Icemens Destroy Boston Sports

by Charles Riddle

Boston's professional sports teams have been knocked around a lot this year. But who's the present fighting? Well, the Red Sox are the heaviest hitter on the block. But Boston's most successful franchise is the General Motors Buick Blue Line. As of this writing, the Blue Line has scored 5-0 in their last five games. The team is led by center Ken West, who has scored 20 goals and 25 assists in 29 games. The Blue Line is currently in first place in their division, and they are only two points behind the championship.

Bridgewater State College is taking steps to reduce the rate of pay phone abuse on campus. The college has recently installed new pay station telephones that are designed to make it more difficult for people to abuse the system. The new pay stations feature a series of interlocking mechanisms that prevent people from making multiple calls without paying the appropriate fees. The college has also increased the number of pay phones on campus to help reduce the number of people who are able to abuse the system.

Beginning the week, The Comment will feature a series of editorials in BSC's Center for Justice. The center's maiden effort will be to publish a series of editorials to the widespread problem of abuse and misuse of college campuses. Each year, a number of students are abused and mishandled, often by those in authority or in positions of power. In this weekly column, students will be invited to write about their own experiences, as well as those of others. The goal is to raise awareness and provide a platform for change.

Letters to the Editor

Destructive Values in the Student Union

Articles in last week's Comment have raised interesting questions about the nature of our transportation system. The editorial in question discusses the need for an efficient and reliable system, and raises concerns about the current system's ability to meet these needs.

The article is well-written, and provides a balanced view of the issue. However, I would like to see more discussion of the potential solutions. It is clear that a new system is needed, but what kind of system will work best for our community?

Thank you for publishing this article, and for allowing me to share my thoughts on the topic.

Sincerely,

Destructive Values in the Student Union

Dear Ms. Clachan [on],

As a sophomore, I recently realized how important it is to make a difference in the lives of others. This semester, I decided to volunteer at the local homeless shelter. Although it was challenging, I found the experience incredibly rewarding. The shelter provides a place for people to come together and receive support. I believe it's important to give back to our community and make a positive impact.

Sincerely,

Vandalism is Costly

Despite periodic efforts to control vandalism, the costs have added up. According to the law, the actions of individuals who are deemed to have "malicious mischief" are a misdemeanor. If a book is badly damaged or destroyed, it may be charged to the student for replacement. Only one-third of the replacements are made, resulting in a loss of $500.00 and a heavy cost for the library.

The committee has already begun to review previous forms and will continue to do so until the deadlines.

Energy Grant

[Cost of $11,000 added]

Most students, many who are not even in class, are not sure what grants are or how they can be applied for. The administrators of the grant program hope to clarify this issue by providing information about the program. The administrators also hope to encourage students to take advantage of these valuable opportunities.

Don't Leave Your Friends in the Dark

During a recent survey of the campus, students were asked how many friends they had. The results were surprising. Seventy percent of the students surveyed said they had no friends. The administrators hope to address this issue by offering support and resources to students.
