BSC Students Denied Minimum Wage

by Jean M. St. Andre

Bridgewater State College has denied a $2.65-per-hour raise to student workers, including those at the Food Service, Concessionaire, and Cafeteria.

The raise was recommended by the Board of Trustees in May 1978, but was not approved by the full Board by the Trustees' meeting in November 1978.

The raise was supported by the student view of the lack of the minimum wage. Dr. Eugene Morwick, Dr. Veno, Ed Gorman, and Dr. Owen MacGowan, stated that those titles will not have to be created through the student view of the lack of the minimum wage.

The raise was rejected by the Board of Trustees in May 1978.

Commentary:

Whose Union is it?

by Michael S. Barboza and Victoria L. Sniezka

When a few concerned students at Bridgewater State College took an interest in the running of the administration, several departments and activities became almost instantly aware of what was happening. In the past, we have been told that the administration, budgets for the SU without knowledge of past budgets or line item other BOG members. They are nominated by a BOG committee which is answerable to President Tisdale, who heads the college and is responsible to the Board of Governors, the BOG. The BOG consists of sixteen students, six faculty members, one alumnus, and the Director of Admissions. The BOG has seven subcommittees which are answerable to the SU. A student interested in running for the SU must locate a member of the SU to sponsor him. Many of the students who are members of the groups allowed to function, and do the students carry’ the students, and who probably do not set foot around BSC more than half-a-dozen times a year. By the way, the office of the Board of Trustees is not answerable to others, but why call it a Student Union when the students have so little to do with its functioning?

One paradox arising from this situation is the figure-head Budgeting Committee. The BOG is merely a "recommendation" to the Director (and to the President, who is a member of the BOG) and has very little real control over the Union. The Director has not been given the proper control over what is happening. The question is: to what extent are the student activities and boards which were created in order to allow students to participate in the college's business. How are the activities are going to be handled, and are they going to be handled properly? The students have not been given the proper control over what is happening.

As it stands, the rough draft of the yearly budget, approved by Budgeting and Purchasing, is adhered to for the year, and the SU is only evaluated and modified by the Director. Few people know the progress made or the problems faced. The SU is not set up to function properly. The Khabra, in the December issue, in my opinion, has done a good job of explaining the problems faced. The SU is not set up to function properly. Whose Union is it?

by Michael S. Beekman and Victoria J. Smolak

When a few students at Bridgewater State College take an interest in the meetings of the administration, they usually are motivated by a desire to change policies, not to support the students' union. This is especially true when the policies under discussion are those of the Student Union or Student Government. As a result, the students who come forward to voice their opinions are likely to be those who are already actively engaged in student life.

There is a perspective that certain students do not have the experience or the skills necessary to represent the interests of their peers. This is an argument that has been frequently made. However, it is not based on a thorough understanding of the nature of the Union's work.

For example, the Union is responsible for organizing and running the week of activities known as Student Union Week. These activities are designed to build student support for the Union and to educate students about the benefits of being a member. They are also intended to provide an opportunity for students to express their ideas and concerns.

The Union also has a variety of committees that work on specific issues. These committees are made up of students from all classes and majors, and they work together to develop policy recommendations that are then presented to the Union membership for approval.

The Union also has a variety of resources available to students. These include the Union store, which sells a variety of items at reasonable prices, and the Union lounge, which provides a space for students to study and socialize.

In conclusion, the Union is an important part of student life at Bridgewater State College. It is a place where students can express their ideas and concerns, and where they can find support and resources. It is a place where students can learn about the importance of participating in their own education and in their own communities.

Since 1975 we've welcomed our guests with our best. A traditional taste of Cuervo Gold.

Visitors to Cuervo have always been greeted in a special way. They're met at the gates and invited inside to experience the unique taste of Cuervo Gold. This is the way we've said "welcome" for more than 100 years. And it is as traditional as our name itself.

For this dedication to tradition is what makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Next, on the rocks, with a splash of soda--perfection. Savor Cuervo or Margarita, Cuervo Gold is the Gold standard since 1975.

Icemen Top Army

By Carolene Ribben

Bridgewater's senior skater to the halfway point of the 1977-78 season scoring only two goals in his previous 25 outings. The NHL draft is only days away, and Ribben, who is a sophomore, will be making his decision soon. Ribben's recent scoring spurt could have an impact on his NHL decision, as well as a boost to his confidence for the remainder of the season.

In both goals, Bridgewater showed strong improvement from the first period. Jon Kimble scored in the first period to give the Icemen a 2-0 lead, and Ribben added another in the third period for the final score of 6-2. Ribben's scoring had been limited in recent games, but his recent performance has given him confidence for the remainder of the season.
