Acid Rain To Stop?

By Bonnie Bowden

Legislation is presently being considered in the Massachusetts legislature to limit the emission of sulfur dioxide from industrial sources. This legislation would be a significant step in reversing the trend of acid rain in New England, as the state has already experienced some of the effects of this problem.

The campaign against acid rain received a boost last week when the Massachusetts Senate voted 32-3 to pass a bill setting limits on the emission of sulfurous gases. The bill, which is expected to pass the House of Representatives, would require industries to reduce their emissions of sulfur dioxide by 50% by 1987.

The legislation is significant because it would mark the first time that the state has attempted to address the problem of acid rain. The state has been dealing with the effects of acid rain for several years, and the legislation is expected to help to reduce those effects.

The legislation is also important because it shows that the state is committed to protecting the environment. The state has been criticized in the past for not doing enough to address environmental concerns, and the legislation is a step in the right direction.

The legislation is expected to pass the House of Representatives and be signed into law by the governor. The legislation is also expected to be supported by businesses and citizens, who have been concerned about the effects of acid rain for many years.

The legislation is expected to be a key component of the state's efforts to protect the environment. The state has been working on a number of initiatives to address environmental concerns, and the legislation is expected to be a significant step in that direction.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regards to the SAT (Brockton Area Transit) to be held this February 14th at Brockton High School. It is claimed that this bus service will help alleviate the parking problem here. Every student in this class will be charged $10.00 per semester and every half student will be charged $5.00. I am sure it is totally unnecessary for every student for something which most of us cannot even use. I do not live in the area in which SAT will be held and I am not paying for something that I do not require. Maybe some of you do not feel the same way. I do. This also raises a few questions. Where does the extra five or ten dollars go?

Sincerely,

Janine E. Welch

SAK News

By Edward D. Huntries

After the call to order, the Tuesday meeting of SAK began with the upstairs half of the room being empty. The students in the downstairs half were introduced by President W. E. Johnson who then handed over the chair to SAK. (I would be interested in knowing how many people are in attendance at each meeting.)

Three elections will be held in November for the Student Government Association: President, Vice President, and Treasurer. The election process is simple: one must be a member of the Student Government and have served on the nominating committee. All materials are available on request. Any questions should be directed to the Student Government Association office next to the Bookstore.

Bus Fee Unjust?

Dear Editor and Students:

A few nights ago, I read an article in The Eastern Republic which concerned every Brockton State student. Our student government is raising up again next semester. The school administration has been quoted as saying that they are trying to attract more students to the area. It is claimed that this bus service will help alleviate the parking problem here. Every student in this class will be charged $10.00 per semester and every half student will be charged $5.00. Dance Program Successful

Professor Cora Miller informed the students about the Creative Dance Group and its activities. The group, along with the Bridgewater Arts Theater, held a competition where the winning teams were awarded with prizes. The names of the winners were announced at the event.

As a follow-up to the program, students were invited to do a group dance with the students. This was followed by a talk and an audience discussion. The event ended with costume dances, and a Thanksgiving Dance to a traditional hymn.

CLASSIFIEDS

For Sale:

- Gardenias were a welcome gift. The flowers were a choice, long-lived, and offered variety.

- Monthly specials are available for the American Smokeout campaign.

- The Comment publishes classified ads free of charge to residents. Our concluding theme was a hugging theme shared by all.

- Those taking part were Susan Archer, Elton Lawrence, Leann Thumpp, Dina Rosner, Gary Kramer, Diane Kiley, Tracy Smith, and Forensic (from p.5).

- Senior Communication major and team Vice-Presidents of AAJ, Mike and Joanne, participated in the Donorra's Decision. They obtained the information on their own and found that taking part in the survey had a beneficial effect on American Society.

The team travels to Towson State University in Maryland for a tournament this weekend, December 3.

THE GREAT AMERICAN SMOKEOUT KICK-OFF DAY SURVEY

The Great American Smokeout, held in the Student Union lounge on Nov. 19, was very successful. We would like to thank everyone who helped in this campaign, including the Comment, W.B. U, the Student Union, and all those who participated. We hope we helped many people quit smoking.

As a follow-up to the campaign, we are doing a small survey. We would deeply appreciate all responses. Thank you.

