It was written in big bold print on the face of every Bridgewater football player walking off Simmons Field Saturday afternoon. It was printed out, clear as could be, on the expression of Head Coach Pete Mazarratto after the game.

It was, well, BIG LIE.

How could a football game play-off against Framingham State College only two games into the New England Football Conference schedule? The critical. After dropping the first game of the season against Mass. Maritime, the Bears could afford to start off with a 20-0 loss, forget them in the unseasonably warm weekend weather, and score. The door opened on the 18 race for NEC championships.

So there was Framingham, the arch nemesis, closing in on the BSC goal line in the first quarter after an unsportsmanlike Bear tackle deep in their own territory. And there was the Bear defense, digging in against the 3-3. Their Bear defense but they had suffered on every single play that night between the exuberant BSC legions. And Framingham was to go for that field goal, and then, instead of a 7-7, the Bears won only a 1-0.

So there was Framingham, driving the ball across the 3-3 line and going for a fourth and goal. And there was the Bear line, digging in against the 1-0. And Framingham was to go for the field goal, and then, instead of a 7-7, the Bears won only a 1-0.

To The Undergraduate Editor:

Dear Editor,

During the past two years, President has tried to run several different types of meetings. I feel that these meetings are somewhat unnecessary. In order that we may continue to run this organization successfully, I believe that we should change the way we conduct meetings.

The students have told me, as a rule, that one of the biggest causes of their being late to meetings is the lack of time for change. Everyone has the right to be on time, and should use that right. A new approach is necessary.

Sincerely yours,

Michael Poulos

Change of registration

It has recently come to my attention that there is a strong faction on campus who discourage student registration from their hometowns to the town of Bridgewater. While I am not sure if this is true, it is a concern for this town one day and voting should be encouraged. I appreciate fill a lot of forms, and make many mistakes. This could be a viable solution to the problem of college students who fail to register to vote.

The residents of the town, starting from the top of a lecture, and down to the bottom, must be aware of the importance of voting. The government has developed a system to make it as easy as possible for students to vote. In order to vote, all that is necessary is the student's name, address, and date of birth.

The officials who run the town are responsible for making sure that the system works. They must ensure that the forms are clear and easy to understand. This is something that they can be held accountable for. If the forms are not clear, then the system will fail. If the system fails, then the residents of the town will be left without the ability to vote.

The residents of the town should also be aware of the importance of registering to vote. The system is only as good as the people who use it. If the residents do not use the system, then the system will fail. The system will fail if the residents do not use it.

I would like to encourage all students to register to vote. It is an important part of the political process. It is the responsibility of every citizen to vote in order to have a say in the government.

During the past two years, our organization has grown tremendously in numbers and in activities. Our main goal is to provide our members with the best educational experience possible. We believe that the best educational experience is one that includes the development of both intellectual and social skills.

We also plan on starting an Undergraduate Association activity called "The Gift of Reading." This will involve members participating in various reading activities, such as attending book fairs, visiting libraries, and participating in book clubs.

Since 1795 we've gathered our Blue Magueys for Cuervo Gold the gentle way. It's the old way. And still the best.

At Cuervo we know that there is only one way to make Cuervo Gold perfect. The way we've been doing it for more than 180 years. That's why people still nurture our fields of Blue Maguey plants. And why mules are still used to bring those precious plants to our distillery. For tradition is still the most important ingredient in Cuervo Gold.

This is what makes Cuervo Gold truly special. At Cuervo, with a splash of soda, in a perfect Sunrise or Margarita, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

The Bucs' second victory was won by Boston College and Becky White scoring the deciding goal. Junior varsity finished with a 4-0 win.

Tennis Unbeaten
The Bridgewater State College tennis team played and won their second and third matches of the season to improve their record to 8-2. Doug Maguire, the powerful second singles player on the BSC team, played against Fitchburg's third singles player and won.

The match with Fitchburg State also ended in a 6-3 victory for the BSC. Mildram, Bruce Ogilvie and Glenn Guenard were the only singles players to win in every match. Both team's and the Fitchburg Nahk's matches, but home court favoritism has been having a cold season. They will have a chance to win the last match for the team as a team.

The BSC's second victory was over Boston College, 6-2, and they were the defending girls' team. Junior varsity finished with a 6-0 season.

Toga! Toga! Toga!

by Doug Schen

"Toga Night" is a fairly exotic greek treat for college students of all ages. It is a fairly well-respected national magazine that is published every two weeks in the United States. The magazine takes place in an ancient setting and consists of a variety of activities, such as dancing, singing, and drinking.

However, the magazine is not without its detractors. Many argue that it is too commercialized and lacks the authenticity of a true ancient experience. Despite these criticisms, "Toga Night" remains a popular event on college campuses around the country.

BSC stops Framingham, 14-12

It was written in big bold print on the face of every Bridgewater football player walking off Stewart Field Saturday afternoon. It was scaled out, clear as could be, on the expression of Head Coach Pete Mazzeferro after the game.

norwich university's new football game against Framingham State College only two games into the New England Football Conference schedule! The critical. After dropping the first game of the season against the Arch Rival Massachusetts, the Bears could afford to start off with a 6-0 defeat, but in the unsanctioned league of the New England Football Conference, the door opened on the 17 game for the NEFC Champion.

So there was Framingham, the arch-rival, closing in on the BSC goal line in the third quarter after an inopportune Bears fumble deep in their own territory-and with Butkus, Armstrong, and Lacey all out of the lineup with injuries. And there was the Bear defense, digging in against the drive. The Bear defense has suffered an injury epidemic that night sapped the forces ofBSC, and Framingham had to go for the goal field and, instead of a 6-0 shutout, the Bears were only leading 7-0.

So there was Framingham, driving for the potential touchdown, for the go ahead score and it seemed, perhaps, that this was the back of the bad guys. And then there was Lacey. Fighting with a near toothless defense, Framingham tried to throw the ball into the arms of the side of the bad guys.

But there was Framingham, driving for the potential touchdown, for the go ahead score and it seemed, perhaps, that this was the back of the bad guys.

The victory was somewhat clouded by a messy fumble in the fourth quarter. Butkus stripped the ball from Framingham's quarterback, but it was ruled dead, no fumble, at the end of the half. The Bear defense, led by the Lacey's and Butkus, dug in for a possible touchdown return. The Bears were not hurt by Framingham's second half fumbles, and the Bears came away with the win.

On their way to the Great Hill Parking Lot, many students pass by the sports office building where the bridgeport state college basketball team is located. The basketball team is currently in the process of deciding on a new location for their home games. This decision comes as the team's previous location, the Watertown Armory, is no longer available for use. The basketball team is currently considering several options for their new home, including a nearby high school and a community center. The team's final decision is expected to be announced in the coming weeks.

The new location for the basketball team will not only impact the team's games, but also the school's overall athletic program. The basketball team is one of the most successful teams at the university, and the move to a new location has the potential to bring new fans and supporters to the team. The team is currently working with the university administration to ensure that the new location meets the team's needs and is accessible to fans and supporters.

The basketball team is also considering the impact of their move on the university's overall athletic program. The basketball team is one of several teams at the university, and the move to a new location may have implications for other teams and programs. The university is currently working with the athletic department to ensure that the new location is accessible to all teams and programs.
