SGA Notebook

By Ed Wood

The SGA held its fourth meeting of the semester on October 13, 1987. Chairman Marcia McDonald moved to open the meeting at 11:30 a.m. quickly moved to new business. Area Review Editor Mike McMahon introduced section 3 which called for a new section in the magazine to provide for printing costs. McMahon stated that the magazine had not been printed for several issues. It had been determined that the previous editor had failed to send it in on time before June 30, when all funds allocated by the SGA went back to the SGA account. McMahon asked the President Deb Coors to ensure that the SGA received funds for the magazine to avoid similar problems in the future.

The meetings then discussed the following points:

1. Adoption of the existing budget for the SGA.
2. Discussion of the need for a new section in the magazine to provide for printing costs.
3. Approval of the minutes from the previous meeting.

The meeting concluded with a vote to adjourn at 12:30 p.m.

Dorm rules excessive!

By Chris Houck

College dorms are offering all residents have been added this year, making it better than ever to live in the dorms. The students have added to their list of rules. SGA members asked by the students to fix some of the rules. Here are some of the rules:

1. No loud music is allowed after 10 p.m.
2. No pets are allowed in the dorms.
3. No overnight guests are allowed without prior permission from the SGA.
4. No alcohol is allowed on campus.

These rules make it difficult for students to enjoy their dorm life. It is important to find a balance between rules and freedom.

DeRosa responds to editorial

To the Editor

I am writing this letter to the dorm residents. This letter is in response to the recent editorial in The Comment titled "Dorm rules excessive!". The SGA is working hard to ensure that dorm life is enjoyable for all residents.

I want to clarify that the rules mentioned in the editorial are in place to ensure the safety and well-being of all residents. Students are encouraged to address any concerns or suggestions they may have to the SGA.

I appreciate the students' feedback and hope to continue improving dorm life for all residents.

What a Congress.

But since the editorial bias was so destructive and filled with lies, I could not write.

I took an oath to serve the students of Bridgewater State College. Let's set the record straight. WM, to me, was not a larger office to me, but about different things. It won't be steady on the air. They had their stations back on the air for the first time. They had...
To the Editor:

My first concern is the laying of blame for the difficulties of the SGA. I do not believe that SGA's problem stems from a lack of ability or willingness to do the job, as the editors assert, but rather stems from a lack of knowledge--as is one of her given responsibilities--on the part of her public. She may also be forced to do a job she does not know how to do, especially the use of Robert's Rules of Order, for there had been no training or practice. She may not have the skills or the experience necessary to do the job. She may not know what the responsibilities are, or how to meet them.

As for the missing person, I do not believe that there may be someone who is not qualified to do the job, as the editors assert. In my opinion, the SGA clearly became evident as such even though they had no official status in the college. The editor's right to receive the public's input is a matter of the college administration, not the SGA. If the editor cannot receive the public's input, he or she may be forced to do a job that he or she does not know how to do.

Sincerely yours,

Marc J. Gensler

Chairperson Marcia Medeiros.

I wish to address the issue raised in the Editorial of October 6, which states that the Comment editorial staff needs to fire the SGA as a cover-up for the SGA: What a mess. My friend, the first concern of the SGA is the students who are their constituents.

The Comment fails to mention the SGA's responsibilities and the students who are the SGA's constituents. The SGA is a student-run organization, not a student-run administration. With all the pressures that they face, the students are not always able to do everything they need to. The SGA is one of the few organizations that they can turn to for help.

Newsperson sounds of about "the mess" in the S.G.A.

By Marc J. Conder

I wish to address the issue raised in the Editorial of October 8, which suggested that the S.C.O.C. editorial staff might seriously consider giving the S.G.A. more "airtime." My advice is this: What a mess.

It is unfortunate that the first issue of this newspaper this year featured an Editorial which attempted to belittle the S.G.A. I believe this was an oversight, and it is up to all of us to make sure it does not happen again.

The S.G.A. is a student-run organization, and it is up to us to support it. If we want to see improvements, we must work with the S.G.A. to achieve them.

The Art of Noise: no nonsense allowed!

By M.J. Gender

For works friends have been asking, "When are you going to review a movie?" Even the new Entertainment Editor here at the Comment has been asking me to write a review. I feel I may have to take this one on because I really don't want to review a movie. Even though I'm not sure what I'd say, I'm not going to try. I'll try to tell you what I think, then you can decide which movie you want to see. In the meantime, I've been working on a new project. I've been working with a group of musicians, and the result is a new album that I think you'll enjoy. It's called "The Art of Noise." The whole concept of the album is to create music that is not only different, but also is made of different sounds from different sources. The result is a unique and exciting sound that I think you'll enjoy. So, stay tuned for the review of "The Art of Noise."