1. Did the on-campus campaign make you more aware of the Great American Smokeout?
2. Did you participate in the Great American Smokeout?
3. Did you find the information useful?
4. Do you or anyone you know quit smoking because of the on-campus campaign?
5. Do you feel that the on-campus Great American Smokeout campaign was effective?

Any suggestions would be appreciated.

State University, About them, the other students were from somewhere else in the United States, some from Mexico. Maureen, from Mexico, said, "I don't know how she could keep up with the other students in the program, as her previous Spanish studied abroad experience was limited. She had prepared her coursework to the best of her knowledge, but helpful were her coursework and her spoken Spanish in class on this campus. While in Valencia, Maureen took a course in phonetics, conversation and composition, Cervantes, and geography of Valencia. She enjoyed the Cervantess and the conversation-compensation best, and felt she got the most out of these courses. She also enjoyed her travels to other parts of Spain, especially to Madrid, Malaga, and Seville. Of her own experience, Maureen says, "It was definitely worth it, I learned much, and would encourage anybody to go, if possible."

All three students agreed that studying abroad was a most positive experience, and urge all who can to venture abroad. All Bridgewater State College students interested in investigating study opportunities in other countries are encouraged to make inquiry at the Foreign Language Office on the campus. Study can be for one semester or for a full year, and in some cases financial aid is available.

The Department of Speech Communication, Theatre Arts, and Communicative Disorders of B.S.C. will present a Laboratory Theatre presentation of George Bernard Shakes’s Hasty House on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Auditorium. An open discussion will follow the presentation.

In his preface to Hasty House, Shaw explains how he came to the concept of disintegration of cultural values, belief systems, and institutions about by the first World War. On a broader scale, the play demonstrates a straining array of goss and illusion in order to reveal genuine truth.

Hasty House has been acclaimed by many critics as Shaw’s best work, and the action and conflicts are masterful. The B.S.C. Laboratory Theatre production is being directed by Dr. Richard J. Wary, Professor of Theatre Arts, who, in addition to being the biologist, has also taught variously accredited Children’s Theatre, has directed Twelfth Night and The Skin of Our Teeth, among others, for Ensemble Theatre, and its productions have been nominated for B.S.C. Drama Club. The cast includes Helen Landy (36) as Elie Dunn, Leona Blakesley as Madame Hushabie, Ellen Murray (35) as Nurse Covel, Kevin Quinn (34) as Mazzoni Dunn, Robert Brander (34) as Hector Hushaby, Judy Partington (34) as Ada Hulliver, Trina Hagan (34) as Cap. Shubert, Mark Greenway (34) as Box Manager, Patrick McInroy as Joseph, and Mary Hewitt (38) as Billy Dunn.

Setting and Costume Design by Josephine A. Dirs. Lights design by Lynn Borden (34), and Thomas Hewitt is Assistant Director.

The production is free and open to all students, faculty, and guests. Tickets and reservations are not required, however, which will guarantee a seat for arrival by no later than 7:45. We hope that you will attend and enjoy the show.

Heartbreak House

The Department of Speech Communication, Theatre Arts, and Communication Disorders of B.S.C. will present a Laboratory Theatre presentation of George Bernard Shaw's Heartbreak House on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday (December 1-3) in the Student Union Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. In his preface to Heartbreak House, Shaw explains how it "represents the rapid disintegration of cultured, leisured Europe" brought about by the first World War. On a broader scale, the play demonstrates a stripping away of pose and illusion in order to reveal genuine truth. Heartbreak House has been acclaimed by many critics as Shaw's finest play, not withstanding the fact that he wrote over fifty plays. The B.S.C. Laboratory Theatre production is being directed by Dr. Richard J. Warye, Professor of Theatre Arts, who, in addition to being the founding director of B.S.C.'s acclaimed Children's Theatre, has directed Twelfth Night and The Skin of Our Teeth, among others, for Ensemble Theatre, and its B.S.C. Drama Club. The cast includes Helen Landry (85) as Elsie Dunn, Leilani Hsu (86) as Hestia Hushaby, Ellen Murray (85) as Nurse Guinea, Kevin Guerin (84) as Mazzini Dunn, Robert Blauner (86) as Hector Hushaby, Judy Parfington (86) as Ada Ullermicke, Richard Tranner (85) as Capt. Shutover, Mark Mansen, Patrick McCorton as Joe Bennett, and Stephen Masswell (85) as Billy Coke. Setting and Costume design is by Professor Arthur Dirks. Lighting design is by Lynn Benoit (84), and Thomas Newell is Assistant Director.

