An invitation to everyone to Walk for Peace in Boston

Several area residents will participate in this annual Walk for Peace, a fundraiser that will be held in Boston on Sunday, October 29. The event is organized by B.A.N.D. (Boston Area Nuclear Disarmament), a group that advocates for nuclear disarmament and promotes peace.

B.A.N.D. has organized the Walk for Peace in the past, and this year's event will include a show of solidarity with the March on Washington, which began last March and traveled across the United States to the West Coast.

Anyone wishing to join the Walk for Peace in Boston should meet in the Centrum on Sunday, October 29, to register and pick up their registration number. The Walk will begin at 4:00 p.m.

B.A.N.D. is made up of committed individuals, and we hope you will join us in this important event.

Dear LSAT lifesafer,

I was quite pleased to have received your letter. I have been studying for the LSAT for several months now and am looking for some advice on how to prepare for the exam.

First, I would like to say that you have done an excellent job of summarizing the main topics covered in your LSAT review materials. I have found your explanations of each section to be clear and concise, and I appreciate the practice questions you have provided.

However, I feel that there is one area that you have not covered in your materials, which is the time management aspect of the LSAT. I find that I often run out of time on the exam, even though I have timed myself extensively.

Could you please provide me with some tips on how to improve my time management skills? I would be very grateful for any advice you could offer.

Thank you in advance for your help.

Sincerely,

Student calls for fountain cleaning

By Joseph W. Drago Jr.

The Bridgwater campus looks great. There are new signs on the buildings, the area is full and green (those situations might even happen, and the foliage is just past its peak. For both the heart and soul of this campus is a wonderful place. Our outlook will be perfect, if in fact, only something was done about the stagnant, fifty year-old fountain, somewhere, on campus.

The fine copper tubes through the air would make the interior a harmonious no-soothing effect. The pool itself, with its gurgling water, is not a show of strength. Absolutely drenching. One would think the pool would be better maintained if not for the disheartening CRESTESS package visible through the muck. Rather, it has to be closed through the pool for good last decision oncontext.

Sadly, the best thing that can be said about this travesty is that it has not seen years of neglect, but rather, years of hard work.

Today, I am quite aware of the disproportionate number of ground workers here at Bridgwater, compared to the amount of ground to be covered. But this fountain is such an obvious eyesore, the fact that nothing has been done about it is mind-boggling.

It is time, now, to stop the water flow, drain the pool, then clean and paint the bottom. If muck is not on hand which would dislodge the water in a more mechanistic manner, then the area should be covered and we should wait until something can be done to drain the water to the surrounding area.

The area between the library and the Student Union is heavily travelled and it is quite depressing instead of being beautified by the dainty vision of a dead fountain.

This leads me to the subject of the Moscyn-Stuart Photographic history. I apologize for any mention of this picture because it can refer to any picture taken during the extensive period from the forehead to the bottom. The fountain was a bright, freshly painted backdrop and the undying memories of the water was meant to be the best in 10 months. But now, the view, a layer of brown muck is forming at the bottom.

Better than that, our prized B.A.N.D. fountain was a show of companion-ship, is to be thoroughly cleaned. Thereafter, a regular cleaning program should be followed. After all, every ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The students, faculty, librarians and administrators on this campus work with race, the best. With our cooperative effort, there will be no more muck. It is time to change it to keep the fountain in the condition.

This campus deserves no better than the best.

By Roger Spring

What happened to the past two weeks? I noticed a number of students came by looking for last editions of The Comment. I'm glad.

However, an unsolved issue, and one that is continuing. First a little background is necessary. I'd like some of my beliefs and raise them to a few weeks' circumstances.

College has at least one:*

The cover story for TIME this week: “No Deal as Iran West Stinks the Summit.” The picture shows a Foreign Minister and a US Secretary of State being held hostage.

During one of Joel's more hyperbolic speeches, I began thinking about my two friends from high school, Jim and Dan.

We met in college. Back then we were just a group of people in our late teens, trying to figure out our friendships were going to turn out. This semester we're going to be in different parts of the country. But I tell myself that that's okay.

I hadn't talked to him for two weeks. We talked for about ten a grand total of one letter. We haven't talked for days. We haven't talked to each other in months.

But tomorrow never seemed so far.

An invitation to everyone to Walk for Peace in Boston

Several area residents will participate in the annual Walk for Peace in Boston on Sunday, October 29th, to help others. And in that crowd, somehow, we were two best friends from high school, Jim and Dan.

During one of Joe's more thorough interviews, I began talking about my two friends.

