Part-time faculty face losses

Researchers at Amherst have been forced to lay off a number of part-time instructors because of budget cuts. The cuts have resulted in a decrease of full-time instructors, and part-time instructors have had to assume more responsibilities.

Director of the Student Senate, Professor Lawrence McGar, has been a part-time instructor for over 10 years. He said, "The cuts have forced us to reevaluate our program. We have had to find a way to balance the budget without sacrificing the quality of our education."

Professor McGar also expressed concern about the impact of the cuts on the quality of education. "Part-time instructors are as important as full-time instructors. They bring a unique perspective to the classroom and provide a valuable resource for students."

Professor McGar noted that the cuts have had a significant impact on the morale of the part-time instructors. "Many of our instructors have been with us for many years and we are losing experienced teachers."

Professor DeSilva, the President of the University, has defended the cuts as necessary for the financial health of the University. "We have had to make tough decisions in order to balance the budget. These cuts are necessary to ensure the continued success of our University."

The University has been experiencing financial difficulties due to decreased enrollment and increased costs. Professor DeSilva has stated that the cuts are just the beginning of a series of measures that will be taken to address the financial challenges faced by the University.

The cuts have also sparked criticism from students and other members of the community. "The cuts are unfair and unjust," said a student. "We need our part-time instructors as much as full-time instructors."

Professor DeSilva has stated that the University will continue to monitor the situation and make further adjustments as necessary.

SGA Notebook

By Ed Ward

The meeting began at 6:00 pm on April 7, 1987, with President DeSilva's opening remarks. President DeSilva discussed the SGA's plans for the upcoming year, focusing on the importance of unity and collaboration among all members.

The meeting then moved on to new business. First on the agenda was Mammal Hike, conducted by President DeSilva. The motion was "Moved to award a certificate of appreciation to any student who actively participates in SGA activities and programs on campus." A second motion was made to authorize the use of SGA funds for the hike. A third motion was made to require all students to attend the hike. A fourth motion was made to require all students to wear their SGA uniforms.

Approval of a letter to be sent from the SGA to the administration concerning proposed parking changes and fees was suggested by Chauvin Loze and President DeSilva followed. The meeting adjourned at 7:30 pm, but not before President DeSilva made a final appeal for participation in SGA activities and programs on campus. A final motion was made to require all students to attend the hike. A second motion was made to require all students to wear their SGA uniforms.

In order to make sure that all students are aware of the issues involved, President DeSilva began his report by referring to the SGA's recent public service announcement. The public service announcement resulted in the lowering of prices for SGA products, including SGA shirts and SGA hats. President DeSilva then moved on to discuss the SGA's upcoming events. The SGA is planning a series of events to promote SGA membership, including a SGA-themed party and a SGA-themed barbeque.

The meeting concluded with President DeSilva thanking all members for their participation and reminding them to attend the SGA's upcoming events. A final motion was made to require all students to attend the hike. A second motion was made to require all students to wear their SGA uniforms.

AIDS: THE CHOICE IS YOURS

How fearful are we? The fear of AIDS is spreading throughout the land, and with good reason. AIDS is one of the deadliness problems facing college students today. Its danger stems not only from its physical effects on the people it afflicts, but also from the social stigma and fear of the disease spread through sexual contact. Again, it’s a decision on whether or not people will use them, give their own or get involved or not. How can a person really decide that you are affecting, but also the lives of everyone you have sexual contact with.

Sigma Chi Campaigns for Alcohol Awareness

Dear Editor:

I was reading your paper the other day when a story about the Mass. campus and their monthly Friday night where Sigma Chi rushes in the bar to provide a safe side by design. Apparently, food and soft drinks are always available to those who have chosen to visit Sigma Chi. The story was an interesting read on how to begin the discussion on sexual health. It's not until 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. to midnights and Sunday through Thursday and 8 p.m. to midnight on weekends. Thank you for your concern. The library's hours be extended to suit the students fully and properly. The library has been opened at least from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. to midnight on weekends. Thank you for your concern.

At the Editor:

The Sigma Chi Fraternity has begun an active campaign towards Alcohol Awareness. Many efforts have begun by pushing fine students around campus. Most students are not aware of the effects of drinking alcohol. Often, people drink when they don’t think about the effects on themselves or others. Further, bong stickers with pictures illustrating the concerns of Sigma Chi towards the promotion of alcohol awareness.

public support called from SBC Protestors

To the Editor:

I found it appealing to read about the student protests in the April 2, 1987 edition of The Comment. I am a major in psychology, and I feel that I should be a part of the Bridgewater College community. It has been an interesting experience to be involved with the activities and to see the students actively working to change things in the college community. I would like to thank the staff and faculty members of the college for their support and encouragement.

Sincerely,

John Ladd

Auto safety poll taken

Answers of local respondents differ from national findings

By John R. Burns, HI

In last week's issue of The Comment, we reported on the nationwide poll conducted by Northeastern University regarding people's opinions of the mandatory safety laws in their own states. The responses received by the three professors who conducted the survey showed that the respondents generally felt that the presence of seat belts was necessary to reduce drunk driving and to reduce the death toll. The poll also showed that the respondents did not support the use of airbags, but were in favor of reducing the speed limit.

The study also included a series of questions regarding the acceptability of various traffic laws and the respondents were asked to rate their opinions on a scale of 1 to 10. The results showed that while the respondents generally agreed that seat belts were necessary, they were less supportive of the use of airbags. The study also revealed that the respondents did not support the use of roadblocks to detect drunk driving.

Auto safety poll taken

Answers of local respondents differ from national findings

By John R. Basran, III

In last week's issue of The Comment, we reported on the nationwide poll conducted by the National Safety Council regarding people's opinions on the number of auto deaths in their own states. The results revealed that the poll was well-received by the respondents, who generally agreed that the pollution problem could be solved to an extent and that drunk driving was not a major concern.

The poll also showed that a majority of respondents favored mandatory seat belts, although the method of enforcement was not specified. The majority of respondents also favored mandatory air bags, with the most popular method being automatic deployment at 70 mph.

In general, the poll results indicated a strong desire for increased auto safety measures, with respondents expressing concern about drunk driving and the need for improved vehicle design and safety features.
Psychotherapy: which ones work best for you?

In keeping with the theme of this week's column, and out of genuine concern for those persons psychologically or psychoanalytically ill, I have gathered some material on the many forms of psychotherapy that are available. There are many schools of thought, and it is important to find one that suits your needs. There are some generalizations that often ring true: if you are finding a therapist that you cannot relate to, or if you are not making progress, it is important to look elsewhere. There are many excellent therapists available, and it is important to find one that works for you.

Women's Rugby play against India

The Indian Olympic team played against the Harvard women's rugby team last week. It was the first time that the Harvard team had played against an international team, and it was a thrilling experience for everyone involved. The Indian team was led by Captain Roshni, and they played with great enthusiasm and skill. The match was close throughout, but in the end the Harvard team emerged victorious.

The/week's games prove to be a competition for entertainment, excitement and enjoyment. The Bridgewater State Rugby team, with some of its alumni, has been working hard, and they are always a raucous bunch that will do their best to play. For some players new in the game, it may be a little tough to get comfortable playing with the Bridgewater alumni. However, there are great moments shared with all of the alumni. Alumni are congratulated after they beat this team.

Then in the fall of his senior year, Tom Devin changed his mind about playing rugby. It was a difficult decision, and he had to make a tough choice. However, he was determined to make the most of his college rugby career. Tom Devin was a key player for the Bridgewater Rugby team, and he was always willing to do whatever it took to help his team win. He was a valuable member of the team, and he always gave his best in every game.
