McFarland Scholarship

The Department of Academic Affairs, in conjunction with the Office of Financial Aid, is pleased to announce that applications are now being accepted for the Christopher McFarland Teacher Internship Grant Program for 1987-88. The internship is sponsored by the Board of Regents and is designed to provide $1,000.00 in student stipends to Massachusetts college juniors and seniors who agree to teach in a public educational setting in the Commonwealth. Teachers who are interested in applying for this grant must be able to offer their time and expertise, and are expected to complete a full-time program of teaching in order to be eligible for teacher certification. Interested applicants must also demonstrate financial need in the application to the Financial Aid Office.

Applications are available in the Office of Academic Affairs and the Financial Aid Office for those students who meet the above criteria. The deadline for completed applications is Monday, November 16th. Any student who is interested in further information before applying should contact the Financial Aid Office.

In 1985, a controversial novel portrayed the wild, excessive lives of the kids in Beverly Hills.

On Friday, November 6th, brace yourself for the motion picture.

Some common registration problems

1. Time conflicts - selecting courses that overlap in time can take hours by a few minutes. The computer program will not register you if you have a conflict.

2. Social security number - if incorrect or not carried properly, you will not be registered.

3. Restricted Courses - read the "Restricted" column. For example, you will not resolve AC or HS courses if you are not a management major/minor.

4. Laboratory Courses - you must register for both the lecture and the lab or you will not be registered.

5. Not Using A #2 pencil - anything else will result in not being registered.

6. Remounting - if tearing the form - the optical scan computer will not register you if the form is torn or bent.

Budgets frozen, committee spots approved

By Ed Ward

The seventh meeting of the SGA Congress was called to order by Chairman Marcia Medeiros. Several motions were approved, including the approval of the student government's new bylaws. The congress also approved the appointment of new committee chairs for the fall semester. In addition, the congress passed a motion to approve the budget for the upcoming academic year.

Goodbye and good luck, Don

For the past four years, Donald Hodge has been here to help students with a wide range of legal problems. He has spent much time outside of the SGA in order to assist students with suits and legal questions. Among the many problems that he has dealt with, most notably, is dealing with landlord-tenant disputes. Many students living both on and off campus can attest to the fine job that Hodge has done in saving them money and in keeping them in their places of residence. But Hodge will no longer be the lawyer that the SGA provides free of charge for students here at the college.

BSC's footbridge needs a winter coat

By Eda Bulls

The bridge is a popular meeting place and often a convenient place for students to study. However, when it's cold outside, the bridge can become quite uncomfortable to use. The bridge's wooden structure is designed to provide a comfortable and safe environment for students, but the cold weather can cause the bridge to become quite chilly. The bridge is also susceptible to weather conditions, such as snow and ice, which can make it difficult to use during the winter months. In order to ensure that the bridge remains safe and functional, it's important that it be maintained during the cold weather months.

BSC's footbridge needs a winter coat

By John Beams

The last few weeks of inclement weather make you wish for the footbridge to be more weatherproof. Questions have been met regarding safety, weather, and overall practicality. As a result, several problems have been brought up as alternatives to the footbridge, which is called the "Track.

The most common complaint seems to be that the bridge will not last in the winter because of the slope of the walkway and the snow and rain that fall onto the bridge. It also seems to attract the snow and slush.

Therefore, we don't want to spend more than is necessary to solve this temporary problem. A few coats of paint might solve the problem, but they wouldn't look very neat. If they looked neat, others would surely see the defects in the bridge. A few coats of paint might solve the problem, but they wouldn't look very neat. If they looked neat, others would surely see the defects in the bridge.

I think this is a difficult question to answer. The entire length of the bridge cannot be seen at one glance, but it will be observed. The new winter bridge could not be seen at one glance, but it will be observed. The new winter bridge.

What could be so difficult to answer the question of the bridge in the winter. It's just another of the long list of questions we very easily answer. Whatever "new" bridge we take, it will be there, either rolling along or it will be there, maybe a bit better. But how will it be "attractive?"

Clear plastic sheeting can be used for sleds, fastened to the raised and the snowslide. It can be made thicker than ordinary clear plastic, but I'm not sure what amount of materials we need. We also need to consider the cost of the materials, but I'm not sure what amount of materials we need. We also need to consider the cost of the materials, but I'm not sure what amount of materials we need.

OK, PFM's excuses said to be as bad as their food

By Brian Hughes

OK, PFM's bad enough time to make it's "change" it said a word, but they've gotten better. Some of their food is pretty disgusting and a lot of it is simply terrible. Take for example, the VEGGIE chilli with corn and white beans. It was awful. No kidding, I saw a sign propped up about the cold in the ice cube. One student brought back a salad mix and called it something different. It was not good!

