Dear Alumni and Friends,

The 152nd academic year of the College concluded on a decidedly upbeat note — under bright sunny skies, more than 1,200 undergraduate and graduate degree recipients left this campus, officially joining the 32,000 members of our proud and growing Alumni Association. Just two weeks earlier, under equally sunny skies, alumni Day had been held, and we were delighted to welcome back all returning alums, including the members of the 50th anniversary class, the Class of 1943. And as I write this message, Freshman Orientation has begun, and the members of the Class of 1997 — 1,150 in number, selected from more than 5,000 applicants — have arrived to begin making their attachments to the College.

It is occasions such as these which remind us of Bridgewater’s enduring importance to this region, to this state, and, indeed, to this nation.

Earning that pride and respect is an everyday challenge, and so I’m delighted that as I close my fourth year as president, I can tell our alumni and friends that good things are happening on this campus.

Applications for freshman admission for fall, 1993, are up five percent over a year ago, which is the complete opposite of what many, if not most, public and private colleges are experiencing nationwide. Construction of the John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications is due to begin in the fall, with completion of this tremendously innovative educational center expected in 1995. This spring the College strengthened its ties to the area’s three community colleges by providing to them the computing technology — hardware and software — that will allow their students who wish to transfer to Bridgewater the means to electronically plan their course schedules. And we continue to recruit outstanding faculty and administrators from across the country to the College who will help us provide our students with the best learning experience possible.

As important as all of these, we have begun a systematic discussion of the future of higher education and the future of the college, because I believe the nature of the higher education enterprise is going to change, and change dramatically, over the next few years and into the next century.

Briefly, when I look near term to the year 2000 — only seven years away — there are five things I see: (1) Diversity; (2) International interdependence through a global economy; (3) Technology; (4) Continuous lifelong learning; and (5) A serious struggle in Massachusetts, New England, and the United States to maintain jobs, economic competitiveness, and the standard of living in a global economy.

The first force, which is changing the racial, ethnic, and cultural diversity of our institutions, is a force we at Bridgewater have begun to respond to with vigor. By fall, 1995, we have set for ourselves a goal of attaining 10 percent minority students among our full-time, first-time.

With regard to the other four forces, much work needs to be done.

Increasingly, we must prepare our students to live and work in a global economy that is interdependent, where technology dominates every major and most minor tasks, and where all of our citizens, especially including those who live in this region — a region which lags significantly behind the rest of the Commonwealth in educational attainment — understand that holding a baccalaureate degree is a minimal threshold and that learning is a life-long process and responsibility.

Our future will, I genuinely believe, be increasingly, and radically, discontinuous with our past — not just our personal futures but higher education’s future and Massachusetts’ future and America’s future. Our role as faculty and administration in a public college is to begin preparing ourselves to reinvent how we teach and learn and carry out the business of the college, given the changes that are coming. As I mentioned, that discussion has begun at Bridgewater among our faculty and staff and will be extended to our alumni. We need more ideas, and better ideas, and mechanisms of communication to facilitate the dialogue.

As proud as we all are of our past, what happens next is very much on my mind and on the minds of my colleagues on this campus.
Bridgewater State College is where You are Alumni involvement campaign announced

by Judy McAda,
Associate Director of Alumni Relations

My first 90 days at Bridgewater State College have been a time for me to observe current students, alumni, college faculty, and staff as they participated in programs and conferences on this campus.

Recently, campus meetings with state senators and representatives on economic development, telepresence with world-renowned scientists from Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, visits by Canadian dignitaries, and lectures by nationally known authors have provided exciting opportunities for alumni to participate in these changing times at Bridgewater State College.

This college is taking great strides in reaching its potential as a state and regional leader in public higher education. I don't have to remind you that public higher education is facing a financial crisis, yet Bridgewater State College is committed to meeting educational challenges on all levels. The John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications (scheduled to open in Spring 1995 as a premier education technology center) has heightened national recognition of the college. Increased enrollment trends in both the undergraduate and graduate levels have demonstrated success as a quality teaching institution.

As many of you may know, I came here from Texas. If you can't tell by this article then call me — you will recognize my accent! In 1984, the price of oil dropped to an all-time low of $23.00 a barrel. Real estate values fell, banks failed, and jobs closed up overnight in the oil field where hourly wages were as high as $28.00 an hour. Unlike the movies, Texans will never see a re-run of the late 70s and early 80s.

Education, and particularly higher education, was financially threatened. Legislation was introduced to cut state funding toward higher education. But faculty leaders, college presidents, students, and alumni convinced law makers that education and, more importantly, access to education was the future resource of the state. As Texas looked to diversify the economy, they felt education would provide the means to that end.

This college is taking a similar leadership role.

Teaching, research, and service through education is the future at Bridgewater State College, the future in southeastern Massachusetts, and throughout the Commonwealth. As a former student, you hold a partnership with this college that extends beyond the campus grounds. Even if you have not visited for
As a former student, you hold a partnership with this college that extends beyond the campus grounds.

Awhile, the simple fact that you wear a B.S.C. t-shirt, display a Bridgewater State College sticker on your car, or drink your morning coffee out of a Bridgewater State College mug is one way you remain connected. Don’t have any of these? Then how many times have you been asked, “Where did you go to college?” By merit of your degree, your answer is and will always be “Bridgewater State College.” Through your personal history, association, and affiliation you have a lifelong relationship with your alma mater.

You had your undergraduate or graduate experience here and gained your perspective as a knowledgeable adult. That experience helped shape how you view the world. The simple fact is Bridgewater State College is where you are.

You are a member of the Bridgewater Alumni Association. It matters not where the governing body resides. The challenge is to be a steward. It is you as an individual who organizes scout troops, volunteers at the library, provide funds for local art, or serves in various other ways for the college. Through your actions you live out the college’s motto, “Not to be ministered unto but to minister.” The simple fact is Bridgewater State College is where you are.

For many of us who attended college during the past 30 years, we worried about how to pass a course. Today's student hopes the course will be offered. The current student body at this college is very diverse. It is more international in outlook. The returning student population is increasing and may surpass the traditional age student. Courses are tailored to meet the needs of the current situation by increasing opportunity for students to attend. This campus is as busy at 6:00 p.m. as it is at 9:00 a.m. (One thing may never change: the eight o'clock class attendance!)

Change needs stewards of change. The increased demands for financial resources threatens the future legacies of this institution. We must increase scholarship awards, student leadership opportunities, faculty development, and outreach. As the leaders of today, I want you to help the leaders of tomorrow who will continue to live in this state and contribute for generations to come.

Therefore, a Bridgewater State College is Where You Are Campaign is being planned. With a leadership team of alumni that represents areas throughout the Commonwealth and the United States, a meeting can be held to increase communication of college needs and achieve response to those needs. College leadership in partnership with alumni, students, faculty, staff, parents, and friends, is essential to the college's continued strength. The goal is to help Bridgewater State College remain a strong institution and maintain a solid reputation as the college of choice into the 21st century.

Alumni success, contributions cited at annual association awards ceremony

by Kimberly DeCaro Williams

Dr. Catherine E. Comeau, Dr. V. James DiNardo, Dr. Adrian Rondileau, Dean Ellen M. Shea, Mr. Nicholas P. Tillinghast—these are some of the great names in the history of Bridgewater State College, past and present. In the names of these very people, the Bridgewater Alumni Association recently bestowed its highest honors at the 1993 Recognition, Scholarships, and Awards Night held during Alumni Weekend.

Receiving these awards were Mary Hoyle Mahan '60, faculty member Robert Boutilier, Barry Moriarty '56, M.Ed. '58, Henry Woronicz '76, and Professor Emerita Mary Moore Jarvis '39, along with students Theodore McGovern '93, and Karen Sadowski '93.

Receiving the prestigious Dr. Catherine E. Comeau Award for Outstanding Professional Achievement in the Field of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, or Dance, was Dr. Mary Hoyle Mahan, '60. Throughout her academic and professional career she has exemplified characteristics of leadership, dedication, and commitment. Her experience in education includes work in curricula development, instructional research, administration, classroom teaching, and organization development.

Following her graduation from Bridgewater, Dr. Mahan continued her studies at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro where she earned a master of science degree in physical education. She went on to Nova University in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where she graduated with an Ed.D. in curriculum and administration in community colleges.

Her career began in Massachusetts where she served the Weymouth community in its park and recreation department, and also worked in the Stoughton School System as a junior high and elementary physical education teacher and coach. During her master's studies, she worked as a teaching assistant at UNC before accepting teaching positions in New York and Connecticut.

She found a home at Miami-Dade Community College in 1971, where she has served for more than 22 years in the capacities of assistant, associate, and now full professor. She is the chairperson of the Department of Health and Physical Education and is associate athletic director.

Dr. Mahan has served on and been honored by numerous professional associations and has presented several professional papers. She recently spoke on the panel of Women's Institute Day at Bridgewater where she discussed the importance of mentoring.

