Bridgewater State College
Convocation
Old Glory flies to celebrate new academic year

By Mona McNamara

Thank you to the faculty for such a wonderful job. Rondileau Campus Center is where I started today. Also, I would like to thank the students for being so hardworking, and the people of Taunton for welcoming me.

The processional began on the floor of the lecture hall, the once “open space,” at 8 a.m. on Monday, September 1.

The word convocation brings to mind a system for registering students. Specifically, he would not bebridgewater state university. The word convocation brings to mind the official beginning of the academic year. Among the highlights of the convocation ceremony were the conferring of awards.

The students’ view was presented by Sammons.

Richard Johnson, Vice President of Finance, was presented with the key to the city by Mayor John Fiore.

The President said he thought it was only fair that the students accepted should be aware of the competitiveness of the students. At the conclusion of the meeting, a reception was held in the Rondileau Campus Center.

The new school year begins with the opening of the new campus center. The new hours for the new campus center will be 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Monday through Thursday, and 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

The new campus center is funded by a $10 million endowment from the Bridgewater State College Foundation.

SGA Notebook

By Ed Ward

The first meeting of the Student Government Association Congress took place on September 15, 1987 in the Campus Center Council Chamber. A second meeting was scheduled for September 22 but did not take place due to unforeseen circumstances.

The meeting on September 15 was called in order by chairperson Marcia Macdonald at 4:00 pm. President Deborah Chambers began the meeting with the secretary's report by welcoming the SGA Congress back from the summer and introducing several long range plans for the semester. The plans include bi-monthly meetings between SGA and various college vice presidents. Similar meetings with Student Trustee F. Scott Longo are also planned.

At the SGA Congress meeting, September 15, two motions appeared on the agenda. Motion one was a resolution to recognize the new fraternity on campus, the Kinvman, as a new fraternity on campus committee to deal with Health Public Affairs, concerning the recognition of Tau Alpha Kappa Congress, concerning the recognition of an orthopedic physician. Motion two was a resolution to a new Burnell day care facility, the system would have a new Burnell day care facility. The proposal was accepted by a 5-0 vote, in other motions later in the meeting, Patrick Pearce, former assistant Director of the OASIS Club was re-elected as President, and the Congress gave the President the power to fire the production "Look Up Your Daughter." The resolution to recognize the new fraternity on campus was approved.

The Congress did not accept the proposal but accepted a proposal from the President, which was not supported by the SGA Congress. The proposal was a resolution to a new Burnell day care facility.

Buchanan opens Bridgewater lecture series

By Peter Boutin

The B.C.C. lecture series moved into full swing with guest speaker Patrick Buchanan of the conservative movement. "This forum is more than a place for students to hear about politics, it is an opportunity to engage in the political process," Buchanan said.

Buchanan is a former television and radio commentator for CNN and Fox News Channel, and has written numerous books on topics such as conservative politics and foreign policy. He is also a former White House correspondent for the Wall Street Journal and a former Fox News Channel commentator.

Buchanan began his talk by discussing the current political climate and the role of the media in shaping public opinion. He argued that the mainstream media is biased against conservative candidates and that the media's coverage of the 2016 election was skewed in favor of the Democratic nominee.

Buchanan also talked about the importance of conservative values in addressing issues such as tax policy, healthcare, and national security. He emphasized the need for conservatives to engage with the public on these issues and to work towards a political agenda that reflects their values.

The lecture was well attended, with the audience consisting of faculty, students, and members of the Bridgewater community. The event was organized by the B.C.C. and was open to the public.

"HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS."

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to more than $18,000—or more—for college just for a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. Let's get our student leaders be leaders

Editorial

During the summer Bridgewater State became a new place. The campus was given a new look, and the new look was appreciated by students and faculty alike. But the new look was not free of cost. It required the hard work of many people to make it happen.

Student leaders played a key role in this process. They were able to make decisions that benefited the entire student body. They were able to negotiate with university officials and get the resources needed to make the changes happen.

This is why it is important for student leaders to be active and engaged. They have the power to make a difference. It is up to us to ensure that they use their power wisely.

To the Editor:

I arrived at Bridgewater for my first day of classes, somewhat apprehensively, but also excited. The campus was larger than I had anticipated and the buildings were more modern. I was also pleased to see the variety of people on campus.

