Marvin Hamlisch
Friday, February 6, 1998, 8:00PM

Marvin Hamlisch's life in music is notable for its great versatility as well as substance. Best known as a composer, Hamlisch has written major works for film, stage, recordings and concert halls. As conductor, he has led the great orchestras of the world, and as a pianist and entertainer, he has performed both with ensembles and in solo capacity.

Hamlisch believes in the power of music to bring people together. He says: "Music can make a difference. There is a global nature to music which has the potential to bring all people together. Music is truly an international language, and I hope to contribute by widening communication as much as I can."

New York City Opera performs

The Daughter of the Regiment, Friday, April 3, 1998, 8:00PM

Marie, the spirited darling of Napoleon's 21st Regiment, discovers love and her true identity in Gaetano Donizetti's melodious comic opera, The Daughter of the Regiment, performed by the New York City Opera National Company. Now in its 18th year, the Company is considered the premier touring opera company in the country. The Company travels in an old-fashioned "bus and truck" style, bringing vivid stagings of classic operas to both small rural communities and bustling urban centers. The Daughter of the Regiment will be sung in French with English supertitles.

Orchestra Seats $37, Balcony Seats $30

All performances to be held at the Rondileau Campus Center Auditorium

Washington, D.C. Alumni Gathering and Travel Program

Alumni in the D.C. area are invited to attend an evening reception at the U.S. Capitol on Tuesday, March 24, 1998. Hosted by Congressman John Tierney, the reception is jointly sponsored by Bridgewater, Fitchburg, Salem, Westfield, and Worcester state colleges. Our college presidents, and the Massachusetts senators and congressmen have been invited to take part in the evening. As part of the event, the alumni association is sponsoring a tour of Washington from March 22-25. Motorcoaches will leave the state college campuses on Sunday and guests will stay at the deluxe Channel Inn, located on the Potomac River through the morning of the 25th. Among the sites on the four-day tour are the White House, the Vietnam Memorial, Arlington National Cemetery, Mt. Vernon, and the Smithsonian Institute. For information and pricing, please contact the Alumni Office at (508) 697-1287.
A Call for Nominations

The Bridgewater Alumni Association seeks nominations for its annual awards, to be presented Alumni Weekend. We would appreciate it if you would attach supporting materials.

The Bridgewater Alumni Award for Outstanding Service to the Alumni Association is given to an individual whose qualifications include the ability to build understanding and awareness through involvement, leadership that fosters a caring community, and programs that promote strategies for drawing others into a network of cooperation.

The Dr. Catherine Comeau Award for Professional Achievement and Community Service is presented to a graduate of the college's Department of Movement Arts, Health Promotion, and Leisure Studies. The recipient will be a graduate of at least five years and be an influential role model in the field.

The Dr. V. James DiNardo Award for Excellence in Teaching is presented to a member of the faculty whose contributions include mastery of subject matter, enthusiastic teaching style, and personal attention to the students.

The Adrian Rondileau Award for Professional Achievement and Community Service was established to recognize an alumna/alumnus who demonstrates the qualities most valued by Dr. Rondileau, the eighth president of the college. The recipient must demonstrate exceptional service to the community, resulting in improvement of the quality of the community's life.

The Nicholas P. Tillinghast Award for Achievement in the Field of Education was named in honor of the college's first president. The award is given to an alumna/alumnus who demonstrates qualities of outstanding leadership, excellence in performance, and personal achievement in the field of public education.

Bridgewater is published three times per year for the information and reading pleasure of Bridgewater State College alumni, faculty, students, staff, parents and other friends of the college.

Friday, September 26, 1997, the first train arrives in Boston's South Station on the "New Old Colony Line"
In the fall of 1986, that was how Dr. Nancy Street described her just-completed, year-long stay in the People’s Republic of China (PRC) after she and three BSC students — Helene Baldino, ’87, Mary Azar, ’87, and Steve Ricci, ’87 — returned home to Bridgewater after participating in the college’s first exchange program with Shanxi Teachers University, which is located in a poor, remote part of China that had been previously closed to Westerners.

They were the first group from Bridgewater to go to China as part of an exchange agreement the college had with the university in the latter part of the 1980s. As they were heading to Shanxi, a group of Chinese students and faculty were on their way to Bridgewater.

“It is so totally different one cannot even imagine it,” said Dr. Street in an interview when she came back to the college that September, now eleven years ago. “I had absolutely no idea of what it would be like to go there. Inevitably, you take a lot of assumptions into another world and, suddenly, the old world isn’t there anymore. And you’re on the other side of the moon in terms of the way their world, their life, is structured.”

