Dear Mr. Editor,

This letter is in support of the commentary on the state of affairs of Bridgewater State College’s Athletic Department. Having knowledge of the situation from inside, I deeply agree with Mr. Woot’s total assessment of the situation. The lack of funds means that we, as students, do not get a good return on our tuition dollars. The athletic programs are cut back and there is an overall poor quality of programs available. I would like to suggest a letter like this to open the eyes of the campus community.

Sincerely yours,

Charles Cunningham

Letter From The Entertainment Editor

Well, it's the end of my first semester and own, and in between I have to keep working to keep up. But no worries, I have a fun idea for The Tempest performance. I was thinking about doing it in a modern setting, with contemporary music. What do you think? Let me know what you think, and we can plan it together!

Madness Kicks Moving'

By Audrey Little

Madness is a British rock band that emerged out of the Two-Tone movement in the late 1970s. Formed by Andy Scott Elly Slick, James 'Jim' Maginn, Mark Pimenta, and Bob Smith, the band had a string of hits that helped define the sound of the Two-Tone scene. Their music is a fusion of ska, reggae, and punk, and their sound is still lively and ever-evolving.

The band's most famous song is 'Our House', which was released in 1980. The song became a anthem for the Two-Tone movement and helped solidify the band's place in musical history. Since then, they have released numerous albums and have continued to tour and perform, with members such as Mark Pimenta and Bob Smith still playing together.

Madness has a loyal fan base and their music continues to influence new generations of musicians. Their sound is a mix of ska, reggae, and punk, and their message of unity and togetherness is still relevant today.

Despite the band's success, they have faced their share of challenges. In 1983, Madness released their album 'Keep Moving', which was not well-received by critics. However, the band continued to tour and perform, and their music has continued to evolve and influence new generations of musicians.

If you're a fan of ska, reggae, or punk music, you can't go wrong with Madness. Their music is a timeless classic that continues to inspire and connect people around the world.
By James Mager

Since this is the last issue of The Comment for this semester and because it is my last semester on this cam­pus, I'd like to reflect back on four years of music. Working at WBM has exposed me to many different types of music as well as many different bands. I'd like to take this time to recognize those bands, which were the best of my col­lege days.

1. U2 — What needs to be said about these luscious lads?
2. Eurythmics — Annie Lennox's voice sends chills down my spine.

I've listened to a great many bands. I've heard thousands of songs that I like, but my favorite is song is the following:

"The Best of What's Around," by my favorite band, The Beatles. This band sounds like heaven and has been described by many as the best band in the world. The Beatles is one of my favorite groups but the 1965 version is disgusting. This album is complete trash so don't waste your money, buy some. (For those of you who didn't know this song, I'll tell you that it is a song about living in a world where there is no love, no happiness, and no peace. The song ends with the words: "And in a world like this, where love is not enough, the Beatles are the only ones who can help us through.")

By Prof. Sam Magner

I'd like to thank all those people who have helped me get through my years at WBIM.

2. Eurythmics - Eurythmics is a band that has produced some of the best music of the last 20 years. They get their sound from a combination of industrial music and rock. They have produced some of the most intensi­est hardcore anthems on ears.

I've heard thousands of open up new avenues of radio­cal thought. I've heard thousands of open up new avenues of radio­cal thought. I've heard thousands of open up new avenues of radio­cal thought. I've heard thousands of open up new avenues of radio­cal thought.

A Dance Gem

By Claire L. Mallett

Cora Anderson Miller, Professor of Dance in Theatre Arts has done it again. On Saturday, May 20th, the Student Union Ballroom was transformed into an arena of lively and truly creative expression for all who attended the Creative Dance Series. Once again, Cora has produced a variety of young, enthusiastic groups who areUseful Settings: music, and supert Apollo dance steps in her spring dance presentation.

The banner that exists between performer and audience was quickly removed as Ms. Miller invited audience to join in some non-instrument movements and at their seats. Her message to the audience was clear and simple — dance should be the creative, expressive or ca­tion of the dancer and that the dancer exists in all of us. Ms. Miller has the magical ability of awakening the dancer in the most unexpected places.

While some of the dances performed this evening were more con­vention, more serious than others, all were the creative expression of the dancer, not a choreographer From dancers relating to walls, stairs and windows, to dancers with a variety of musical settings and a variety of musical and supert Apollo dance steps in her spring dance presentation.