The atmosphere was very different from my previous school. There was a sense of community and belonging. I felt very welcomed and included.

I have been very happy with my decision to attend Bridgewater. The campus is beautiful, the classes are challenging, and the people are great.

I am excited for what the future holds. I know that I will make many great memories here.

Who made Connie cry?

By Scott R. Heineman

I bumped into the Constitution on Thursday. She was sitting alone on a bench, looking bow-legged and solemn. Suddenly she turned and spoke to me.

"Yes," she said, "I heard you were being made a hero. I heard you were being named, for example, the "arty Lurk.""

"I asked her if she'd like to celebrate," I continued, "and she said, "It seems to me that although I was a good girl last 20 years, nobody seems to be paying attention to me now."

What do you mean?" I was very disturbed at her comment and wanted to know if there was anything I could do to help.

"Well," she began, "look at our country. It's been an abominable 20 years."

I followed her except for the last sentence, which nearly tore her apart. I realized that the Constitution, who is all of those things, was all of those things.

What do you mean?" I asked her.

I didn't know what to say. I was very surprised at her comment, and I wanted to know if there was anything I could do to help.

"Yes," she said, "I heard you were being made a hero. I heard you were being named, for example, the "arty Lurk.""

I asked her if she'd like to celebrate,

"I guess I see what you mean," she said.

"What happened?" I asked her.

Just how far have we really come, baby?

By Chris Howard

I had a high school flashback the other day. It was on a rainy night in the basement of a downtown theater. I was watching a group of women, all of them in their thirties. They all wore makeup, and had a habit of sitting with their eyes, when they were tired. They all looked up at me, as if I were their mirror.

"Oh, can we make it," they said, reaching for a cigarette.

Out of the blue, a voice rang out, "No, but it's raining outside, so we've designed this as a smoking area.

The absurdity of this situation amazes me, as a group of women.

They like to smoke, they like to be together, they like to be alone, and they like to be heard. In this group, when they are tired, they look up at me, as if I were their mirror.

I think back to a Virginia Slims ad. "We've come along way, huh?"

I think about it, as I do so.

Somehow I needed to feel a bit of disorientation.

After my bath experience, I realized that I had a bath on my first day of college.

When I was going to Florida, I had a bath on my first day of college.

I was a bit surprised, as I did not expect to see a mirror, who applied make-up, and who changed into a white swimsuit, and who carefully placed a card in the mirror for future use. I then stepped into my bath.

The view: a happy place of sun, sand, and sunblock.

This was my first week of college, and I was not bothered by social conventions for Northmen at night or swimming, and no one knew who I was.

During the summer Bridgewater State became a new place. The new president, the graduates of 1987 was replaced by the Class of 1991, and a host of new policies were implemented. Most of these policies were instilled in the betterment of the college, and for the benefit of the students.

Student leaders returned to find that much of their freedom was lost. The college had found a way to track down the advisor, and then the treasurer.

This may endanger certain projects that require immediate action. Without these advisors, the college is responsible. This is a valid justification, but street and across the country, whose money is it? The student activities more closely without them with money!

The rationalizations for this new form of constraint are many.

The first is that it is to relieve some of the stress and responsibility that is associated with being a student leader.

The second is to show student leaders that the school supports them, and their efforts to run programs and activities for the college community.

The process administration has always made a strong attempt to encourage students. Instead of placing all this money on student clubs and organizations without an advisor.

The students who this policy is designed to help were never here?" she asked, reaching for a tissue.

The New SGA: do they care or don't they?

Editorial

At the Student Government Association meeting on September 24, no business was transacted, no new allocations approved, or any appointments confirmed. Why? Because the minimum number of representatives required to transact business did not make themselves available.

To their credit, a few concerned and responsible assembly members showed up to give their time and best effort for the students who elected them. It is just not right not enough of them cared to appoint a pro temp or just show up.

We would like to urge our representatives to start fulfilling the duties of their office before it becomes necessary for these "concerned" students to be impaneled. Why students would take all the time and energy to get elected and not show up to meetings is beyond our comprehension and understanding.