Dr. Street was then, as she is now, a member of the faculty in the Department of Communication Studies and Theatre Arts at Bridgewater (she is currently chairperson of the department).

As the first member of the BSC faculty to travel to China to teach at Shanxi, she had looked on the opportunity as a once-in-a-lifetime adventure. “I had always wanted to go to China, but it’s something I thought I’d never be able to do,” Dr. Street said in that 1986 interview.

Nor did she think she would be going back anytime soon, if ever. But Dr. Street has gone back to China — so far, three more times. She returned to Shanxi Teachers University for a semester in September, 1988, and two years later, in 1990, she made a six-week tour of the country, sponsored by a Fulbright-Hayes Group Study grant.

Her fourth trip to China took place this past spring and summer — a five-month journey that included a teaching assignment at Southeast University in Nanjing and visits to other universities in the Nanjing area.

“While life in the United States hasn’t changed all that much since 1985, in Mainland China life has changed a great deal since then,” says Dr. Street. “I feel privileged to have seen China at various stages of what is the ongoing transformation of a great society and a great people.”

Dr. Street has accumulated a wealth of experiences during these four trips to the PRC and has published two books, one devoted completely to her first two visits to China and the second with chapters based on her extensive first-hand knowledge of the country and its political movements.

In Search of Red Buddha, published in 1992, was described by Professor Donald Fishman of Boston College as a “vivid account of the history, culture, geography and ideology of China, particularly the Cultural Revolution.” The book describes her experiences as an American professor in China and her perspectives on how that nation’s changing economic and political conditions have affected its people.

Dr. Street’s second book, Messages from the Underground: Transnational Radio in Resistance and Solidarity, co-authored with Dr. Marilyn Matelski of Boston College, explores how people are called into resistance and/or solidarity through the medium of transnational radio. Case studies in the book document the influence of the Voice of America, BBC, Vatican Radio, and the relatively new Radio Free Asia/Asia Pacific Network in shaping the destiny of world societies at the end of the twentieth century (including the pro-democracy movement in China in the spring of 1989 which was suppressed violently by the government during the so-called Tiananmen Square Uprising).

Now, a major focus of her professional life is developing closer ties between Bridgewater and universities in China. “I came back from this most recent visit convinced there are many ways that Bridgewater could develop joint exchange programs with leading colleges in China that would benefit students and faculty here and there,” she says. “My goal is to help facilitate these arrangements in any way that I can.”

Shortly after Dr. Street returned to Bridgewater from her most recent stay in China, she was asked about the changes she has witnessed and the people to whom she has developed such close ties.

Is there much of a difference, Dr. Street was asked, in the China she saw upon her arrival last February from the China she had seen during past trips there?

“In terms of its physical appearance, Beijing seemed much the same to me,” Dr. Street replies. “In terms of the people, for the most part they still don’t drive cars and instead ride bicycles. But the people riding the bicycles look totally different,” she says. “They no longer wear the blue cotton Mao suits and baggy, army-green jackets and trousers. In fact, they dress very fashionably. The fashions you see in America now you also see on the streets of China’s main cities, and people are really into dressing well and colorfully.”

There are other differences too, she says.

“People in Beijing no longer stare at foreigners the way they used to,” she replies, “nor do they ask to ‘change money.’ China has done away with the old two currency system, a real contribution to economic stability and equality, putting an end to ‘black market’ money exchanges with foreigners.

“I remember when I first arrived in Beijing twelve years ago. It was August and it was hot. There seemed to be peasants everywhere, squatting in the blazing sun and staring at us. First, I couldn’t believe how all of these people could sit in such uncomfortable positions, but that was their way of resting because they had no chairs — it was either that or sit on the ground. Later I found out that this was a traditional way for Chinese to rest. Second, looking out at this sea of faces, all staring at us because we were foreigners, made us feel odd. That’s what I most remember about arriving in Beijing a dozen years ago.”

Foreigners are no longer novel­ties in Beijing or other major Chinese cities, Dr. Street says, but they still attract attention in the countryside where life is still relatively primitive, at least by Western standards.

“During this trip, when I made a visit to the countryside — to Xingua City and Gaoyou City — these places in wealthy Jiangsu Province reminded me very, very much of the city of Linfen, in Shanxi Province, where Shanxi Teachers University is located,” Dr. Street recalls.