I have a feeling that there's something wrong with the people who run the place. A few other folks don't know really much about it. They really screwed up. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance.

I'm sorry. We're working on it. I guess that's all money can be spent on. It's about going as far as we can. But don't count on it. Most of the buildings at the feeding and housing venture with something left over from the previous night that usually contains meat. I think it was some chicken or fish. Cusinova never had a problem with this request. We're crossing our fingers, he said.

Withdrawal period defended by academic policy members

By M. L. Glazer

This is in response to your editorial last week entitled "Going back to the old withdrawal period." Let us look at the facts before we go off and claim that what was for all intents and purposes a compromise between the students and faculty administration. The place where this compromise took place was within the Academic Policies Committee. As the Committee correctly stated, last year President Bolchazy had prepared a five week withdrawal period rather than the ten weeks that we have enjoyed for so long. As the Committee also correctly noted, it was ranked in a lot of time to make it happen. If so, what is the difference? As a student member of the Academic Policies Committee, I was not approached by one "concerned" student over the status of an important issue of the ten-week withdrawal period. I found myself forced to ask the student what they thought of the whole issue. The majority felt that it was a bad idea to mess with something that was good.

The Comment

What are you planning to do with your financial aid?

No smoking, please!

By Editor

I must admit that the "How far have we come?" article on smoking in September's issue of The Comment. "The thing is, and always has been, designed for smoking publicly. -It's a privilege," is a pretty disgusting one to me to have to sit through, unless you are holding your breath. I'm not.-I think that's really what's wrong with the people who run the place. They really screwed up. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance. I implore you to give them a chance and give them a chance.

Since the Spring of 1974, the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department has supported a pilot program which fosters community service. The program affords students from all areas the opportunity to volunteer their time working with children and youth with special needs in a clinical physical and motor program on Saturday mornings.

What started 14 years ago as a pilot program to meet the physical, motor and leisure needs of twenty children, has grown into a well established program that now serves some eighty children and youths from 37 communities.

The Clinic has proven to be a satisfying experience for students who seek to help children with special needs to reach their fullest potential physically, intellectually, emotionally and socially.

The Clinic utilizes the Olympic size swimming pool, three gymnasiums, an early childhood intervention center, a physical fitness training room and outdoor facilities. The developmental program is one of only about fifty in the country. The program seeks to improve the "total development" of children with special needs. The Clinic program stresses the improvement of self-assessment by strengthening the emotional-social aspects of a child's life. All individuals need and desire to participate in games, activities and sports, to perform and to succeed in an acceptable manner.

Each child is the Clinic program is assigned a clinician who, through observation and assessment, is responsible for determining the needs of the child. The data from the assessment is then utilized to develop an individualized program that addresses specific areas of concern and seeks to remediate the needs identified.

To achieve the goals of each client's regimen, the clinician may include:
- Early Intervention
- Physical Fitness
- Perceptual Motor Development
- Individual and Group Classes
- Aquatic Skills
- Gymnastics and Dance Skills
- Recreation and Sport Activities

The program is directed by Dr. Joseph Haber, who worked extensively with the first class of this kind developed at the University of Maryland, and Professor Johanne Smith, Dr. Haber and his staff recently featured the Miami University in Public Service. The Clinic is the largest group on campus with over 90 students clinicians representing most of the college's majors.

The Clinic is now accepting applications for the Spring semester from all interested students. Applications may be obtained at Dr. Haber's office, Room 103 in the Kelly Gymnasium.

Wanna come down and join us in our efforts to make a difference in the lives of the special needs children we serve?

Deadline for Applications is December 15, 1987.

Lock Up Your Daughters saved by cast

By Brian Hughes

Let me start by saying that I am a fan of live theatre, but I also am not a big fan of it. I have seen many plays, and I have come to dislike musicals. I avoid them like the plague. I have been put to sleep by one too many to ever truly enjoy another. At least, that's what I thought until last Thursday night.

I must admit, the Ensemble Theatre's productions of Lock Up Your Daughters brought back my faith in music, and reaffirmed my knowledge that the Ensemble Theatre is a talented group of individuals. Equally enjoyed on all other levels involved in this production, which was one of the most professional I've seen.

Lock Up Your Daughters is, in no small way, a great play in itself. The dialogue tends to move slowly in the first act, which is too long anyway, and the plot is simply too complicated for a audience to follow. However, the cast proved to have made a better play if the audience had that personal touch but that's only my personal opinion.

Fleetwood Mac: Unsubstantiated rumors

By Lisa Hennessey

It's All Hailfold. Boston. Rock and Roll is out. The sun goes down as the Fleetwood Mac crew rolls out. Fleetwood Mac (minus Lindsey Buckingham) lark go out and put on a show. Fleetwood Mac's live experience without Lindsay Buckingham? They can do it. Fleetwood Mac love live experiences without Lindsay Buckingham? They can do it.

