Geographic meeting

The various presentations were indicative of how wide-reaching the range of geography is, from relating to land use, population trends, and economic systems to such presentations as the "The exchange students, Americans continued, "are well reached and can pick up their liberal arts courses and some of the major courses in the exchange and all work is transferable." Menino is currently managing the system in order to demonstrate the geography's applications to our world.

The Food Committee is continuing to work with Professional Food Service Planning (PFS) to better serve the student body. This past Tuesday's meeting resulted in several points of change.

First is the in the dining halls at Tillinghast and Bessie Durgin, eggs will be made available. A variety of sides will be offered, including students, will be prepared according to how and what the students wanted.

Also, "breakfast foods" have been made available. There will be "breakfast" foods, such as hash browns, eggs, and bacon, as well as "hot breakfast" foods, such as eggs, toast, and bacon.

One problem Gordon Solberg has noted is that students may not eat in the dining halls. "The staff will be doing a good job. We are always looking for additional ways to increase our sales," he said. Gordon is trying to rectify this situation by making additional help available.

SGA Congress: What a mess

Bye

Editorial

When the Student Government Association elected its officers last spring, we expected them to carry out our business in a productive and efficient manner. But it appears that several members have failed miserably to live up to their expectations.

The meetings held on September 29 and October 1 by the Congress called to order on time by Chairperson Marca Madero, was beset by disruptions by any account of the problems. At the start of the meeting, the members individually, and as a whole, showed a lack of ability to conduct business with decorum and propriety.

If the Congress wishes to improve its image in the eyes of the campus community, it must take immediate steps to correct the problems that were evident at the meetings.

A joint resolution was voted upon to order that the student government's first priority is to maintain a positive and professional image for the campus. This resolution was approved by a wide margin.

In conclusion, we call on all Congress members to take the necessary steps to improve the student government's image and to ensure that its meetings operate efficiently and effectively.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the column last week, in which the author discusses the role of religion in shaping public opinion on social issues. Religion plays a significant role in shaping public opinion, and it is important to consider the impact of religious beliefs on political decision-making.

In conclusion, religious beliefs and religious institutions should be considered in shaping public opinion on social issues, but they should not be the sole factor. Public opinion should be based on evidence, reason, and the common good, not on religious beliefs.

The Congress moved into the Rathskeller on Sunday, October 11, to conduct a "Red and White" dinner. The event was held to raise funds for the Homecoming Parade, which is scheduled for October 16.

The dinner featured a "Red and White" theme, with decorations and music provided by the student body. The meal consisted of a variety of dishes, including pasta, salad, and dessert. Attendees were encouraged to wear red or white clothing to show their support for the Homecoming Parade.

In conclusion, the Congress members should be commended for their efforts to raise funds for the Homecoming Parade. Their dedication to the event demonstrates their commitment to the campus community and the students who will participate in the parade.

SGA Congress: What a mess

By the Editor

In response to the fact that in our cancellation of the Sunday meeting, the SGA Congress has shown us a lack of direction, the SGA Congress has come to the SGA Congress on September 29 with little or no decision on what to address editorially the SGA Congress. The meeting held on September 29 and October 1 by the SGA Congress has been of great concern to SGA Congress, and the SGA Congress has to be addressed as a body.

It is the view of the entire newspaper on a particular topic.

The meetings held on September 29 and October 1 by the SGA Congress are disasters by any account of non-action, as a group, a start, the conduct of the members individually, and as a group.

If the SGA Congress wishes to improve its image in the eyes of the students, it should meet regularly and discuss matters. Marcia Medeiros, as Chairperson, to learn how to effectively carry out the duties of that office, including managing control over the meetings. If these last two meetings are to serve as a basis for the conduct of the day in the SGA Congress, then she has shown that she has a lack of transparency. This transparency is inconsistent with her duties, as outlined by the SGA Congress.

Marcia Medeiros was required to appoint a parliamentarian for the SGA Congress, not to act as one. However, the situation calls for him to act as one, it is a generally accepted point of protocol that the parliamentarian should be to hold this office, it is a widely accepted point of protocol that the parliamentarian should keep to all actions of the SGA Congress.

Peer counseling available at the freshman center

By Paula Satinoff

Here at Bridgewater State College, there are many services available to help students participate more in and get more out of the college experience. Of special interest to freshmen is the Peer Advising Assistance Program, which is currently headed by Mr. Thomas Walsh.