“In 1997, the people were dressed much the same as they had been in 1985, uniforms of blue or green trouser suits. Unlike Beijing and Nanjing, manual labor still predominates in cities such as these — the streets are filled with people carrying dual water buckets and/or construction materials on long poles across their shoulders. And as happened so often in Linfen in 1985, the people would gather in large crowds to stare at us.”

Dr. Street’s most recent book, Messages from the Underground: Transnational Radio in Resistance and Solidarity, describes how the Voice of America was once very influential among Chinese citizens, but following the Tiananmen Square uprising in June, 1989 — when the government used brute force to end a rebellion by dissident students — VOA lost much of that influence. Why?

“Throughout much of the 1980s, and to some extent even before that, what the Chinese people knew of the world outside of China came from listening to radio broadcasts of the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting Corporation. In particular, they believed in VOA,” she explains.

“But following Tiananmen Square, they no longer believed VOA as much because it was often inaccurate in its reports, which the Chinese government hastened to point out. As a result, today by and large the people are listening more to their own government.” Why is this so? “Because the improved economy and technological develop—ment inspire confidence in the people, as in the United States," she says.

Dr. Street says the students with whom she had contact were puzzled by what they perceive as America's hostility toward China.

"Many of the students I encountered were confused about why the United States is so hard on China," she says. "There is among Chinese students today a bewilderment about 'what is wrong with America? Why does the United States seem to deal so harshly with China?' They just don't get it."

What are the sources of friction between the United States and China?

"The American press writes often about 'human rights violations' in China, and I've even had Americans say to me, 'The Chinese government must hate its people because it treats them so poorly.' When I hear this, I'm stunned," replies Dr. Street.

"While the Chinese government may not be doing things the way we would do them, or the way we think they should be done, I believe the government is doing what can be done as well as the government can manage it. I am not defending the Chinese government for the way it has dealt with dissidents. I just think we have to acknowledge that their culture — their laws, their traditions — are different from our own."

Part of the misunderstanding stems, Dr. Street believes, from the fact that many Westerners tend to forget China's recent, turbulent history.

"This is something that's important for us to remember," she says. "China has been in turmoil for the past 150 years. Wartime invasions, revolution and internal upheaval dominate the story of China in the twentieth century. Stability has only come to China in the most recent decades, so there has been a lot of work to be done in restoring the functions of the most basic institutions, which the Chinese have been working very hard to do."

The Cultural Revolution, which Chairman Mao unleashed in the 1960s, set the country back severely, says Dr. Street.

"Even after the Communists came to power in 1949, their leader, Mao Zedong, who is hailed as a great revolutionary leader throughout the Third World, was a man of narrow background and virtually no personal knowledge of life outside of China. Mao was not at all worldly in the sense of other Chinese leaders such as Zhou Enlai and Deng Xiaoping, both of whom had traveled widely and lived in foreign countries."

"Mao was a man of peasant background," she continues, "and during his reign he had the Chinese people doing some foolish things, such as making iron in their backyards. And it was Mao, of course, who unleashed the Cultural Revolution, which nearly sent the country into the dark ages. All education stopped for nearly ten years, families were torn apart, and the country suffered. So he can rightly be criticized for many misguided acts and policies."

But Dr. Street believes that Western governments also made mistakes in dealing with China, mistakes that led the Chinese government to accelerate its increasingly inward turn.

"Mao is often accused of closing the doors to China, of trying to keep the West out of China. In my opinion the situation isn't as simple as that," she says. "In the early 1950s the United States and its allies worked hard to keep the People's Republic of China out of the United Nations, favoring the government of Taiwan — Nationalist China — for a seat in the UN and as a veto-holding member of the UN's Security Council."

The Chinese are a proud people, says Dr. Street. "They have long memories for slights."

As a result of an ages-old propensity and of being shunned by other nations, mainland China withdrew into itself. "China became more and more insular, and that became even worse during the Cultural Revolution when there was so little contact with the outside world," she explains.

That period of isolation is now over, she says. "The return of Hong Kong to Mainland Chinese control this summer was a pivotal point," Dr. Street believes. "Even before this, one could see that China was growing more confident in its relations with foreign countries, especially the West. When the British formally relinquished their authority over Hong Kong, to the average Chinese this was a hugely symbolic gesture, reinforcing in their minds how far China has come in less than 50 years to restoring its dignity, honor and prestige."

As to the attitudes of contemporary Chinese students, Dr. Street says they have an outlook on the world that has little resemblance to the students she encountered in China in the 1980s.

"Without question, there is a big difference between the attitudes of Chinese students one meets now compared to the students I met in Linfen twelve years ago," states Dr. Street.

