The key points are:

- Rich Faucher, Mike Young, co-captains of the Brown University State Legislative Campaign (BSC), are planning a new league of their own.
- The new league, Faucher and Young in a league of their own, aims to raise awareness and funds for hazardous waste sites across the state.
- The BSCPIRG's fight against hazardous waste, led by Van Dyke, has already raised $1500-2000 to help their cause.

The article also discusses the upcoming election and the campaign's focus on hazardous waste sites.

Pro-life advocate at S.U. Ballroom

By Bill Bihoska and Kellie Speiling

The Catholic Center, four days before anti-abortion activists made their appearance at S.U. Ballroom, hosted a lecture by pro-life activist Mary McMalley. Ms. McMalley is a member of the Public Affairs Office of the Pro-Life Action League in Washington, D.C.

Ms. McMalley spoke of the importance of the pro-life movement. "We believe that it is the moral duty of every person to work toward the end of legalized abortion," she said. Ms. McMalley cited various statistics about the abortion industry and the number of babies that have been killed. She also spoke about the "pro-life" movement and its efforts to end abortion.

Ms. McMalley's main theme was the importance of education and the need for pro-life activists to be informed. "People need to know the facts," she said. "They need to understand the numbers and the implications of abortion." Ms. McMalley also spoke about the importance of prayer and the need for pro-life activists to pray for an end to abortion.

The pro-life movement is gaining momentum, Ms. McMalley said, and there is hope for a future without abortion. "We believe that it is possible to change the culture and end abortion," she said. "We believe that it is possible to create a pro-life society." Ms. McMalley said that the pro-life movement has made significant progress in recent years, and that there is reason to be hopeful.

Ms. McMalley's lecture was well received, and she was given a standing ovation by the audience.

Dear Editor:
The classification of the abortion question as an issue of free choice highlights the basic values in American society. However, there is more to the issue than mere choice. Abortion is not a free choice. It is forced upon us, usually by others, mostly others we do not even know.

The right to life. The right to live. How many times have we heard that we have a right to life? How many times have we heard that others respect our rights? And how many times have we heard that we are not allowed to kill someone else?

The right to life is the most basic of human rights and is the foundation of the fundamental freedoms that are the basis of our society. The propositions about abortion are not about whether we have a right to life; they are about whether we should respect the fundamental freedoms that are the basis of our society.

Sincerely,
[Signature]
Is the right to life ignored?

Dear Editor:
The clarification of the abortion question as an issue of free choices and the basic values in America is long overdue. I believe that there is a strong trend of the spirit of the Vietnamese revolution that could be seen in the actions of the supporters and opponents of a new issue of morality concerning the right to life as the most basic values upon which the Vietnam revolution and the fundamental is based and is the fundamental principle of the moral and the social revolution.

The proponents of abortion terminate the life of an innocent human being in an immoral act, in that the act is against the moral and the social revolution as the fundamental principle of the Vietnamese revolution. The spirit of the Vietnamese revolution is to terminate the life of the Vietnamese who are innocent and who are innocent of any moral or social offenses.

The spirit of the Vietnamese revolution is that the Vietnamese have the right to live and to die according to their own wishes and desires, and that they have the right to live a life of their own choosing, and that they have the right to die in order to carry on the Vietnamese revolution.

The spirit of the Vietnamese revolution is that the Vietnamese have the right to live and to die according to their own wishes and desires, and that they have the right to live a life of their own choosing, and that they have the right to die in order to carry on the Vietnamese revolution.

Tour Exciting Sicily and Southern Italy

A special art study tour of Sicily and southern Italy, coordinated by the Bridgewater State College departments of Art and Foreign Languages through the Program of Graduate and Continuing Education, will be offered to interested members of the public. Though the tour is planned to offer a broad introduction to Italian art and architecture, with particular emphasis on Greek and Roman sites in southern Italy and Sicily, most days will have full programs of walking tours and museum visits. The tour will be under the direction of Prof. John Heller, Bridgewater State College art department, and Dr. Leon Pudlaski, Bridgewater State College, department of Foreign Languages.

This area offers the exciting art treasures of the 15th-century paintings, frescoes, and sculptures. Though the tour is planned to offer a broad introduction to Italian art and architecture, with particular emphasis on Greek and Roman sites in southern Italy and Sicily, most days will have full programs of walking tours and museum visits.

The cost of the tour is $2,000 per person, which includes round-trip air transportation and hotel accommodations for 16 nights in first-class hotels. Look, up in the sky! It's Robin Hood! No, it's SKY BANDITS, the wild, wacky adventure everyone will enjoy to sweep out of this book and onto your local movie screens.

SKY BANDITS is the story of two down-on-their-luck, tough young robbers in the fledgling days of the West at the turn of the century. Given a choice between jail and sailing in World War I, they reluctantly opt to pilfer the brand-new designs of the "Sadie Squadron" of the Royal Flying Circus, where they get more adventure than they bargained for.

SKY BANDITS stars Jeff Osterhage and Scott McCreary as the two swashbucklers who take on the Kaiser's sophisticated German war machine with the help of the "beds," the Cocky Brothers. The adventure doesn't stop on the screen. Students across the country have a chance to win an adventuresome trip for two to London, England aboard Cathay Pacific Airlines in the Sky Bandits National Collegiate Sweepstakes. In addition to the trip, there are over 500 other prizes, including Tioga steers, honest Mason in the Correct Guide or lunch to your local radio station tailor-made so you can eat and win! Considered one of the most ambitious motion pictures to ever come from Britain, the $8.5 million budget of Sky Bandits includes 332 costumes, 550 costumes, and nine live animals, creating a unique film experience.

Sky Bandits is distributed by Galaxy International Releasing and opens nationally on October 31st.