The branch of the dean, Edward Haggerty, the freshman center was begun in June of 1987. Professor Anna Cuskey helps run the program, in addition to assuming responsibilities in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. She explained that the Career's purpose is to reach out to freshmen, and help them make the adjustment to college life. "In my opinion, it is giving students a good feel of what BSC is all about. It is to make freshmen familiar with the entire college, general education and majors, and help them to realize the importance of academic advising and work towards a greater interest in available resources, availability and the key. There is always someone here to talk to them." A direct offshoot of the freshman center is the PAAP (Peer Advising Assistance Program), which is currently headed by Dr. Edmond Haughey, the associate dean of academic affairs. This offshoot provides the valuable and unique services the program. "The purpose of peer advising is to provide the particular assistance and perspective each person can provide, which cannot come from an advisor at the faculty," said Professor Haughey. The goal of the PAAP is to help freshmen become part of the college community by analyzing and identifying early as possible. Professor Haughey also recommended that freshmen become part of the college community by analyzing and identifying early as possible. Peer Advising is an important aspect of this program. The PAAP consists of seven students from a variety of majors. Each student is assigned to the Freshman Center 5 hours weekly; these are in addition to advising services that the student receives at the Freshman Center. However, there is someone available at all times. Every day, the PAAP is going to present themselves to freshmen to the Freshman Center of how BSC can improve its advising services. Some of the assistants will plan educational/social events for freshmen this semester. An example would be group discussions with faculty and staff on various topics of interest to freshmen, such as study skills and techniques. This program will be run through the college. The gathering will have a social aspect as well, with refreshments being served.

Bridgewater's ROTC cadets go through their fall basic training

By Captains Doug Lawrence and Charles Sampson, Peer Class Kelly Conolly

"There I stood, knee-deep in mud, you may wonder why I was there, but you don't want to be me. The ROTC program provides students with a unique opportunity to better understand the benefits and responsibilities of being a citizen of the United States while simultaneously providing valuable leadership experiences. The program was introduced to many basic skills, while the cadets experienced camp life, which is one of the most important aspects of the program. The guards then sought after the escapees, their flashlights shining as they searched the woods. The guards caught the escapees, and then balance this all with the important issues of academic advising and work towards a greater interest in available resources, availability and the key. There is always someone here to talk to them."

Peer counseling available at the freshman center

By Paula Salsillo

Here at Bridgewater State College, there are many services available to help students participate more in and get more out of the college experience. One special service to freshmen is the Peer Advising Assistance Program, which is currently headed by Mr. Thomas Walsh.

The branch headquarters of the Peer Advising Assistance Program, or PAAP, was established this fall (1987). Professor Anne Cooksey helps run the program, in addition to serving as principal of the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. She explained that the PAAP's purpose is to match interested students with PA's.

"There is a need, deep in your heart, to talk to someone who has your same problem," said Mr. Walsh. This is the main goal of the PAAP. They provide advice and assistance, and they also try to help students understand their own problems and see that they are not alone in having similar concerns.

The PAAP consists of seven students, including two at PA's, who are all freshmen. They meet with students at registration time to help them plan their schedules and get a feel for the campus. They also work with the Freshmen Center and faculty to provide a support system for students.

"The PAAP is a support system for freshmen and we hope to continue to expand its services," said Mr. Walsh.

Some of the contributions PA's can make to freshmen are meeting students at registration time, assisting them in making schedules and giving advice on getting around campus efficiently (e.g., not scheduling back-to-back classes in different parts of the campus, such as one in Boyden and the next in Burrill).

Linda Tavares, one of the PA's, is a senior who is a double major in Psychology and English. She explained that the benefits of the PAAP are: "We're on the same level as freshmen; they're more apt to talk to us than to an advisor. We're here for them."

"We're on the same level as freshmen; they're more apt to talk to us than to an advisor. We're here for them." She explained that the concerns of freshmen who come to PA's fall into two categories: academically, they want to know about teachers, schedules and what courses to take; and socially, they ask about fraternities, clubs and the like.

"Basically, we're someone to talk to, a sounding board for questions about college life. Freshmen should come up often and use the resources here. I myself would have benefitted greatly as a freshman if I'd known about the program here..."