"This is a quite different student population. Back in 1985, those students had grown up during the Cultural Revolution, and they were a whole different breed than today's Chinese students who, first, don't know much about the Cultural Revolution, and, second, don't want to know much about the Cultural Revolution — that happened to their parents, not them. I found myself in the very odd position of remembering a past they did not remember, and having to adjust mentally to dealing with the young who see themselves and China's place in the world much differently than their elders, thanks to the new educational and economic policies of the Chinese government.

What Dr. Street also discovered during her stay at Southeast University was that contemporary Chinese students — depending on their level of education and their age — see their place in society differently.

"The students I taught during this most recent stay in China fell into three groups — undergraduate students, master's students and doctoral students," explains Dr. Street.

"But more than their education level divided them. Each has grown up in a different era in China, so their attitudes and experiences separate them to a much greater level than among American students of similar age groups.

"I taught non-major juniors, and at first I found them to be quite like the students I had taught twelve years ago at Shanxi Teachers University — they were reluctant to talk because they were self-conscious about their English-speaking skills. But then I said to them, 'I know you can do this. I know you can speak up in class.' And then we found a common bond in film — that was a subject that they were anxious to talk about, and they were very knowledgeable because today there are video stores all over China. Films, and American films in particular, are very familiar to them. Once they began talking about film," she continues, "they were willing to talk about other things, so I gradually moved from teaching literature to teaching film."

Her master's students "were the most delightful group of people," she says. "Since they had to have a foreign language in order to study at the master's degree level, and most had chosen English, this was a fun group to work with." She recalls: "They could read English extremely well, and I was impressed with how much they knew about America, which they get from reading news magazines published in the United States. But they are not used to speaking English because they'd had few opportunities to do that. So in class we talked about everything and we worked hard on building vocabulary and diction. I let them take the conversation wherever they wanted to. I also opened my home on Friday evenings from seven to ten for anybody that wanted to come, and during these sessions we'd talk almost non-stop. That was really just what they needed."

This group of students have a very clear objective, Dr. Street says. "I found I was dealing with a caliber of student that I had never dealt with in China before. Master's degree students have a specific goal in learning how to speak English — they know how to write papers in English, but in order to go to conferences and meet colleagues in their disciplines around the world, they need to speak English well."

"They want to be able to walk up to someone, shake his or her hand, say hello and carry on a conversation," she explains. "These were very charming people, and I still exchange e-mail with some of them."

The third group of students, all studying to earn doctoral degrees, were in a category of their own, says Dr. Street.

"The doctoral students I taught were an older group, mostly in their late thirties or early forties, and they had lived with the Cultural Revolution. They have different memories and different expectations than the younger students with whom I worked."

While the differences among each group were readily apparent, Dr. Street says, they shared at least one trait in common.

"What was exciting for me was that, regardless of age or education level, the students in Nanjing are very proud of the fact the universities they attend in that city are considered among the most prestigious in China — Nanjing is second only to Beijing in terms of its educational status level in China and they see for themselves leadership roles not only in China but in the world.

"Frankly," she says, "in each of my previous trips to China, I had left distressed because the people, especially my students and my colleagues, had seemed so unhappy. That was not the case this time. I sensed instead a real confidence and pride among the Chinese people."

When asked, "What is the most difficult adjustment a foreign visitor has to make when traveling to China?" Dr. Street answers, "I think it would probably be the loss of control, which is a kind of protection the Chinese insist in providing to those from the West because they think we cannot properly take care of ourselves in China."

"They really want to make sure nothing bad or unpleasant happens to you, so they tend to plan your itinerary very carefully," she continues. "As an example, during this latest trip to China I traveled extensively around Nanjing, visiting
Faculty Profile

Dr. Street had met Wang Keqiang when she taught at Shanxi University and he became "my best friend there."

He was originally from Nanjing and had a very bright future as a writer, she says, but he was exiled to the countryside in 1959 as punishment because the government disapproved of his writing.

"He had already been in Linfen for twenty-five years when I arrived there in 1985," Dr. Street relates. "Despite the privations he had suffered — during the Cultural Revolution he was not allowed to visit his home city of Nanjing — he was not at all beaten down by the experience. By 1988, when I returned to Shanxi, he had gone back to Nanjing to teach at a university there.

"As I began planning to return to China for this latest trip, I wrote to Wang Keqiang and explained I could only stay for a semester, and I asked for his help in arranging a teaching assignment for me. He went from school to school, trying to find a place that would take me for a semester. Thanks to his efforts, Southeast University agreed to make that possible."

