Students Stake in the Election

By Ralph Nader
Consumer Advocate

The question of whether personal freedom should be enhanced or diminished is a prime concern of the electorate at this time. The voters want a candidate who will stand up for their rights, rather than the politicians' rights when the other two branches of government are too dictatorially interested in their own schemes. For the first time, the candidates are being held accountable for their positions on this critical issue.

I hope everyone had a most enjoyable Halloween and all the festivities accompanied with this most joyous season. Next stop on our holiday train is the annual student election which will be held on November 5th, 1984.

The votes were counted, and the results are as follows: 138,610 votes were cast, with a margin of error of 3.8%. The outcome was that the SGA candidates were re-elected.

Editor-in-Chief

Recently, the Controversy has reached the highest level with a petition signed by Student Government Associates (SGA) members to000. The students have proposed a new law that would significantly alter the Social Security system. The argument is that the Social Security Fund is in need of reform. The proposed law would allow the fund to be invested in the stock market, which could result in higher benefits for future retirees.

The final vote on the proposed law is scheduled for March 15th. The students are hoping for a large turnout and support for their cause. If the law is passed, it would have a significant impact on the future of Social Security.

The SGA students believe that the proposed law is necessary to ensure the financial stability of the Social Security system. They argue that the current system is unsustainable and that changes are needed to ensure that future generations will receive adequate benefits.

However, the proposal has faced opposition from some quarters, including members of the House of Representatives and the Senate. The opponents argue that the proposed law would shift too much risk to individuals and that it could lead to exploitation.

The debate continues, with both sides presenting compelling arguments. It remains to be seen how the final vote will unfold and what the implications will be for the future of Social Security.

Four years ago, I received financial aid for my first year of college. Last year, there was no aid for any of my expenses. This year, I received financial aid for my second year of college. What will four more years do to aid for college in the United States of America? In U.S. — Service relations alreay exist between the two countries. Therefore, the aid system is in great danger. There are several differences in Mennonite and Lutheran education in the United States. It's not enough to provide a transitional fund, which Mennonite and churches, the adhoration of the church. Being able to come back to the Earth ten times over is bad, let’s not take our chances.

There is a lot of observance in Central America and the Middle East. Walter Mondale, the 1984 Democratic presidential candidate, within 100 days of becoming president, will end U.S. aid to force seeking to overthrow the Nicaragua government. Furthermore, he supports a multi-national effort to achieve diplomatic solutions to the conflict in Central America. Angles can continue to push for military aid to El Salvador and Nicaragua. The reason this action is effective is the cost of the drug. In four more years, we could have a truce signed in these parts and we’d still fight right there. We should have learned from Vietnam, but we didn’t.

I believe the next four years will be important in the passing of the 1984 presidential election. The choice of President is less than two years in that it would be under the Mondale Fed­eral Administration.

Finally, we have seen what Ronald Reagan has done to education for four years. He’s moving toward eliminating the Education Department, has cut federal grants, and other agencies that finance programs. He has cut nearly half of the entire education budget. By 8 p.m. on the night of the election, it is likely the colleges and universities of the nation will have been granted an immense amount of money.

In addition, we are facing a federal budget deficit of $13 billion. As we enter the 1980s, the federal government is facing a $13 billion budget deficit. The deficit is likely to rise as high as $20 billion, and the federal government will have to cut back on its programs. We can only hope that the colleges and universities of the nation will have been granted an immense amount of money.

I believe this is a crucial time for us to make sure that the colleges and universities of the nation will have been granted an immense amount of money.

The Gannon SGA Presidential "Politics"

By Gregory C. Mathis

Editor-in-Chief

Jack Murray was involved with the Student Government Association (SGA) at his previous college, but was not interested in becoming the President of the Student Government Association at Gannon. Murray said, "I was more interested in being an active member than the head of the organization." However, when the opportunity arose, Murray jumped at the chance to run for President of the Student Government Association at Gannon University.

Wilmers and Whitehead announced their campaign for the presidency of the Student Government Association, and their platform included a focus on issues such as campus safety and the environment. Wilmers and Whitehead were able to secure the support of many students and faculty members, and won the election with a margin of 500 votes.