Accepting the award, Dr. Mahan spoke of her affinity for Bridgewater, saying, "It is here that I learned how to teach and how to love physical education." She recognized Professor Emerita Kay Comeau (who was in the audience) for helping her to establish her professional roots.

Recipient of the 1993 Dr. V. James DiNardo Award for Excellence in Teaching at Bridgewater State College was Professor Robert Boutilier of the Department of Earth Science and Geography. Professor Boutilier began his association with Bridgewater State College in 1965 as an assistant professor. During the past 28 years he has served not only the college and thousands of students, but has also worked in several... other educational capacities. He currently serves as director of the National Science Foundation Institute for Elementary School Teachers—Outdoor Science Education.

Formerly, Dr. Boutilier served as director of the D.D. Eisenhower Fund Grant Programs—Outdoor Science Education, as co-director of the NSF Institute for Elementary School Teachers, as a volunteer with the Science Kits Program with the Boston Museum of Science, and director of the NSF Honors Workshop for elementary teachers. His other credits include positions with the Department of Energy’s educational programs, the Dorchester District of the Boston Public Schools, the NSF Undergraduate Research Participation Grants, and several other National Science Foundation Affiliations.

He enjoys membership in the Geological Society of America, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the National Science Teachers Association and the National Association of Geology Teachers, where he served as president of the organization’s New England section.

Dr. Boutilier holds a Ph.D. from Boston University in the field of geology, an M.A. in geology and an A.B. in geology.

Throughout his career he has influenced thousands of students’ lives. In fact, during his early days of teaching, he received an anonymous poem from a student who wrote of the impact of his class. More than thirty years later, the poem’s author contacted him, saying he had been her role model throughout her career.

Accepting his award, he pointed to colleagues and students as the ones who truly have taught him along the way.

The 1993 Nicholas P. Tillinghast Award for Outstanding Achievement in the Field of Public Education was presented to Dr. Barry Moriarty, ’56, ’58. A professor of economic geography at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, Dr. Moriarty has worked professionally and as a volunteer to improve public education. As a professional educator, he has taught at the University of North Carolina, served as a director of the National Science Foundation’s Geography and Regional Science Program, traveled to the University of Newcastle upon Tyne, United Kingdom as an R.J. Reynolds Visiting Research Professor, taught in various capacities at Michigan State University (during his graduate work), and served as an earth science and geography teacher in southeastern Massachusetts.

Above and beyond his professional affiliations, Dr. Moriarty mobilized Bridgewater and Raynham business merchants to found the Citizen’s Scholarship Foundation of Bridgewater and Raynham in 1961. While he lived in Bridgewater, he served as one of the principal officers of the foundation, which to date has collected hundreds of thousands of dollars for students living in Bridgewater and Raynham.

He has been a mentor to students from grade six to graduate school, and continues to hear from his graduate students, many of whom he helped to obtain their first jobs. His professional affiliations are numerous, as are his publications of journal articles, reviews, abstracts, etc. He also has authored two books including Industrial Location and Community Development, a best selling book on economic development in the 1980s.

Accepting the award, he acknowledged the influence of former faculty members John Davoren, Irene Graves, Jack O’Neil and Jordan Fiore. He added that his participation in extra-curricular activities at Bridgewater, namely his executive editorship of the Campus Comment, helped pave the way for his extensive publishing career.

Mr. Henry Woronicz, ’76, was the recipient of the 1993 Dr. Adrian Rondileau Award for Outstanding Professional Achievement and Community Service. A seasoned Shakespearean actor and director, Mr. Woronicz assumed the role of artistic director of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival in June 1991. The festival, located in Ashland, Oregon, has had two previous artistic directors in its 58-year history.

Mr. Woronicz has worked at the festival for ten seasons as both a director and actor. His directing credits include: The Glass Menagerie, All's Well that Ends Well, La Bête, Other People's Money, The Second Man, Henry IV, Part Two, Romeo and Juliet, "Master Harold"...and the boys, and Sea Marks. He has acted in many festival productions, including title roles in Peer Gynt, Cyrano de Bergerac and Henry VIII. During his career, he has also acted and directed for the Boston Shakespeare Company, the Utah Shakespearean Festival, the Berkeley Repertory Theatre, the American Conservatory Theatre (San Francisco), and the Los Angeles Theatre Center among others.

As artistic director, he is responsible for overseeing all artistic and production areas of the festival, including selection of the season’s plays, directors, actors, designers and crew. In 1993, he will guide the production of seventeen plays in four theatres in Ashland and Portland, as well as direct Cymbeline and play the role of Antony in Antony and Cleopatra.

Unable to attend the awards ceremony himself, his sister Janet Dunphy read an acceptance speech conveying his gratitude and pride for being honored with this award. He cited the influence of Dr. Robert Barnett, Stephen Levine, Lee Dunne, Richard Warye, and Robert Friedman. “They instilled in me an intimate connection to the imagination, the belief in the possible—if one works for it, and a love for the passionate human communication that the theatre attempts to be,” he wrote.

Recognizing her years of active volunteerism and advocacy for Bridgewater State College, Professor Emerita Mary Moore Jarvis, '39, was the 1993 recipient of the Bridgewater Alumni Award for Outstanding Service to the Bridgewater Alumni Association. Professor Jarvis was a member of the college’s administration and faculty, serving as assistant dean of women from 1958 to 1961, and and helped to oversee the Class Gift Fund, whose first award was used to support development of a new music major at the college. She is chair of the Chellis Fund, a scholarship for Bridgewater students, and serves as trustee of both the S. Elizabeth Pope Trust Fund and the Stella Fogelman Fund. She is also a member of the Alumni Council of the B.A.A.

Accepting the award, Professor Jarvis conveyed her gratitude to B.S.C. “I am so thankful to this college for giving me the opportunity to achieve the essentials of life,” she said, “friends and work.”

Student awards were granted through the Dr. Ellen M. Shea Memorial Scholars Program. The program was established by the Bridgewater Alumni Association through a bequest by Dr. Ellen M. Shea, dean of women and dean of students from 1955–1974. The Shea Scholars Program encourages outstanding students to pursue a rigorous course of study on a specific topic working with a mentor faculty member. The 1993 scholarship recipients were Theodore McGovern and Karen Sadowski, both members of the Class of 1993.

Mr. McGovern’s topic of study is entitled “Central Place Hierarchy in Southeastern Massachusetts.” His project mentor was Dr. Glenn Miller, professor in the Department of Earth Science and Geography.

Ms. Sadowski’s paper is entitled “Renaissance Christian Humanism and Modern Application.” Her mentor was Dr. Harold DeLisle, ’52, of the Department of English.

Nominations for 1994 B.A.A. Recognition Awards may be submitted to the Office of Alumni Relations at P.O. Box 13, Bridgewater, MA 02324.
Mentoring—its a necessary ingredient in virtually every successful person's ascension to the top. It also was the topic of discussion at the fourth annual Women's Institute Day at Bridgewater State College. Entitled "Women Educated at Bridgewater—A Carefully Woven Web," this day-long workshop focused on the elements and importance of mentoring for women in the 1990s.

The workshop, featuring panelist sessions with professionals in the fields of teaching, acting, law, politics, business, and ministry, provided opportunities for students to interact with participants and successful women graduates of Bridgewater State College. The program was attended by more than 200 students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community members.

Mentoring in theory and practice was the focus of opening remarks by Dr. Ruth Hannon, Department of Psychology. Following was a presentation and Q&A forum with featured panelists including Jena Gaines, '83, Ph.D., professor in the Department of History at Mt. Holyoke College; Ann Maguire, '69, neighborhood liaison for the City of Boston; Mary Hoyle Mahan, '60, Ed.D., chair of the Department of Physical Education at Miami-Dade Community College; Joan Menard, '67, Massachusetts House of Representatives, 5th Bristol District; and Bernadette Morrissey-Golas, '86, product manager at Leading Edge Computers. These participants outlined their educational and professional experiences while sharing the impact and stories of their mentors.

Group leaders, who facilitated post-panel break-out session discussions, included another accomplished group of alumnae. They included Josephine Bernard, '71, teacher in the Randolph public schools; Jennifer Condon, '90, actress with the Zeiterion Theatre in New Bedford; Muriel Finnegar, '75, attorney and assistant prosecutor for Barnstable County; and Elizabeth Tarbox, '86, minister at the First Unitarian Universalist Society of Middleboro.

Participants in the program reflected on their career paths, mentors and types of mentoring they received, accomplishments, and challenges. The overwhelming consensus was that in this ever-changing and increasingly competitive job market, mentoring does make a significant difference in your life. Research shows that people with mentors achieve higher financial success, are more likely to follow a career plan, are more satisfied with their work, receive more challenging job assignments, gain larger perspectives of the organization, have more visibility, and enjoy greater job mobility.

This third Women's Institute Day — "Women Educated at Bridgewater—A Carefully Woven Web" was a project of the Bridgewater Alumni Association and the Office of the President of Bridgewater State College. Plans are already in process for the Fourth Annual Women's Institute Day scheduled for April 7, 1994.
Bridgewater Joins NASA/University Joint Venture Initiative

by Bonnie Troupe, Staff Associate

Bridgewater State College has been chosen as the only college in Massachusetts to be included as one of the twenty-one new national participants in NASA’s University Joint Venture Program (JOVE). Dr. Jacek Sulanowski and Dr. Richard Enright, both of the Earth Sciences and Geography Department, are the faculty members selected for this project.

