted to raise this opportunity to give a belated "thank you" to Charlie Pratley and Cheryl Pratley for their fine effort in planning and arranging the "Great Blizzard of '78" for Bridgewater State College. It was an extremely difficult year with no profit, and the extra effort and time spent are commendable. I also want to thank you for keeping the food enterprise system alive. After all, it is paying for everything else these days. In their own way, Charlie and Cheryl have been doing a marvelous job in farming and agriculture. I hope you keep it and foster it, for it answers to the above questions.

Editorial

The mindset of 1970s college life was the backdrop for many things that have been seen in recent years. The era was marked by a desire for self-expression and a challenge to the status quo. It was a time when many students were disillusioned with the war in Vietnam and the perceived corruption of the establishment. This mindset often manifested in an energetic activism on campus, with students protesting everything from Vietnam to student rights. The result was a period of profound change, not only on college campuses but throughout society.

SGA Elections Schedule

Senior elections will take place on March 2, and a few hours after the SGA elections, the International Board (IB) will hold its own elections. The IB elections will occur sometime after the SGA elections. The International Board will hold meetings every other week during the fall and spring semesters. Those interested in running for the IB should contact the current executive board.

Fire at Pope!

All this action (and non-action) took place in the space of about five minutes. Fires don’t wait for people to make rational, intelligent decisions. The campus police arrived quickly, followed by the fire department. When the police officer who had his radio in my ear later told me what he knew, I was surprised. He said that the building was on fire, and that there was a lot of smoke coming from the room on students at the college. The day went on as if nothing had happened, but I knew that I had been lucky.

Inter-Cultural Seminar

The Inter-Cultural Seminar at Bridgewater State College is a wonderful opportunity for students to exchange ideas and experiences with people from different cultures. The seminar is designed to help students understand and appreciate the diversity of the world and to develop a greater sense of cultural competence.

Ways & Means Enforces Rules

To all Members of the College Community:

This letter is to inform you of a recent Ways & Means error that has the potential to create additional problems for members of the Ways & Means committee.

The error occurred during the recent Ways & Means meeting held on March 10, 1978. At this meeting, the Ways & Means committee voted to approve an action by a student who was not authorized to take such action.

This action is necessary to ensure that all members of the college community are treated equally. The Ways & Means committee is responsible for enforcing the rules and policies of the college, and the error that occurred at this meeting could have serious consequences.

The executive board has voted to make this action official. The Ways & Means committee will work to correct this error and ensure that all members of the college community are treated fairly.

We hope that this action will be a lesson to all members of the college community, and that it will help to ensure that the college continues to operate smoothly.

New England Contemporary Ensemble Review

by Michael Beaudoin

The Carpenter’s Shop sponsored the day’s event, which was a performance of the New England Contemporary Ensemble. The Ensemble performed in the Student Union Program Committee’s theater on Saturday, February 19, 1978. The program consisted of a variety of musical selections, ranging from contemporary classical to more experimental pieces.

The evening began with the performance of a piece titled “The House of Friendship” by Joseph Gelli. The piece was performed by a local Berliner, who interpreted a poem by Frédéric Chopin. The performance was accompanied by a small orchestra, including a pianist, harpist, and English horn player.

The next selection was a piece titled “Un Petit Train de Plaisir,” which was performed by the Ensemble. The piece was composed by a local Berliner, and it was a humorous and light-hearted piece, featuring a series of sonatas that attempt to depict the atmosphere of a small railroad station.

The final selection of the evening was a piece titled “The Last Waltz.” This piece was performed by the Ensemble and was a tribute to the late singer, Johnny Cash. The performance was accompanied by a small orchestra, including a pianist, harpist, and English horn player.

Overall, the evening turned out to be a great success, and everyone seemed to enjoy the music. The performance was followed by a Q&A session, during which the Ensemble members answered questions from the audience, and the evening was capped off with a reception and drinks.

At the credit district we have made Cuervo Gold by hand.

And for centuries we've made Cuervo Gold by hand.

At the Cuervo distillery it’s almost as if time has stood still. Our Blue Agaves are nurtured by hand, picked by hand, and toasted to the oven by hand, as they have been since 1795. It is this centuries-old tradition that makes Cuervo Gold special. Any way you drink it, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the day.

New England Contemporary Ensemble Review

by Michael Boucher

The New England Contemporary Ensemble, a group performing under the directorship of John J. DiFruscio, performed an evening of music on Sunday, January 31 in the S.U. Auditorium. The New England Contemporary Ensemble is an organization comprised of members who perform in various aspects of the arts. The ensemble is led by John J. DiFruscio, who is also the current director of the University of Maine's School of Music.

The program consisted of various pieces, including a performance of the well-known piece, "Moonlight Sonata," by Ludwig van Beethoven. The performance was a beautiful representation of the genius of Beethoven's music, and the ensemble's ability to interpret it with such precision and artistry was truly remarkable.

So, It doesn't snow like it used to, huh?

The Blizzard of 1978

by Jean St. Andre

According to Dean Wallace Anderson, Academic Dean, classes cancelled last week because of the snowstorm will not have to be made up at any time barring any further cancellation of classes.

The decision was arrived at after discussion with the administrative board of trustees, and after consultation with the local public school system. "It was decided that it would be best to absorb the 4 days that were lost," Anderson stated.