Wang Keqiang and his wife Wen Zao "were my family in China this trip," says Dr. Street. "We spent a lot of time together, and it was wonderful to see the dramatic change in their lives, in their personalities. When I first met Wang Keqiang back in 1985, he wore the plain blue Mao suit and would never have worn anything colorful. Now he and his wife have such energy and enthusiasm, as well as colorful clothes, that to me they represent the new China that has emerged over the past dozen years."

Now, with four trips to China completed, Dr. Street is contemplating a new logical step, and she thinks she knows what that is.

"I'd like to co-author a book with Dr. Matelski on intercultural communication using case studies to explore American-Mainland Chinese interaction," she explains. "But we would like to co-write it with Chinese colleagues. With other books, I have always had my Chinese friends read my drafts for errors, but this is different. I envision such a book would use cultural studies to analyze, from the standpoint of each culture, how people from America and China differ in their understanding and interpretation of the same messages."

Because she has a background in both cultures, and an understanding of how differently each communicates, Dr. Street believes that East and West need to recognize the width of their linguistic divide.

"Chinese are not 'yes or no' people. For them, it is 'some of this and some of that,' nothing is ever totally bad or totally good. It has its sides," she says.

"In the West we are more likely to say, 'this is good, this is bad, this is evil, this is pure.' But that's not the way with the Chinese, and their philosophy filters into the language in ways we would find difficult to deal with — 'perhaps we will meet at 12:00 and maybe we will do something, unless it becomes impossible and if so we will meet eventually.'

"That philosophy also affects their view of the world," Dr. Street continues. "In a nation that has been battered by so many natural disasters, a farmer will say, 'Maybe the crops will be good, if there are no floods and no drought. Perhaps yes, perhaps no.' We, on the other hand, are more likely to be shocked when things don't go as we planned them to go. Americans see the world as a circle cut down the middle — black and white. Chinese see the world as yin yang."

This is more than an exercise in communication skills, insists Dr. Street. "China's presence and influence in world affairs grows daily. Economically, politically, technologically and militarily, China is emerging as a force to be reckoned with as evidenced by the news coverage of President Jiang Zemin's recent visit to the United States. The United States and China have everything to gain from improving how they communicate with and relate to each other."

"And everything to lose if they don't."
"Mommie, Tell Me About Grandpa"

Or maybe it's the great-grandparents, or the great-great-grandparents that the curious youngster wants to know about. What will you say to such a question?

In addition to your own recollections and a treasury of photos and writings and various heirlooms, you won't have much to draw on - unless you or someone else has done something to establish a lasting memorial in Grandpa's honor.

A named endowment fund at Bridgewater State College is a wonderful way to create an ongoing legacy. Every year, loved ones will be reminded through print and other means that Grandpa cared about the college and its mission. The endowment fund will not only serve as a perennial source of income to Bridgewater State, but it will also provide a continuing reminder that Grandpa was a man of generosity and good will.

Our program permits individuals to create endowments that focus on special aspects of our mission, areas that may have been especially important to the honoree. This "assignment of income" also communicates something positive about Grandpa's interests and concerns.

You may want to consider an endowment for yourself. By establishing it now, in your name, you provide your loved ones with a "living photograph" of at least one of your key involvements in life. As you wish, you can add to your endowment over time, and you can even earmark a portion of your estate to eventually enter your fund.

Endowments are worth considering. Why not contact us and request more information? We will show you what others have done (see accompanying stories) - and how practical and easy an endowment can be for you. You can reach our Director of Major and Planned Gifts, Michelle Stuart, by calling (508) 697-1200 ext. 2694. Or, if you wish, use the handy response form below.

West Coast Alumna Honors Bridgewater Education With Named Fund

Professor Butz, who died October 18, 1996, wanted to make a lasting contribution to the Mathematics and Computer Science Department, where he had worked since 1992. Several months before his death, Dr. Butz informed the college of a $10,000 bequest in his will, earmarked for the J. R. Butz Mathematics Competition Prize. "My years at Bridgewater State College were happy and productive. I hope this award will in some way reflect my appreciation for them," he wrote.

A percentage of the income earned on the endowed fund is to be used each year as an award to the Bridgewater student who achieves the highest score on the William L. Putnam Mathematical Competition. Dr. Butz's thoughtful gift will encourage academic excellence in the field he was devoted to far into the future. For that, Bridgewater State College and its students are deeply appreciative.

A graduate of Quincy (MA) High School, Patricia Ross Reinstein '65 came to Bridgewater State College at the urging of her mother. Vera Gronwall Ross, a member of the class of 1942 who left the college just prior to graduation to get married, knew that her daughter would be challenged by Bridgewater's professors and classes.