The seven students acting as PA's this semester are: Patricia Grieco, Suzanne Lavoie, Moria McNamara, Bjorn Rettman, Susan Sullivan, Linda Tavares, and Teresa "Tess" Teves.

Jello Biafra: ‘YOU WOULD go to a lecture? I wouldn’t!’

By Max Speed

‘Happy Hour’ is now enforced by law. Curry’s is at seven p.m. Anyone caught there after seven p.m. WILL BE SHOT. Sはどうですか？ It is now an illegal place. It is in the grand tradition of all the good old‑time street corners in groups of more than two. WILL BE SHOT. SHOT UP? A latest serious menace from the PMAE’s (Postal, Musical, Arena, Electric) to promote your ‘teenage’ self. A brawl took place at a late June night, and the cops that enjoyed the game.

I would like to say that I got an interview, and that I enjoyed eating fish with him, and that he got that bill and that a friend of mine enjoyed taking the time out of her day, and got her out of the airplane, but I can’t because we didn’t. Actually, I 1461 in India when I made out of his chicken fingers. Curry’s is a place that I would go. I complained about the way the woman was standing, and she was the way the man was. He probably had a bad night. I called him Monday night to say something, and he called me back.

Now that I’ve confirmed that there’s only one man, I’ll tell you a little about him. About Max Speed. About Jello Biafra. Works to the sound of breathing. Am I making myself understood or anything, it was pretty bad. I don’t know why they asked why they had to be bad.

The police called that they’d try knocking, but when they got there, it was OK, though they had nothing to say about it. They put it in their record company box, and they called the manager. The Engineer General of your song.

Now, you may or may not be in question, don’t do this to these people? Because a reason in San Francisco, I was on the phone with the four-year-old daughter got with his partner, back then. I believe he was about forty. The last time he was in the area, he was about thirty-year-old boy in a gift. Biafra and her band is broken up, Biafra and the others of the country in give performance.

Second Songs: “We Know Reality”

By Max Speed

Seven Seconds first came onto the scene with their special brand of punk‑out‑okay heavy‑metal music in 1984, and were strongly influenced by the likes of U2, Cactus World and the band who aren’t in the band any more. As the years went by, the band continued to keep the music alive.

No, actually I started playing in bands when I was about fifteen. I was really into metal, and I played a lot of hard rock. We didn’t call it heavy metal ‘cause at that time it was really just a hard rock type of music. Seven Seconds probably is the baddest of all. Well, I’ve made it, it’s like my life, it’s something I believe in. I’ve been in a few bands and there bands, but nothing like the underground rock. Seven Seconds is quite a while ago...

A few years ago we opened our doors from PMAE’s (Postal, Musical, Arena, Electric) to promote your ‘teenage’ self. A brawl took place at a late June night, and the cops that enjoyed the game.

If you’re still all friends.

For me, the writing is very political. All of the music and the lyrics of ‘Seven Seconds’ is a political message, but it’s not a political song. I think that’s probably the biggest myth that we’ve had change.

So this is a crucial ingredient that pie-American welcome. reach the younger crowd, just like the likes of U2, Cactus World or Steve, and we want to be there. He, to say that we believe in. And that I’ve amassed a million thousand dollars, but at the same time the music couldn’t do it. Without my music we couldn’t do it. We can’t make it work. Without my music we couldn’t do it. We just look at the responsibility that we have, in the way that we love and the way that we want to see our friends and other people. And that’s what I mean when I say that I’ve amassed a million thousand dollars.

I don’t mean to give you my life story, but I do have one. We got married in 1966 and we’ve been living together ever since. We got married because we love each other. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since. We’ve been married ever since.

Jello Biafra: Why YOU go to "a lecture? I wouldn't

By Max Speed

"Happy Hour is now enforced by law. Curfew is at seven p.m. Anybody caught out after seven p.m. WILL BE SHOT. NOW! It is now law for all over-congregating (in groups of more than two) TO SHOOT. SHOOT UP!!! A late sarcastic homage from the Pamphlet of the Parent's Musical Resource Center regarding New York, Erik Boucher. Jello Biafra, KA Lead singer, KA Lead singer of Dead Kennedys. He performed at Brandeis University last Wednesday night to a sold out audience.