JOVE is an outreach effort initiated by NASA five years ago to help facilitate research and disseminate data among colleges and universities not previously associated with the agency. The vast amounts of data that the organization acquires can be made more accessible to the public through the partnerships that are arranged by the program. In addition, a larger number of researchers and research sites can be brought into the analysis of data developed by NASA.

One of the outcomes anticipated for the program is a rejuvenated public interest in the efforts of NASA. During the 1960s public curiosity and support of the space program was at a particularly high level. With the increased reliance on satellite technology in this age of information, support is again vital. One of NASA’s main objectives is called “Mission To Planet Earth” and it involves the use of space platforms to analyze the whole Earth and its environment.

The college initially learned about this program by attending informational conferences at the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama. Attending this year were Dr. Clark Hendley and Dr. Richard Enright who brought back general information regarding the application procedure. This material was shared with interested faculty members at a forum run by Dean Hendley and Dr. Enright. Various departments were represented, including Biology, Management and Aviation Science, Mathematics and Computer Science and Movement Arts, Health Promotion, and Leisure Studies.

Dr. Sulanowski and Dr. Enright were the faculty members who chose to submit final applications. Bridgewater State College’s proposal was strengthened dramatically by having two candidates submit applications. Both Dr. Sulanowski and Dr. Enright were successful in contacting a field researcher whose interests were compatible. The first step of the three year project is to spend a ten week summer session with a NASA researcher in his or her place of research. Dr. Enright will be working with Dr. Harold R. Lang of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, CA conducting computer analysis of remotely sensed data of folded sedimentary sequences of southwestern Mexico. Dr. Sulanowski will conduct geological studies of the Canadian Shield with Dr. Paul D. Lowman, Jr. at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, MD.

The work from the summer will be continued during the academic year when Dr. Sulanowski and Dr. Enright return. Both faculty members will conduct related research on campus. Various outreach efforts are anticipated. Possible course development in the area of plan­ etology and/or remote sensing are envisioned. Dr. Sulanowski and Dr. Enright are considering the possibility of team teaching a course.

The John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications will also provide an exciting vehicle for distributing the results of the research. Both scientists believe that their experience, when brought back to the classroom, will result in an increased level of student interest in science in general and the geosciences in particular.

Additional funding from other agencies, such as the National Science Foundation, is expected as a result of JOVE. On a more personal note, Dr. Sulanowski and Dr. Enright hope for a successful three years and both look forward to being involved in contributing to the early history of the earth.
Faculty Awards • Papers • Promotions • Retirements

Dr. Gerald Doiron, Department of History, was recently recognized in honor of his 25 years as advisor to Phi Alpha Theta, the history honor society at Bridgewater State College.

Dr. Michael Kryzanek, Department of Political Science, was named "Producer of the Year" by Continental Cable of Massachusetts. Dr. Kryzanek founded and for the past three years has moderated a monthly television show "Issues and Opinions," which is broadcast to eleven cities and towns.

Atandra Mukhopadhyay of the Department of Foreign Languages recently presented a paper at "El Teatro Español del Siglo XX" Conference at the College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio. The paper is entitled "L'ammujer Y La Guerra: Reincarnaciones De Hecuba En El Teatro Español Contemporáneo."

Professor Henry Santos, Department of Music, was recently featured on WBZ-TV's "Coming Together" show hosted by news anchor Liz Walker. He was recognized for his work as a composer of original works including Psalm 64, a tribute in honor of his friend and college roommate, the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Professor Margaret Snook of the Department of Foreign Languages presented a paper at the Louisiana Conference on Hispanic Languages and Literatures held in New Orleans in February, 1993. The title of the paper is "Boundaries of the Self: Change and Autonomy in 'Margarita o el poder de la farmacopea.'"

In recognition of his years of dedication and commitment to environmental causes, Dr. Reed Stewart was honored recently when a room was dedicated in his name at the Cranberry Specialty Hospital in Middleboro. Dr. Stewart, Department of Earth Sciences and Geography, is past president of the North and South Rivers Watershed Association. Donated by Castall, Inc., a Massachusetts firm, the wall plaque reads "In Honor of Reed Stewart, Dedicated Defender of the Environment."

At the May meeting of the Bridgewater State College Board of Trustees, several promotions were granted to faculty and librarians. Individuals who were promoted to full professor include: Marcia Anderson, Department of Movement Arts, Health Promotion and Leisure Studies; William Anneseley, Department of Management Science and Aviation Science; Saul Auslander, Department of Management Science and Aviation Science; Hang-Ling Chang, Department of Mathematics and Computer Science; Craig Cowles, Department of Management Science and Aviation Science; Carleton Donchess, Department of Management Science and Aviation Science; U. Grant Keener, Department of English; Paul Prescott, Department of Special Education; Francine Quaglio, Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies; Lidia Silveira, Department of Special Education; and Harold Silverman, Department of Management Science and Aviation Science. Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor are: Steven Greenberg, Burnell Campus School; David Kemple, Department of Social Work; and Mercedes Nunez, Department of Art. Promoted from assistant librarian to associate librarian are Sheau-Hwang Chang and Cynthia Webber.

Ending their years of service to the Bridgewater State College community are: John Deasy, Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education; Dorothy Howard, Department of Social Work; and Agrippina Macewicz, Department of Earth Science and Geography.

Bridgewater alumnus takes charge in Office of Career Planning and Placement

Brian Salvaggio, '80, M.Ed. '82, becomes director

by Marie Dennehy, '92

Insight, experience, and professional expertise accompany Mr. Brian Salvaggio as the new director in the Office of Career Planning and Placement at Bridgewater State College. A Bridgewater alumnus, he received his B.S. in psychology in 1980 and M.Ed. in counseling in 1982.

Mr. Salvaggio comes to Bridgewater from Framingham State College, where he was acting director of career services and director of student orientation and special services. He formerly served as assistant dean of students and assistant director for career development at St. Michael's College.

Teaching lifetime skills and utilizing advanced computer technology are goals which Mr. Salvaggio brings with him to Bridgewater. Through teaching a solid foundation of resume writing, effective interviewing, and networking, he is confident that students will be able to draw on these skills throughout their careers. In this era of increasingly competitive job markets, these skills are more necessary than ever to ensure success in the job-search and career change process.

The use of computers in this process is on the rise, and Mr. Salvaggio hopes to incorporate an even stronger computer element into the office. "I would really like to help us move forward into the technology to help connect students with employers," he says. "More and more employers are using resume data bases and trying to connect in ways that they may not have done in the past."

In addition to teaching job-finding skills and resume writing, services currently provided by the office include prospective and current student advising, internships, a career library, and participation in the Massachusetts Educational Recruiting Consortium.

Career advising, both for prospective and current students, provides an opportunity to share the variety of careers Bridgewater alumni have undertaken. A list of alumni job titles for the previous ten years give students an indication of the types of positions their education will prepare them for. According to Mr. Salvaggio, "Prospective or new students can see for themselves what degrees alumni hold in each field, then we can tell the students more about the ranges of opportunities in those fields."

Students already pursuing a particular major, or interested in exploring another, may participate in various internship programs offered through the Office of Career Planning and Placement. Feedback from recent grads in the job market confirm the effectiveness of internships. "Students who have had some kind of work experience (often gained through internships) are the ones who are finding jobs," he says.

The career exploration and search process is made easier at Bridgewater with the help of the office's career library. Numerous directories, housed in the office's library, include information about various careers, businesses, and organizations. Company outlines and contact names are valuable resources in the exploration and search process.

Also aiding in the search process is participation in a number of recruitment fairs, where various companies come to campus or to surrounding areas and actually perform on-the-spot interviews. One such collaboration is MERC, the Massachusetts Educational Recruiting Consortium, where more than 100 Bridgewater students interviewed last April. Through these types of programs, students are actually leaving Bridgewater already employed.

Mr. Salvaggio is enthusiastic about assisting students and is eager for more opportunities to help. There are opportunities for alumni to join in the process through participation in the Career Advising Network (CAN). This program connects professional alumni with students pursuing their field of expertise and can be a valuable and rewarding relationship. More information about the Career Advising Network may be obtained from the Office of Career Planning and Placement at (508) 697-1328.

Foundation elects members/trustees • Messaline remains chair

The Board of Trustees of the Bridgewater State College Foundation have re-elected David J. Messaline ’65 of Braintree as chairman marking his third term in the position. During his tenure, Mr. Messaline has led the foundation in a number of accomplishments, including the reorganization of the foundation, construction of the Davis Alumni Center, establishment of the Bridgewater Fine Arts Series, rebirth of the Hall of Black Achievement, and purchase of additional acreage for the eventual expansion of the college campus.