A problem, however, may arise in regards to student teaching. By this, Anderson is referring to the public school system where many public school systems do not have to make up these lost days either, causing a possible problem. Since student teachers must acquire a certain number of teaching hours, and must pass certification requirements, special arrangements will have to be arranged. Details of how this problem will be solved will be announced by the end of the week. Dr. Anderson feels that the statement concerning the problem will be announced by the end of the week.

According to Dean Wallace Anderson, Academic Dean, classes cancelled last week because of the snowstorm will not have to be made up at any time having any further cancellation of classes.

The only reason for this decision is that the college can absorb the lost days into the academic year further into May. Anderson said, "We have a Monday-Thursday schedule so we can absorb the loss into the academic schedule."

A possible solution is going to school five days during the spring. The Administration "decided it was possible to absorb the lost days into the academic year further into May. Anderson stated, "We have a Monday-Thursday schedule so we can absorb the loss into the academic schedule."

Bears nip Worcester

Worcester. The Bears played just well enough to slip the Worcester State Bears, 7-3, this past Saturday night. Despite not being able to hold complete break points because of the snow storm, the Nosek appeared small at times, well-rounded, mixed with flashes of basketball grace. At the season's end, the team proved that the Bears could not possibly be defeated.

Bridgewater never saw the lead again, however, as the Bears added 3 more goals to their list during the final 15 minutes. The final score was 7-3 in favor of the Bears.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) matched up with UConn's selective scheduling, the Bears went scoreless throughout the second period. Boston was able to tally three. The Bears' second point, UConn scored once more during the second period. The team was able to keep its lead as Boston was unable to score three. The Bears' third point, UConn scored once more during the third period. The Bears' final point, UConn scored once more during the final period.

Bridgewater's icemen have yet to break out of the Boston State bout, Bridgewater had the Bear's first point. UConn scored once more during the third period. The Bears' second point, UConn scored once more during the third period. The Bears' third point, UConn scored once more during the final period.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) hosted the Bears in their most recent game. Monday, due to a mixup in scheduling, the Bridgewater team arrived at the hearing room late. Unfortunately, the Bears were unable to complete their game.

Bridgewater's apparent allergy towards scoring twice--once in the first period and once in the second. Again in the second...before the Bears could get themselves on the board. Ed Kiberd had his first hat trick of the season.

It was Boston's third point of the night and it left them with the win. The Bears never saw the lead again, however, as the Bears added 3 more goals to their list during the final 15 minutes. The final score was 7-3 in favor of the Bears.

Icemen keep trying...

by Cornelia Killion

Bridgewater's Icemen were on the ice again last week as they beat Union in the first game of the season.

The University of Connecticut's men's hockey team was playing at home in the third period and the Icemen were leading by a 2-1 score when the game ended with the score tied, 2-2.

The team had been working hard to get back into the game and the Icemen had the opportunity to tie the game late in the third period.

Hatch trick

It was the third goal of the night for him and his third point of the season.

Bridgewater never saw the lead again however, as the Icemen scored the game winner in the final minutes of the game and went on to a 4-2 victory.

The Icemen scored four goals in the third period and the score was 7-2 at the final buzzer.

They were the only team to score in overtime.

UConn took command early in the game scoring twice in the first period and went on to a 4-2 victory.

by Elaine Martry

We'll talk about it. After being asked about a week ago, I honestly thought some of us would return to school bored.

Mary had been running an average of 15 miles a day by the members of our women's winter team.

Karen Fleming and Kim Threadgold, who were both out earlier this season with a bad ankle, have been holding outdoor practice sessions under Karen's guidance.

The team is still working towards outdoor training and is making good progress.

The vaulting event was close as UConn outscored Bridgewater by three points, Ellie Francesconi was the highest scorer with a total of 4.2.

Liz DeVido scored a BSC record high of 5.07. Liz has been working hard all season and I'm sure we'll see that score rise even more.

Bridgewater showed tremendous effort in the meet totaling 30.45 points. Second and third place all-around gymnasts were UConn's Cindy Heneage and Nancy Fey.

The team would like to thank all those who assisted in setting up equipment and in the general running of the meet. Special thanks to Karen Peck, Don Marson, Maryann Peabody, Maryellen Carney and Rick Odess.

The meet was a tough loss for the team as it was their last home meet of the season.

The team's next home meets will be Feb. 17 and 19.

In 1963 Violence Subsided

By Peter Taylor

In 1962, the U.S. and Columbia signed a new joint declaration of the Thomas Clift Treaty, which had been signed in 1903. The treaty was revised in 1966. In the treaty, Columbia acknowledged the U.S. as a de facto power in the Caribbean and recognized the U.S. as the protector of Panamanian interests. The treaty also recognized the right of the Panamanian people to self-determination and the right of the Panamanian government to exercise control over the Panama Canal.

The treaty was signed on September 25, 1969, in the presence of President Kennedy and President Gabriel Omar Torres of Colombia. The treaty was ratified by both countries in 1970, and it was in effect until 1977.

In 1963, violence subsided, and in 1964, diplomatic activity increased. The United States and Colombia signed a new joint declaration of the Thomas Clift Treaty, which referred to rights and again increased the status quo until fourteen years after signing. The treaty was ratified by both countries in 1970, and it was in effect until 1977.