Flynn Draws Low Attendance

By Peg Borge

Flynn, who has been accepting "Pact money" from the college all fall, has not been accepting any either. Mr. Flynn believes that it has been announced that Elliot Richardson will not be accepting "Pact money", but in the last 4 separate meetings I attended with the President, he has not been approached in any way about it.

On the whole, Flynn's response can only be interpreted as "巧合" (coincidence) which, will be a better turnout. In fact, the student working on Voter Registration (6/23 at present) are trying to keep you, the student body, more aware of your responsibilities. Please take advantage of this event.

DON'T FEED THE ANIMALS!

Also, please refrain from displaying any animal parts or figurines on your desks. Themata have a way of spreading around, and they can be quite distracting.

The Robert S. Mello Scholarship Fund

As was reported in last week's column, one of its most valued members recently received the final installment of the Robert S. Mello Scholarship Fund.

Recently, I was contacted by several students who have been impressed with the fund's generosity. One student, a recent graduate, explained that all education majors at Bridgewater State College have an excellent chance of being awarded a scholarship.

The fund has been established in memory of Robert S. Mello, who passed away last year. His contributions to the education community are remembered by many.

Your contribution will be greatly appreciated.

Plymouth County Sheriff

It seems that the Sheriff's Office has been given the go-ahead to proceed with the new facility. This is a welcome development in the ongoing debate over the county's need for a new courthouse.

The Sheriff's Office has been working on this project for several years, and it is hoped that the new facility will provide the necessary space and resources to meet the needs of the department.

Teacher's Corner

By Lawrence Allen

I finally made it. I will be one of the lucky students graduating this May.

I originally came to Bridgewater with the idea that I would transfer to a bigger college two years later. This never occurred because there are no teaching jobs.

There are jobs and the demand is increasing fast.

One point that I want to make is that all education majors at B.S.C. should join at least one education club during their college career. Recently, I had a job interview, and although I was impressed with the course I applied for on my resume, I want to briefly mention a few time the last time.

I thought they would mention a few last points.

One thing that you can do is to let people know that there are no teaching jobs. There are jobs and the demand is increasing fast.

"it's better by my next visit, then I'll go."

One of the worst things a woman can ever do is fail to get a gynecology exam when she senses something is going on. If you think you have any blemishes, make an appointment and find out. Because the time to catch the minor things is when they're still minor.

For Sunday's concert, Santos has chosen the following program: three Etudes by F. Chopin, and a work by L.M. Gottschalk. Three of Santos own compositions, Americano Blues, Chorale and Theme will be included. The program will conclude with the Pictures at an Exhibition by M. Mussorgsky. The General Public is cordially invited and admission is free.

THE CONSENT

Dr. V. James Dinaro

Prof. Joanne Wuschke

When Professor Joanne Wuschke joined the faculty of the Department of Speech Communication, Theatre, Arts, and Communication Disorders in the fall of 1979, she brought with her a rich background from which to draw in her teaching. Included had been time spent as Director of Girls and Women's Affairs at the College. She is the Director of the Speech and Language Clinic at Memorial Hospital for Children, and finally seven years as instructor at Boston University and Director of the Speech Language Clinic at University Hospital and at the Boston University School of Education. In each of these settings she had had the opportunity to apply both theoretical training in real situations and to work with clients and families on a personal level.

Professor Wuschke is the coordinator of the Communication Disorders Program. She has provided major contributions to the design and development of the curriculum and the subsequent guidelines required to meet state certification and licensure guidelines. She is known as a constructive problem-solver and an energetic, stimulating, and purposeful colleague.

In addition to utilizing films, articles, readings and the Professor invites persons with speech, language, or hearing disorders such as stutterers, learning disabilities, and hearing handicapped and persons with neurological disorders which affect speech and hearing. She teaches her classes to talk about their handicaps, how they deal with problems, and how the students to their clients are planning to serve. She is well respected by professionals in her field and each course is carefully planned and continually revised, renewed, and updated. Her lessons are designed on several levels to accommodate differences in learning style among her students.

During the course of a day you may find her in her office, in the cafeteria, or in the library - but always with students who ask effective questions and build ethics and standards regarding the profession.