"At Bridgewater, we were always studying because it was so hard. We had the opportunity to learn by doing as we worked with our professors," comments Patti. She particularly remembers two professors, Dr. Elizabeth Cirino of the Biology Department, for the difficulty of her class, and Dr. Robert Daniels in the Burnell School/Art Department, whom she credits with fostering a lifelong interest in art. "I'll match my Bridgewater education to anyone's," avers Patti, "it had breadth and a great deal of depth." She fondly recalls how her husband, Fred Reinstein, an alumnus of the University of Missouri, would "ask me how I knew certain facts and how to solve certain problems, and my response was always 'that's how we were taught at Bridgewater.'"

Happily settled in Beverly Hills, California, with her husband and two sons, Michael and David, Patti decided in 1995 that she wanted to honor her eastern roots and the Bridgewater experience that shaped her life so profoundly. She and her husband established the Patricia Ross Reinstein '65 Scholarship at Bridgewater State College to benefit the education of students here, with preference given to students who hail from Patti's hometown of Quincy. With this scholarship, Patti is making a Bridgewater education possible for students who otherwise might not be able to matriculate.

Patti has been a member of the Bridgewater State College Foundation since 1993 and in 1995 was named the Dr. Adrian Rondileau Award recipient for "outstanding professional achievement and community service." She works closely with her husband for their business.

Did You Know?

An annual fund supports a college's annual operating expenses. Think of it like a checking account.

An endowment provides a permanent source of income for a college through unrestricted and restricted funds. Think of it like a savings account, one in which the principal is never touched.

Both are equally important to Bridgewater State College's future.

The Annual Fund Myth vs. Reality

MYTH: The Annual Fund only supports the BSC Foundation operations.

REALITY: The Annual Fund supports all the priorities of Bridgewater State College. The fund is the cornerstone of all fundraising efforts on behalf of the college and provides immediate relief from budgetary constraints and protects the college from fluctuating state funding.

MYTH: Bridgewater State College is a public institution so all its needs are met by the state.

REALITY: Approximately 60% of the college's budget is supported by student fees and the philanthropy of generous alumni, parents, faculty, staff and friends.

MYTH: The Annual Fund does not support scholarships and other important fundraising projects.

REALITY: The unrestricted support that comes from the fund has the greatest impact on the greatest number of students since it can be utilized across campus for any number of purposes, including scholarships. The primary focus of the Annual Fund is to be used wherever the need is greatest.

MYTH: "Supporting my class fund/campaign is more important than making a gift to the Annual Fund."

REALITY: Both are equally important and work together. Your class gift commemorates a special reunion as designated by your class. This effort is often restricted for a special purpose. The Annual Fund supports financial aid, faculty and curriculum development, campus improvements and is the main funding source for the Bridgewater Alumni Association and the Foundation. These needs are ongoing and need your commitment on an annual basis.

MYTH: Contributions of the same amount each year are sufficient to help Bridgewater meet its needs.

REALITY: Inflation, the rising costs of education and the fluctuating funding from the state are just a few reasons that increased support to the Annual Fund is needed. Just think what a cup of coffee cost 25 years ago and what it sells for now. A secure future for the college is dependent upon a strong and growing Annual Fund. The most compelling reason to increase your gift this year is the continuation of the Public Higher Education Endowment Incentive Program which matches gifts from private funds.

MYTH: The Annual Fund runs on a calendar year (January 1 - December 31).

REALITY: The Annual Fund runs on a fiscal year (July 1 - June 30), similar to an academic calendar. So when you are called in the fall by a student asking for your support, know that it is the start of a new fundraising year for us!

MYTH: "I can only make a pledge for an amount that I can write a check for today."

REALITY: Pledges can be paid in installments over the course of the fiscal year. We will be happy to send you pledge reminders, or you can use your credit card and request a specific amount be charged on the dates of your choice.

Please support the 1997-1998 Annual Fund and continue our legacy of excellence at Bridgewater State College.
Bridgewater Alumni Association Presents Awards

Six leaders of the Bridgewater community were awarded the following major awards during Alumni Weekend in May. Excerpts from the presentations appear here. To make nominations for the 1998 awards, please see the front of this magazine.

