Hi-runch

Recentlly there has been much ado about A.P. for those of us who have been fortunate enough not to have to deal with it, means Academic Probations. For those who know them to the very best of our ability, the following is an apology. Nor am I making excuses for dealing with the most common of our "black marks" without due regard for the reasons why we have had to deal with it.

The family has requested that if anyone needs help in dealing with this "black mark" in their life, they may contact the Admissions Office. Our Admissions Office has a large number of students who are aware of the situation and are willing to help.

The author of this article was not meant to be harmful to anyone's chances in the world of education. Their sole purpose was to bring attention to the issue of academic probation, and to those who are struggling with it, to know that they are not alone.

The second cause of concern is the fact that too many people are unaware of the reasons for academic probation. As a result, they may not know what steps to take to improve their situation. The third and final cause of concern is the possibility of a student's future being affected by having an academic probation.

There are a number of reasons why this is an issue. First, academic probation can be detrimental to a student's future in a number of ways. It can affect their chances of getting into graduate school, getting a job, and even getting a loan to attend school. Second, it can make it difficult for a student to keep up with their coursework, leading to further academic problems. Finally, it can affect a student's self-esteem and confidence, making it more difficult for them to succeed in school.

The author of this article does not wish to cause any harm. Their goal is to bring attention to the issue of academic probation and to those who are struggling with it, to know that they are not alone. They hope that this article will help to raise awareness of the issue, and to encourage those who are struggling to seek help when they need it.
MASSPIRG SURVEY:

BSC students discover defective used cars

By Kathy Hogan

A survey conducted by the BSC student group, MASSPIRG, discovered that almost half of Bridgewater State College's used cars had been sold defective. The survey, which was conducted among 400 students, found that 49 percent of the cars were in need of repair, while 37 percent were in the process of being sold. The survey revealed that the cars had been sold for an average price of $1,200, despite the fact that they were not in good condition.

Alcohol policy

By John Smith

The administration has announced that it will be implementing new alcohol policies on campus. The new policies will be in effect starting next semester and will include restrictions on the consumption of alcohol on campus. The administration has stated that it is taking these measures to ensure the safety and well-being of all students.

Mazzaferrro

The person who paid into the position, said Indidno, "must have a system that pays for the student's education, and not for the on-campus housing. It's not fair to the student who pays for their own housing and eats away from campus, and then has to pay for their education as well. It's a matter of fairness and equality for all students."
No. 10 Upping St. A vinyl masterpiece

By Max Speck

"Sit tight and listen carefully, as I play this track for you," Max Speck intoned to his audience, the audiophile audience, in the dimly lit corner of C.R.S.'s One Day Shop. The crowd seemed captivated as Speck delved into the first track on the album, "Shrinker's Breakdown," from Big Audio Dynamite's second album, "The Staple." Speck described the album as a masterpiece, not just for its musicianship, but for its lyrical content. "This is an album that speaks to the human experience," he said. "It's about the struggles, the triumphs, and the human condition." The crowd was silent, captivated by Speck's words and the music on the record.

The album, "The Staple," was released in 1986 and went on to become a classic of the alternative rock genre. It featured five members of The Clash, including lead singer Joe Strummer and guitarist Mick Jones, along with singer-songwriter Paul Simon and drummer Trudie Styler. The album was produced by Bill Laswell and was recorded at Strummer's home studio.

Speck pointed to the tracklist on the album cover. "This album features a range of styles," he said. "From the raw energy of "Shrinker's Breakdown" to the rootsy sound of "Vindicated," there's something for everyone." The audience nodded in agreement, as Speck played the opening notes of "Vindicated." The room fell silent as the track began to play, and the audience was transported back to the era of punk and new wave.

Speck played the entire album, pausing only to describe the significance of each track. "This is a song that speaks to the importance of perseverance," he said, pointing to "The Staple." "This is a song about the power of the human spirit." The audience was moved by the music and Speck's words, as they listened to the album in its entirety.

Speck ended the performance by thanking the audience for their attention. "This album is a true masterpiece," he said. "And it's a testament to the power of music to connect us all." The audience erupted in applause, as they celebrated the beauty and power of the music on "The Staple."

"Sit tight and fancy lonely, I'll play number ten.
It's a masterpiece in C.R.O."

One day, you may be able to hear when you step this Big Audio Dynamite on your turntable. And it's just what you want to do.

The album starts out with Van Patten's vocal on "Drown You All" which is a nice, but not very heavy, rocker. In a nice, but not very heavy, rocker.

Next, we have a really great song called "Two Tone" which is a great, but not very heavy, rocker. It's a great, but not very heavy, rocker.

Then, we have a really great song called "Two Tone" which is a great, but not very heavy, rocker. It's a great, but not very heavy, rocker.

Bo Ruggiero captures 100th victory

By Mike Stover

Recently, women’s basketball coach Bo Ruggiero hit the 100-win mark in the Lady Bears’ 68-46 win over Salem State on Saturday afternoon.