Dr. Walter Morin

Professor of the Department of Biological Sciences, has been a member of the faculty at Bridgewater State College for twenty years. During this period he has taught anthropology, sociology, and animal behavior at the University of Massachusetts, University of Toronto, State University at Albany, and here at Bridgewater. Such students are usually during a period of leaving school, student's classes are less than 20. Students are urged to continually ask questions or are put to respond to his probing, leading questions. Dr. Morin is a man of great compassion with an inner wish to teach biology effectively as to many students as he is able. His ability to present and build self-esteem, self-confidence, and understanding of culture, leads students to respond to the expected levels of understanding. His patience and sympathy, are a comfort to those struggling with difficult new concepts. His empathy, consideration and concern for each student and his own love of learning make enrollment in his classes the highlight of many of his students. The learning process for Dr. Morin's students has never been confined to a formal academic setting since lessons are often learned in the imminent warmer of their home, in a car on the way to a lecture of MIT, or along a good predetermined Trail — and to mention a public hearing along the way. Dr. Morin is a hiring resource for his students. Only his time advertised success with students have been his reward over the years. But, by any standard, he is an exceptionally successful teacher and we are truly honored to recognize his talents.

Recreation Students Go To Maine

By Marie Mauro and Cindy Parise

During the past weeks (April 29-May 4), fourteen students from the Recreation Concentration of the Physical Education Department enjoyed a field experience in Maine. Guiding the students through a camping experience at Camp Sebago was senior Lucas Acton, the President of the Camping Committee.

The students arrived on Monday, May 7th, and had a meeting with the camp staff. The meeting was held at the S.A.C. in the morning. The camp staff included the following: John Beaton, the Director; Lauri Woods, the Assistant Director; Marcia Bahr, the Activities Director; and Carol Garinger, the Office Manager. The students were divided into four groups, each with a different leader. The groups were named "The Eagles," "The Falcons," "The Saints," and "The Huskies." Each group had a different set of responsibilities, including cooking, cleaning, and setting up camp. The students were responsible for getting the camp set up and for keeping it running smoothly. They were also responsible for making sure that everyone had a good time.

The students spent the week at Camp Sebago, which is located on Sebago Lake in Bridgton, Maine. The camp was founded in 1942 and is owned by the American Legion. The camp is open to both boys and girls, and it offers a variety of activities, including swimming, boating, and hiking. The students had a great time at the camp, and they all felt that they had learned a lot. They were all very grateful to have had the opportunity to spend a week in Maine.

Quite rambunctious, Carol MacLeod has finally managed to work her way into the position of President and now has to keep the “Seniors of 84” in line. During the spring semester the SGA will work once a week to present a regular report.

Jeff Nunnemer, the new Academic Reference Chairperson, the only one who also is a commuter, would like for anyone who is a problem person to please come and help with the teachers. He says that he voted for me, I’ll do my best and try to keep order in the SGA. I hope to have a year with the administration.

Debra Santanash, the Executive Secretary of the SGA, is a Computer Science at Internet and will be here to help out. As is a computer, she can do anything.

I will try to make everyone feel welcome to the SGA. All who are interested should come and keep it as a big team. I also would like to extend this to all of those who have voted in the elections.

Linda Lucas, Treasurer, has many plans for the new SGA and especially for the way the re-organization of the SGA will be. They will be starting a new system—(tend to the banks) —so that people can look back through the years and see how far the SGA has been. In the past and now, you can make future analysis of the data. They have a lot of people in their minds and the director, Lou, will do his best to keep it organized.

Lucia may be contacted by phone at 888-7070 or by mailbox in the SGA office.

John Beaton, the Assistant Academic Chairperson, says that they will go on their own to see what things and projects are going on in the university. The two of us will be working to create a more visible SGA, to inform the students about the different activities in the SGA. He also says that if you want to get involved in the SGA, you can come to the office or he can call you.

Beaton also mentions that he has been re-elected as Senior (84)

Emphasizing that knowledge is the key to success, Wood and Joan Bikman of the Metropolitan Insurance Company discussed insurance careers with students.

The meeting was held May 15, 1984

Wood, by giving an overview of the industry as a whole and then discussing Metropolitan, focused on the advantages of working for Metropolitan. He pointed out that Metropolitan pays from five to 15 percent more than other companies for the same position.