The Art of Noise: no nonsense allowed!
By Brian Hughes

"No Sense, No Sense!" is the album that is The Art of Noise. A musical experience. This album is different dimension in sound and nonsensical nonsense. To truly experience every nuance that mere vinyl can not fully audiacologically feast upon this disc player on which to mecca of the art-music world, words alone cannot describe. May say that their use of studio eczalik make such incredibly and instrumental pieces. Discovery, of classical in 'every sense of the word and puts teeming to scream. "Dragnet". Their required album of the year. A very danceable version of "Debut". "Knockin' on Wood". Rick Marotta plays drums as Ronstadt. The Comment Thursday, October 15, 1987

The Lonesome Jubilee: Hard-working rock and roll
By Mike O'Clare

In 1981, John Cougar Mellencamp released the rollicking album ‘Abandon’, which was met by musical critical acclaim and commercial success. This success led to the inclusion of Mellencamp in Rolling Stone’s 1980s Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. Mellencamp’s next album, ‘Home', is considered by many to be one of the best albums of the 1980s. It features the hit single ‘ Bender, Bender’, which was a popular dance tune of the era.

The album features a mix of rock and folk instrumentation, with Mellencamp’s signature style of storytelling and social commentary. The album also includes collaborations with prominent musicians such as Don Everly (of The Everly Brothers) and Blue Cheer. "Knockin’ on Wood" is one of the standout tracks on the album, featuring Mellencamp’s distinctive vocal delivery and an energetic, danceable rhythm.

In 1984, Mellencamp released his eighth studio album, ‘Hollywood’. This album is known for its more energetic and danceable sound, with tracks like "Knockin’ on Wood" and "Home". The album features a mix of rock and pop instrumentation, with Mellencamp’s signature style of storytelling and social commentary. The album also includes collaborations with prominent musicians such as Johnny Cash and Waylon Jennings. "Knockin’ on Wood" is one of the standout tracks on the album, featuring Mellencamp’s distinctive vocal delivery and an energetic, danceable rhythm.

Discover Carlton's Discovery, but only if you really like good music.
By Dave Sparti

Larry Carlton has enough musical credits under his belt to graduate from the "School of Session" Music. Perhaps as many as any other west coast maestro. Carlton has created a guitar sound which epitomizes California rock and jazz. His work spans the film of Stanley Donen, Quincy Jones, Joe Mitchell, Linda Ronstadt, John Lennon, and Christopher Cross. Larry recently won a Grammy for his playing on Mike Penny's "Bill Street Blues". Carlton's jazzy tidbits epitomize the "Black Hole" of the rhythm section, and are handled with the utmost care and concern.

Carlton's latest album, "Discovery", is a true testament to his incredible guitar talent. "Knockin' on Wood" begins the album by gently strumming your way into a soft, yet powerful rock song. If you like music, you'll probably enjoy the instrumental progress. "Knockin' on Wood" continues the delicate balance of sound, using Carlton's talent to create a unique and memorable track.

Carlton's music is uniquely his own, blending jazz, rock, and funk in a way that is both innovative and accessible. The album features a mix of rock and pop instrumentation, with Carlton's signature style of storytelling and social commentary. The album also includes collaborations with prominent musicians such as John Lennon and Linda Ronstadt. "Knockin' on Wood" is one of the standout tracks on the album, featuring Carlton's distinctive vocal delivery and an energetic, danceable rhythm.
Skagarack, Sweden’s answer to Foreigner, re-releases album on MCA

By Dave Spuria

Skagarack is a new band from Sweden who’s first album has been remastered and re-released on the MCA record label.

Swedish rock conjures up names like Abba and, most recently, Europe. Neither band has the innocent appeal and keen sense of togetherness that Skagarack has. However, like Europe, Skagarack uses keyboards to accent their hard rock guitar sound. Producer Stephen Short has filtered down their musical mix to come up with a clean rhythm guitar sound.

Example number one is .. Don’t Turn Me Upside Down”, which is a hard-rock sing-along gem. Toren Schmidt is a competent vocalist because his voice is a compliment to the music. Each song offers a hook which doesn’t make you want to fast-forward to the next song. This is where bands like Foreigner, Deep Purple, and more recently, Whitesnake come to mind.

The band’s brightest moments are in their slow guitar parts, as in “Victim of the System”, “Damned Woman”, and “Move in the Night”. These slow guitar trips also contain clever production tricks like quick drum rolls, keyboard explosions and some amplified guitar fills.

Today, we have to reservations about the sounding behind the music to understand the music itself. Music should be rock guitar sound. Skagarack is entertaining. I don’t see them as musical band mates, but they are unique enough to keep out of the second tag along they can get some decent promotion.

The songwriters will set in as the interpretation of their music which really isn’t Heavy Metal, but a melodic hard rock. Bands like these are usually labeled as “Wimp-Metal” or “Glam Rock”.

What must be said about Skagarack is that they are committed to their music, whatever it is categorized as.

The art of high-tech vegging: rent out a video cassette

Can’t get into the Homecoming spirit? Looking for something mindless to do Sunday night after a weekend of celebrating SCC spirit? Why not rent a video and practice the fine art of vegging? Don’t let the problem of having no VCR stop you. Bridgewater Audio Video, Family Video, and Super 8 all have VCRs available to rent for under $10.00, as well as a wide variety of movies to choose from. Just remember to get them back on time so all the good movies are gone.

3. Riptide - One of Alfred Hitchcock’s most strange films. All of the action takes place in one room. It is a piece of cinematic history.

4. Z and Nancy - A hockey film that really looks at the game scene and is a way better legitimizes it. The acting performances are incredible.

5. Florida’s Choice - This is an oldie but if you haven’t seen it yet, you must. Moreno’s performance is her best.