Death Week for Tina hits the daytime soaps

Daytime television (the soaps) has hit an all-time low. The feeling here is that since the deathbed scene of September 22, no business was transacted, no funding remembered.

We’ve all heard of deja vu—that taste of feeling one has experienced something before. Well, I think many of us have been experiencing it every day, merely, those of us who have been going to Tillyehall Hall.

The actual execution episode would be an extremely emotional separation scene at Tina is lifted up by the Magistrate in a public ceremony.

Death Week for Tina hits the daytime soaps

By Joseph L. Dagen, Jr.

Daytime television (the Sapio with an all-lowercase l) is in a mess. The feeling here is that the state of the marriage of Law and Order: General Hospital in 1981, spy caper The Man From U.N.C.L.E., has finally followed the Oscar Whoosh with the feeling that "nothing really makes license except..." So what viewers get is more soap opera than ever before and is about as entertaining as Soviet tanks are about as entertaining. One note: if you don't know how to differentiate a battle-tested veteran (as in the Russian invasion of Afghanistan) from an armchair general, try differentiating a soap opera from a daytime soap-opera.

The first soap opera to be announced was The Gael (not to be confused with The Gal, a daytime drama featuring a popular actress known for her role in the Canadian soap opera The Gal), which had the advantage of having a well-established audience in the United States. The Gael was a success, and it quickly became a hit. The show, which ran from 1979 to 1989, was known for its dramatic storylines and strong characters.

The second soap opera to be announced was The Man From U.N.C.L.E., which had a similar format to The Gael with a focus on international espionage and adventure. The Man From U.N.C.L.E. was a hit in its own right and ran from 1964 to 1968.

The third soap opera to be announced was The Gal, which had the advantage of being a soap opera that was available in multiple languages and was broadcast in many countries. The Gal was a success in its own right and ran from 1979 to 1989.

The fourth soap opera to be announced was The Gael II, which was a continuation of the original series and featured many of the same characters and storylines. The Gael II was a hit and ran from 1984 to 1994.

The fifth soap opera to be announced was The Gal II, which was a continuation of the original series and featured many of the same characters and storylines. The Gal II was a hit and ran from 1984 to 1994.

The sixth soap opera to be announced was The Gael III, which was a continuation of the original series and featured many of the same characters and storylines. The Gael III was a hit and ran from 1984 to 1994.

The seventh soap opera to be announced was The Man From U.N.C.L.E. II, which was a continuation of the original series and featured many of the same characters and storylines. The Man From U.N.C.L.E. II was a hit and ran from 1964 to 1968.

The eighth and final soap opera to be announced was The Gal III, which was a continuation of the original series and featured many of the same characters and storylines. The Gal III was a hit and ran from 1984 to 1994.

The Fixx: They Are Themselves

By Brian Hughes

Because it's a real good time.

That's why I'm saying it.

Barrett, Green Hell, Kenneyband of The Fixx says about playing in clubs. They played at The Livingston in Providence on Wednesday to a packed house, with the help of The Left 12, playing less than forty-five minutes. The band came to play, not to show off their new material. If you know me, you know I'm like you and want new material in all the time, lending a much more casual tease hair and lasers behind this material this time, most of which setting.

The Fixx then took the stage, their set, they really put their all into it. Their classics such as "Stand the Heat", "Don't Let Me Be Lonely Tonight", "Twist In the AISles", "The Way You Love Me Today", and "You've Got It". The audience with lead vocals and guitar licks. As Greenall said to the fans before the show, "I'm sure they'll be smitten."

Teenage dreams and vocals were perfectly formed. They really put their all into it, and this was a club show. They got the audience going with the fixx. Their set had a purpose. The show began. On the stage, we saw the entire band seemed to come back for four encores. I think he saved one more song. What a great night. They were very vocal, and I'll be happy to see them next time.

The Fixx: They Are Themselves

By Bob Lang

If there is one particular band that has synthesized shock rock and rock 'n' roll, it would be The Fixx. The Fixx, who had their first single "Teenage Dreams" in 1980, continue to tour and have released several albums since then. Their sound is a blend of punk and new wave, influenced by bands such as The Jam and The Clash.

As Greenall said to the fans before the show, "I'm sure they'll be smitten."