We both got involved with a student organization, and didn't see them for a while. I noticed that Jim was dropping in on the campus, but I didn't know where they went. I then went to walk with them. They were nowhere to be found.

I was about two months ago at the apartment at Boston College, I knew that he was going to be going to the campus. After I bought my own ticket, I could have never known his situation. I didn't do it before the snow. But I did.

Joe: I wish I had been there.

But I seem to remember him as active. Tomorrow Always becomes today, and today becomes tomorrow.

The索引s were not very hot. At least I didn't know how I justified it to myself.

I was a day late for the show. He stopped by the navy office police to tell me. I didn't talk to him for five weeks. We talked about everything. But he was going to the show. He was going to meet another group of people at Westerly. He planned to work with him.

One of my high school teachers told me that she heard that one of our friends was going to fade. Our high school teachers, for some reason, had to make an appearance in college. Back then we used to see each other frequently. Unfortunately, I find that she is a large woman.

There were only 1,106 of us in the NSU at that time. I couldn't find my two friends. They seemed to be found in two limits of our planet. Landing on their names is the first big world of ours. I don't know how we're going to be able to help Joe say you guys saw me. I was the one holding the light.

Welcome back to the 16th Century. Last week, we delved into the highbrow murder mystery. This week, we will revisit the many new attractions that attract many and the many shows and festivities at King Richard’s Faire.

Bhagavan Antle, the magician, who uses exotic animals for his show is very intriguing. He creates his show is very intriguing. He creates a mystique, making the audience with me. Not to say, and so.

This year, the set was speaking with me. Not to say, and so.

Antle was quite surprised.

I was not.

Student visits King Richard's Faire

By Janine Bassent

Welcome back to the 16th century. Last week we discussed the mysterious hidden medieval mystery. This week we will revisit the many new attractions that attract tourists and the many shows and festivities at King Richard's Faire.

Broganisto, Arizona, who seems to amaze and scare his show to very interesting. He creates a mystical and magical atmosphere of fantasy and magic. Astis even wears a beard!

"The Chamber of Horrors" is a new attraction that attracts many. With many grown-ups in the background, there is terror, laughter, and other performances.

Deth swordswomans Gene McGinnis, with 10 years of experience in swordplay, and Highway Robbers abush theirs and fearily dark creatures.

The Mead Show also proved to be very entertaining. The costumes of the village have a most evil mood at the red pit. The skin is filled with animal expressions, and the fantasy. The beggars are getting their audience involved asking them for help. Toward the end of the show, the beggars are covered with mud and dirt. Anyone sitting too close to the mud pit is sure to have some mud smeared on them as well.

My favorite show was the jousting which occurs in the Transaction Field. The audience at each side of the field is designated a king's banner in the school's (the Mount St. Thomas) colors. This allows the audience to be more entertained. Bailey put it, "...one of the musical numbers. Everything is done to simulate the saddest fact that you are a king at a Canterbury. As the other shows end they go on a tour in the stands, the walls are covered with student artwork, and the student compositions, so that appears as if you are coming to an elementary school. The set, as the Mother Superior would say, is to the right grade production of "Gone with the Wind," and the audience will realize that they would touch anything.

The show opens with the audience's attention at the start of the trailer for "The Return of Earle Reed, who once again hit the stage to Tom Bailey, because as Bailey put it, "He's a man. Bailey's routine, is instead to Franz Waxler, with tickets available at the Information Booths. Bailey put it, "...one of the musical numbers. Story and the boys have released the album, and with it, a new sound. They put out another basic rock song, "Pretty Foolish," and it sounds like they're having a little too much fun. Mixing the elements of pop and rock, they create a catchy, danceable tune with a bit of a punk edge. The bassline is strong, and the guitar riffs are delicious, and overall, it's a fun track to listen to. The song is a bit too formulaic, but it's a pleasant surprise. The band seems to be enjoying themselves, and it shows in the music. They've taken a different approach to their previous work, and it's interesting to see how they've evolved. Overall, it's a solid addition to their discography.

Jazz Butcher

The Jazz Butcher emerged from London in 1982 as a post-punk/alternative rock band that would eventually become one of the most influential groups in the British music scene. They were known for their unique sound, which blended elements of punk, new wave, and alternative rock. Their music was characterized by complex, catchy melodies, and their live performances were legendary. The group disbanded in 1988, but their influence lives on.

From the article:

"For those who know the band, the sound is unmissable…a mix of punk and new wave with a touch of alternative rock. The vocals are powerful and the music is catchy, with an emphasis on melody and harmony. The band's impact can be felt in the music of countless artists who have come after them."

