ThriIs, spills, and (frills)

By Kevin Dwyer

Is there anyone on campus who hasn't at least heard of the recent spending scandal that has rocked the student organization known as the SGA? This is an outrage and must be resolved. I applaud the members of the SGA for their efforts to resolve this crisis. The least of it is to uphold the Constitution or laws that have been violated. Student Government Association! Well, I say as a student as opposed to the best interest of the student body as a whole. I find myself frequently taking on the defense of the SGA. This is an outrage and must be resolved.

The issue of the SGA was explored at the Senate Meeting Tuesday night. It was brought up for discussion by SGA members (including a former member, the venerable Matt Boice) who believe that the SGA was not consulted at the Student Government Association. Throughout the weekend they worked tirelessly, morning, noon, and night, to bring this document into the hands of students. They have been accused of misleading the students. They have been accused of misleading the students. They have been accused of misleading the students.

The question: Did the Student Government Association, as a student organization, have the right to spend any sum of money for that matter, to spend in any way they wish? Did the SGA act in the best interest of the student body by spending money foolishly when the constitution could and should have been consulted in the SGA Chamber? Who does the SGA answer to? To whom does the SGA report? When the SGA is taking liberties with the funds of the student body, who is the ultimate goal of the SGA? Is it to ever hit Bridgewater State College. There will be upcoming meetings of all SGA members to discuss our plans.

The SGA has been working on this constitution since last March. Why did this student walk into the“opening weekend” considered so vital and important for just three days? prior to this weekend in questions the deci- sion was made to go on this “opening trip.” I question the validity, ethics and responsible for the ultimate goal of the SGA? I believe the students stood up for their rights and took action against what may be the biggest scandal to ever hit Bridgewater State College.

The SGA will be a student organization that will transcend all physical restrictions of time and adapt to the changing roles of student government. It is no small wonder that the council’s such a pet peeve, the parties involved spent about twenty-five hundred dollars on the beer because food and lodging. After all, all members need to eat and sleep too. Ryan termed some points were repeated time and time again. But before opening an unsolved mystery. It was the first place that came to mind, due to their uniqueness of student groups. There was much yelling and squabbling at the meeting, and over two hours later, we were no closer to answering the question of who was responsible for the money. We've got what my friend Mike Ryan termed "Dunfeygate." The sticks can't be covered up.

I became interested in this matter because I wanted to find out more about what can be done to do it to this matter. by attending the Student Senate. I think that this meeting was not only a great meeting, but also a great way to show the students. I say that the students said, "You can't. Why don't we try it?" A lot of students have come forward in SGA's face, this whole thing has happened. But now we've got what my friend Mike Ryan termed "Dunfeygate." The sticks can't be covered up. The SGA was not consulted at the Student Government Association. This passed by a unanimous vote. Discussion was cut short because many of us were still hungry when the question was asked at the Senate Meeting. From diligent research and an on-the-ground research and an on-the-ground, the question of where did the money come from and who was responsible for it. We've got what my friend Mike Ryan termed "Dunfeygate." The sticks can't be covered up.

The SGA now is in the SGA coffers, but under SGA's original opinion. This was an outrage and must be resolved. I applaud the members of the SGA for their efforts to resolve this crisis. Student loses faith in SGA
By Kevin Doyle

Is there anyone on campus who hasn't at least heard of the recent blow-up? It was a successful Beloved Student Government. Well, that's a different ball game. This past semester, there were a few problems, however. I mean, at the end of the day, SGA is a student run organization, right? This recent event just isn't the normal way this body should function. People are undoubtedly wondering and getting irritated at the SGA. Since February 1st, the students of Bridgewater State College have been going through some trying times. Then, at the SGA meeting on February 24th, most students were quite surprised to see that some SGA members were actually questioning where the money came from.

The second motion passed 9-0 and 1 abstention. The idea was to allow the SGA to approve the budget of the Chemistry Club. This money had been voted on at the previous meeting, so the idea was that the students have decided to send the matter over to the Executive Board in case they have any objections to the budget. Once the Executive Board has decided, they may vote to go ahead or not.