The production is free and open to all students, faculty, and guests. Tickets and reservations will be issued, however, which will guarantee a seat for arrival no later than 7:45. We hope that you will attend and enjoy the show.

"Terms Of Endearment" Is Well Rounded

By John Beaton

"Terms Of Endearment" is a special movie that succeeds on all accounts due to some fine tuned performances and a well directed script. Female director James L. Brooks has built a well rounded cast and has created a funny, heartwarmiing time moving film that captures the audience's hearts.

The story evolves around a Houston mother, Bourbon Greenway (Shirley MacLaine) and her daughter Emma (Debra Winger) who is an overly protective and a well written script which also serves as one characterization. She is demanding of her daughter, her mother, and most importantly, herself.

When Emma marries Flip (Matthew Broderick), a college football player, who she thought I was getting in her "turf," she finds that "They would say, 'Streisand is not, and you're not, or Michael or something, why don't you be somewhere else.'" What they didn't realize is that in order to grow, personally and professionally, she had to leave.

Back in Iowa, the marriage between Emma and Flip is slowly on the decline, and the two have to keep affairs.

Flip with a graduate student (Karen Cheeseman), and Emma with a small town banker (played wonderfully by John Lithgow). At this point in the line, the film takes on a serious mood; one of the characters becomes married.

The film is slow, but not so slow as to be board.

All the characters in the film are treated well by the film. They do show another that they still capable of loving.

Director Brooks was one of the creators of the hit TV series, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show." Sista Greenway, and Text Brooks has taken a big step from TV creator to movie director, but it was a stop-short film. He can also take credit for the well written script adapted from Larry Gelbart's Broadway play. The movie writer of his best work. The movie writer of his best performance since his actress in 1977 for The Turning Point. MacLaine plays Aurora with the film's director, the character of Aurora, which the audience will find extremely endearing.

Five years after they last talked to each other, they now find themselves together again.

1. Name the three U.S. presidents who died on July 4th (2 died in 1826, 1 died in 1831)
2. What is the name of the land where Puff the Magic Dragon lives?
3. Was Maxwell Smart's shoe phone on his left or right foot? (Smart TV series)
4. What are the five shapes that come in the breakfast cereal Lucky Charms?
5. What was the name of the boat in which Bucky, Hopper and Gunner Pursue the shark in Jaws (1975)?

When thoughts of Christmas come to mind, one can’t help but think of the enchanting stories and images of childhood fantasies and Santa Claus. Christmas certainly be that immortal yuletide plastic by T.A. Hoffman.

No, not Christmas Carol. That was by Dickens. We remember the man with the green cravat and saw. He would have been enthusing about a toy nutcracker in about the same fancy. Sudden- denly, Clara is astonished at the walls of her home, all the presents and furniture. Her favorite room. Screen, right in front of her eyes, Clara watches the Christmas tree grow to an unchanging beauty, followed by a light snowfall. The nutcracker grows to life-size, and then he leads a procession of toy soldiers against the marauding mice. The ark of the Nutcracker’s faithful friend, Little Ole, leads the nutcracker and his scammers away with his hockey stick. Having been defeated, the king of the Mouse Kingdom and the Nutcracker turns into a hand­ some prince. Delighted, Clara, the Prince shows his thanks by taking her to the Kingdom of Sweets in the Student Union Auditorium. On their way, they encounter a snowstorm, and in the court of snowflakes, a group of thoughtless, mocking kings come home. I know that at least one cav­ ern for the grand finale, a snowman and her lamb, which is transformed into a giant princess, and her court of flowers, and the Sugar Plum Fairy herself. Clara, the Prince, and the Sugar Plum Fairy enter­ in a magical evening was had by all. I think a magic clock is too simple and yuletide plastic by T.A. Hoffman.

And all in the homes of the Silbereaus on Christmas Day where they are entertaining friends and family, the Nutcracker Suite Ballet was on display. It was a truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art. A truly a masterful work of art.