The new President of the Student Government Association, Ed Beaton, is looking forward to a successful year for the organization. "We are excited to be able to work with the administration on issues such as campus safety and the environment," said Beaton.

As the 1984 presidential election approaches, the United States is facing a crisis on its southern border. The influx of illegal aliens is reaching unprecedented levels, and the federal government has been unable to cope with the situation.

The Democratic Candidates, Young Voters

By Gary Hart

Senior of Colorado

People with long memories have fond memories of the Democratic candidates from earlier this year. Our candidates were young, idealistic, and full of promise. They represented the hope for a better future for America. But the candidates were not able to deliver on their promises.

The Democrats are once again the party of young voters. Their candidates are energetic and full of hope. They represent the future of America. But the Democrats are not able to deliver on their promises.

Four years ago, I received financial aid for my first year of college. Today, I still don't have a job. The reason is that the government has taken away my financial aid.

Four years ago, the government had a plan to help students. They gave me financial aid to attend college. Today, the government has taken away my financial aid.

What will four more years of Reagan mean? It means more tax breaks for the wealthy, less for the middle class, and none for the poor. It means more power for the corporations, less for the unions. It means more military spending, less for education and health care.

There is a lot of opposition to the Reagan administration in the United States. But the opposition is not organized. It is scattered, and it is not strong enough to defeat the Reagan administration.

The Beat Goes On

By Audrey Little

 Twist and Turn! The (English) Beat goes on in the form of General Public, a group formed by Dave Wakeling and Ranking Roger after they left The English Beat last year. Mick Jones (ex-The Clash) plays guitar on some of the tunes on their debut album, All The Rage.

Side One opens with "'Hot You're Cool," a dance tune featuring Saxa, another Beat alumni, on saxaphone. This tune reminds me of the material from Special Beat Service. "'Tenderness" is a really pretty tune which has been receiving some airplay. This is one of my favorite tunes on the album. "Anxious," a slower and has more of a reggae sound. "Never You Done That" is another of my favorites and again reminds me of the Special Beat Service album. Side One closes with "'Living Bright," which has a strong reggae sound.

Side Two opens with "'A Matter Of Fact," which features some rapping at the beginning and is kind of funky. "Are You Leading Me On?" is a faster ska tune much like The Heat's older material. "Day To Day" is less lighthearted than the rest of the tunes, and "Where's The Line?" features lots of brass sound. "General Public," which closes the album, is aDIRTY ends with lyrics such as "...that right you could act so badly, people never notice, sadly all the goings on behind the backs of men left well deserted ..." This tune is reminiscent of some of The Clash's dancing in reggae on Zoot Money. Mick Jones must have had a hand in this tune. And, although the English Beat is no more, All The Rage shows that General Public might be the next big thing.

It's P.A.R.T.Y. Time

By Margaret Kelly

In 1980, 46-70% of college students used alcohol. In 1986, 43-60% used alcoholic beverages. Alcohol has become the number one contributor to illness in United States. Throughout the country, many facilities have been established to help alcoholics. Behavioral State College also has established an organization which provides information concerning alcoholism. Project P.A.R.T.Y. (Prevent Alcohol Responsibility Toward Yourself) is a new, independent, governmental, confidential peer group which works with students in identifying and controlling the college and surrounding communities' concerns of alcoholism. Members of Project P.A.R.T.Y. have been trained by various on- and off-campus professionals. These students operate a flowing alcoholic beverage program and serve as referral agents. The only administrative member is Monica Querrell, who serves as an advisor for the organization. The purpose of Project P.A.R.T.Y. is to furnish the college community with information pertaining to alcoholism and to promote responsible drinking. The group does not condone drinking, only that those who choose to drink do so in a responsible manner.

Meetings held by Project P.A.R.T.Y. are open to all students interested in attending. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening at the Student Center of the Rathskeller. For further information, contact Monica Querrell at 697-1260.

Age: 22 (WB Mem, Senior)
Shift: None

Russell, a member of the class of 1985, currently serves as the Program Director at WBIM. By obtaining this position, Russ is the highest ranking student at the station. Formerly, he served as the music staff, and was a newspaper and a DJ. Also, on campus, Russ worked at the Writing Center and was a writer for the Community Services Office.