Fleetwood Mac charged out "The Chain" and "Storms" and Stevie Nicks sang with new stories and emotions. Fleetwood Mac performed a show for their fans that they could have never dreamt of. This cast and crew could do anything they wanted to do and they did it.

The songs were well performed. The cymbal crashes were repelled, the drums were well played, the guitar was well strummed. Fleetwood Mac live business is a trip for the fans and the business is a trip for Fleetwood Mac.

Another Side Mac: Not just another boogying down

By Steve Parks

Selena is a movie that I have never seen. I am not a fan of it. I have heard about it, but I have never seen it. The few friends I have who have seen it say that it's a trip for the fans and the business is a trip for the business.

Slyro Gyra: Quality Jazz on "Stories"

Ever since Carrying The Sea hit the shelves, there's been a constant, non-stop quality from Slyro Gyra. Their latest album, Stony Waters, was released last month. These musicians are none of the best in jazz today. Jay Beckenstein plays a great flute, and his band is one of the best in the business. After a few shows, most of the members head home, but there are a few more to come.

Stupid remarks

By Steve Parks

If I hear one more stupid remark, I think I'll scream. First, Kim Wilde had to do "You Keep Me Hangin' On," which I consider one of the greatest original impressions I have ever had. For $2 I sold a new version to a tin of sale. "Lost on You" by Club Nouveau got a lot of nothing. This is a song that was an average app of Hill and a song that was the writing of a lawyer. What an ugly song. Clearly, it is one of the worst that's ever been.

Lies about the answer lies in the fact that many of these artists aren't very creative. Money is also a key factor. Didn't Bill Reid really need to come Tommy James and "Money" for a second time in the top 40? The "Jumpin' Over" crisis of late in the band who tried to do "Hideous Jumping" by the Turtles. I don't know who they are or why they exist. I think they should go away. This was a song that was never a hit. "Come Away" by Tommy James is a real letdown. What is going on? I am in shock. I am going to do a song, a song, and a song. I think that's what I'm about to go ahead with. Obviously, the answer lies in the fact that many of these artists aren't very creative.

Your Daughters is, without a doubt, the greatest work of the Rumors era. It is amazing that a band can be so great.

When a band goes overseas, it usually will find everything that they need in the album—and if they are not overwhelmed, they are not overwhelmed. They do not need to have a great show. They need to be there. They need to be heard. They need to be entertained.

I have said, the musical greats were always the ones who were eaten by the wolves. The average person was always the one who was hungry. The average person was always the one who was hungry. But that's only my personal opinion.

This song just can't be re-recorded. What I'm getting at is that this cover stuff has gone too far. Obviously, the answer lies in the fact that many of these artists aren't very creative. Artists aren't very creative. So:

Engineer urges president to make train tracks safer

By Byron Hayes

Samuel Langley, the engineer of the Cape Cod - Florida Railroad which wrecked and killed William Murphey twice over years ago, spoke with President Indelillo 10 to 15 days before the accident. Langley expressed concerns with the possible problems of academy crossing the tracks. Said Indelillo, "Langley came to speak with me on the subject of the free traffic going across the tracks. He wanted to discuss possible solutions to the problem." Indelillo told Langley that he did not know which solution would be the most effective. Historically,accidents which have been put to keep people off of the tracks have been run down within days.

Finally, as one solution, Langley wanted to put information in the school publications listing the times which the trains run through campus and of the railroad tracks. "It takes a man going 60 mph approximately 1000 feet to stop," stated Langley. "That if the distance of the observatory to the tracks." This information appeared in the October 15 issue of Bridgewater Today. One week later, the accident involving Murphey ocurred.

Clement speaks on teacher’s rights

By Peter Bolivia

As part of the 50th Anniversary of the Physical Education Major, Dr. Anne Chevigny, in the record of consecutive talks, spoke on the teacher’s rights. Students who have participated in students’ rights by noting specific cases related to the fourteen amendments which states that one can appeal equal protection under the law, or even specifically, based on sex discrimination. Dr. Chevigny noted that the majority of these cases were brought to the Supreme Court and the issue of sex equality over the sports world. She noted that since equality is found in sports, the courts will decide a case of sex equality against sex discrimination.

Dr. Chevigny concluded her talk by re-addressing key issues and defined the concept of sex equality against sex discrimination.

Some common registration problems

By Byron Hayes

1. Filling in the wrong circle - particularly filling in the "zero" circle rather than the "one" circle.

2. Waiting list options - very few student majors courses from the waiting list. Selecting summary sections or courses is much better.

3. Increased code number - the second major reason for not getting desired courses.

4. Filling in the wrong circle - particularly filling in the "zero" circle rather than the "one" circle.

5. Not filling in the circles - need, no. 2