His success rate in wire averages one win every 10 games and is a testament to his program’s consistency. The Lady Bears have won 10 or more games in 12 of his 13 seasons.

When asked what he attributed his success to, Bo Ruggiero said, “It’s the players who play the game. It’s a gratifying thing to see them doing what they do best.”

The Lady Bears started their season against the Nichols Bisons, topping them 100-93 on Saturday afternoon. The Bears continued their winning streak against the Nichols Bisons with a 100-93 victory.

The Lady Bears have started their season with a 5-0 record, including a 100-93 victory over the Nichols Bisons. They have scored 50 or more points in all five games.

Recently, women's basketball coach Bo Ruggiero hit the 100-win mark in the Lady Bears' 77-63 win over the Bates College Bobcats in the quarterfinal round of the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) tournament.

The Lady Bears started their season against the Nichols Bears topping out a win on their own court (83-79). After trailing (30-24) at the half, the Bears found their shooting eye as they hit 50% from the field (20-40) and 17-23 from the charity line. Coach Judy Anderson (19) led all scorers, adding 18 points in a workmanlike effort with 16 (10-16) free throws. BSC made the opposite happen to them against Salem State as they dropped a 58-77 decision. The Bears led at half-time (37-34) but went into halftime by going 46-40 in the second half. Rich Massier led the Bears with (14) while Steve Lopez chipped in with (13).

The Bears returned to their favorite setting against Plymouth State winning a decisive MAC conference (51-34). After going to the locker room down 11-15 in the first half, the Bears came running, led by Steve Lopez and Rich Massier (18) both BSC pulled away to their second MAC win of the season.

Coach Mark Champagne is pleased with the team's performance stating, "We're playing much better as a whole. Everything is clicking (90%) every game. We've been on a roll of late and are looking for a lack of effort on our part.'

Last season the Bridgewater State women's gymnastics team had an outstanding season as they finished with a near perfect (7-6) record and competed in both the New England (6th place) and MAC (5th place) meet. Coach Andrea Keleher stated that 1987 will bring more of the same for her 15-member squad.

This year's team is an mixture of both old and new with veteran competitors, Jojo Finfrock (all-around) and Sharon Heraty (11th), as well as Sarah Duggan (floor beam) and Susanne Sackla (bars) making up the returning cast.

"Our new girls are strong and some are very tall. We are currently ranked in the middle of some of the other teams in the region. We are just getting started with real competition and are excited about the upcoming season," said Jojo Finfrock.

The Bridgewater State men's basketball team is back in action as they will face new big games this week. Their season moved from 2-6 (2-4) in the MAC-CAC conference.

The Bears started their season against the Nichols Bears topping out a win on their own court (83-79). Rich Massier led the Bears with (14) while Steve Lopez chipped in with (13).

The Bears returned to their favorite setting against Plymouth State winning a decisive MAC conference (51-34). After going to the locker room down 11-15 in the first half, the Bears came running, led by Steve Lopez and Rich Massier (18) both BSC pulled away to their second MAC win of the season.

Coach Mark Champagne is pleased with the team's performance stating, "We're playing much better as a whole. Everything is clicking (90%) every game. We've been on a roll of late and are looking for a lack of effort on our part.'

Last season the Bridgewater State women's gymnastics team had an outstanding season as they finished with a near perfect (7-6) record and competed in both the New England (6th place) and MAC (5th place) meet. Coach Andrea Keleher stated that 1987 will bring more of the same for her 15-member squad.

This year's team is an mixture of both old and new with veteran competitors, Jojo Finfrock (all-around) and Sharon Heraty (11th), as well as Sarah Duggan (floor beam) and Susanne Sackla (bars) making up the returning cast.

"Our new girls are strong and some are very tall. We are currently ranked in the middle of some of the other teams in the region. We are just getting started with real competition and are excited about the upcoming season," said Jojo Finfrock.

The Bridgewater State men's basketball team is back in action as they will face new big games this week. Their season moved from 2-6 (2-4) in the MAC-CAC conference.

The Bears started their season against the Nichols Bears topping out a win on their own court (83-79). After trailing (30-24) at the half, the Bears found their shooting eye as they hit 50% from the field (20-40) and 17-23 from the charity line. Mazzarelos claims discrimination

Superior Court judge halts hiring of new coaches

By John J. Beaton

Head Football Coach at Bridgewater State College, Peter Mazzarelos, filed a suit last week in Brockton Superior Court charging the Massachusett State Department of Higher Education and the Board of Trustees with sexual discrimination.

The suit, filed on behalf of Mazzarelos and the school's two former football assistant coaches, James Goggin and Brian Way, seeks $30,000 in damages and an injunction against the school.

The suit alleges that Mazzarelos was denied a new contract for the position of head football coach at Bridgewater State College, while his former assistant coaches, Goggin and Way, were offered contracts.

Mazzarelos, who has 15 years of experience at Bridgewater State, said he was surprised by the decision and plans to fight the discrimination.

"I was shocked," Mazzarelos said. "I have given many years of service to this university and I was denied the opportunity to continue, while my former assistants were offered contracts."