He is senior vice president for Tucker Anthony, Inc. in Boston, and is a recipient of the B.A.A.’s Rondileau Award for Outstanding Community Service and Professional Accomplishment.

Elected foundation vice-chairman is attorney Robert McCarthy of East Bridgewater. A former state senator, Mr. McCarthy has long been a leader in the southeastern Massachusetts region.

Diana C. Lothrop of West Bridgewater has been re-elected treasurer of the foundation. Ms. Lothrop has served as a member of the college’s board of trustees. During her time as a trustee and treasurer of the foundation, she has taken a leadership role in the current structure and activities of the foundation. She is responsible for the establishment of the Bridgewater Fine Arts Series.

Ms. Lothrop is the owner of Carriage House Antiques in West Bridgewater, and also serves as the director of personnel for the Plymouth County Sheriff’s Department.

Charles Stockbridge ’77 of Scituate has been elected secretary of the foundation. Mr. Stockbridge also serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the Bridgewater Alumni Association. Mr. Stockbridge is an investment counselor with Tucker Anthony in Boston.

In an unprecedented move, the Foundation Board of Trustees voted to recognize two of its members with lifetime trusteeships with full executive committee voting privileges. Dr. Adrian Rondileau H ’89 of Bridgewater and Ocala, Florida, the college’s president emeritus and Dr. V. James DiNardo ’39 of Bridgewater, Sandwich, and Marco Island, Florida, the college’s executive vice-president emeritus have a combined eighty-seven years of service to Bridgewater. Dr. Rondileau is responsible for the establishment of the foundation in 1984 during his tenure as the college’s president. Dr. DiNardo has served the college in a variety of capacities and remains a member of the executive board of the B.A.A.

Reflections, thoughts, and thanks
Sheila Tunstall McKenna, '62, sums up her year as B.A.A. president

In May of 1992 when I was elected president of the Bridgewater Alumni Association, I was thrilled to have the opportunity to serve the 32,000 plus alumni. I knew the task before me would not be an easy one and I was also aware that there was no associate director of alumni relations in place at the time. A search committee had convened, which was comforting, but I never imagined it would take two search committees before the association would have an associate director.

One goal I had set for myself, as president, was to increase membership in the alumni council and have its members take a more active role in the alumni association.

Board members were asked to submit names of alumni they thought would and could serve the association. These people were invited to a series of dinner meetings with the alumni association officers and Phil Conroy, director of development. It was an opportunity for us to explain our commitment to Bridgewater to our guests and have them share their thoughts with us. The end result, we have added 18 new and first time members to the alumni council.

The first alumni council meeting was held in October. It convened as a leadership day, followed by a “Heart to Heart Talk with Alums” with Phil Conroy as facilitator. The focus was on increasing alumni participation. Personal contact was the key ingredient.

This personal contact is also important at the undergraduate level. Students connecting with the alumni association is a crucial part of our mission. This connecting begins with freshman orientation.

Traditionally, the convocation speaker at Bridgewater is an alum. To insure that continues, a convocation sub committee was chaired by secretary Marcia Crooks. This committee brought forward M. Scott McDonald, former member of the board, businessman, one time professional golfer and professional basketball scout, as the alumni speaker. There were 600 seniors in attendance and 200 faculty.

Further evidence of contact with students is their representation on the board of directors. The senior class president and the president of the Crimson Ambassadors serve as voting members.

Another vehicle for keeping the lines of communication open between undergraduates and graduates has been the fall dinner meeting attended by BAA officers and officers of all four classes on campus. Out of this gathering came the need for short-term professional relationships - alum to undergrad. The college offers internships but students feel a need to explore more alternatives. It is hoped, therefore, that shorter-term learning experiences/externships can be offered by the college’s career planning office.

The rebirth of the Women’s Institute sponsored jointly by the BAA and the Office of the President will further serve to build relationships between alums and undergrads and alumni and faculty.

Service to students is a hallmark of the association, but it is the continued service by alumni, for alumni, that keeps your alumni association moving forward. Charles Stockbridge served ably as assistant treasurer to the association. Lou Ricciardi serves as treasurer and chairman of the finance and investment committee. Tracy Baldrate chaired the membership services committee. John Pozerski serves as vice president to the association and chairs the applied strategic planning committee. Mary Lydon chairs the constitution and by laws committee. Nancy Sarno. Cindy Ricciardi heads up the program committee, while Jack Jones has chaired the nominating committee. The newly formed traditions committee is chaired by Martha Jones.

The success of these committees is a result of capable leadership by their chairs and by the cooperative efforts of the staff in the Davis Alumni Center.

In closing, I appreciate the support, cooperation, and work of the alumni volunteers over the past year, and I look forward to serving you another year as president. Please, continue to work for your association. There is much to be done.

Golden Bridges Announces 1993–1994 Activities
Education & Travel Planned

The Golden Bridges club welcomes the Class of ’43 into its membership. Individuals who have graduated fifty years ago or more, or who are seventy years of age or older, are eligible to join.

Two trips and two seminars are planned so far for next year:

Wednesday, September 22:
The club has arranged to visit Martha’s Vineyard and will leave for Woods Hole on a 9:45 a.m. ferry and return around 4:00 p.m. Round-trip transportation is about $8. A two hour tour will be arranged at approximately $10 per person. A shuttle bus will be provided from BSC for $8 per person round trip. Guests are welcome. R.S.V.P. by September 8.

Thursday, October 7 and Wednesday, October 20:
Realizing that many adults love to continue learning, Golden Bridges is sponsoring two adult learning classes this fall on Thursday, October 7th and Wednesday, October 20th at Bridgewater State College. Topics including history, literature, and current events are slated for each day. All adults are welcome. A small fee to cover costs will be charged. You may attend one or all seminars scheduled.

A dinner train excursion is being planned for April. More details will follow in a later issue.

Call the Office of Alumni Relations at (508) 697-1287 to make reservations or for further details.

Reunion Planning Workshop slated for November 6

Class years ending in 4 or 9, take note

1994 is a special year for the classes of 1944, 1949, 1954, 1959, 1964, 1969, 1974, 1979, 1984, and 1989. To help ensure the most successful, fun-filled gatherings, a free reunion workshop has been planned for Saturday, November 6, at 9:30 a.m. at the Davis Alumni Center.

Resource materials, along with entertainment and activities ideas, will be available to assist in your planning. Bring your classmates and join us in exploring ways to make your reunion memorable.

Call (508) 697-1287 for reservations by October 22.

CLASSES GEAR UP FOR ANNUAL GATHERINGS AND MAJOR REUNION GIFT PRESENTATIONS

Class of '50 aims for 100% participation

The Class of '50 reunion committee, including Jean Grant Prendergast, Anne Fitzmaurice Tierney, Robert Driscoll, and George Pappas, is working hard on its 50th Reunion '2000' Class Gift Fund. They are aiming for 100% participation. Working with the Bridgewater Society Program, a planned giving project of the Bridgewater State College Foundation, the class is well on its way to a landmark gift.

Class of '53 plans largest class gift in Bridgewater State College history

With a goal of making the largest contribution ever to the Bridgewater State College Foundation by a 50th reunion class, Class of '53 committee members, led by Lois Gng Haslam, have challenged their classmates to be part of an exciting campaign. Through planned giving, the Class of 1953 is already raising funds to help endow its gift. Meet the challenge! Join Ralph Fletcher, George Weygand, Donald Morey, and Joseph Mulready, along with other eager committee members, as they begin their quest for a landmark presentation in 2003.

Homecoming Reunions Scheduled

Class of '68/Oct. 2  Class of '88/Oct. 1

Plans are well intact for the 25th reunion of the Class of 1968 scheduled for Saturday, October 2. More information appears in the Class Notes section on page 30. Save the date and watch your mail for further details.

Class of 1938 to gather this fall

A Class of 1938 committee meeting is scheduled for Monday, September 27 at 11:00 a.m. in the Davis Alumni Center. Lunch is available for $6.00 per person. All classmates are welcome. R.S.V.P. by 9/14/93.

This meeting is prelude to the Class of 1938 55th reunion scheduled for Friday, October 15. A continental breakfast will be served at the Davis Alumni Center beginning at 9:30 a.m. A narrated, shuttle bus campus tour will leave the Davis Alumni Center at 10:30, followed by a sit-down luncheon. Guests are welcome.

Tickets are $18 per person. Please make reservations and payment by Friday, October 1.

Volunteers Needed

The Class of '44 needs volunteers to work on a committee to plan a 50th reunion in 1994. If interested in helping, please call. Elaine Kelly has already volunteered.

The Class of '48 has begun working on its 50th reunion for the year 1998. If you care to join in the fun, along with fellow classmates Mildred Duggan Foy, Munya Wisotsky Miller, Eileen Loughman Driscoll, and others, please call for their next meeting date.

Class of 1973 • 20 Years - Volunteers are needed to help plan a 20th reunion.

Class of 1978 • 15 Years - Volunteers are needed to help plan a 15th reunion.