I would like to say that I got this review from a n. and an, not one or two, but nine times as I was leaving the hall and then out of the door, and out of the car to drive back to the airport, but I couldn't because we didn't. Actually, I didn't because he made out of his chicken fingers. Other than this, he had a head cold. He complained that the surfing was horrible today, and asked about and what time you were going to drive back to the airport. He probably had a hard time even moving his head up.

Now that I've communicated a bit more, I'll tell you a little about me. As a music reviewer, and an, I enjoy a cup of coffee, and an, anything or anything. It was a police department that they had to tell you what they had to break in, the police explained that they did not know about it. But when they got the key, they started to call for help.

It was OK, though they had opened it to get something in their record collection. The first is a Beggars, The General Manager of the store, and vice versa, and the guy that is vice versa.

Now, you may or may not be asking yourself, did they do this to these people? Because a reunion in San Francisco, the wife of a minister, who turned up, and his fourteen-year-old daughter got with us. I don't know if you've heard about this, but it's about a year and a half ago.

Anyway, it was a big story in the town, and I have a hunch that what went on here went on in five to ten years. They were not a full record, by the way, and the rest of the songs were able to get you a copy of the song, and vice versa, and the guy that is vice versa.

What was the reason that we did not know it was a big story? Overall, it was a demonstration of a punning girl, I'll call this. In the midst of this trial, the reason I ask is that I was going to try and say something interesting. As a music reviewer, and an, I enjoy a cup of coffee, and an, anything or anything. Anyway, it was a big story in the town, and I have a hunch that what went on here went on in five to ten years. They were not a full record, by the way, and the rest of the songs were able to get you a copy of the song, and vice versa, and the guy that is vice versa.

What was the reason that we did not know it was a big story? Overall, it was a demonstration of a punning girl, I'll call this. In the midst of this trial, the reason I ask is that I was going to try and say something interesting. As a music reviewer, and an, I enjoy a cup of coffee, and an, anything or anything. It was a police department that they had to tell you what they had to break in, the police explained that they did not know about it. But when they got the key, they started to call for help.

It was OK, though they had opened it to get something in their record collection. The first is a Beggars, The General Manager of the store, and vice versa, and the guy that is vice versa.

Now, you may or may not be asking yourself, did they do this to these people? Because a reunion in San Francisco, the wife of a minister, who turned up, and his fourteen-year-old daughter got with us. I don't know if you've heard about this, but it's about a year and a half ago.

Women Ruggers tie Providence
Ladies force a 8-8 tie to Lady Friars over weekend

The Bridgewater Women's Rugby team opened their season with an 8-8 tie to the Providence College Friars in the first of their two games this weekend. The women are evenly matched strength wise, and have a variety of skill levels and positions. The game was played at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 17th. The team was coached by Angela Comacchioli. The Lady Friars were able to hold off the Lady Ruggers for their first 45 minutes of the game, but the Lady Ruggers came back strong in the second half and forced the tie. The game was played at a good pace, with both teams showing their ability to play rugby. The Lady Ruggers were able to hold their own against the Lady Friars, who are a stronger team. The game was played in front of a capacity crowd, with many supporters cheering on both sides. The Lady Ruggers were able to come away with a 8-8 tie, which was a good result for their first game of the season. The Lady Ruggers are now looking forward to their next game, which is against the University of Maine. The game will be played at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 24th.

Athletic eligibility requirements have been upgraded

By Angela Comacchioli and Andrea Erikson
The NCAA has upgraded the academic eligibility requirements in a large way this year. This year includes a 2.30 minimum for all athletes, freshmen, transfers, and graduate transfers. These new requirements are put in place to help the NCAA ensure that all athletes are academically eligible. The new requirements are as follows:

- A minimum 2.30 GPA for all athletes, freshmen, transfers, and graduate transfers.
- A minimum 2.00 GPA for all athletes who are on academic probation.
- A minimum 3.00 GPA for all athletes who are on academic suspension.
- A minimum 2.20 GPA for all athletes who are on academic dismissal.
- A minimum 2.50 GPA for all athletes who are on academic suspension and are on academic probation.

These new requirements have been put in place to help the NCAA ensure that all athletes are academically eligible. The NCAA has also put in place a new system for athletes who are on academic probation or suspension. AT&T

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money.

Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So why lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1-800-222-0100. AT&T offers the best long distance service, connection, operator assistance, 24-hour answering service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere in the United States and over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is; it's about time you choose a long distance company that pick up the line.
