Women's Lacrosse

The Bridgewater State women's lacrosse team won their revenge on Pine Manor College after losing to them 15-5. The win avenged last year's loss to Pine Manor.

The match started off with an aggressive offense and defense from both teams. The Bridgewater attacking team of 2 was able to get 6 goals. Penelope Johnson and her sisiter Laurie O'Connell lead the Bridgewater offensive with 6 goals, while Penelope was chpped on goals from the center of attention.

The Bridgewater men's lacrosse team started off the season by winning their first 2 games against Boston College and Boston University. There was no less the to the Bridgewater lacrosse squad, as they scored a commanding 11-3 victory over Pine Manor.

The Bridgewater lacrosse team played an aggressive offense game and defense, which led to a successful victory over Pine Manor. The Bridgewater men's lacrosse team proved to be a formidable force in the field.

Dear Stuart,

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to formally address you as the student body for my candidacy for the position of President of the B.S.C. Student Government Association. It is a great deal of thought and consideration that went into this decision. As students at Bridgewater State College, you deserve from your President a candidate for this position, and I believe that this year’s elections will be one that is neither a stranger to most of you. As students at Bridgewater State College, you deserve from our President dedication, quick action, and responsibility in their terms.

As President of the Student Government Association, I will have served two years as President of the S.G.A. and as a member of the State College’s Board of Trustees. I have served as a member of the State College’s Board of Trustees for two successive terms and have been actively involved in the planning of the Spring Festival. As a member of the S.G.A., I have been responsible for organizing several events as well as individual student activities.

I believe my experience qualifies me to lead the S.G.A. President, I believe this type of leadership is necessary for the Student Government Association to remain effective and active in the campus community. I believe that in my experience I have been able to handle the responsibilities that have been placed upon me. I have been working for the betterment of the S.G.A. and the Bridgewater State College community for many years, and I would like to continue my service to the community in this capacity.

My goal is to make the S.G.A. a more effective and active organization. I believe that the S.G.A. is capable of being a more effective and active organization, and I will work towards making this a reality. I believe that the S.G.A. can be a more effective and active organization, and I will work towards making this a reality. I believe that the S.G.A. can be a more effective and active organization, and I will work towards making this a reality. I believe that the S.G.A. can be a more effective and active organization, and I will work towards making this a reality.
Vandalism Here?

By Barbara Glatten

Vandalism - destruction for the sake of destruction is rampant in our fair campus. Whether the culprit is a student or someone unknown is unknown. The causes and the persons involved are unclear. A clear property is not safe on this campus.

Last Saturday evening, a vehicle, property parked behind Kelly Gym was vandalized, affectionately damaged. The owner's name is not known. The car is not carrying vandal insurance, though it should be. Her cost for parking may amount to several hundred dollars.

Chief of the Campus Police was unable to comment on specific cases. The officer investigating had not yet filed an incident report. All activities of this nature are handled through the police force, not the Campus Police.

The message from the owner of the car was clearly stated. "DO NOT leave a note of any kind, over night, it is not safe."

-Hum Ambassadors, CA

Time is slowly coming to an end. We have been good times and bad, but I'll always remember the joys we had. Love always, MB, C.O.D. E.T.

Fellow Students, please keep this in mind. If you know of any vandalism, please report it to the appropriate authorities. And let's try to have a good spring semester. Thanks. -B. G.

Spring is Here

by David Kulcher

Spring is finally here. I know people say that all the time, but it's really true this year. Namely, my weekends have been free of class and work. Actually, I'm pleased that America's Spring finally took off. It has brought about the greatest surge of Pithy flowers since the last millennium. The college community, benefiting most from these events, has approached these closings of the past 80-foot calendar with a great deal of energy. It is a rare event when the professors, especially area instructors, get up for their last class at the college, return to their classrooms, open their doors, and then close them. However, Tom Wilt once pointed out, "Don't let this fool you, this is going to be a great one!

Some women have been busier planning and conducting events in order to conduct some events which they hope are going to be popular. In addition, some people have started thinking about what they would like to do after the weather gets nice.

It's a good time to plan some events for the weekend. Some events include jazz concerts, outdoor activities, and more. Things are always popular in the spring, so don't be afraid to try something new. It's a great time to get out and enjoy the weather.

Thanks to everyone who has contributed to the success of these events. We hope you all enjoy the rest of the spring season.

Monty Python's The Meaning Of Life
Produced by John Goldstone
Directed by Terry Jones
Written by Graham Chapman, John Cleese, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, Terry Jones, and Michael Palin.
Rated R.