Class of 1983 • 10 Years - Carrie Kulick Clark and Fred Clark request fellow classmates to help plan a 10th year reunion. If interested, please call the Office of Alumni Relations.
$15,000 Gift Presented at ALUMNI WEEKEND 1993—Members of the Class of 1943 presented a check for fifteen thousand dollars to Cathy Holbrook, M'81, director of the Adrian Rondileau Campus Center. The money, raised as the class's fiftieth anniversary gift, will help purchase a new sound system for the center's auditorium.
Bridgewater alumni and friends share conversation at Florida gatherings

Alumni Authors to gather at alumni center

Pack your pen and ink and gather your books as Bridgewater State College alumni authors plan to gather on Thursday evening, September 16, 7:00 p.m. at the Davis Alumni Center.

This event, open to all alumni who have published books, stories, or articles, is intended as a forum for exchange and discussion between fellow authors, faculty, and a special guest author who will address the audience on a writing-related topic.

There is no charge for this reception. However, bringing a signed copy of your work for donation to the alumni authors’ library at the Davis Alumni Center would be appreciated. Reservations must be received at the Davis Alumni Center by September 2. Call (508) 697-1287 to reserve.

The Night They Raided Roxies
An audience-participation murder mystery

October 23

Prohibition isn’t all it’s cracked up to be in Chicago in 1928, that’s for sure. A regular citizen like you has to remember all kinds of things, or maybe find yourself in the juice! You have to know the password if you want to get into Roxie’s joint. (The rumor is, Valentino learned to tango there!) So polish up your Charleston for the big contest—and all the while remember to stay out of the crossfire in case somebody decides to make a play for Roxie’s action!

Space for this fabulous event is limited to 50 people so R.S.V.P. by September 1 and your character profile will be mailed. Hot hors d’oeuvres will be served in the Bridgewater Dining Room beginning at 7:00 p.m. The cost is $20 per person for the entire evening. Call (508) 697-1287 to reserve.

Coach Peter Mazzaferro was the guest of honor at the Thirteenth Annual Football Alumni Reunion of the Bridgewater State Bears which was held on April 30 at the Holiday Inn in Taunton. Former athletes, current football seniors, friends, and fans celebrated 25 years of coaching excellence by Coach Mazzaferro, whose career record at B.S.C. is 120-94-7. An after-dinner raffle raised $500 for next year's team. Go Bears!

The plaque presented to Coach Peter Mazzaferro read: "The members of the 1993 Football Alumni Reunion, Bridgewater State College Bears, are proud to salute Coach Peter Mazzaferro for twenty-five years of promoting excellence in athletics, quality and character in teamwork, and for overall contributions to the advancement of football in the Division III New England Football Conference."

Stella Krupka, 7 Fitch Terrace, Randolph, MA 02368
Editor's note...due to the wonderful and overwhelming response to 1933 class notes, the section had to be divided, and more notes will appear in the next edition of Bridgewater. Great work, Stella!

Louise Ransom Anderson has been working as mediator in the Attorney General's office in Augusta, Maine for the last six years. Besides having taught Sunday School for the last 30 years, Louise has busied herself in many civic and educational capacities. She presently resides in Gardiner, Maine.

Phyllis Stewart Anderson - "Here I am celebrating my 80th birthday anniversary with a party hosted by my children. Among my surprise guests were Marjorie Harrington Chapman from Putnam, CT, Grace Michael Parker, '32 and Mildred MacDonald Finn of Gloucester. "I retired in 1976 after twenty-five years of 'happy teaching' of Grade 2 in the Barre schools, being teaching principal during the last two years. My husband and I have traveled extensively and now enjoy a condominium for a six weeks stay on the ocean in St. Augustine, FL," says Phyllis. Five of the six in their family are in the field of education. There are nine grandchildren and four "greats." "We have been and are blessed! My daughter and husband and two granddaughters are visiting us. I seem to like the battery charged to keep going and going and going and happy," claims Phyllis.

Evelyn Chasse Carroll - Evelyn met her husband Patrick Carroll at Bridgewater and after many years of a wonderful marriage, he passed away in 1985. She stated, "I was fortunate to have my seven children and twenty grandchildren." This retired principal of the William J. Underwood Elementary School in the city of Newport, Department of Education, has an enviable record of years filled with civic activities and volunteering. She has served as past president of the Rhode Island Retired Teachers' Association, the Newport County Retired Teachers' Association, and of the Board of Trustees of the Newport Public Library. She was past chairman of the Newport County Task Force on Child Abuse and Neglect and past secretary of St. Augustine's Parish Council. Presently she is serving on the Governor's Senior Involvement Advisory Council of the Legislative Commission on volunteerism and Citizen Participation. She is past secretary of the Board of Gooseberry Beach, Inc. and past chairman of the Newport Chapter Child Abuse and Neglect Association. Presently she is chairman of the financial committee of the Newport Hospital Auxiliary Board and for the last 20 years has been chairman of VINE (Volunteers in Newport Education). She is serving on the executive board of Citizens Concerned about Casino Gambling, and is the presenter at the National Association of Partners in Education Region 1 Conference. Two special honors Evelyn has received are the 1992 Civitas Award for Community Service and the 1989 nomination for the Outstanding National School Volunteer. All seven of her children are married, healthy and happy. They do many different things, such as teaching high school English, flying helicopters, doing handicrafts, scouting, religious instructing, carpentering, superintending an estate and manufacturing beautiful sailboats (Carroll Marine Ltd. of Bristol, RI). They are interested in my frequent trips with Salve University friends to Europe, the Caribbean, Australia, China, Japan, India, Bali and Borneo. Evelyn says, "My memories of Bridgewater include walks Pat and I took to Carver's Pond which inspired this poem: SPRING
A quick blush
Two clasped hands
It's good to be young!
Dorothy Chatleton Carter - After ten years of teaching in Saugus and Lynn, MA, Ruth married Ensign Carl Carter, USN of Grass Valley, CA. This year they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with their daughter, Dorothy Paige and son, Richard, both graduates of the University of California at Berkley. Dorothy's daughter Christine, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Stanford, is in law school and is president of the graduate law school class. Matthew a graduate of Stanford, also, is a stock broker at Kidder Peabody in San Francisco. Ruth's son Dick has his own marketing and advertising business in San Francisco. His wife, the former Mary Dombrowski is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. They now live in Piedmont with their seven year old daughter and twin sons, almost two years of age. Ruth retired after nineteen years of teaching in the Oakland schools. Dorothy says, "Since Carl retired as an administrator in Oakland and I from teaching, we have enjoyed two trips to Europe and another wonderful one to the Orient which included China, Japan, Singapore and Taiwan. When the children were younger, we made more than a dozen trips cross country to visit my family in Lynn and at Tenants Harbor in Maine. Life is very interesting with five grandchildren and a wonderful daughter and son."

Eleanor "Freckles" Schreiber Evans - When asked on the printed form for her job title, Freckles in her usual comical way wrote "A darn good teacher." Freckles taught in Plymouth as well as Quincy and retired the same year as her husband did in 1971. John had served as principal at Atlantic Junior High School, Quincy. He was a graduate of Bridgewater in the Class of 1931. In Quincy he will never be forgotten for directing the teacher shows for scholarships for a number of years. They were considered quite professional and people are still talking about them. Upon retirement they moved to Port Charlotte, FL and in May of this year celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Freckles states, "I was so sorry to miss our 50th celebration at Bridgewater and to see all my friends but I cut a tendon in my leg and ended in the "Ole" wheelchair. Of course, Ralph Nelson informed my classmates, 'Freckles has put on a lot of weight.' I hate to say -- but, he was right." Freckles and John have two sons, Glen an artist, married to an English girl and living in Wales, England. The other son, Wayne, resides in Saudi Arabia with his wife and two daughters. He has been there fifteen years and recently visited them and will return there shortly. Freckles and John visited them in 1981.

Under Bridgewater reminiscences, Freckles stated, "One of my first memories of BrH2O I remember well is when the Dean of Women called me into her office near the end of my freshman year. (I was usually on the 'Dean's List'). Miss Pope advised me not to return to Bridgewater as I would never make it to graduation. I returned. I made it! I had fun and many wonderful memories."

"Sorry I can't make it on our 60th. In Plymouth last Thanksgiving, John had a stroke and heart attack. We are back in Florida and he's doing very well. We hope to be in Plymouth in August and September. Good luck Class of 1933. See you on our 70th!"

Stella Krapka - A Labor Day marriage was responsible for my first teaching position. I was elected at midnight the night before and the superintendent arrived at my door at 9:45 the next morning saying, "Get your duds on. You will teach grades 3 and 4 in Avon today." My salary was to be $1000 yearly. I continued taking courses and in 1939 received my master's degree from Boston University. In 1942, I accepted a position as teacher of English and counselor in a city school, about 10 miles from home, in Quincy. A new school opened in 1956, this time right near the water. How delightful to see sea gulls swooping by my windows. For five years I served as secretary of the Quincy Teachers' Association and one year put out the monthly QTalk news. My greatest honor was to be voted teacher of the year.