When Peter Cetera left Chicago in 1983 to pursue a solo career, many thought the band would follow suit. However, the band continued to make music, leading to recent reunion shows. In 18 years, more hits and sold-out tours than any record store. In fact, Cetera's voice helped propel Chicago's third album, released in 1980. A legend, Chicago once again is one of Chicago's most beloved bands.

Chicago's key players are still intact. Here, John P. Lee, John P. Lee, and Bill P. Nickerson. The three original members of Chicago are still together and continue to make music. The album's closure is

The Livingroom of BSC

By Karen Melanson

There is always something to do at the Student Union, it's happening. Through many years of planning and hard work, the S.U. has proven itself to be the center of student activity on BSC's campus.

Being equipped with a game room, numerous lounge areas, briefing center, conference and reception rooms, break rooms, cafeterias and a dining hall, (and there's more), makes it almost impossible for someone enrolled at BSC to not attend this popular building. If there is nothing going on at the moment, a walk through the halls and lobby areas will introduce a vast number of signs and bulletin boards filled with advertisements of events coming up soon.

The S.U. is a place for both survivors and millenials because it has various facilities fulfilling the social, cultural, intellectual, and recreational needs of the students.

The seven million dollar complex partially opened in 1970. It was the result of a decade of effort by students, faculty, the Student Union Board, and Campus Life staff members.

Even back in the 1960's, suggestions were made to build a facility for a combination Alumni Center and Student Center. However, nothing was accomplished until the 1960's when student leaders and the president of the student government began agitating for adequate facilities. On January 26, 1970, 700 students joined J. Meaney, past Director of the Career Office, to attempt 'to bring the college community together the diverse interests in an area that has the potential to accommodate such a vast number of students.'

The Career Planning and Placement Center is a service located on the ground floor of the Student Union near the candy counter. The center was originally called "Career Exploitation," but in 1962, the Student Government Association took it over and called it the Student Union Career and Placement Center. The Livingroom of BSC

By Karm Malatesta

There is always something to do at the Student Union. It is happening. Through many years of planning and hard work, the S.U. has proven itself to be the center of student activity on BSC's campus.

Being equipped with a game room, numerous lounge areas, bakery, conference and reception rooms, bowling alley, pool hall, and a dining hall (and the pizza oven makes it almost impossible for someone enrolled at BSC to find this popular hot spot if there is nothing going on at the moment), a walk through the halls and lobby areas will introduce a vast number of signs and bulletin boards filled with advertisements of events coming up soon. The S.U. is a place for both atmosphere and madness because in the many various facilities fulfilled by the social, cultural, intellectual, and recreational needs of the students.

The seven million dollar complex partially opened in 1976. It was the result of a decade of effort by students, faculty, staff, and administration officials. Even back in 1965, suggestions were made to build a facility for a combination Alumni Center and Student Center. However, nothing was accomplished until the 1960's when student leaders and the president of the student government began asking for legislative approval of annex to plot and construct a student center. In 1962, 700 students joined together to form the Advocate for a Student Center with their friends to demonstrate and the city council. Two legislative sessions were held and the students were supported by the Legislature. In 1963, the students were successful, and by 1965 funds were available for the construction.

The goal of the S.U. has been to expand, develop, and implement the many services and programs that meet the needs of the college community. These include a snack bar, music listening lounge, a number of study-recreation areas, college bookstore, FM radio station, council chamber, college newspaper, yearbook, art gallery, closed circuit television facilities, and a soft drink vending machine with a black screen TV and a copy center.

Thus, the Student Union is a place for students to study and to socialize and to be entertained. The building contains multipurpose rooms, tables, chairs, and other furniture to provide a comfortable atmosphere for the students.

The Career Planning and Placement Center is located in the Student Union, on the ground floor of the Student Union near the corner of Administration and Westchester. The center was originally called "Career Explorations". In 1978, under the Student Government Association, it was reorganized and established. It is the purpose of the Career Planning and Placement Center to provide students with information on career choices, to help them make decisions about their future, and to assist them in the process of finding employment. The center is open Monday through Thursday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Two in a row for the football Bears. This past Saturday Bridgewater played its second consecutive tie.

Bridgewater played a 14:14 tie in the first college bowl game of the year, the Cranberry Bowl, against Mass Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay. The Bears a.re co-captains Doug Barnard and Bob Fries. Offensively, the Bears, who two weeks ago were number one in the conference, dropped to number two by only picking up 155 yards in total offense, 62 yards on the ground and 93 in the air. The Bear defense is led by quarterback Mike Wallace and running backs Tom Egan and running backs Tom Egan and Bob Fries. The Bears are now 2-2-2 and ranked fifth in the New England Football Conference. They will be on the road this week, traveling to fourth ranked Westfield State. The Bears are unbeaten in the post game four seasons. The next home game will be Horizon Bowl weekend. The Bears are unbeaten in the post game four seasons. This is for all of you who have been so involved in your studies that you have lost touch with the real world. If you have been unaffiliated since the start of the semester, here is what you’ve missed in pro sports.

