The Children's Physical Development Clinic at Bridgewater State College is undertaking its fourth consecutive clinic for underpriviledged children. The clinic provides unique physical, motor, and social stimulation program in the greater Bridgewater-Bucks County area designed to enhance the development of at-risk toddlers and youth with physical, mental or emotional disabilities.

The clinic, under the direction of Dr. Joseph J. Grasso and Professor John Smith, is funded for 4 hours on an ongoing daily basis through the 2006-2007 school year. Each child accepted participates in an individually prescribed activity and physical development program conducted at the Early Developmental and Psychological Clinic. The clinic is designed to develop gross motor coordination and enhance the self-esteem of participants.

In the past ten years or so, many of the schools in the Massachusetts State System have been losing their identities. It's become harder and harder to tell them apart. The reason for this is unclear. Is it perhaps an attempt to disguise the schools from their institutions? Are we to believe that Worcester State is the same number as Bridgewater State? Or that Boston College is exactly equal to Salem State or Fitchburg State? Of course, the schools that have maintained their names haven't even similar styles. Still, the attempt is being made in an effort to strip them of their individuality.

In the past ten years or so, many of the schools in the Massachusetts State System have been losing their identities. It’s become harder and harder to tell them apart. The reason: state-wide administration has made the schools and their programs very similar. Is it perhaps an attempt to disguise the fact that state-wide administration means state-wide lack of autonomy? Are we to believe that Worcester State is the same as Fitchburg State, or that Boston State is exactly equal to Salem State or Fitchburg State? Of course, the schools aren’t alike, but is there even similar. Still, the attempt is being made to strip them of their individuality.

Men go 2-1 for the week

By Anthony Fagan and Mike Scorsone

Rich Magazine powered away a high 27 points as the Bridgewater Bobcats turned the offensive edge in the first half for a repeat victory over the Salem State Vikings in the second game of last night's (Wednesday) MASCAC doubleheader at the Kinyon Gymnasium in Bridgewater.

The first half was a battle as Salem and Bridgewater traded leads back and forth. Salem point-guard Kevin Poulson knew he had to get his shot from the floor in the first half (The Vikings were off 2:05 late in the half, before Rich Bob Pimental and Chuck Justice came back to lead the Bridgewater charge and cut Salem 2-1 at the 22:32 mark.

The Bobcats controlled the second half play, holding off Salem's charge and outscoring the Vikings 54-39 in the final twenty minutes. Offensively, Bridgewater guard Steve Lopes, and Justice both had field goals in the first half with 19 points, while Rich Magazine's second half play, netting 29 points to a 22-22 run which made it 86-64, Bridgewater led 88-58 at the 2:32 point in the second half. Defensively, Mike Scorsone pulled down 15 rebounds, including seven key offensive defensive rebounds.

Junior JoAnn Runge led the Lady Bears as they scored in the NCAA Division III championship tourney for the second time in four years, with high hopes of this season being the fourth. JoAnn was the ECAC Rookie of the Year in 1988 and was named to the ECAC All Star Team in 1985 and 1986. From 1986-88 she has been a consistent threat to the Lady Bears scoring in the MASCAC conference and leading the team to victory.

JoAnn is the one anyone to mention if she has the night for four years. She has been the lead, she's great, she's a leader.

Runge breaks 1,000 point barrier

By Michael Stoyny

Senior JoAnn Runge recently exceeded the 1,000-point barrier for her four-year playing career as a member of the Bridgewater State women's basketball team. She joins Carolyn Paukels (118) and Cathy Keller (110) as the only players in school that can make that mark.

JoAnn has had an outstanding career here at Bridgewater. She has been a major factor for the Lady Bears in the NCAA Division III championship tourney for the second time in four years, with high hopes of this season being the fourth. JoAnn was the ECAC Rookie of the Year in 1988 and was named to the ECAC All Star Team in 1985 and 1986. Coach Mark Champagne giving the team instructions in a recent game

Last week, the BSC men's and women's teams traveled to Worcester for a meet with W.P.L., and both teams suffered losses. The men were defeated by W.P.L., 198.50-141.50, prior to knocking off North Adams last Monday night.

For the women Lynn Mulkerin combined for a coed meet with Worcester for a coed meet with from behind to win the women's team.

For the men Pete Berthiaume was a double points winner for the men's team.

Lady Bears win two more

The Bridgewater State women's basketball team made their second straight visit to Salem State College last week. In the second game of the doubleheader, the Bears were defeated by Salem State, 100-89, but in the first game of the doubleheader, the Bears were victorious, defeating Salem State, 94-81.

Coach Jarod St. Pierre of Babson College is a very strong candidate for both hitting for (18). Jaehnig has been the leading hitter for the Bears this year, and has hit the ski slopes instead as they got blasted (10-1). Jaehnig has been the leading hitter for the Bears this year, and has hit the ski slopes instead as they got blasted (10-1).}

The Bears are back in the final week of their season with three matches against Salem State, Bridgewater State and North Adams still to play. We can be spoiled in all of our matches, comments BSC coach Mark Champagne. Champagne goes on to say, "If and when those matches are battling for the Worst, and we have nothing but praise for that. I'm all out of friends, but I want one of those friends to stick with us."

The Bears now have one of those friends left with them, and they have already taken care of the other problem about getting into the field, 51-49, prior to knocking off North Adams Monday night.