Since calligraphy has interested me since the days of Mr. Donor, I have done all types of writing and lettering. After 44 years of classroom teaching I retired. This never was meant to be inactivity but a substitution. I was a volunteer with UNESCO to teach English to about 120 students, age 18, per week. This was a true delight. On Thursday evenings I teach a course in New Bedford in the Polish language. On July 6, I plan to fly to Europe for a course in calligraphy. Two weeks will be in Czech and the rest in Rzeszow, Poland. When a body is 81, one must take advantage of every opportunity that crops up.

Mabel H. Laramee Lehman - "Read and read and read, read everything," is the advice Mabel gave to parents and students. She began her career as a classroom teacher in Monson where she taught 11 years before going to the Palmer Public School System. Over the years she has been in the high school, Park Street School, Thorndike Street School and finally at the age of 80, she was in a new building, the Old Mill Pond Elementary School. One news article reported that Mrs. Leblanc, "unlike many senior citizens her age, is able to drive herself to work every day and handle a classroom of 26 third graders." She has had very good health. She advocated that one should find what the child excels in and then push that. Retirement will mean a time to spend with her family. Her plans are to continue her active social lifestyle. School superintendent, James Pasquill said, "She has given many years of service to the Palmer public schools and we appreciate that."

Helen Barker Mark - "I have been retired many years but am fortunate to have so many pleasant memories of my teaching - 24 years in Leominster, Weymouth and Pembroke. I never regretted teaching as my profession." Her two sons are 44 and 45. Helen is grateful that Alan lives at home, for recently they have been caring for her husband who had the misfortune of breaking both his hips. The nurses were quite surprised to see him walking again. It must have been all their TLC. She stated, "Needless to say, nursing is not easy and more or less confusing for me now. I am happy to say that my granddaughter and my three-year-old great grandson have not moved away as so many of my relatives have."

Jane Smith McMahon - Jane was an elementary teacher in the city of Springfield, MA and retired in 1970. She married "Mac" Frank McMahon, also a 1933 classmate. Frank was a teacher at Technical High School in Springfield and later became counselor at the same school. They both retired the same year and moved to Dennis on Cape Cod where she still lives. The couple had two children, a son and a daughter, both who now live in West Palm Beach. There are two grandsons. After retirement, they both traveled to Europe, Florida and other places. "Mac" passed away September 26, 1978. We notice that she still keeps in touch with several of her field hockey teammates who include, Eleanor "Freckles" Evans, Mary Allen Ripley, as well as Grace Parker. She states that she is feeling fine and is still usually full of pep but slowing down. "I am enjoying my leisure and many friends at the Cape."

Natalie Peterson Parker - In 1977 Natalie retired after 34 years of teaching in the town of Barnstable. In 1991 she met and visited with relatives in Sweden where she enjoyed the beautiful countryside and also the shopping. A visit to Naples, FL was a great treat this past winter. Her son lives in the Boston area with his three children and then there are two great grandchildren. Natalie says, "I only do volunteer work now at the Law Library at the courthouse in the Village of Barnstable. It is a wonderful time of life. I still see some of the wonderful people who taught with me and I treasure them all. School teachers sure are wonderful people!"

Emma S. White - Teaching English in Whitinsville, MA was the beginning of Emma's long teaching career. This was at junior high level. She continued her studies at Harvard College where she earned a master's degree. She was appointed to the position of English teacher at Swampswood High School where she remained until retirement. Emma has traveled to Europe and has been on numerous cruises over the years. Among her activities were arts and crafts courses as well as women's club service projects.

Mona E. White - Mona married Franklin O. White from the Class of 1932 in June 1937. Her total teaching time was about 23 years starting at South Walpole, Hyannis Teachers, Bridgewater "Training School," Concord, MA and Greenwich, CT. They moved West when Franklin accepted the superintendentcy in Menlo Park. Mona took a teaching position in the Palo Alto Unified School District. She became the resource teacher for the Ed. Handicapped (Dislexics). They are the parents of two sons, David born in 1943 and John born in 1945. There are also three grandchildren ages 8, 11 and 18. Retirement came in 1976 so they have been enjoying travel to Hawaii, British Isles, continental Europe, Mexico as well as back East. They have also been on numerous cruises in the Pacific and Caribbean areas.
and Mr. Reynolds of the department recognized her talents and so did we. In Florida, she taught painting one day a week for two years at the clubhouse of the park where they live. She states, “I do watercolor now mostly and sell some, although my children and grandchildren take most of them. I also did miniatures and sold a few of those. Some of them were done in oils. My other hobby has been collecting ancestors and this I have worked on for 20 years and have finally sent my lineage to the Mormon Library in Salt Lake City.”

Ruth’s husband, Clyde, was originally from Virginia but was in the regular army in Intelligence and saw duty all over the world. Since they live on a par-three golf course, they both play golf, but more than she. Ruth can boast of a large family, four children, two living in Massachusetts, one on the east coast of Florida and the fourth in Colorado. She has fourteen grandchildren scattered from New Jersey, Massachusetts, Florida and England. Then she added, “There are sixteen great grandchildren. I can honestly say they are all reasonably bright, healthy, and fairly respectable looking.”

Despite the fact that the Class of ’33 entered the college at Bridgewater in 1929, the year the banks failed and depression had set in, sixty years later after graduation, we can boast of many accomplishments of our classmates. Please keep me informed throughout the year. Tell me what you are doing.

Secretary’s Note: I was saddened to read on the envelope which I had mailed to Margaret Vickers Monette, formerly a patient at a New Bedford nursing home, that she was deceased. My letters to Irma Wannem Wood of Gardner, Doris Spellman Purcell of Jamaica Plain and Barbara Vinal Cutler of Newberg, NY were returned. If anyone can give any information about these people, I would be grateful. If anyone expects to move to a new place, do let me know so I can do a better job. SHK

She also wanted to express her appreciation to the school for the fine instructors who greatly influenced her life, especially Miss Pope.

Dorothy Hall Benner is happily serving the Friends of Whitman Seniors and as recording secretary for the Whitman Women’s Club. She also finds time to do five shows a month for Continental Cable of the Brockton Area entitled, “Something Different” and “May We Come In?” Somehow she also has time to be active in her church.

Rosalind Imhoff Brunner reports from British Columbia that her youngest son, Chris, just back from five years teaching in New Zealand has been unable to find a teaching job in Canada and is now teaching science and chemistry in Libya. She states, “Teaching jobs are hard to find. There are no frontiers like the places I went to in Colorado.”

Marge Candy Jackson now lives at Thornton Oaks, 68 Mathew Drive, Brunswick, Maine, 04011. She writes that she is very busy with volunteer work in the community and her church. She would love to hear from her classmates.

Alma Weggand Kehler is awaiting the publication of her daughter’s third book. She writes under the pen name of Amy Christopher.

Eleanor Tupper Pillsbury who resides in Abington, MA serves on the Council on Aging for Abington seniors and is involved in many church activities. We regret to hear that Bee Kimball Sprague lost her husband recently. Our condolences, Bee.

We note in our Massachusetts Retired Teachers’ Association Newsletter that Jeta Pease Watson continues to work on behalf of the 6707 retired member educators as post president and MRTA Board member.

As we prepare these class notes, we think of Ruth Callen Gustafson and Bob Jackson who served so long for the Class of ’37. They are missed greatly.

Let us hear from other classmates!

Class of 1940

Rose Lans Laliberty, 211 Rocky Hill Rd., Plymouth, MA 02360
Through the sharing of Ida Cardoza Baptiste and Winifred Laughton, we can know what happened to those from Taunton who graduated in our class. Ida writes that all but one pursued a career in teaching. Mary Allen Vanderdam moved, upon marrying, to Waynesville, Missouri but is still in touch. Maynette Brody Deehurst taught for many years and she and Ida meet socially now and then. Mary Failey Crira is a very active member of the Taunton Women’s Club among her many other activities. Loreta Monier Dzenowagis is a resident of Marian Manor. John, her husband, also a classmate, passed away in 1989. On behalf of herself, Ida Cardoza Baptiste writes that she tries to keep involved in educational issues and currently serves on three scholarship boards. She and her husband and the five children have traveled on many cruises and their next, if they go again, (We are slowing down, I wonder why?) will be Hawaii. Of Winifred Laughton, Ida reports that she is still her bubbly, sweet self. She is very active in the community. We meet often at club meetings, etc. She also writes that Mary Mynelle, Mary F. and Loretta have lost their husbands and Winifred is still looking. A letter from Winnie reveals more about her activities in Taunton. Between travels, she works Tuesday in a thrift shop benefitting mental health. On Fridays she volunteers at the hospital notifying churches of their parishioners who are patients and in the gift shop. “I really feel it is important to do something.” She did most of her traveling “when prices were much less, Australia, New Zealand and Tahiti for $1600. We can’t get those prices today. NEA ran a trip to Japan, Thailand, and Hong Kong for little money. I’m glad I did it then.” Her trip for 1992 was the Intercoastal Waterway from West Palm Beach. Because one of the group will not fly, they went to Florida by Greyhound. Of that ride she comments, “That would be covered in Marquis de Sade’s volume on travel. It took three weeks for my ankles (no beauties to begin with) to approach smaller proportions.”