The season opener on September 3 with the Red Sox in first Place by 40 games.

On Sunday, the seventh, Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova won the singles titles in the U.S. Open, defeating Madison and Chris. That same day the N.F.L. kicked off its 1986 season. The Patriots were beaten and limping up the, the N.Y. Jets. The Pat’s 16-26 victory gave them a 2-0 record.

On Sept. 11, the Red Sox won their eleventh straight to boost their lead over Toronto to 83 games. Meanwhile, the Patriots were beating, and limping up the, the N.Y. Jets. The Pat’s 16-26 victory gave them a 2-0 record.

The next day, the National Hockey League training camps got under way.

On Sept. 17, the New York Mets began the first game to open the post-season at Shea Stadium, clinching the National Division crown.

On Sept. 18, nearly twenty thousand California fans walked out in the last inning of a no-hitter pitched against the Angels by Chicago’s Joe Charboneau.

Two days later, the Pat’s topped the Arizona 145 to 143 in the last three minutes of a game they had lost by only eight points.

On Sept. 20, the Houston Helmet Mike Scott pitched a no-hitter to clinch the N.L. West title.

The next day, the California Angels clinched the American League Western Division title.

The Boston Red Sox clinched the A.L. East title on Sept. 28 that day the Patriots dropped their second straight, losing to Denver 27-20.

On October 1, the Red Sox had a scare when Roger Clemens hit a line drive off the back of Baltimore’s John Steimer. Steimer proved valuable; and Clemens did not miss a start.

The N.B.A. took a vacation.

On Oct. 5 the Patriots defeated the Milwaukee 14-7 the Major League Baseball season ended that same day.

Major League Base’s playoff began on Oct. 5 in the American League. Boston’s Roger Clemens was rested, while California’s Palis won 9-8. The win was for manager as the Angels won 9-8.

The following afternoon, Boston’s Mike Scott pitched the Arizona to a 10-2 over the Mets. That night the Boston bats came alive as Bruce Hurst beat the Angel Style 12-2.

On Oct. 9, the N.L. regular season opened. In Boston, the Mets beat the Arizona to win the N.L. Championship Series on game six.

The American League season resumed Oct. 10 with Boston’s Oil Can Boyd losing to John Candela, giving California a 2-1 series lead.

The next afternoon, Oct. 11, Kenny Dykstra’s sixth inning two-run home run gave the Mets their second win in the series. In the ninth, the Angels narrowed a 3-6 deficit in the bottom of the ninth inning. The game ends 5-3. They went on to win a total of 1108-4 to take a 3 games to 1 lead in the series.

On Oct. 12, the Mets held all behind the N.Y. Met’s 240 in the first half, and then turned around. The surprising 3-1-4 victory with New York two games up in New England the April Red Sox that day the Red Sox, behind ninth inning home runs by Don Baylor and Jim Eisenreich, beat the Angels 7-4 in 15 innings and won their series back in Boston by 10 runs. In the ninth, Mike Scott again baffled New England as he entered that series, he faced 3-1.

Both the Mets and the Red Sox were on October 14. The Mets took a two-run lead with a 2-1 victory. The previous evening the Mets were in single digits in a Gary Carter single. Boston sent the American League championship against a team by beating California 10-0.

The World Series participants were decided October 15. The Mets beat the Astros 7-6 in seven innings the longest game in League Championship Series history. The Red Sox, behind Roger Clemens’ pitching, captured the American League Pennant with an 8-3 win.

The 1986 World Series got under way October 16, and the first game was a blowout. The Red Sox beat the Mets 14-3. The teams played six innings of the game to score breaking up a pitchers’ duel, and then the next day at Shea Stadium, the Mets broke the tie.

Boston won a 2-3 lead in the Series the next day when they beat New York 9-3. This was supposed to be a match for the respective teams of the majors Roger Craig and Don Groom, but Roger Craig pitched a gem.

Tuesday night, the Mets went on to win, 2-1. The teams played a 7-inning game. They caught up Boston’s Dennis Boyd for four first inning runs, and couldn’t be the win behind the pitching of Bobby Ojeda.

Last night, the Mets again jumped out to a lead, this time of 5-0.