24 Days To Christmas

By Jeffrey M. Lineman

When thoughts of Christmas come to mind, one can immediately conjure images of snowflakes, trimmings, and Santa Claus. The Nutcracker Suite Ballet certainly be that immortal nutcracker plastic by T.A. Hoffmann.

No, it's not Christmas Carol. That was by Dickens. We are talking about music. Well that's much better isn't it? Now I am getting off track. The Nutcracker Suite Ballet is made up of four pieces that are based on the Student Union Program Committee's version for the Nutcracker ballet to be given at the Student Union Auditorium.

The Nutcracker Suite Ballet is the first piece of music to be performed. It is a lively piece that is full of energy and excitement. The audience is encouraged to participate in the performance by singing along.

The Nutcracker Suite Ballet is followed by the second piece, which is a more relaxed and serene piece. It is a beautiful piece that is full of emotion and expressiveness. The audience is encouraged to relax and enjoy the performance.

The third piece is a more upbeat and lively piece. It is a fun and energetic piece that is full of life and joy. The audience is encouraged to join in and dance along.

The last piece is a more reflective and contemplative piece. It is a beautiful piece that is full of emotion and expressiveness. The audience is encouraged to reflect on the meaning of Christmas and the true meaning of the holiday season.

The Nutcracker Suite Ballet is a perfect piece to start off the holiday season. It is a beautiful piece that is full of life and joy. The audience is encouraged to enjoy the performance and be a part of the holiday season.

Attention OASIS members and friends! Please join us in a little meteorological weather outlook for the winter season. Here is when we will have our first snowfall, and when we can expect it to hit our area. Also included is an overview of the typical weather conditions we can expect for the upcoming holiday season. We will have a special guest speaker, Dr. David Duhaime, a BSC Counseling Psychologist, to discuss some of the common issues that arise during this time of year. If you have any questions or concerns, please don’t hesitate to contact us. We are here to support you through this difficult time. Thank you for your support.

BSC Welcomes New Staff Psychologist

By Barbara Glauben

It is with great pleasure that we announce the addition of a new staff psychologist to our counseling center. Dr. David Duhaime joins us from Grove Street Counseling Center, where he received his Doctorate in Psychology. Dr. Duhaime brings a wealth of experience to our center, and we are excited to have him as part of our team. He will be available to students who are interested in seeking support or counseling services.

Handicap Awareness Day 8th

Talking About Awareness
By Anne Clifino

In many instances, lack of awareness leads to discrimination and prejudice. Specifically, Robert Buzzy Stanton and I discussed discrimination towards the handicapped. Buzzy is confined to a wheelchair as a result of a swimming accident many years ago. He very willingly volunteered his own impression. As for awareness, he felt that because there are more and more handicapped people out there, people can't help but be more aware. In work and education, there is more consciousness today than there was five or ten years ago. If he waszfrightened that it was because the person who worked the job was better qualified, not because he was in a wheelchair. Personal appearance is not a criterion.

Our topic can say that because “I’m not a man and I’m not a woman.” But he does go on to explain. People think this is embarrassing. They start to put themselves out of the way, making sure they don’t say or do anything wrong. This norm that relationship but in people are far from being non-existent and don’t cope up. They don’t want to make others feel uncomfortable. Many times they feel that they have no need to talk about it. In this sense, there is either an opinion or a prejudice there that I’d rather not discuss.

Let the Games Begin

The holidays have begun, and they’re a good does you think, and they’re a good does you think, and they’re a good day at Kilington. What’s the idea of good job to do? And that you just have a better way to know what you want to know. Nurse Judy Depp, Student Health Services, will provide you with all the information necessary to help you through your challenges. shaved “awkward” time. Shave to most students, Health Services issues handicap passes for parking. It works in conjunction with the registrar for scheduling purposes. As for needs, any disability or job that you put in the list is allowed for good friends or family gathering. Therefore, personal power involved. To overcome these barriers, many times he asked someone to run inside to purchase tickets or a book someone inside a question or was making a request. He was wrong. These people do the little things that count so well. He felt that so many people who get this position. Here are some people who do handi-캡ed people to do some help, as well.

Just by being interested and caring can overcome these negative feelings. Simple things like holding open a door can build bridges between people and create an atmosphere of handicapped and feeling good about yourself at the same time.

The Science Building Stairs: One of many obstacles encountered daily by handicapped students on the BSC campus.

Administration Handicapped?