The Bridgewater Alumni Award for Outstanding Service on behalf of the Alumni Association

Marcia Crooks '55

Marcia Crooks has exemplified the characteristics of leadership throughout her association with Bridgewater State College. In any given week, it is not unusual to see her — on a daily basis — on campus. Marcia currently is the secretary for the Bridgewater Alumni Association (BAA) and the Hyannis-Bridgewater Physical Education Alumni Association, where she also served as vice president and president. She is the co-chair of the 60th anniversary planning committee for the physical education major program. Throughout the years, Marcia has been a member of several Alumni Association committees, including the Constitution and By-law Committee, the Class of '55 Reunion Committee, and the Awards, Scholarship, and Recognition Committee. In addition, Marcia is a founding member of the Women's Institute Day Committee, which brings successful female graduates back to the college to share career experiences with students.

Marcia is an active participant in the State's Senior Games, recently winning a silver medal in the shot put and a bronze in the discus. She just returned from a trip to Arizona for the National Games where she qualified for the USA Track and Field master's program.

The Dr. Catherine E. Comeau Award for Outstanding Professional Achievement in the Field of Movement Arts, Health Promotion, and Leisure Studies

Nina S. Roberts '83

Following graduation in 1983, when she received an undergraduate degree in physical education with a concentration in recreation, Nina Roberts was employed with the Hale Camping Reservation in Westwood. She has shared her commitment to parks and recreation as a guest lecturer at several Massachusetts colleges and universities, and received a Distinguished Service Award from the National Recreation and Park Association for her involvement in the Northeast region.

Nina completed a master's degree in outdoor recreation and resource management from the University of Maryland at College Park in 1992. She is currently employed as the assistant director of the Conservation Career Development Program, a department within the Student Conservation Association, where she provides outdoor education programs and career services to people of color and women.

Nina is a candidate for a six-month visiting professorship at Lincoln University in New Zealand, to begin in June 1998.
The Dr. V. James DiNardo Award for Excellence in Teaching at Bridgewater State College

Dr. Walter M. Hewitson, Professor of Biology

Dr. V. James DiNardo '39, congratulates Walter Hewitson, professor of biology, the 1997 recipient of the award named in Dr. DiNardo's honor. Cynthia Booth Ricciardi '81, center, BAA president, presented the award.

Dr. Walter Hewitson began his academic career in 1958 at his undergraduate alma mater, Miami University, as an instructor of botany. He earned a master's degree in plant anatomy from Cornell University and a Ph.D. in plant morphology from Washington University before coming to Bridgewater State College in 1969 as an assistant professor of biology.

Walter draws upon his rich and varied experience to make the subject come alive for his students. In his classroom presentations he is energetic and interesting, reducing the explanations of complicated biological phenomena to concise, accurate pieces of information. In the words of a student from his Wetlands Biology course, "The juice from Impatiens Capensis stems will help to relieve poison ivy itch. Will any of us forget about this plant? I don't think so!"

Walter became a full professor in 1976, and in 1978, was named chairman of the Department of Biological Sciences, a position he held until 1983. Often a guest speaker at local garden clubs, Walter has been remembered by former students as "one of the most gifted teachers and most caring professors I have ever encountered." Students have commented that his "knowledge, enthusiasm, and affection for the subject (of botany) is contagious." An avid landscape architect, Walter not only took part in selecting, but in planting the bushes and shrubs on campus along Park Avenue.

A 1987 recipient of the college's Distinguished Service Award, Walter is to be commended for following the traditions of teaching excellence at an institution where the standards and expectations are of the highest level. We are pleased to commemorate his 28th year as an educator at Bridgewater State College with this prestigious award.

The Award for Exceptional Dedication to Students

Dolores Introne AuCoin '76
Assistant Director, Affirmative Action and Minority Affairs

A graduate of the class of 1976 at Bridgewater State College who went on to earn a master's degree in 1979 in counseling/psychology, Dolores "Dorie" AuCoin began her career at her alma mater as the coordinator of tutorial services in the minority affairs/special programs office. With work focused on academic support and retention programs, Dorie has been an integral part of the minority affairs/affirmative action department since graduating from Bridgewater. During her tenure, she has made a personal impact on countless students from disadvantaged backgrounds, minority and bilingual students, adult returning students, and women. When nominating her for the award one student wrote, "She has a gift for giving advice even when you don't really know you need it."

Her professional experience in several aspects of student life, including program and curriculum development, advising, and counseling have made her a respected ally of students. They have come to count on her support and gentle guidance. Says one, "I am lucky to have known her and been touched by her goodness."

Recently, the student Afro-American Society presented her with its "Unsung Hero" award in appreciation of her quiet dedication and commitment to helping students in their pursuit of excellence. Another of her students said it best: "There is Supporting Bridgewater State College's tradition of educational excellence, thousands of individuals made gifts to the college last year. We are pleased to recognize the importance of their support with this honor roll of donors.