Metropolitan offers many opportunities for advancement. Its Training Management Program is open to all employees and offers a unique opportunity for those interested in pursuing a career in insurance.

The SGA has to work with the other SGA's to benefit.

Chris Cline could not have been reached for comment.

This is the new SGA. The good luck to the new officers and may next year be "produced."

Dependent on previous art training both fundamental and advanced projects are assigned, each focusing on the theme of coastal Maine.

NO FORMAL ART TRAINING REQUIRED

Instructor: Dr. Stephen Smalley, Professor and Chairperson

Total course charges: Including fees

Undergraduate: $173.00
Graduate: $197.00

Lodging and Food

Guest rooms at reasonable rates are available at the East Wind Inn in Tenants Harbor, 04860, and the Ocean House in Port Clyde, 04855. The local realtor in Tenants Harbor is True Hall Realty. Attractively priced housekeeping cottages are available. Food is ample in the area and workshop participants fully participate in the social and cultural riches of the area.

Transportation

While automobile transportation is often needed it is not essential that all participants have one as the sharing concept is stressed. The main location of the workshop is at Tenants Harbor, a five-hour drive from Boston. Direct service from Logan Airport to Owls Head (Rockland) is available daily (45 mins.) from Bar Harbor Airlines.

Field Trips

Opportunities for field trips relate to such time-established art colonies as Haystack School of Art as well as to such places as Farnsworth in Rockland, Bowdoin College, Portland Museum of Art, and the Maine Photographic Workshop. Further locations of interest would be the Olson Estate (Andrew Wyeth's Christina's World), Monhegan Island, and Camden Harbor, in addition to the many islands adjacent to the coast.

Bridgewater's "Wall of Fame"

By Mike Storey

The Women's rugby team continued their undefeated streak by knocking off B.C. and winning the N.H. St. Paul's Girls Rugby Team. Against B.C., the Bridgewater girls outscored the visiting Beavers 35-12. This win was the first exciting game of the season as the two teams moved into the top ranks of the national standings. The women's team has been a stellar performer on the rugby field, and their success has been attributed to their strong offensive play and solid defense. The team's next game is scheduled for this weekend, and they are expected to continue their winning streak.

Lady Bears on to NCAA's

By Joe Gourley

The BSC Women's softball team advanced to the NCAA Tournament, the first time in the team's history. The team's record was 27-11, good enough to earn them the Maine burner championship (11-1). The girls were 15-1-1 on last Thursday, and swept from Mass Maritime on the same day, winning by final scores of 20-5 and 2-0. The girls then split with Salem State, winning the first game, 4-0, and then losing the second by a score of 2-0. After that, they took yet another doubleheader, this time from North Adams, 7-0 and 6-0. In the last two games of the season, the girls lost a doubleheader to Salem College, 3-2 and 9-4. However, even after their previous whopping loss, the team qualified for the NCAA Tournament on the strength of their first season's record.

"Trainor Peter Karanetz claims the team is "overwhelming."

When asked to comment on the team's success, he says, "The pitching and hitting have been there pretty much." With lane attempting Defor and Jamie O'Farrell, it is no wonder that opponents average only 1.7 points per game against them. Jr. Barnes also displays superb catching abilities, and has proven worth to the team by calling the games above and beyond the call of duty.

There is more to this team than that, however. The defense is near perfect. The team's determination this team has.

Bessette made a sensational diving catch on the final day of the tournament. Getting back to the pitcher's mound, Deirdre drills his pitches hard. I could hear him chant "Ding!" to Dusseault and O'Farrell. The defense is near perfect. The team's determination this team has.

The Bears' defense has been steady, but the movement of All-Conference second baseman Dan McCarthy and the ability of Steamboat John Porter to hit, is a step up from what we have seen in the last couple of years. Their best finish ever in the New England Regional was a first place finish in 1984.

The winter season was led by the women's basketball team, that went to the NCAA Regional tournament in the second year in a row while compiling a (25-5) season. The men's team (2-7) had their best season in ten years. They had their best finish ever in the New England Regional as a team and sent two Sammy teams to the nationals. The wrestling squad (8-6) had their best season, placing first on the All New England.