By Jeffrey Linenheim and Beth White

If Jonathan Swift were alive today, he would surely be the editor of the British satirical magazine "Monty Python's Flying Circus," known for its classic comedy sketches. Swift's best-known work, "Gulliver's Travels," has been parodied in Python's "A Proposal in Two Books."

Monty Python's "A Proposal in Two Books" is an attempt to satirize the religious and political establishments of the day. The proposal, a parody of a typical 18th-century essay, is presented as a serious and earnest piece of academic work. The "essay" takes the form of a dialogue between two characters, with Swift's usual wit and irony.

Monty Python’s The Meaning Of Life

Produced by John Goldstone

Rated R.

By Jeffrey Lineham and Beth White

If Jonathan Swift were alive today, he would surely be a member of the British satirical comedy troupe Monty Python’s Flying Circus. Their classic comedy skits can be compared in many ways to Monty Python’s newest movie, The Meaning Of Life. Both use grotesque and outrageous means to mock political, social, and religious systems, thereby making a profound statement about the world we live in. The Meaning Of Life is definitely one unholy movie in that it holds nothing sacred. The satiric aspects of the film include grapes to crypt are handled as gently as an egg in a basket.

Childbirth is no longer a simple process; the Python’s show it as a technological nightmare full of unnecessary equipment and a machine that contains the baby. The baby is lost when it is born.

When reporters and hospital administrators burst into the O.R. to observe the mother in labor, the father is asked to leave because “no one who is not directly involved in childbirth is allowed in the room.”

In one of the funniest scenes, the ritual and tradition of the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches are also examined. Having just been layed off, a devoted Roman Catholic mill worker (Michael Palin) goes home to his wife and literally hundreds of children with some bad news: he can no longer support his family, so the kids must be sold for scientific research. Sadly, the child found list of overcrowded and poverty-stricken houses with a spectacularly dull routine is performed by street and room. Every scream is great! If a sperm is wasted, God gets quite irate). The Protestant neighbor observes the whole event in disgust: “those damn Roman Catholics, everything they have sex they have to get pregnant.” In the end, we see the mill worker getting his old job back.

The film has its share of gags, each one of which is cleverly designed. The final gag involves the baby being born with a knob on its head. The baby is then given to the mill worker as a keepsake.

The film is a satirical look at the religious and political systems of the world, and it is a loving parody of the Python’s previous work. The Meaning Of Life is a must-see for anyone who enjoys the Python’s brand of humor.”

Controversy: Classified Jokes Now Made Public!

Welcome to “Heritage Jokes.” In the history of The Comment’s existence there have been many jokes and some that are still around. These little motto jokes have been listed in the contents of the Maxwell Library. Ralph the Kid and a few other people compiled the jokes. This has been the best way of preserving these jokes. The public has been denied of these jokes for too long,” explained Ralph the Kid at a recent press conference. “The time for action is now! Let the dust be cleaned!”

So sit back, relax, and don’t fall asleep! We begin with the opening verses. The year is 1928. Ralph the Kid is ten, and Ralph the Grandpa is in charge.

What sort of ass is a window seat? When you eat a square meal, do you mean square? Does anything break when Nagas Falas? Is a newspaper white when it’s red? Are there comfortable springs in the woman’s bed?

The following joke is from George H. Dargis, Head of Mathematics Department.

“What were the old gentleman’s last words?”

The joke: “He said, ‘What a stupid cow you’d be trying to sell me.’”

January 1934

The following is from S. Elisabeth Pope, Dean of Women in response to Mr. Dargis joke.

“Few successful men are bashful. It is well-known that a historian does not run the best unless there’s something to base it in.”

March 1934

The following joke is from John J. Kelly, Dean of Men.

A farmer sent his son to college. After a while the son received a letter from the son, saying that he enjoyed college life and had the pleasure of meeting many college people. The meaning of the “college people” puzzled the farmer’s neighbor, who had graduated from college the year before, as to the meaning of the term. The latter replied, “As far as I am concerned, it was a four year load on his father’s duffle.”
New England's Role in Global Conservation

New England's role in global conservation will be one of the topics addressed at the Symposium on Whales, Sea Turtles, Coral Reefs, and Other Marine Resources sponsored by the World Wildlife Fund U.S. on April 13. The symposium is part of a week-long program designed to increase public awareness of the international implications of marine conservation.

Six B.S.C. students will be featured in the Encore Players' up-coming production of Pippin. This new Rockland Community Theatre will present Pippin on April 22 and 23 at 8:00 p.m. in the Rockland High School Auditorium, Union St. Rockland. The adaptation of the musical Pippin by Stephen Schwartz and James Goldman is written and directed by Rauli Morin, last year's Encore Player, who now is a student at the Studio 44 School of Performing Arts in New York City.