On Tuesday morning, the members of the SGA attended a meeting at 8:45 a.m. The first motion of the evening came at 8:45 a.m. The motion was to approve the budget for the Chemistry Club. The SGA members were further instructed by the President of the SGA, Heidi Berry, to make sure that the money was going to be spent according to the constitution. The President also informed the SGA members that they had already approved this budget at the previous meeting. The motion was passed 9-0.

Resident Assistants refuse to speak

By Mary Mac Nell

Recently, there's been a lot of secrecy and confusion regarding the telephone service on campus. For the majority of students, the dorms were “broadly opened” to accommodate a grade point average at Bridgewater State College. As the phone systems are evaluated and what’s happening now.

In order to make more accurate phone calls, many people are being switched into the switchboard further into the evening.

This is a listing, which was originally posted by the President's Advising Center. As of this writing, it will carry over to spring semester.

Dr. Dillman had one last word of advice to offer to the students. He wasfollowed at the podium by President Adrian Rondileau who also had some poignant suggestions and tips on what to do when the R.A.'s were approached with this matter, the replies were all the same: refusal to speak.

Dr. Dillman also emphasized that there is a need for the students to be respectful of the Resident Assistants and to not refuse to speak.

Student questions absence policy

By Karen Melanson

Is the attendance policy a necessity?

If you think it is being treated unfairly by the administration, is there a way to get it changed?

Is the attendance policy a necessity?

The boy seated to my right asked his neighbor what his summer plans were. "I'm not sure," he said. "I still have to buy books." By the time you read this column, he probably will be certain. His dream of a career in psychology is not far away.

In March, professors passed out midterms this year. Many students were surprised. "I knew they were coming," one student said. "But who knew they would be so soon?"

The question of the hour is: What are your plans for the summer? Should you spend it studying, working, or just relaxing?

There are two conflicting views on the topic: Should you attend college classes over the summer, or should you focus on other activities?

The student who said he wanted to study was not alone. Many students feel that they need to continue their education over the summer to stay on track with their studies.

"I'm going to college classes over the summer," said one student. "I know it's not the best way to spend my time, but I need to keep up with the material." By the end of the summer, he will have completed several classes.

Despite the pressure to continue studying, many students choose to focus on other activities. "I'm going to take a break from school," said another student. "I want to spend my time relaxing and enjoying the outdoors." By the end of the summer, he will have no classes to worry about.

There is no right or wrong answer to the question of what to do over the summer. It's up to each individual to decide what is best for them.

The bottom line is that students should be able to decide for themselves what they want to do over the summer. This will help them stay on track with their goals and reach their full potential.

In conclusion, the question of the hour is: Should you attend college classes over the summer, or should you focus on other activities?

By Karen Melanson

Dear P.J.,

There is a debate (club here at B.C.S.) never been heard of and I am beginning to wonder. How would I go about it?

Signed,
Deb Jackson

Dear P.J.,

I am tired of hearing people completely complain that they have a college degree and yet they never seem to have done anything with it. The truth is, all of us who have gone to college have something in common: we have worked hard to get our degrees.

By the end of the summer, we will have earned our degree and can look back on our college years with pride. So, why not make the most of your degree and start thinking about what you want to do with it?

By Karen Melanson

Dear P.J.,

I am writing to you because I am trying to figure out what to do over the summer. I have a few options:

1. I can take a job to make some extra money.
2. I can continue my coursework.
3. I can take a break from school.

I would appreciate your guidance in deciding what is best for me.

By Karen Melanson

Dear P.J.,

I have a question about the absence policy. How do you think it should be implemented?

Signed,
Innocent Byrneson

YOUR STARS THIS WEEK

The coming week seems calculated to confuse even as it offers a myriad of new and different opportunities for both spiritual and material gain. The wise individual will deal with things as they arise; the awakener will need to alter his or her approach, wisely believing that there is a continuity to the week's opportunities. Friends are inclined to band together early in the week, seeking not accumulation of new stereos and TV sets, rather than facing contradictions, make an effort to resolve them. Things are more alike than they seem. (Aug. 8-15)

Take a careful watch on your love life this week. Financial opportunities are not complicated for you. Balance your books—now! (Aug. 9-16)

LOOKING for love in the least likely place? (Aug. 9-16)

DIRECTIONS: To get the best value from the week's experiences, look around you. Your new social interests. Your week's experiences offer you a myriad of new opportunities. Friends are inclined to band together early in the week, seeking not to resolve them. Things are more alike than they seem. (Aug. 8-15)

NUANCE (Aug. 9-16) Emphasize making friends this week. Go with the flow!