The return trip to Rhode Island by boat, taking advantage of rivers, canals, etc., took two weeks. There were 75 passengers, many from the West Coast and Rocky Mountain states, aboard the shallow draft boat which could get close to shore and docked around four to enjoy the cities along the route. “The food was good, cabins o.k., not Love Boat size but my roomie is tiny and we managed.” Further comments on her trip included: “I thought it would be swell to sit on deck and, in general, unwind. I liked it, but I’m not ready to sit down. Give me the traffic in London.” “I haven’t decided on the BIG TRIP for ’93, but take my word for it, Greyhound doesn’t have a chance.”

We’re looking forward to finding out which conveyance Winnie chooses now but also let us hear from others. Be generous. Sharing your trips or other bits of your lives may spark someone else to do the same and will certainly give pleasure to those who cannot or choose not to.

Away from Taunton, in Winchester, MA, Harriet Mayo Peterson has had a hip replacement replacement (both words intended) and is looking forward to playing golf again.

Rose Lans Laliberty will spend the summer in Maine, as usual, and looks forward to a September trip to Denver, Colorado for a reunion with WWII friends.

Our class has been well represented at
Golden Bridges functions - often having the greatest number. Seen during this past year have been: Betty Foster Pierce of Sandwich, Betty Wildes Smith of South Dartmouth, Laura Pearson Grotta of Fairhaven, Winifred Laughlin of Taunton, Eileen Sanfacon of Attleboro, Bill and Marge Boundary Skelly of Watertown, and Eunice Harrison Adams of West Bridgewater and Fairhaven. Come join us to enjoy the central theme of the gathering, renew friendships, and exchange stories of the “old days.”

Louise B. Forsyth, 75 Monroe Rd., Quincy, MA 02169

William and Betty Edgar, Old Greenwich, CT, participated in an excellent Elderhostel program in Christchurch, New Zealand early in March and they wrote that the visit to New Zealand was delightful - even better on this their second visit. Bill and Betty went on to Australia for three weeks and traveled from Sydney to the Great Barrier Reef.

The American School Counselor Association annually publishes a public relations resource for its members and the 1992-1993 packet features the work of Louise B. Forsyth, ASCA president 1977-1978 and public relations coordinator 1974-1977. The editors state, “We rediscovered the work of Louise B. Forsyth. A person we can emulate and aspire to equal, she created timeless public relations publications full of ideas and suggestions for counselors to use in developing advocacy for the school counseling profession. To credit, recognize and pay tribute to the person whose future vision and forward moving goals have continued to move our profession into the 20th century, we have re-issued one of her products and named it the Louise B. Forsyth Public Relations Handbook.” In addition, ASCA for 15 years has presented its annual convention an award bearing Louise’s name to a state division for its outstanding public relations program.

Taylor walked his mom down the aisle and Doug stood up with his dad. Wendy and Victoria were matrons-of-honor. The honeymoon was a golfing cruise to Hawaii. June and July included vacations in Massachusetts and Vermont. The Hodges are living in a new home in Sun City Center, FL. Travel plans for spring include a trip to Holland and a cruise on the Rhine River. Elizabeth Wood Smith recently participated in an Elderhostel held in Thailand and reports that it was one of the best organized and most interesting of the many she has attended. She extended her vacation by visiting with relatives in California both before and after the journey.

We would be delighted to share with classmates news of you and your activities. It would be a joy to find my mail overflowing with news from the Class of 1941. Please write now - today!

Loretta Kennedy Dexter, c/o P.O. Box 13, Bridgewater, MA 02324

Mary Hildreth Chassey and (the Rev. Canon) George Chassey celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on January 14. They are traveling to England and Paris. Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary on December 12, 1992, Charlotte James Procinow and husband Eric are living in Dover, NH. They are busy Elderhosteling, enjoying six grandchildren and UNH hockey. Charlotte has luncheon dates in spring and fall with BSC friends June Walsh Fitzpatrick, Ethel Melin Adamson, Grace Bard Arnesten and Ellen Davis Turner, ’43. Their round robin letter has been traveling many years.

Please send me any news about yourself or any that you may have received from classmates. We enjoyed our great 50th reunion and would like to continue hearing from you.

Since retiring from the Valley Stream, Long Island School District as a guidance counselor five years ago, Kathleen “Kitty” Stevens has been keeping herself quite busy. Kitty has a summer home in North Truro, MA where she does her gardening, socializing, and lying on the beach. The rest of the year is spent in the Bronx, active in the Fordham Hill Co-op, serving on the tenants association and the garden club. Kitty is very active in the affairs on youth and aging, working closely with city councilman Israel Ruiz on numerous projects in the Bronx. Serving on the committee on Support Services for the Elderly and Community Board #7 which reports to the Department on Aging, Kitty still has time for part-time testing and counseling.

Alan Wonson, who spent 31 years in the Norwood schools, 26 years as principal, recently retired. He says his reasons for retiring are simple: He's old enough, his mortgage is paid, his two children are grown, he can collect his pension, and he wants to travel. Specifically he is looking forward to traveling to Denmark and Alaska, and hunting for bear and deer in 120 acres of property he bought in the Maine wilderness several years ago.

Tom Lee, 68 Shore Avenue, Lakeville, MA 02347

Tom Lee's trip to Russia, Lithuania and Latvia was exciting and very interesting. Much too much to write here. Suffice to say his high point was being in the Hermitage Museum in St. Petersburg, Russia. In one room of the museum he was surrounded by 35 Rembrants. Tom says, "This was mind altering."

Word has arrived from Reno, Nevada that our class vice president is teaching fifth grade there. Neuson Maples has retired to the classroom after serving as superintendent in Storey County, NV as well as serving as associate superintendent for all Catholic schools in Nevada. His wife, Mary Finn Maples, '61, is a faculty member in the psychology department of the University of Nevada.

George Sullivan writes that he can't believe he has been teaching 31 years, and he's not a day older. He has split his teaching between Holbrook and Alaska. His five years of teaching in Alaska was with class members Trefon Soucy, Ginny Considine, Judi Andrews, Naomi King, and Norma Sullivan. He traveled back to Anchorage last summer and was amazed at the changes that have taken place in the last 25 years. George retired in 1986 and he and his wife, Karen, have resided in Abington for the last 21 years. They have two sons, Kristopher (22), and Scott (19). They travel quite a bit throughout the US and Canada and have made several trips to the United Kingdom. George occasionally hears from classmate Frank Ryan who has lived in California for many years. Frank and his wife, Diane are located in Silicon Valley. Frank is a Ph.D. and is the western regional consultant for the American Federation for the Blind. They come East occasionally as Frank's family is still in the area.

Rita Thivierge Blake of Chicopee has been an assistant professor at Springfield Technical Community College for 12 years. She has two sons, ages 24 and 20. Her younger son is now a student at BSC, majoring in Aviation Science. On June 30, 1992, Richard Bridgwood concluded 17 years of change, growth, and challenge as principal of Brewster Elementary School. In 1975 the school enrollment was 260, today the population is 760, an increase of 500 pupils. As Richard indicated, 17 years of change, growth and challenge. On July 1st he began his new responsibilities as assistant superintendent of the Nauset Public Schools. Nauset has 3055 students, pre K-12. After four months on the job, he can say enthusiastically that he's not only very busy, but he's enjoying his responsibilities working on behalf of all Nauset students.

Marshla Fader Davis of Long Valley, NJ began working a year ago as a librarian at a public library nearby. Son Craig, attends Rutgers University and daughter Kristen is a sophomore in high school. Husband Red is a district manager for AT&T.

Nathalie Gray Dearmon moved to Ocean Isle Beach, NC last October. It was too late to be hired, so for right now she is substituting in both North and South Carolina. Her son joined the navy after high school and is presently in boot camp in Chicago. They're enjoying their new home on the ocean.

Maeva Zamarchi Foley writes, "Imagine! It's been 27 years since graduation! Remember when Dr. Coler was so excited about something called DNA that he could hardly talk! Well, we've been teaching since then, along with most of you. Last week, a student named Marshall told me that I taught sixth grade students for the money. Well, not quite for the money, Marshall, but for the gold." Maeva currently teaches in the Methuen School System.

Donna Chattonneau Hughes of Danvers is a business manager/administrative secretary at St. Richard Parish (Archdiocese of Boston).

Michael J. Hughes currently holds the position of social studies department chairperson/historical consultant at Methuen High School. Michael worked extensively with the Tsongs Industrial Center in Lowell, MA. The past two summers, he worked for the Society for History of Technology/National Science Foundation Grants, writing curriculum units of textile history. Michael also participated in an industrial archeology dig in Woonsocket, RI and serves as chairman of the Methuen Historic District Commission and a member of the Tenney Preservation Association.

Brenda Marshall Lancaster of Newburyport is the grandmother of two. She traveled back to Micronesia and Guam after 20 years in 1988. Brenda is currently a pre-school teacher/director at Playmates Playschool of Newburyport.