The premiere of this new musical piece is one of the many things that will be celebrated at the Rockland Community Theatre's first annual spring benefit: "It's the Sixties," at the Rockland Community Theatre on April 8 at 8 p.m. The benefit will be arranged to raise funds for the new Rockland Community Theatre and to bring attention to the new production of Pippin.

The benefit features four Rockland Community Theatre productions: a 1960s-60s rock band, The Shittons; a 1960s skits with the Slap Dash Players; a 1960s-70s folk medley with the Harmony Singers; and a 1960s rock concert

New courses will be offered this fall at BSC.

Women's Studies to be offered this fall

By Liz Bonagura

The Student Senate unanimously approved a proposal to offer Women's Studies classes this fall. The classes will be offered through the Departments of English, History, and Psychology. The classes will be taught by faculty members from each of these departments. The classes will offer a variety of topics, including women's history, women's literature, and women's studies. The classes will be open to all students, regardless of gender.

The classes will meet on a weekly basis, and will be held in the evening. The classes will last for one semester, and will be worth 3 credits each. The classes will be taught by faculty members from each of the departments involved. The classes will be open to all students, regardless of gender.

New England's Role in Global Conservation

The need to enhance public understanding of the human contribution to global environmental crisis is too obvious to require detail. Indeed, the disturbing reality is that time is running out on New England's vast and unique marine resources. There is an immediate need to raise consciousness about the conservation of New England's marine resources.

The PIRG (Public Interest Research Group) chapter of Massachusetts is well aware of the importance of marine conservation and is working hard to raise awareness of the issues. The chapter has been working on several initiatives to educate the public about the importance of marine conservation, including raising funds to support marine conservation research and awareness campaigns.

New England is famous for its beautiful coastal regions and its rich marine life. However, the region is facing a number of challenges to its marine resources. Overfishing, pollution, and climate change are just a few of the issues that are threatening the survival of New England's marine ecosystem.

PIRG chapter members are committed to working towards a future where New England's marine resources are protected and preserved. They are encouraging their communities to take action by supporting local conservation efforts and advocating for policies that protect our oceans.

For more information on how you can get involved in marine conservation efforts in New England, please visit the PIRG chapter's website or contact them directly. Together, we can make a difference in protecting New England's marine resources for future generations.

Art Show

The Bridgewater Public Library is sponsoring its Sixth Annual Area Art Show during the month of April. Twenty-three members of the library's Art Advisory Committee have suggested that the show be sponsored by the Bridgewater Historical Society.

Other artists participating in this annual event are Debra Campbell of Manchester, Judie Neild, Mary O'Brien, Elaine Cribben, Catherine Z. Coleman of Newton, Leslie Seven, and Monica Querzoli of Methuen.

The public is invited to view this exhibit in the Flora T. Little Library during the month of April and will have a favorite entry. A special ribbon will be awarded to the painting chosen "most popular" by the public.

At an art reception on Tuesday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m., ribbons and prizes will be awarded and an open forum will cordially invite the next artist for this exhibition.

Vonnegut Addresses Sellout Crowd

By Robert Flynn and Brett Peruzi

The highly acclaimed writer Kurt Vonnegut spoke last night before a full house in the Student Union Ballroom. Vonnegut, known for such popular and award-winning novels as Slaughterhouse Five,ables the campus to laugh and learn.

Vonnegut was also open to the idea of working with the university to create a new course that could help students develop their skills in writing. "I think we could do something really interesting," he said. "I've been interested in teaching at the university for a long time," he added. "I would love to be able to work with the students and help them develop their skills in writing."}

Vonnegut: An Interview With The Author

By Brett Peruzi

BSC radio station BWIM will interview author Kurt Vonnegut on Tuesday, April 18, 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Demonstration Room. The event is being held to recruit candidates for SGA President and Student Trustee.

Library Computing Holdings

By Brett Peruzi

The next time you're looking for a book or trying to retrieve information from the library, you might want to check out the library's online catalog. The library has acquired new online databases and computerized catalog systems that allow patrons to search for books, audiovisual materials, and other resources. The catalog can be accessed through the library's website or by visiting the library in person. The online catalog allows patrons to search for books by title, author, or subject, and provides information about the availability and location of library holdings. In addition, the catalog allows patrons to place holds on books that are currently checked out and to receive notifications when the books become available. This resource is available to all library patrons, regardless of their membership status.