As the BSC catalogue states, “BSC does not discrimi- nate in employment practices, student admission, nor in any of our programs or activities.” However, it is not possible for a student in a wheelchair to use the stairs inside the gym building (although a ramp was built outside). Some handicapped students will not be able to take advantage of the upcoming transportation program as none of the buses used are equipped for wheelchair users. Yet, these students will still do their best to walk up or down the stairs. The BSC catalogue states, “BSC does not discriminate in employment practices, student admission, nor in any of our programs or activities.” However, it is not possible for a student in a wheelchair to use the stairs inside the gym building (although a ramp was built outside). Some handicapped students will not be able to take advantage of the upcoming transportation program as none of the buses used are equipped for wheelchair users. Yet, these students will still do their best to walk up or down the stairs.

To implement changes in these existing situations, Kevin Hebert, president of the BSC Handicapped Students’ Organization, has initiated a plan to address the problem. Hebert made it a priority for the campus this summer to ensure the removal of the steps of the Student Union Building. This was supposed to be done at the start of the term, but it was not accomplished until the end of this semester.

As there is no regular funding for these projects, com- petition is new. Hebert finds that the atmosphere of the handicapped is the administration that is of importance. The Handicapped students are here as students, to learn, to work, and to have a good time. These projects should be available to them, like the gym. As an integral part of this school, handicapped students should be taken into consid- ration in all programs, such as the transportation program. If such a plan were put into effect, situations like these would be avoided, and problems would be solved instead of being created.

By Scott Swanson, Collen Turner, and Sally D. Aplets

Recently I interviewed Danny Cipriano, Director of Career Planning and Placement at Bridgewater State College. I asked Mr. Cipriano if the Career Planning and Placement office provided handicapped students with any special services. He smiled and told me, “Yes, we do.” However, one thing he did stress was that the school is not the only one who assists handicapped students. Mr. Cipriano said that most colleges and universities have a handicapped personnel who assist students with disabilities. He further said that the school has a handicapped personnel who assist students with disabilities. He further said that the school has a handicapped personnel who assist students with disabilities. Bridgewater State traveled to Westfield State College to play in a game they could call basketball. All SSC led by 21 points and the final score was 72-42. Consequently, the Bears cut four games per Department down the stretch and won the contest.

The center, Cathy Baker pump in 15 points and forwards Chris Chockkas added up 10 points and cut Talbot Houston scored 8 points a piece.

And as for the rest of the team, or the whole team in general, they are working as a "real team," All the players work together to win. One person doesn't go about trying to get the ball and score. Ruggiero, the coach of this team, and the athletic director at Bridgewater, very well know that their team will make up for it when they are on record and are looking very strong this year.

Coach Ruggiero, a fun-loving and humorous character, is quick while her speed makes her the rebounding force. The point guard and manager of the team, Laurie O'Connell is a Phys. Ed major. She is a quick and alert, has good ballhandling skills and a winning arm. The WSC game she started 8 points down the stretch and helped in creating some turnovers.

Chris Chockkas, the center, was a student from Chicopee, Ma. and is a Ph.D. major. She typifies "Bo Ruggiero Basketball." This was the first game I've seen play in defense and she covered a couple of State forwards, stole the ball once and dunked it into the basket. She never lost heart, kept playing always the keeps players out in place when the starter rest on the bench. Even better about this team fits together very well, just like a principio game. Coach Ruggiero has to do is keep in mind that none of the pieces get lost and if that doesn't happen then the puzzle will look very nice when it is completed.

The next women's home game is this Friday Night at 7:00 p.m. in the Kelly Gym against Westfield State.

The unknown Bridgewater Equestrian Team has finally done it. After four years the team has not placed in the show. But this year, on November 12 they brought in a horse that qualified for the competition and was good enough to place in the top five of this top competition. Coach Ruggiero has to be happy about the fact that none of the pieces get lost and that doesn't happen then the puzzle will look very nice when it is completed.

Promising Season Ahead For Swimmers

The 1983-84 Bridgewater State College men's and women's swimming and diving team will feature some quality at various events and will have depth in sprinting distance events.

The Bears will have a solid distance freestyler in junior transfer Rich Sarson of Brockton, who will look to qualify for the NCAA Division III championships in the 1650 yard freestyle. Brian O'Neil, a sophomore from Dudley, will try to qualify for the NCAA championship in the 100 yard freestyle. Brian O'Neil has been a solid performer in the freestyle events.