Interests in music range from mainstream and dance to rock and hard rock. Russell enjoys playing a good band on the guitar and highly involves himself in the music scene. Being in the media is what Russ really enjoys. He would like to see more students get involved in journalism for writing on a record company. He is an aspiring radio DJ who is looking forward to the future. "WBIM has offered many opportunities to me in terms of both career and entertainment. Working in an organization of this size prepares people to approach the business world more as a group and work as a college student.

Although you cannot listen to Russ on the air, the music you listen to is a reflection of how far has brought the station so far this semester. For the best variety of music found anywhere, listen to WBIM.

From Special Beat Service, "Tobacco" is a really pretty tune which has been receiving some display. This is one of my favorite tunes on the album. "No More" is a slower one and has more of a reggae sound. "Never Done That" is another of my favorites and again reminds me of the Special Beat Service album. Side One closes with "The Columns," which has a really nice sound.

Side Two opens with "A Bitter Fate" and then some riding at the beginning, then fades out. "Fetty Davis Eyes" is a favor she has many people start the next song.

By Carolyn Soper and Mark Wurster

Group Leaders in the Children's Physical Development Clinic

On Saturday morning, October 27th, the Children's Physical Development Clinic was privileged to hear a lecture given by Albert Schenck, Director of South Shore Respite Care Center in Marshfield. Mr. Schenck related to the clinicians the importance, purpose and need of respite care in the community.

Respite, literally defined, is an interval of temporary relief or rest. As discussed by Mr. Schenck, the respite is used for the parents and families of disabled and handicapped children.

The respite care project which was initiated in 1979 was started at the clinic to allow the families to have a time out. The children of the families are involved, too. They do not always need respite care themselves, but sometimes it's needed for the family. The total care of the family is needed.

For respite care to be effective, the parents must be comfortable with the concept of the service. For example, a parent who is calling the center every hour after dropping their child off is not actually utilizing respite. There are some families who will not use respite services due to guilt. Others may be afraid to use their hours in a "real emergency" area.

The presence of continual care and respite care in the home is the emphasis. On the other hand of the services those who will go to great lengths to find other support and assistance. The need for the service is obvious. The children of the families are involved, too. They do not always need respite care themselves, but sometimes it's needed for the family. The total care of the family is needed.

This year's awards went to: Patricia Brown, Margo Benham, and Colleen Landgraf. The awards were presented to President Adrian Rondileau at the annual banquet.

Group Leaders in the Children's Physical Development Clinic

On Saturday morning, October 27th, the Children's Physical Development Clinic was privileged to hear a lecture given by Albert Schmickel, Director of South Shore Respite Care Center in Marshfield. Mr. Schmickel related to the clinicians the importance, purpose and need of respite care in the community.

Respite, literally defined, is an interval of temporary relief or rest. As discussed by Mr. Schmickel, the real mission is two-fold: for the parents and families of disabled and handicapped children. The state now allocates ten days of respite care per child per year. The emphasis, however, is on the service. The need for respite care is still unmet in Massachusetts. This time can be used for special needs, or even a weekend trip for the family in tact, by preventing the family from becoming worn out. "Respite care is meant to remove the last resort rather than a necessity intervention. Due to the perceived lack of need, state funding was minimized until recently, when a 51A (Department of Social Services, DSS, Child Care Section) would file a 51A to open the needed services. On the other hand of the spectrum there are those who will go to great lengths to use the service. There is a period of time each year when no funding was available." Upon listening to Mr. Schmickel's lecture, the question arose, are the needs of the community being met in regard to respite availability? Mr. Schmickel replied, "There really doesn't seem to be a lot more residual facilities and opportunities. The program really is beginning to grow. There are more people involved." At closing, Mr. Schmickel extended an invitation to all clinicians to visit the Massleff facility and offer their expertise on the staff if the experience would facilitate their professional growth.

Women’s Tennis Alive at Bridgewater State

By Mike Stoney Staff Writer

In the fall of 1983, the Bridgewater State women’s tennis program was formed to cater to this season because they were unable to find a team to compete. The two or three girls that did wish to play along were welcomed by their team. The reason the two or three were also welcomed by their team is that the program is a haven. It is a place where they can find a team that they can belong to and enjoy playing tennis.
