By Ron Davis

Other teams nixedfall because of the nature of the 16. "We were able to improve our game skills," said defender Mary Carney. "We're all trying to learn and be the best we can," said forward Caroline O'Connor. "It was a great experience for us all," she added.

Lacrosse season continues as the Lady Bears travel to Mo. The girls are ready to get back on the field and "bring it home." The season will continue until the end of March.

BSC's Todd Steinman took part in the Giteight "Guards in Sticks" on 3 basketball competition over spring break. See story on previous page.

Bear's wash out

By Byron Hayes

The home opener of the Bridgewater State Bear's baseball team was to have been played Tuesday, April 4. The teams were scheduled to play. Manager Naranjo, however, was not on the stands. The game was cancelled due to wet field conditions. This is the second game the Bears have not played due to rain conditions.

The Bears first home game will now take place this weekend, on Sunday, April 9 against MARC's rival North Adams State College. Coach Tufa told the players not moving North Adams Methods, "it's a big advantage.

"It's less to play the North Adams and the better bears at home," said Tufa. "The game again good crowds which help pump the player's game.

Tufa states that the next several games to be played are important and the team is prepared to win. "I'm happy, Main, Marion, and North Adams bear," he said, "We are gearing towards tournament play-just go for the season."

The team played EMU today and will face Main, Marion on Saturday April 6, and North Adams on April 8.

Financial Aid deadline extended

The Financial Aid Office has announced that the April 3 deadline application priority deadline has been extended to April 17. The reasons for the extension of the deadline was due to the increased staff time associated with implementing the financial aid module of the new college administrative computer system, and to allow more time for processing.

The Financial Aid forms are available in the Financial Aid Office and around the campus in various locations. Students seeking financial aid for the fall semester are asked to complete these forms and return them to the Financial Aid Office by April 17. All applications which are received after this deadline will be reviewed on a rolling basis.

A complete financial aid file consists of a processed financial aid form, a Bridgewater Financial Aid application, and appropriate 1988 Federal Tax Returns. Students having any questions should contact the Financial Aid Office at 497-1341.

In addition, the Financial Aid Office will be closed to the public on Thursdays, starting April 6, so the staff can implement the new 1989-1990 processing and auditing cycle on a timely basis.

Thought for the Week

"So long as we love - we never; so long as we are loved by others, we would almost say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend."

Corrections

There has been a lot of talk on this campus about student apathy. Well, all of that is changing and changing for the better, as students take off their apathy hats, and put on a new hat. Actually, the hat is really a derby, and during the last week of April, Sigma Chi will be sponsoring the third annual Derby Daze, to raise money for three worthy charities.

The idea is to produce a high-quality newspaper, measuring up, or exceeding, industry standards in every possible way.

Medeiros announces bids for student trustee position

By Byron Hayes
Coronet staff

Currently the President of the Student Government Association, Marcia Medeiros is "moving up the ladder" as she has announced her candidacy for the position of student trustee. Being the SGA president, Medeiros feels she can continue to work for the students as trustee.

As an elected trustee, Medeiros has stated that she will "serve against any and all interests for the student." She noted that she was a leader against the $125 fee, and she will continue this position.

Medeiros cites other accomplishments, which she feels make her the qualified candidate. These include the passing of legal action against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for the $125 retroactive fee, being Chairman of the Committee, working on the Curriculum and Education Committee and Ways and Means Committee. Her final goal, which she feels is "providing open communication for the student," is to institute the $125 fee, being Chairman of the Congress, working on the Curriculum and Education Committee and Ways and Means Committee. Her final goal, which she feels is "providing open communication for the student," is to institute the $125 fee.

Medeiros believes that she has already united herself with the position of student trustee. She feels that she has already established this credibility. As Trustee, she believes that she can continue to work for the students as trustee.

INTRODUCTION

South Africa's fighting ranges on

South Africa's Foreign Minister, Roelf "Pik" Botha, demanded the U.N. Security Council condemn the South-West Africa People's Organizations for the incursions into Namibia from Angola and said the guerrillas' bid to establish bases in the area had "failed".

South Africans backs clashed with SWAPO guerrillas on the third day of a chaotic United Nations independence program yesterday as the death toll rose to more than 140 and U.N. officials struggled with the problem of ending the bloodshed.

Speaking at a conference on Namibia in Harare, Zimbabwe, SWAPO guerrilla leader Sam

Njoma accused South Africa of lashing "murder squads" on his people and called South African accounts of the fighting "figments of Pretoria's imagination."

Explaining the presence of his troops in Namibia, Njoma said, "SWAPO forces were gathering themselves, expecting to be continued to bases, by U.N. military components, but they did not expect not to be attacked by South Africans.

