Clyde Vining, former professor of English and executive director of the Alumni Association here at Bridgewater State College, died Sunday March 19, 1980, at 9:00 pm. He was 63 years old. Vining was born in Monticello, Minn. The graduate of Harvard High School in 1925 and the University of Minnesota in 1928, Vining completed his graduate work at Harvard in 1930. He received his Ph.D. in English Literature from Harvard in 1935. He served as librarian at the University of Minnesota from 1930 to 1935 and as assistant professor of library science and in 1936 was promoted to associate professor. Vining became Eames Association Professor of English at Bridgewater in 1937 when he was named executive director of the Alumni Association here at Bridgewater. He was awarded the Quincentennial Award of Alumni Service in 1975.

Vining was a member of the Central New England Chapter of the Alumni Association here at Bridgewater. He headed the Alumni Association here in the past and was a member of the Women's Guild and treasurer of the Bridgewater Alumni Association.

Off-Campus Woes

Dear Editor,

I am writing to bring to your attention the housing situation on our campus. It is extremely frustrating to see how difficult it is to find a place to live during the college year. Every student who goes through the housing process at the beginning of the year is aware of the challenge. However, it seems that the situation is not improving. The shortage of housing has led to an increase in rent, and this is putting a financial strain on many students.

There has been a noticeable increase in the number of off-campus housing options over the past few years. However, the quality of these options is often questionable. The lack of proper facilities and the safety concerns that arise are significant. It is essential that we address this issue and work towards finding a solution.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

[Student's Name]
The Slavic Studies Club with the Art Dept. invites all of you to participate in a European Christian folk art event. There will be accordion folk music and materials available for 10 eager participants. Our popular artist-teacher will again give the lecture-demonstration.

The hours this first semester are as follows: Mondays, Fridays—9:00-9:50, and Tuesdays, 10:00-10:50. Classes/conferences begin on the hour and finish ten minutes before the hour.

In addition to your other academic responsibilities, we want to meet all your needs—social, physical, emotional as well as academic.

To sign up for interviews and for additional information on all of these, contact the Career Planning and Placement Office.

We do have a few more spaces available for Russian styles, or blown out for others. There will be eggs and milk available for nutritional refreshments. Our Social worker and instructor, Louis McDonald, from Metropolit, will also be available for any and all questions. Thank you for your help.

Students Union Demonstration Room, the Social Action Club will have a presentation on "The U.S. and the Third World" on Wednesday, April 9, from 11-1 in front of the bookstore. If you have only a limited number of openings left on May 22 and June 5th. If you have any other questions please come to the Student Union Building. All those interested should see Ms. Smith in the Student Union's Office. She will take care of all your requests.

Why Not the Best?

Last November, I found myself in Quincy Market Center in Boston, just a few blocks from the State House, when I realized that I had to get there. I was on my way from Portland, Maine, and I was feeling very confident. I had just attended a conference in Washington, D.C., and I was feeling very excited. I had just given a speech to a group of students about the importance of voting, and I was feeling very optimistic. I had just been appointed to the Boston City Council, and I was feeling very proud. I had just been appointed to the Boston City Council, and I was feeling very proud.

It was a very exciting time, and I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council. I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council. I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council. I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council. I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council. I was looking forward to the next meeting of the Council.

As I walked through the doors of the City Hall, I saw my friends and colleagues, and I felt very welcome. I was greeted by the Mayor, who shook my hand and said, "Welcome, Mr. President. You are heading towards the BSC Center for Women and Employment, the non-profit organization that provides employment resources and career development services to women."

"Thank you, Mr. Mayor," I replied, "I am honored to be here."

"And you are welcome," he said, "I hope you have a wonderful time."

There is no reason for the multiple college campuses. This program was away from the very core of the idea. The problem is not the education of the student; it is the practical use of the student. The problem is not the financing of the student; it is the cost of the student. The solution is not the expansion of the student; it is the reduction of the student.

The student has the problem of being a part of the society, of being a part of the culture, of being a part of the world. The society has the problem of being a part of the student, of being a part of the culture, of being a part of the world.

The student's problem is the society's problem, the culture's problem, the world's problem. The society's problem is the student's problem, the culture's problem, the world's problem.

Mass PIRG Answered

There is no problem on the major college campuses. This problem grows more serious as you go down to the local level of the university. The concern is the attitude of the management to the students. There are two things that the students need to do. The first is to research the college and the management. The second is to know your rights as a student and take advantage of them.

In the April 3, 1980 issue of The Comment, there was an error in the opening line of the Classifieds section. It should have read: "Classifieds are free for all students, faculty, staff and administration of BSC."
Women's Track

The Bridgewomen's Women's Track team faced Rhode Island College on Saturday and came away highly with their team of 9 total wins over 10 losses. Coach John Lowery's team finished on top with 115 points, while the RIC Blue Hawks had 11.3 points.

Men's Swimming

The BSC men's team traveled to Williams College on Saturday and won the meet with 115 points. The BSC Swimming Association competed against Bard College on March 29th, and although the meet failed to score points, several fine performances were recorded. Bob Billings, a BSC sophomore, swam both 100 and 200 yard butterfly with a time of 28.8 and 57.6, respectively. Also, freshman Sandy mulher won the 50 and 100 yard freestyle with times of 25.1 and 55.8, respectively. Another strong performance was recorded by freshman Steve Garvey in the 400 yard individual medley, swimming 4:35.66 for 400 yards. Claude Mitchell, who raced both the 50 and 100 yard butterfly, put up a time of 44.8 and 56.8, respectively.

SPRING SEASON BEGINS FOR EQUESTRIANS

Spring season begins for the Equestrian Team at Browning. The team will face Bridgewater State College tomorrow, which is one of the many teams that Bridgewater has battled against. The game will be held in the Big Horse Facility, which is located on the campus of the Bridgewater State College. The team will concentrate on the opportunity of working closely with many wonderful people.

Students and faculty from B.S.C.'s Physical Education department attended the annual convention of the Massachusetts Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation on March 27th and 28th. The purpose of the MAHPER convention, which was held at Duxbury's Hyannis Hotel, was to invite professionals in the fields of health, physical education and recreation to share with each other, the most up to date ideas, concerns and issues dealing with their profession. There were over one thousand in attendance, with students and faculty coming from all over the Massachusetts area.

Booths were exhibited by SSC's Physical Education Department and the Children's Physical Development Clinic. Slides were shown, literature displayed, and questions asked of BSC students by many people throughout the state who visited the booths.

Many students and faculty from BSC attended and presented at the convention this year. Professor Otto and Sins along with a number of BSC students spoke on the subject of "Cardiovascular Health Assessment". Sam Baumgarten, of BSC's campus school, spoke on the subject of "Elementary School Educational Gymnastics". Many other members of BSC's faculty and students were also present. Dr. Johanne Smith is the newly elected president for the 1980-81 year of the Mass. Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Michelle Harris, a student, was also present. The spring convention for BSC, was attended by the student representative for the Eastern District Association. Another BSC student was the newly named president of the Student Section.

"It was most gratifying to see the many students and faculty involved in the State Convention program this year," BSC's Dr. Johanne Smith said. "Our Department Chairman, our faculty and students have been identified by many in the state as leaders in the field of Health, Physical Education and Recreation," she continued. "I feel most fortunate and blessed in having the opportunity of working closely with so many wonderful people."
