B.S.C. or M.C.I.? Students at apartments complain of tight security at night

By Louise Calandrella

The apartment dwellers, who live in the student apartments here, have voted the low grades in the lower contest in the last two years. The total of the 300 apartments, however, were scored high for the new system. The total of the 300 apartments, however, were scored high for the new system.

On Tuesday, much of the faculty gathered behind the doors of the library lecture hall. The meeting was not proceeded by much publicity. It went off with little fanfare. The public was not invited, neither was the press.

You'd think they were discussing something unimportant; something that does not affect the rest of the campus.

In fact, they were discussing the current contract dispute that their students are facing. This was the meeting that the Students Union Association held. They were accompanied by faculty members, including sports and science departments. The unusual action created a feeling of anxiety and importance for the students.

The Convocation Ceremony President Howard said: "Look at the Seagull on your laptop, and newspaper photographers and writers were there getting the story, but what exactly was the story they were getting? What exactly is Convocation? Convocation is a tradition that dates back to the Middle Ages."
On Tuesday, much of the faculty gathered behind the doors of the library for the convocation. The ceremony did not proceed by much publicity. It went off with little fanfare. The public was not invited, another was the news.

You’d think they were discussing something unimportant; something that does not effect the rest of the campus.

In fact, they did not discuss the current contract dispute that their administration union is having with state college administrations. The word strike has surfaced in campus conversations.

Not much has been revealed to the campus. Many issues that separate administration and faculty. Certain features of the issues are equity. The union wants a gender-free contract. Female faculty members want pay for equal work.

There are several other issues at hand. Faculty and administrators may disagree on the number of days per week that they would like to be employed. The faculty was not asked to remain anonymous. The results of their vote would have been turned in to union headquarters, the source.

After votes from all state colleges are received, a decision with state-wide implications will be made to strike or not to strike. Our faculty apparently has decided to wait. According to the source, they voted to abstain from voting on the strike. The source also states that there will be no strike in the upcoming fall semester.

This is an issue of greater concern to students. Remember them, they are why these institutions exist. It is in the students’ best interest to be informed of any issue of such vital concern to them.

To keep information from students concerning a potential strike of potential interruption of unknown duration of classes, is simply unfair.

Joe W. Dougall, Jr.

Another semester, another battle of classes. This time was not a Peace and a determined-looking lookout, plus a potential goal. In Tokyo a pick-up (Black) we entered the Dome, officially called a rodeo, in Nikes, he is first-grader, and the Dairy Barns, he is a one man out. Two men over, in his first grade, and one had to be hauled down. After all, a trained longhorn isn’t a fair exchange for an Ethic lecturer.

So这时候 his Daddy - was track (Black) into second, did by me, looking straight ahead, and promptly stopped 25 feet after the crosswalk. Spring fresh girls jog by.

He walked off, with a look, a few lost.

Although the above situation is a slight exaggeration, it points to the glaring problem of driving ignorance on campuses. The campus is a place of safety, where one dare not drive at a speed greater than 5 mph, on the way up to 30. There, you’re well out of the way. Supposed the brakes fail, supposed someone says, “Hey, this is a crosswalk, STOP.” You have a responsibility (that’s right, even at this tender age) to protect not just yourself but all others is your responsibility. Put, saying it in print, is not a simple.

The suburban good example is the suburban driver who steps into the street, or over the crosswalk. Judge this for yourself, or consider, of course, when determining a safe time to actually move across the road, and in reality, there are those who don’t.

“Hey, this is a crosswalk, STOP” then cross regardless of risk. But the whole, I recognize good judgment as prevalent in so far as the pedestrians risk is concerned.

This is my first, these degs who for one reason or another, instead of granting an immediate and reasonable right of way in a pedestrian, choose to run the line.

There are those who talk like Dad’s 350, financed garage and visibly speed up when in view of a crosswalk. They pass through the intersection as if it were a Chicago Drink, but behind the wheel of a 9,000 Ib. automobile, travelling at 25 mph, on the way up to 30,30 you’re well out of the way. A day in the life of a BSC freshman

By Scott Gagnon

Dear Diary:

When a time my first day of college has been, I woke up at 6 a.m. and the sight was a beautiful scene of the sun rising. The sun broke through the clouds, and the sky was filled with rays of light. I walked to my dorm and arrived at 7 a.m.

I arrived at 7:30, half-expecting to see the giraffe again. I did not see anything. As a result, we fresmen are half-expecting.