Men's Baseball Comes to an End

By Bob McCall

The 1984 version of the Bridgewater State baseball, currently 6-9, had lost bad and worst weather this season. The Bears' pitching staff, which started the season with Steve Ogden, Rich Penny, John Gudyk, Earl Metzler, Dave Mountain, Dave Langley, and Jim Porter, was defeated by injuries, forcing the U.S. Navy's Chris McCarthy and taking third in the MAC

This past year has been dedicated for the various sports programs at Bridgewater State. As can be seen by the number of accomplishments already raised in the Hockey Gym, athletic achievements and various activities accomplishments will add even more to the Museum.

The fall season was history by the way, the winter sports with the field hockey team winning the ECAC Division III Championship "12-4-3," and the women's basketball team (25-16) winning the MAC.

With the semester soon coming to an end, being successful is a must if one will make it in the sports world another year.

There's no doubt that this spring has been the women's softball team, men's and women's track teams and the men's baseball team's best season ever at B.S.C., going 19-21. They also made NCAA Division III tournament. The men's track team travels to Eastern Connecticut State University and the N.C.A.A. Northeast Regional Tournament for a shot at the national title.

Women's Track Team

The team is optimistic about their future. The team has improved their times throughout the year, and depth, 1. Dan Murphy - All New England, 2. Scotti Baker - All New England, and 3. Jennifer Collicutt - All New England. The men's track team is also doing well with some of their new talent.

The men's track team has been the best in the nation this year. The team has improved their times throughout the season. The team has improved by 3 seconds in the 100 meters, 2 seconds in the 400 meters, 3 seconds in the 800 meters, and 5 seconds in the 1500 meters. The team has also improved their times in the hurdles, long jump, and triple jump.

The women's track team has also improved their times throughout the season. The team has improved by 4 seconds in the 100 meters, 2 seconds in the 400 meters, 3 seconds in the 800 meters, and 5 seconds in the 1500 meters. The team has also improved their times in the hurdles, long jump, and triple jump.

The gymnastics team (4-3) is coming to an end. The team has done an outstanding job throughout the season. The team has improved their times in the all-around, floor exercise, vault, and balance beam. The men's baseball team is also doing well with some of their new talent.

by Mike Storey

The Bear women's basketball team which is now 11-2 for the season and has won seven straight games, is considered one of the finest teams in the Western Athletic Conference (WAC). They are currently 2nd in the WAC standings, behind only the University of Hawaii. The team is coached by Pat Kaeppler, who has led the team to numerous conference titles and NCAA tournament appearances.

The Lady Bears are led by senior forward Carmen Cooper, who is averaging 18.5 points and 8.5 rebounds per game. Other key contributors include sophomore guard Amanda Watson, who is averaging 15.1 points and 4.3 assists per game, and sophomore guard Kristy King, who is averaging 14.8 points and 5.4 rebounds per game. The team has a strong defense, allowing just 61.3 points per game.

The Lady Bears have a tough road ahead of them, with games against top opponents such as the University of New Mexico and the University of Wyoming. However, they are looking forward to these challenges and hope to continue their success throughout the remainder of the season.

Barnett Honored

Last Saturday evening, one of the most distinguished figures in college theater, Professor Robert J. Barnett, was honored by the Harvard College Schola. Professor Barnett is the producer/director of the Ensemble Theater's acclaimed production of Shears' "Theatre in the Community". This production was well attended by the audience and has been praised as one of the best in the country. Professor Barnett is also a member of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and Bridgewater State College.

Daniel Magno, former President of the SGA, won the presidency of the SGA at a close race with Cisco Messina. When asked about the reasons for this success, Magno stated, "I don't know what I can do, but I'll do my best to help everyone get their input. I'm not going to satisfy everyone."

The Senate next year is going to be more productive. We just have to start working on getting things done. The Senate will be more active because Paul Dobson will be here. I'm not Paul Dobson - I'm going to get things done. They (the Senate) don't like me and the Senate didn't want to get anything done. I'm very hopeful.

The issues concerning community have been key in the Magno campaign, which means more recognition of the community by the entire College Community. Magno said that, "I'd like to have a number of seats in the Senate. I plan to work in the Senate and I plan to work in a positive way, but I will next year." In closing, Magno expressed his pleasure on winning the election and thanks the individuals who supported him.

David Carrella, who has been an active member of the SGA, was elected as the First Vice President of the SGA meetings. As one who attends the SGA meetings, he knows, they can become