Officials put the death toll at 162, including 141 guerrillas and 21 police. The worst day of the fighting was Sunday, in which 97 guerrillas and 15 police died.

Cheeseburgers can benefit your health

A researcher said Tuesday that cheeseburgers cooked on a charcoal grill may have rather interesting health benefits. Southwest researchers found that a cancer fighting property is present in grilled cheeseburgers.

The researchers cautioned that the discovery is not a signal to "chow down" on cheeseburgers.

Cheeseburgers may contain four anti-cancer agents, including conjugated linoleic acid, a fatty acid claimed to slow cancer development in mice. Researchers said that the discovery of these agents in cheeseburgers was "remarkable." The researchers cautioned that the discovery is not a signal to "chow down" on cheeseburgers.

Pilecki resigns from Fitchburg position

Poland's Attorney General, Jan Pilecki, has resigned as Fitchburg State College President Francis Pilecki will leave the public higher education system.

Pilecki, 54, has moved out of state and has resigned from his tenured teaching job at Fitchburg State College.

For nearly two years, Pilecki has drawn a $40,000-a-year professor's salary at the college despite an illness that has kept him from teaching any classes.

In 1986, Pilecki resigned the Westfield presidency after he was indicted by a Hampden County grand jury for the alleged sexual assault of two male students.

He was found innocent following a trial in one case, and the remaining charges were dropped after a settlement was reached in a civil suit brought by the other student.

South Shore Plaza's theft rate decreases

Braintree has had a large drop in thefts of Firebirds and Camaros, the popular cars among the thieves in Braintree. This is the result of the Braintree police's instituted policy to stop all Firebirds and Camaros around the South Shore Plaza.

Police report a 71 percent decrease in the number of those models stolen.

Four hundred drivers of these models have been stopped in the past three months. Only five have been stolen, compared to 17 in the same three-month period last year.

Bridgewater can do better than Murphy

Evelyn Murphy, the Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth, will be the speaker at this spring's commencement exercises. And members of the campus are aware of this.

But who can blame them? First, a select group of college officials, namely the Executive Board of Trustees, decided it would be in the interest of the college to have her speak.

Secondly, a plurality of people are questioned as to what person they would have to speak. But, not this time.

Zeoli and his staff moved quickly on these requests and have already replaced styrofoam cups with paper ones and a styrofoam plate with paper. But, not this time.

Zeoli and staff commended college to have her speak. But, not this time.

By allowing a person who is not happy with their choice as speaker to also be the leading candidate for the 1990 gubernatorial race, who could turn her down?

With this in mind, the zeoli is the one who was chosen. This "select group" seems to thrive on the idea of acting on their own. They are good at posing a problem to the environment.

Not a productive move.

Finally, the person they chose as speaker is also the leading candidate for the 1990 gubernatorial race, who could turn her statements into a stump speech on the campus.

A call for concern over Carver Pond’s condition

To the Editor:

Carver Pond, an oasis of tranquility, is under threat. The recent increase in the number of people visiting Carver Pond has raised concerns about its future.

The pond is a vital resource for the community, providing a serene spot for recreation and relaxation. It is also home to a diverse range of species, including fish, birds, and amphibians.

However, the increasing number of visitors has led to concerns about the pond’s sustainability. The pond is at risk of becoming polluted and overcrowded, which could have serious impacts on its ecosystem.

We urge everyone to take responsibility for the pond and to respect its natural beauty. Let’s work together to ensure that Carver Pond continues to thrive for generations to come.

Just like the good old days...again

OMNIBUS

By Bryn Haugen

The Register's Office has announced that they are once again charging for the process of registration. The "new way" is the "old way" - meaning the process that took place three years ago has returned.

In honor of this auspicious event, here is a song which reflects upon the past trials and tribulations of registering for classes under the old system.

"Believe, me, it's one of the most meaningful experiences in a student's life. It is a process of registration. The rules that exist must be adhered to, and everyone takes part in enforcing them, they are all equal. How many more cases will we have to report before people get the hint?"

Everybody on campus is responsible for their own safety, as well as that of their fellow students.

This responsibility must be taken seriously, or the future may not be as positive.
Children’s Physical Developmental Clinic

Since the Spring of 1973, Bridgewater State College has supported a program which fosters community service. The program offers students from all majors the opportunity to volunteer their time working with children and youth with special needs in a clinical physical and motor program on Saturday mornings.

What started 16 years ago as a pilot program to meet the physical, motor and leisure needs of 20 children, has grown into a well established program. Nearly 100 college students volunteer their time as clinicians to work with 85 children with special needs from nearly 40 southeastern Massachusetts communities.