Jeanne Wallster Lesperance of Norwood writes to tell us, "Looking forward to the 30th! In my fifth year as accounting/personnel/administrative manager in a small engineering division of a major corporation, I've just begun MBA studies at Babson College! Son Steve is an earth science major at BSC and I'm on the new Parents Association board of directors which has been chaired by Teri Stolartz Geribo. Son Mike graduated from Georgetown in May and is in a combination MA/PhD program in history at the University of Virginia. Recent vacations have included a trip down the Mississippi River on a working towboat pushing 25 barges to New Orleans and a visit to the North Carolina Outer Banks."

Janice Hankon McAter reports from Mammoth Lakes, CA, "I'm currently teaching severely handicapped students at Mammoth Elementary School. My eldest son, Todd, graduated from UCLA in March. He was captain of the UCLA varsity rowing team. My youngest son, Tim, is a junior in high school. We celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary along with my parents, celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary and sister, Sue Hankon Lunn, '72, their 20th at a Club Med in Eleutheria, Bahamas, just before the hurricane hit."

Marie Paul Nader remarried in 1988 to Michael Nader, an engineer for MIT. Two children have graduated from college and are married and living in nearby Littleton. A third child works in the computer industry. Marie inherited four stepsons, four grandchildren and says, "Lucky me!!" She works part-time for the small town of Shirley as assistant to the planning board. "My husband and I took a week's cruise on The Westerdam to the Caribbean," reports Margaret Anderson Robichaud of Naples, FL. Ports of call were San Juan, Turtoia, St. Thomas and Nassau. "It was a great way to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary last October." (Margaret is a 4th grade teacher in the Collier County School System.)

Mary Ellen Tyson King, formerly of Taunton and now of Piqua, Ohio, has been nominated to become a Martha Holden Jennings Foundation Scholar. A second grade teacher at Washington School and a second grade chairperson, Mary Ellen received her master's degree in education from the University of Dayton in 1983. The Martha Holden Jennings Foundation is committed to recognizing excellence in teaching in Ohio's public schools.

A few weeks ago, I received a wonderful letter from June Liberman. Pleading procrastination for not letting us know what's been happening, June shared her experiences of the last 25 years. I'll share some of the highlights with you, but if you want to know all the details, you'll have to come to our 25th Reunion! June writes, "Briefly, I lasted one year as an English teacher at West Bridgewater High School, did substitute work there and at Sharon High for several years, then went back into office work where I should have stayed in the first place." After she retired from Baker Bros. in Stoughton in 1982, June and Jack moved to Newport, NH to "a log house in 40 acres of woods," that's about "as close to perfect as it's possible to get."

This past February, June and Jack celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at Quebec's Carnival. Active members of the NH Chapter Trail Crew and Trailwrights of the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Liberman's spend a lot of time working on trails. They have also done quite a bit of climbing, especially in New England where they have already "conquered" all the 4000 footers. In 1983 they went trekking in Nepal, and in 1985 and 1987 they were walking and climbing in England, Scotland and Wales. June adds, "Recently, we found out about the High Pointers, those who walk, drive, scramble, or maybe crawl, to the high point in each state." Although June writes that they only have nine states to their credit so far, a planned trip to California should add some real high ones. "This sounds terrific, June, and I'm looking forward to hearing much more in October. Congratulations to Roger J. Robitaille, director of educational media for the New Bedford Public School Schools who was recently honored by the New Bedford Chaper of the Prince Henry Society of Massachusetts. The award is presented annually by the society to an individual or corporate entity for enhancing the image of the Portuguese and the community. As director of educational media, Roger is responsible for the library and media programs at New Bedford’s 27 schools. In this role he does everything from purchasing AV materials to co-ordinating local field trips. In his “spare time,” he administers all kinds of grant funds including Chaper II block grants and Title II grants. Nice going, Roger! The other Campus Comment alumni are proud of you!

Elizabeth Wheatly-Dyson, MEd ’68, has really had an impact on Abington High school. The former Norwood foreign language teacher was the first vice-principal in the high school in almost two decades. One of her first suggestions to be implemented was a student of the month program. After getting the support of the staff, Elizabeth then went looking for a group to sponsor the program. Abington’s Rotary Club agreed to be the sponsor, and each month the school’s winner is invited to the club’s meeting and presented a plaque and a $50 savings bond. The student is selected by staff members on the basis of attendance, cooperation, enthusiasm, scholarship, and community service and acceptance of responsibility. According to an article in The Patriot Ledger, the students are very enthusiastic about the program. Now, TA-DA, Reunion News. First of all, my heartfelt thanks to Ray Cabana and Paul Mattson for their loyal help in planning the 25th. Secondly, a special thank you to those of you who took the time to fill out the survey. Although I initially had visions of exotica for our reunion, your responses made it clear that you wanted to be on campus for the reunion. Furthermore, supper and a DJ (who will not play heavy metal) were requested. Many of you said you had not been back to Bridgewater since graduation and you really wanted to see your Alma Mater. Some of you are in for a big surprise, especially if you trained at Burnell, ever ate in the commuters’ lounge or parked your car on lower campus near “Lake Inferior.” There has been building galore as well as some wonderful renovations.

Although you will receive a much more formal “return this form” invitation, let me highlight OUR DAY, October 2, 1993. From 9:00 am on, the Davis Alumni Center will be ours. Coffee and danish are planned for those who are able to really make this a day. At 11 am, the Homecoming Parade is scheduled. This will be followed by tailgating and the Homecoming Football Game. Beginning at 3 pm, Davis will be open for light snacks and conversation. Bus tours of the campus will also be offered, and there should be time for those of you who don’t want to get up for church on Sunday to attend the liturgy at the Catholic Center. “Rejuvenation” is set to begin a 5 pm with dinner, dancing and a whole lot of fooling around to follow. Additionally, there will be a student sponsored event (probably a comedian) for those of you who are reunioned-out. There are some other ideas floating around, but we still could use a lot of help to make this the BEST 25th! Lastly, we are still looking for photos and other memorabilia to BORROW (not keep). If you have some, or even one, let me know ASAP.

Dear Classmates—Although Bob Mansur and I are both living far away from Bridgewater, we are both so pleased to be able to serve as secretaries for the Class of 1977. We want to gratefully acknowledge the many years that Rick Towner served our class as secretary and express our appreciation. Bob and I are anxious to hear from as many people as possible and would like to encourage you to consider writing or calling us to let us know what is happening in your life. Fondly, Donna Kane Tobey.

Gary and Irene O’Neil Atkinson are living in New Hampshire and are expecting their fifth child this August. They currently have two daughters, Cristine (12) and Sarah (11), and two sons, Jimmy (9) and Stephen (1). Paul Dauphinais and his wife, Patty, are expecting their first child in October. Paul earned a Ph.D. in Canadian history from the University of Maine and currently resides in West Virginia.

Raymond Mitchell has been living in North Carolina since July of 1992. After graduation from Bridgewater, he taught school for three years in the Artic Circle of Alaska. Brian Sullivan has recently moved from Houston, Texas to Denver, Colorado where he is vice president for Employee Benefits, Inc.

As of May 1, 1993 I (Scott McDonald) will have relocated to my adopted home state of Georgia. In the four and one half years I’ve been back in New England, I have thought of the day I would have the chance to go back South. That day has come. Kathy and I look forward to snowless winters but will miss the smell of the ocean and the history of New England. During my time back, I have become involved with the Bridgewater Foundation as a member of the board of trustees as well as a member of the board of directors of the Bridgewater Alumni Association. It truly was rewarding to work with dedicated people like Phil Conroy, Mary, Peggy, Debbie, Anne Marie, Kim, Roseanne, Shirley and all the staff. Sheila McKenna of the BAA has been a special friend and I wish her the best in her year as president. Of all my experiences, the best was the opportunity to be the speaker at Convocation 1993. My classmates support was appreciated in preparing for this event, especially that of Rich Harkwood. Please find the time to give back to your school. Anytime you can give is appreciated by all. Do continue to send your news to me at the above address.- SmCd

Donna Beaudoin Sherer writes with a doubly interesting note. She and her husband Richard, ’79, announce the birth of their first child, Brianna Leigh, on July 15, 1992. Happy first birthday, Brianna! And since that’s also Donna’s birthday, Happy birthday, Mom! (And congratulations on the precise timing of the event!) We look forward to seeing Brianna entering BSC as a freshman in 2010! Thanks to all those who sent in class notes this time around.

A personal note to the secretary of the Class of 1980: It has been a pleasure working with you since I shot you at the first Murder Mystery dinner. Best of luck to you and Kathy in your new venture.

To anyone who hasn’t been back to campus since graduation — Why haven’t you? We have great events planned (see the ad elsewhere in this issue), like wine tasting and Alumni night at basketball. . . . there’s HOMECOMING coming up, and a Roaring Twenties Murder Mystery dinner . . . a Spirit of Boston cruise in Boston Harbor . . . and many more! Why not stop by the Davis Alumni Center and scribble out a Class Note?