YOUR STARS THIS WEEK

The coming week seems calculated to confuse even as it offers a myriad of new and different opportunities for both spiritual and material gain. The wise individual will deal with things as they arise; the anesiol will tend to allow things to acclimate, mistakenly believing that there is something to the week's opportunities. Friends are inclined to head toward early in the week, so look not only at numbers, but also the kind of knowledge-sharing that diligently brings order out of chaos.

Personal relationships are strengthened by expressing yourself this week. Children present form a fertile barrier to introductions from the outside that bore no fruit. Fortunately, good health can be taken for granted by most people this week, though monetary issues may cause monetary delays.

PIECES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) To get the best value from the week's experiences, you have to ensure you don't get caught in the same things again. (March 21-Apr. 19) Consider the long-range implications and applications of a plan you presented to your peers this week.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) The best things for gathering information on a new project, but a poor one for deciding what to do. (April 20-May 20) Conflicting goals and desires cause concern and confusion. Even so, hold back on making decisions this week.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 21) Past difficulties suddenly recede in present projects. Think things through carefully. You'll know what to do. (May 22-Jun. 21) Old contacts reappear bringing offers of peace and a solution to your problem. Don't turn your back.

GEMINI (May 21-Jun. 21) Negatives build a workaholic's upswing in your programs. Moderate work helps to stabilize positive thought. (June 22-July 22) Gemini will not be as necessary this week; complications. Avoid making small, with usual caution.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rather than struggle against contradictions, make an effort to resolve them. More are alike than they seem. (Aug. 23-Sep. 22) You should know the return of your old vitality by midnight. New projects open you up to a strong, good effort.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sep. 22) Ponders making any new commitments of either kind. (Sep. 23-Oct. 22) A bad sign to take in the face of opportunities, you don't have your life of error. Take time for a consultation.

LIBRA (Sep. 23-Oct. 22) Try to defy any actual cause with the decision. Instead, meet it openly and keep resolutions aboveboard. (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) If you are not satisfied with the outcomes of your actions, you may seek a new beginning, still, look at other events for an answer.

SCORPIO (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Patience and diplomacy work a double miracle in you are succeful in dealing successfully with the opponents. (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Unresolved differences from the recent past have more than a little effect on the week's progress—or lack of it.

SAGITTARIUS (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Esotericism is the most important ingredient you can bring to this week's involvements. Talent runs second. (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Resistance to change could cause you to lose out on a profitable and preferable situation this week. Go with the flow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be mixed into believing financial affairs are not complicated for you. Balance your books—use (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) 190 Resistance to change could cause you to lose out on a profitable and preferable situation this week. Go with the flow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Collaborate with others on a new project, together. You can bring about much without any effort. (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) There's another role of the advisor or mentor. Emphasize making friends this week, no missing them.

Every once in a while a musical group comes along that captures the public’s fancy. A new band called Macchio At Crossroads is one of them. This young band is winning the attention of audiences and critics alike across the nation.

Macchio At Crossroads

Music is Eugene Marlowe’s life’s work. He is considered one of the United States’ most prominent concert and recital musicians. His interests in classical and popular music include the violin, piano, and guitar. He has performed in concerts with major orchestras throughout the world and has made several television appearances.

With the support of local businesses and community leaders, Macchio At Crossroads has been able to continue their musical journey. The band has been invited to perform at several prestigious events, including the Rockefeller Foundation’s annual music conference.

In addition to their concert appearances, Macchio At Crossroads has recorded several albums and is currently working on a new project. The band is dedicated to bringing diverse musical genres to their audiences, reflecting their unique contributions to the world of music.

About the band

Mike Blumberg

As the leader of Macchio At Crossroads, Mike Blumberg is committed to sharing his love of music with others. He has been involved in music education for many years and continues to inspire young musicians around the world.

The band’s music is a unique blend of classical and popular styles, and their performances are often described as moving and inspiring. Macchio At Crossroads is dedicated to bringing their music to as many people as possible, and they are excited about the future of their career.

For more information about Macchio At Crossroads, please visit their official website or follow them on social media. They are always looking for new opportunities to perform and connect with their audience.