Children come to the Clinic from diverse sources. The New England Medical Center, Children’s Hospital, as well as physical therapists and social workers at the Department of Public Health, school systems, pediatricons, and psychologists have referred children to the Clinic. All members of the program have spread, numerous parents and families have also been involved.

The goal of the Clinic program is to enhance each child’s physical and motor development. Recreational skills of the participants are improved as they learn to use their least used limb in a satisfying and constructive manner.

This is achieved through group activity in which the child becomes aware of his or her ability to function successfully and with others, even though his or her performance level is not very high. Through the process, doors are opened for each child’s fuller participation in leisure and recreation programs within society now, and ultimately, as an adult.

The program is directed by Dr. Joseph Haber, who worked extensively with the first clinic of this kind developed at the University of Maryland, and Professor Johanne Smith. Dr. Haber and his staff received the Manuel Carballo Governor’s Award for Excellence in Public Service in 1985.

The Clinic is now accepting applications from students for the Fall 1989 semester. Applications may be obtained at Dr. Haber’s office, Room 103 in the Kelly Gym.

Won’t you come down and join us in our efforts to make a difference in the lives of the children with special needs we serve? You will not be disappointed. Ultimately, the Clinic experience may help you grow professionally. Graduates of Bridgewater State College have referred to their Clinic experience when applying for professional positions and/or graduate school.

Children's Physical

Since the Spring of 1975, Bridgewater State College has operated a program which fosters community service. The program allows students from all majors the opportunity to volunteer their time working with children and youth with special needs in a clinical physical and motor program on Saturday mornings.

What started 15 years ago as a pilot program is now for physical, motor and nonmotor needs of many children, has grown into a well established program. Ninety 100 college students volunteer their time as clinicians to work with 85 children with special needs from nearly 30 southeastern Massachusetts communities.

Children come to the clinic from diverse sources. The New England Medical Center, Children's Hospital, as well as physical therapists and social workers at the Department of Public Health, school systems, pediatricians, and psychologists have referred children to the clinic. All areas of the program have spread, nonmotor program clinicians have also been recruited.

The goal of the clinic program is to enhance each child's physical and motor development. Recreational skills of the patients are improved as they learn to use the basket, slide, etc. in a satisfying and constructive manner. This is achieved through group activity in which the child becomes aware of his or her ability to function successfully and with others, even though his or her performance is not very high. Through such processes, doors are opened for each child's fuller participation in leisure and recreation programs within society now, and ultimately, as an adult.

The program is directed by Dr. Joseph Weber, who worked extensively with the first clinician of this kind developed at the University of Maryland, and Professor Johnnie Smith. Dr. Weber and his staff received the Malcolm Baldrige Governor's Award for Excellence in Public Service in 1985.

The clinic is the largest group on campus with over 100 student clinicians representing most of the college's majors.

The clinic is now accepting applications from students for the Fall 1989 semester. Applications may be obtained at Dr. Weber's office, Room 121 in the Kells Gym.

Getting the giggles in comedy clubs

By Beat Benj

If laughter really is the best medicine, then Boston is in fine shape. The comedy scene is alive and well in Boston — just keep an eye on the number of opportunities available to see live comedy in action. Everyone loves a good laugh, and with the relatively inexpensive cover charges, Boston comedy clubs are an excellent choice for a night on the town. Most clubs admit adults ages to at least some of their shows. David Dillon is the general manager of Catch a Rising Star in Cambridge. The club is part of a chain of comedy clubs, and has been in operation for about two years. Dillon attributes the popularity of comedy in the Boston area to the "level of talent" that is found here, with so many colleges in and around the city.

The comedy scene in the area "has been building for a long time," says Dillon, "It's sort of like outside for people." With its Harvard Square location, one might think that Catch a Rising Star would be full of students from the Yard, but he says that the crowd are "very, very" mixed with many young professionals attending.

Bill Owens and Paul Bander, co-owners of the Comedy Connection, have been called the "Wizards of Boston comedy" by the Boston Herald. The Comedy Connection is the longest-running comedy club in the state of New England, celebrating its 20th anniversary this spring. Why is it the type of comedy club fans are seeking? Because "we're nice guys," chuckles Owens. "We think the style is appealing." When people walk into a comedy club environment, says Owens, people are at ease. "People enjoy laughter of some type," he says.

"When we started 11 or 12 years ago," says Owens, "we didn't realize the immediate popularity of it, the extreme nature of what we're doing."