I went to class and saw many new faces again. The second day, and management students to attend. Meetings are conducted on Tuesdays at 11 a.m. in Room L-23.8 when posted. To find out when the next meeting is, check the Management Bulletin Board on the third floor.

Dressed in my new (but not fat) clothes and my new book bag, with over brushed teeth and extra cologne. I knew I was going to have a good day.

Mom, I'm in college now. I don't want to see you again.

Tomorrow, the Management will have a very special meeting.

A day in the life of a BSC freshman

By Scott Gagnon

What a time my first day of college has been. I woke up at 7 a.m. and made my way to the student center. The campus was bustling with activity as students gathered to catch the morning shuttle to the airport.

I arrived at the airport at 8:30 a.m. and waited in line for my flight. The plane was small, and the cabin was packed. I settled into my seat and tried to get some rest before the journey.

The flight was uneventful, and I arrived in Arizona at 11 a.m. The weather was hot and humid, but I was ready to explore the city and see the sights.

I spent the afternoon at the downtown mall, shopping for clothes and supplies for college. I bought a new backpack, a coffee mug, and some snacks for the plane ride back home.

After a brief stop at the airport, I boarded the return flight and arrived back home at 8 p.m. I was exhausted but happy to be back with my family.

Welcome!

I am also preparing for a school-structured event on Friday night that will be the most anticipated event of the week. By the end of the first week, a student's experience is routine, and the excitement of the first day will be replaced by the routine of college life.

I am grateful for the opportunity to attend BSC and to be a part of this community. I look forward to my future here and all that it holds.

Mumford works on loan to Bridgewater

Bridgewater State College has secured its loan from Monmouth College. The college has been able to raise $1 million for its arts program, and the college will use the proceeds to pay for the purchase of a new building.

The college plans to use the building to house its fine arts program, including music, theater, and dance. The college hopes to have the building completed within the next year.

The college is grateful to Monmouth College for its support and looks forward to continuing the relationship.

John Bon Jovi looks like a very good individual. After a 55,000 oemaging opening on the wide and shallow shores of the 5th of June, it’s still ourParameter of the venge of edge. To make matters worse, the previous year’s hit “Runaway” found itself at the #3 spot, and it’s tough to ignore the fact that John Bon Jovi has a new album out.

Bon Jovi and his fourth member have been on a media blitz since their debut single “Runaway” hit the Top 10 in 1983. Although their biggest expulsion is expected to be “Runaway,” they have a few other songs that are sure to impress. The album features a mix of pop and rock, and the band is set to hit the road in support of the new release.

Bon Jovi’s music is perfect for a summer evening. The album is filled with catchy hooks and memorable melodies, and it’s sure to be a hit with fans of all ages.

Jenifer Koenig takes a whirl

Bon Jovi is a rock star who has been around for a while. He has had several hits over the years, including “Runaway,” which was a huge hit in the late 1980s. The band has been around for more than 20 years, and they are still making great music.

The show is expected to be a huge success, and it’s sure to be a night to remember. So grab your tickets and get ready for a night of rock and roll!

Field house losses

The BSC Field Hockey team has had a tough season so far. This fall, the Blue and White faced-off against Brown and Dartmouth at home. The Blue and White lost both games, 2-1 and 0-2 respectively. The team is currently 1-4 in conference play and 2-5 overall. The Blue and White are ranked 11th in the nation.

Women’s volleyball starts out slow

Like many other teams on the BSC, the Blue and White started off the season with a tough match against a top team. In their first match against the Harvard Crimson, they fell 3-0. Unfortunately, they lost two matches against the perennial powerhouse from Yale University. However, the Blue and White rose to the occasion in their third match against the Boston College Eagles. They came out on top with a 3-1 victory.

The Blue and White have continued to improve throughout the season, winning their last four matches against the likes of Bucknell, Yale, and Dartmouth. They have a chance to clinch a spot in the NCAA Tournament with a win against the Northeastern Huskies on Friday. Despite their struggles, the Blue and White have shown improvement and are looking to continue their winning ways.

The Bridgewater State Field Hockey team opened up its season with an 8-5 win over Mass. Wesleyan on Saturday. Despite the loss, the Bears showed their potential and matured as a team.

The loss was quite optimistic. Roger Williams’ Tarin Drags, back and forth, and Mike Newcomb. They were able to take the series 2-0, with a 4-1 win over the Mass. Wesleyan team.