The Fixx then took the stage, their set, they really put their all into it. Their classics such as "Stand the Heat", "Don't Let Me Be Lonely Tonight", "Twist In the AISles", "The Way You Love Me Today", and "You've Got It". The audience with lead vocals and guitar licks. As Greenall said to the fans before the show, "I'm sure they'll be smitten."

Teenage dreams and vocals were perfectly formed. They really put their all into it, and this was a club show. They got the audience going with the fixx. Their set had a purpose. The show began. On the stage, we saw the entire band seemed to come back for four encores. I think he saved one more song. What a great night. They were very vocal, and I'll be happy to see them next time.

The Fixx can be seen at The Channel Thursday at the Channel in Boston.

The Fixx: They Are Themselves
By Brian Hughes

That’s what Kevin Trimper, keyboardist for The Fixx, says about playing in bands.

The Fixx played in Livingston in December to a packed house, according to the Las Vegas Review-Journal.

They played there twice in total, on the first night, they were playing for less than forty-five minutes and on the second night, they were playing for about an hour and a half.

The band has a new album called “Momentary Lapse of Reason,” which was released in 1987.

The album features a new sound that incorporates a mix of traditional and experimental instruments.

From the opening instrumental, “Sign of Hope,” the band proves that they are capable of creating a unique sound.

The Fixx is a band that has been around since the late 1970s, and they have been playing together ever since.

The band has had some line-up changes over the years, but the current lineup includes

- Roger相sz - vocals
- Contemporary and traditional
- Greg West - guitar, backing vocals
- Tony Cottier - bass, vocals
- Adam Wood - drums, vocals

The band has had a string of hit singles, including “One Thing,” “Black & White,” and “Girl’s Talk.”

The Fixx is known for their catchy hooks and strong melodies, which have helped them to become one of the most popular bands of the 1980s.

They have been praised for their ability to create memorable songs that stand the test of time.

In conclusion, The Fixx is a band that has been around for a long time, and they have continued to create music that is both entertaining and thought-provoking.

The band’s ability to adapt to changing musical trends while maintaining their signature sound is a testament to their talent and dedication.

temporary at the Bridgewater State University Catholic Center

It's been this month since Father Bob Conners began working on the Italian campus in the city center. Life in the dorm has been busy and exciting, but it's now time to relax and enjoy the coast. Father Bob has been visiting the Archdiocese of Boston, and it was approved campus chaplain.

Father Bob’s thoughts on Bridgewater State and the goals of the Catholic Center

By Debra Willis

Father Bob Connors began working on the Bridgewater campus in 1983, and has been an influence on the locale of the Campus Catholic Center. The first is a social service project which would begin sponsoring internships. The second is a hunger project. The third is a toxic waste project. The fourth is a library project.

The Comment Thursday, September 24, 1987

MASSPIRG is looking for new members to its Bridgewater student chapter of MASSPIRG, explained Dan Layden, the current director of the Bridgewater State College MASSPIRG chapter.

There are four projects that will be worked on this year. The first is a Solid Waste project. There is a bill in the legislature which MASSPIRG is lobbying for. The second project is about solid waste. There is a bill in the legislature that would provide for the expansion of and substantial deposit on the various solid waste bans now in Massachusetts.

MASSPIRG is also looking for a master’s student in public relations. For further information contact Dan Layden at 697-1200.

Men's rugby edged by Plymouth State in the slop

By Andy ReCap

The B.S.C.'s Men's Rugby team was defeated by Plymouth State College last Saturday in a match-up at Bridgewater's Swenson Field. The faithful fans who came to the game got to watch some of the best rugby played here all fall. Although play was stoppy due to the weather, both teams managed to perform well.

Plymouth State was on the board first when they scored a try in the first five. They missed the conversion kick, but they lead the score 5-0 at the half.

Bridgewater came out strong in the second half with a try score off a Captain Rick Duddila. The two point conversion kick to Co-Captain Scott Brown made it 6-0 Bridgewater.

But the Bears were on the field in an impressive performance winning charge. Bridgewater State is now receiving charges for the program this week with specific regards to defendants. Following its own lead, Bridgewater managed to make a "no call" play, for all the fibers to follow, and they will follow it. It is just one of many new charges coming for the athletic programs here on campus. It is also going to be a model for schools that do not plan on following the rules.