In addition to the comedy clubs in town, many area nightclubs and restaurants are featuring "comedy nights." One such night is in the Charlie Horse on Route 1 in Allston, which features comedy every Wednesday night at 10. The manager said the shows were started because "older clubs are doing it, and we felt we should do it too." He said the business is up on Wednesdays since the comedy started. There is a $2 cover charge and you must be 21 or over.

For area comedy listings, consult Calendar magazine in Thursday's Boston Globe, the entertainment section of the Boston Herald, or the Boston Phoenix. Or to save you some time, here are the four big names in comedy clubs in Boston:

This past Saturday, the Bridgewater Campus Dance Program sponsored the largest weekend event, compared to the annual homecoming weekend. Ray Bonnes stowed with his sophomore crew, any time beach party for his third one.

The event was a sell out. The crowd was not only the Hagans-Davis ice cream, the golf and tennis games, the pool, and the nachos— the crowd really packed in the door floor.

With a ticket giveaway— every member of the audience stood to perform the next big hit, while others just left the illusion of being on the beach. It's just six weeks till these's summer nights with the sand, the sun, the waves and the Beach Boys playing on the radio.

Seem like a time everyone is getting ready for.

If animals were responsible for their own birth control, there might not be a need to kill 15 million unwanted dogs and cats each year. That's the cost of not having your pet spayed or neutered. Even bringing a litter of puppies or kittens to an animal shelter is no guarantee they'll find a home before room has to be made for more. Having your pet spayed or neutered is the only way to reduce the sad number of ownerless dogs and cats destroyed this year. And it will also increase your pet's chances of living a longer and healthier life. That responsibility is yours alone.

You'll never stop your pets from acting naturally. But if you love them, you'll have them fixed.

Talk to your veterinarian. Or contact the MSPCA for a free information packet on birth control for your pet.

Some tricks they'll never learn.

Volunteers needed - BSC Campus Clean-up Day

On Saturday, April 15 from 1-3 p.m., CRISIS (The Coalition for Responsibility and Ethics in College) will be working with the Facilities Department to clean the campus. All work forms will be provided; rakes, bags, etc. We would like to have 30-40 volunteers. Where to report? All arrivals will go to the Science Center (210) to meet and then go to the north entrance. We will be there from 1-3 p.m. We are looking for people who will be able to make a commitment regardless of how long they can stay. We also need people to help hand out signs and to be responsible for keeping the area clean. Be sure to wear comfortable clothes and shoes.

These are publications of the Wall Street Journal's Career Strategies for the 90's, sponsored by Bank One, the other Spring '89 newspaper which includes many questions and answers of a general nature. The two handbooks are available in the CFP Office.

Health Services

Because of recent changes in Massachusetts laws regarding medical providers, Health Services will no longer be able to dispense prescription medication. This will affect the other services presently being offered by Health Services. When it is determined that a student needs a prescription medication, a prescription will be given to be filled at a local pharmacy.

Some tricks they'll never learn.

If animals were responsible for their own birth control, there might not be a need to kill 5.5 million unwanted dogs and cats each year. That's the cost of not having your pet spayed or neutered. Even bringing a litter of puppies or kittens to an animal shelter is no guarantee they'll find a home before room has to be made for more. Having your pet spayed or neutered is the only way to reduce the sad number of ownerless dogs and cats destroyed this year. And it will also increase your pet's chances of living a longer and healthier life. That responsibility is yours alone. You'll never need your pets from acting naturally. But if you love them, you'll have them fixed.

Talk to your veterinarian. Or contact the MSPCA for a free information packet on birth control for your pet.

One of the more controversial issues in recent years has been the selection of guest speakers for the annual Bear Classic. This year, the selection of Evelyn Murphy, who was a member of the 1971 Bears, has caused quite a stir. Pride in BSC Day a success in raising college spirits

By David Pharr

The Coalition for Responsibility and Ethics in Education launched a "Pride in BSC Day" initiative after the recent mass shooting at the Virginia Tech massacre. The event was held on the quad, where students and faculty were encouraged to show their pride in BSC and its values.

"It's time to celebrate our campus pride and the values we hold dear," said Ciganovic. "We are a strong community, and we are proud of who we are. This event is a way to show that pride to the world."

Hundreds of students and faculty members gathered on the quad to participate in the event. Students wore "Pride in BSC" t-shirts, and the campus was decorated with banners and posters promoting the cause.

"We are proud of our institution and the values we hold dear," said Ciganovic. "We are a strong community, and we are proud of who we are. This event is a way to show that pride to the world."

The event was a success, with many students and faculty members participating. The Coalition for Responsibility and Ethics in Education hopes to continue the "Pride in BSC Day" initiative in the future.