For the Bears in the 200 yard freestyle, senior tri-captain Mike Razza, of Seekonk in distance free, and sophomore Greg Cook of Middletown, in sprint-free, will be the men to watch. The women in the 200 yard freestyle will be available at the end of the season, and two Becky Raby and Joan Rea will be supervisors for the men.

The Bears will have good depth in distance free and tri-captain Will Cheney will keep in up with his individual medley and freestyle.

The team took part in the 1982 NCAA Men's Diving Championships. Bonnie's coach, a former student of Dedham, was at the meet and was pleased with the team's performance. The team included two seniors, a junior and a sophomore from Duxbury, Massachusetts.

The women's basketball team has been in the spotlight this year. The team has lost only three games and is currently ranked number one in the country. The team is looking to make a run in the NCAA Division III tournament.

Equestrian Team Doesn't Horse Around

The unknown Bridgewater Equestrian Team has finally done it. For the past two years the team has not placed in the show jumping competition. On November 12 they brought home a gold medal. The competition was tough and many of the riders didn't qualify at some point in the competition. The riders had to perfect their form and technique.

The riders were not allowed to ride the horses in the ring. The competition was intense, but the riders had to make sure each horse had a fair chance to compete.

The next women's home game is Friday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Kelly Gym against Springfield College.

Bears Business

The winter sports season is upon us, and the Bridgewater State varsity basketball teams seem to have started this year the same way they ended last season. The reason for this could be due to the fact that the team has more experience than it did last season.

In the past few years the Bears have been the most successful college basketball team in the state, finishing first in the NCAA Division III tournament in 1982 and second in 1983. The team has had a history of producing successful college basketball players.

The team has been a consistent force in the Northeast region, finishing in the top 10 in the country in each of the past three seasons. The team is looking to carry this success into the upcoming season.

The team has several key returning players, including seniors Micah Andrade and John Riley. The team also has several new faces, including freshmen Michael Matheson and Joe Reardon.

The Bears are looking to continue their success and are considered one of the top teams in the country. The team is looking to make a run in the NCAA Division III tournament and has its sights set on a national championship.

Promising Season Ahead For Swimmers

The 1983-84 Bridgewater State College men's swimming team will feature some quality at various events, and will have depth in sprint and distance freestyle.

The Bears will have a solid distance freestyler in junior transfer Rich Sarson of Brockton, who will look to qualify for the NCAA Division III championships in the 1600 freestyle.

Bryan O'Neil, a sophomore from Dracut, Mass., will try to qualify for the NCAA Division III championships in the 50 freestyle.

The team also has a strong group of backstroke swimmers, with seniors Scott Yokola and Mike Matheson leading the way.

Swimming at BC is loaded with talent. Each returning senior will be a key factor in the team's success.

Acid Rain To Stop?

By Bonnie Bowden

Legislation is presently being considered in seven so-called New England states concerning the release of silicate from power plant smoke stacks. The Senate has already passed such legislation, and the House committee has been considering a similar bill. The legislation is designed to reduce the amount of radioactive material that is discharged into the air, and it would create a fund to research and develop alternative energy sources. The bill would also prohibit the construction of new smoke stacks that emit more than 100 tons of radioactive material per year.

Handicapped Awareness Poll To Be Sponsored

Next week, the Handicapped Awareness Committee at Bridgewater State College will conduct a poll to gauge the level of awareness and concern about handicapped issues on campus. The poll, which will be conducted in one of the dining halls, will ask students about their knowledge of disabilities, their attitudes toward handicapped individuals, and their willingness to accommodate handicapped students. The results of the poll will be used to determine the effectiveness of the committee's ongoing efforts to increase awareness and understanding of handicapped issues.

Forensic Society Wins Two Trophies

Members of the Bridgewater State College Forensic Society won two trophies at the Shipshwelder State University Tournament on November 18 and 19. The tournament is one of the largest in the country, and it included 300 colleges and universities from the Northeast. The Forensic Society is the only college in New England to have won both the Speaking and Debatable awards, and it is the first time that the society has won both trophies.

Next week's Issue of The Comment will be the last for the Fall Semester and will be a special Christmas Edition.
