STEPHEN SMALLEY

Stephen F. Smalley has been an art faculty member at Bridgewater State College since 1972 and he continues to credit his career in art to rain, frogs, and baseball. He is currently expanding upon his Tools of Ignorance series (drawings and paintings) which focuses on Mickey Cochrane, a Bridgewater native and Hall of Fame catcher. His newer focus is upon luminaries in pop music.

Dr. Smalley graduated from Pennsylvania State University, Boston State College, and Massachusetts College of Art. From 1972 - 1984 he served as Bridgewater Art Department Chair. Prior to coming to Bridgewater he served as Art Education Chair at the Tyler School of Art, Temple University. He also taught high school art at Rindge Technical High School in Cambridge.

He is particularly interested in contemporary American and British Art and is ever partial to all things pop and the playing fields. He and his wife Clelia, parents of three grown children, reside in Bridgewater.
