Phys — Ed Chair Resigns

“Claims administration incompetence”

By Robert Franz

The chairman of the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department, Dr. Edward A. Braun, has tendered his letter of resignation as chairman, citing, “The Vice President of Student Services (David P. Deep) has failed to honor any of the commitments in the restructuring of the newly established department.” Braun states he was “manipulated by the administration” to create the new department and “corroborate maneuvers (by the administration) to impose an authoritarian relationship that has gobbled two natural allies — Athletics Department and the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department — into mutually exclusive camps.”

David P. Deep denies Braun’s charges, adding, “Dr. Braun’s resignation was not unexpected and was anticipated by the Board of Trustees for at least two weeks.”

President Adrian Rondileau also commented on Braun’s resignation, calling the situation “an unfortunate misunderstanding” and that past administration decisions had been made in accord with what is “travestied in administrative acronyms over the country and what has worked well in some.” Rondileau maintains, “It is premature to evaluate the effectiveness of the Athletic Department until it has had a change to function.”

Commuter Group Forms

By Margaret Fishery

Wednesday September 21st marked the first meeting of BSD’s newest student organization, The Off Campus and Commuter Student Alliance. The Alliance was established by Peter Hartall, the newly appointed advisor to commuter students and Bill Street, the chairman of The Friends of Bridgewater.

The Alliance’s purpose as stated by Hartall is “to overcome the fragmentation of BSD’s 3000 commuters and to represent the unified needs of those students.”

Three aims were presented to those who completed a survey which members who attended the first meeting. The problems aired at the meeting fell into two categories: parking problems and inadequate information service to commuting students.

South Brooks pointed out that while 98% of all students said accessibility of the commuter parking lot was a major problem, only 80% of commuter students use the public service, partially because it is not available.

Brooks and Hartall hope that calling OCSA will provide a central information location accessible to all commuters. This unification could also hopefully lead to increased communication with the commuter parking lot.

Three Cheers

Dear Editor,

Three cheers for Jeannie Pantanella and her artic­le that appeared in your recent issue of the Bridgewater "Student Government," who has written an enlightening article entitled "Our Student Government: Who Are We?" Thank you! Jeannie's article reminded me of a fun way to think about the outcome of the SGA elections at this time. I was concerned that many students and SGA candidates did not know about the SGA elections or who was running for the various positions. In this way, I thought about the role of the Student Government in the hands of people who are ignorant of their responsibilities.

Sincerely,
Debra A. Denisowy

Three positions are available for the 1983-84 academic year. Interested students should fill out an information sheet at the SGA office, on the third floor of the Student Union.

Three Cheers

Dear Editor

Three cheers for Jeanine Petronella and her article entitled "Run for Student Government Now!" These are the true words of a student who is currently serving in the Student Government Association. I am not sure what the SGA does, but the students who are actually in the SGA have no time to do anything else.

I hope that the class of '87 will vote for me so that I can make the right decisions for our class. I am a Business Editor for The Comment, and I am interested in student government.

Sincerely,
Debra A. Dennehy

After Flight School

By David R. McAtee

Everyone involved in aviation these days has heard a story or two regarding some pilots to have minimum of 50 hours in the West Indies. This general story is repeated with increasing frequency.

"By the way, this is a step up the ladder for you. You can acquire thousands of hours out of those very same aircraft that aren't very well known. You know, you're talking about an airplane that has a nose that looks, man, it's like a toy out of work. This has been my training and it's been the joy of my life to teach others the basic principles of flying. It's all about learning how to fly."

"You can drop out of any course you want."

"The important thing is that you get the right seat in the cockpit."

"You can be flying the right seat or the left seat, but you have to be prepared for anything."

Everyone involved in aviation these days has a story or two about surviving the flight school. One of the more fortunate individuals who just completed his flight school recently was a member of the United States military and was overjoyed when he was finally able to train in the West Indies. This general was a professional pilot and was delighted with the amount of flying he was able to do.

There is a reason for this, I tell myself. If I truly live in a colorless world, then purchasing books seemed to have been the only escape. Business, my body seems to have remained in the same state for two days, and then I had written letters to every person I ever promised to write to before. I recall that my wife was visiting friends with the person in question. I'm not sure if I've written "War and Peace" or "Hamlet."

There's not much else to do anymore. I turn in letters to my old friends, which states that we do not live in the same city, but I must do it. This theory holds that since there is no order there can be no consistency and without consistency there can be no "REASON" for absolutely anything. It's a thoroughly depressing theory, I fear and explain this concept to my new friend. Somehow, I don't think I'm only consumately by the grace of God, and that anything. There's not much else to do. The Wiz Is Overwhelming

By Scott Esau

BOSTON—The Wiz dessert opera was a success, despite the formidable task of turning the legendary musical on Broadway that has left audiences hollering for their seats. The show was a great success, and the audience responded enthusiastically to the music, dance, and special effects.

The show opened to a packed house, and the audience was rapt with excitement. The music, performed by a world-class orchestra, was marvelous, and the dance routines were stunning. The special effects, including a giant, inflatable balloon that lifted the characters into the air, were also a highlight.

The cast, led by a cast of seasoned performers, was magnificent. The lead role of Dorothy was played by a veteran actress, and the role of the Scarecrow was taken by a well-known actor. The performances were excellent, and the audience was left in awe.

The chairman of the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department, Dr. Edward A. Braun, has tendered his letter of resignation as chairman, citing, "The Vice President of Student Services (David P. Deep) has failed to honor any of his promises made in restructuring the newly established department. Braun states he was "manipulated by the administration" to create the new department and "corroborative maneuvers (by the administration) to impose an authoritarian relationship has cleared two natural allies (Athletic Department and the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department) into mutually exclusive camps."

David P. Deep denies Braun's charges adding, "Dr. Braun was more than willing to be a part of the administration. I met with him at his request and told him I was committed to the integrity of the situation as a whole."

President Adrian Rondielle also commented on Braun's resignation, calling the situation "an unfortunate misunderstanding" and that past administration decisions have been made in accordance with what is "transient in athletic administration over the country and what has worked well consistently. Rondielle maintains, "It is premature to evaluate the effectiveness of the Athletic Department until it has had a chance to function."

COMMUTER GROUP FORMS

By Margaret Fisher

Wednesday September 21st marked the first meeting of B.D.S. newest student organization: The Off Campus and Commuter Student Alliance. At the meeting, Peter Hartfiel, the newly appointed advisor to off campus and commuter students and Bill Street, the chairman of The Friends of Bridgewater.

The organization's purpose as stated by Hartfiel is to overcome the fragmentation of B.S.C.'s 3000 commuter students and to represent the unified needs of those students.

These aims were presented to a dozen or so commuter members who attended the first meeting. The problems aired at the meeting fall into two categories: parking problems and inadequate dissemination of information suitable to commuting students.

The commuter group personnel said that while 90% of all students are entitled to it, off campus students use 90% of the 2700 parking spaces, partially because commuters simply do not know that the services exist. B.D.S. and Hartfiel hope that OCASA can provide a central information location accessible to all commuters. This realization could also hopefully lead to increased communication with the commuter group.

TOOLS AGE CONFIRMED

By Madge R. Payne

Last spring, a prehistoric tool-making site was discovered on campus by Dr. Cur- "tiss Hoffman's Public Archeology class. An age of 3000 to 4000 years has been confirmed for one of the artifacts. It is believed to be a village site for hunting. Prehistoric sites on the campus threatened to destroy the sites. However, further investigation showed that what remains of the site is well out of the area of construction. The need for immediate excavation no longer exists and work on the site has been postponed.