By Antonio Pagan
All things considered, we are looking at the new wire of an area here at Bridgewater State University.

With the emphasis on educational philosophy changing, Bridgewater State is now instituting changes for the athletic program with specific regards to academic. Following its own lead, Bridgewater managed to make a "no call" play, for all the fibers to follow, and they will follow it. It is just one of many new charges coming for the athletic programs here on campus. It is also going to be a model for schools that do not plan on following the rules.

The 1989 NHL striker, Glenn Tkacz, will play in a game against the American team in the fall. The American team is not close to the American University, but they are making a cross country journey.

Finally, there is a huge race coming this way. If you've read through this far, you've seen the picture of the man wearing an 8-foot wooden bear. Bridgewater will return home with a cross-country trophy.

Men’s rugby edged by Plymouth State in the slop
B-Side takes victory in muddy conditions, 8-0

By Andy ReCaP

The B.S.C. Men’s Rugby team at Bridgewater State College lost to Plymouth State last Saturday in a tough battle in Bridgewater. The faithful fans who came to the game got to watch some pretty good rugby. Although play was stoppy due to the weather, both teams managed to perform well.

Plymouth State was on the board first when they scored a try in the first half. They missed the conversion kick, which made the score 0-6.

Bridgewater came out strong in the second half with a pick-up score by Capt. Rick Kudliva. The two points conversion kick by Co-Captain Scott Brown made it 6-6.

Bridgewater led 8-6 and the score stayed even in an impressive performance winning the battle of attrition. Plymouth State managed to only get 15-6, with the conversion kick missed.

Bridgewater remained a few more minutes with no touch down with Plymouth State on their tail.

The B-Side win was due to the quality of play from both teams. Plymouth State has made a 10-0 lead in the season.

The win came against a tough Plymouth State team that is a model for their own lead, Bridgewater will surely follow.

Men’s soccer opens with victory home opener versus Suffolk University, 4-0

By Amy Sullivan

The Men’s Team Season started their season on Thursday, September 17 at 7:00 p.m. at CURRY College, Franklin by Bobbi Oswein scored one on a nearly empty polishing Suffolk 1-0. John Samuelsi, Graceland Adams and Tad Yabes showed great effort attempting to score a goal. The B.S.C. Men’s Team continued an impressive offensive play with an early second half goal by Mike Morris. Mike Newport followed with the final goal of the game. Paul Philip’s 64 gave the team the win in the net. Mike Karnapsi took the ball out of the Suffolk’s goal andobubled the pace as extremely aggressive game, but it wasn’t enough to stop the B.S.C. Team. Capt. John Shitty scored the early in the game by Chris Lynn.

changes in store for next year’s freshman applicants

by Chris Peter

students applying to Bridgewater next year will encounter a pronounced difference from the one present students experienced.

for prospective students, this year will be the last of a writing sample change. in addition to their application, this year, these students will be given an opportunity to contribute to a system for administering voluntary interviews with alumni, campus, faculty, or both.

also, the admissions office will be promoting some information and help in high school. two new admissions coordinators have been hired to work with high school students to aid in the process.

the college will also be adding a , which is an addition worth noting. it will be held in unison with the start of classes, and will be open to high school students who are interested in attending bridgewater.

last year, approximately 1,500 freshmen entered the college in the fall, and approximately 150 fewer were admitted. for at least the next two years, this cap on admissions will be continued in an effort to reduce the student to faculty ratio.

as it stands now, the ratio is approximately 23:1. the ideal ratio is that being worked towards is 17:1.

president jodrowy stated that it was the administration’s hope that this situation would be ongoing, and for this reason, the admissions office has taken steps to get the word out.

the three initiatives that were done this academic year were:

1. students who are interested in learning about the center, please drop by to say hello.
2. more about the center, drop up to the third floor and ask for the center manager.
3. building a new awareness of the center by promoting more events, home and away.

anyone interested in learning more about the center, please contact cathy maloof at 585-5100.

various events will be held throughout the year, including information sessions, open houses, and other events.

the center is located on the second floor of the sophomore building.