Alumni, trustees, faculty and staff, friends of the college and students' families contributed their time and resources throughout the year in support of the college's mission. Our deepest appreciation goes to those who keep Bridgewater State College a vital regional resource.

The following pages contain the names of all those who made gifts to the Bridgewater State College Foundation and to the Bridgewater Alumni Association from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997. Contributions received after the end of the fiscal year will appear in next year's honor roll.

Fund Year Highlights
The 1997 fiscal year experienced record growth. A very generous corporate gift and matching funds of over $260,000 generated from the state's Public Higher Education Endowment Incentive Program resulted in gifts totaling over one million dollars.

New, retrieved (donors returning to the fund) and increased gifts to the Annual Fund totaled over $200,000.

Front Cover: Friday, September 26, 1997: As the first train arrives in Boston's South Station on the "New Old Colony Line," President Adrian Tinsley, Town of Bridgewater Selectman Jeff Nangle, State Representative Jacqueline Lewis, State Senator Marc Pacheco, and BSC Vice-President for Administration and Finance Dr. Dana Mohler-Faria are there to help celebrate. Regular commuter rail service began Monday, September 29, and for the first time since 1958, when the trains had ceased operation after 112 years, the campus community can ride the rails back and forth to Boston. The Bridgewater station is in the heart of the campus — making BSC the only public college in the state (outside of Mass College of Art in downtown Boston) to have a commuter rail station right on campus.

This is an exciting time for Bridgewater State College and for southeastern Massachusetts. On campus, important developments have taken place that enhance our ability to serve the educational, economic and cultural needs of this region, while in the region itself the population is growing and the economy is robust.

The college has been a vital part of southeastern Massachusetts for 157 years, and an important lesson we have learned is that conditions are always changing. The needs of both the college and the region today are different from what they were before and different from what they will be in the future. In this annual report, my objective is to share with you a sense of where the college is right now, the recent accomplishments of BSC people, and what measures we are taking to prepare the college to meet the needs of southeastern Massachusetts, and the entire Commonwealth, now and in the years to come.

One thing is certain: the need for educated citizens is growing dramatically. That fundamental premise drives all of our efforts at Bridgewater. Much has been achieved in positioning the college to meet fully that responsibility, and credit for that belongs to the entire Bridgewater family — students, faculty and staff, trustees, alumni and parents. These are the people who believe in the college's mission and work tirelessly on its behalf. My thanks and gratitude to all of you who are helping to make Bridgewater's future just as distinguished as its past.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Bridgewater State College opened its doors to 28 students on September 9, 1840. In the 157 years that have since passed, Bridgewater has grown into a comprehensive regional college offering more than 100 undergraduate and graduate liberal arts and professional degree programs. Here is a profile of key statistics:

* Data through July, 1997

Students
- More than 7,000 undergraduate students and 1,400 graduate students are enrolled at Bridgewater.
- Approximately 5,600 are full-time students and 2,800 are part-time students.
- Resident students number nearly 2,000.
- Minority students comprise 8 percent of the total student body, and in recent years efforts to recruit greater numbers of students of color have been successful to the point that 10 percent of the first-time, full-time freshman class students are in this category.

Faculty and Staff
- There are 260 full-time faculty at the college, more than 80 percent of whom hold the doctorate or the highest professional degrees.
- Full-time employees number approximately 700 people.

The Campus
- There are 29 academic and residential buildings on the Bridgewater campus.
- Total land area includes 240 acres. More than 40 acres have been purchased in recent years, assuring the college's physical growth needs well into the next century.
- There are eight residence halls.
- The John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications — one of the nation's finest and most up-to-date educational technology facilities — opened in September, 1995, and is the hub of the college's expanding use of technology in teaching and learning.
- Alumni Park, a new baseball and softball complex, was opened for use in the 1996-1997 academic year. The park was built through a partnership between the college and the Bridgewater State College Foundation. Adjacent fields for soccer and field hockey have all been refurbished by the college in recent years. Together they form an outstanding outdoor athletic complex.

Our Campus as Community — New People, New Programs

One of Bridgewater’s strongest attributes and most valued assets is the sense of community which exists among students, faculty and staff, alumni, parents and friends. The process of building and strengthening that community is ongoing. Selected highlights and examples from the past academic year include:

- Assistant to the President for Affirmative Action and Minority Affairs Appointed: Dr. Alan Comedy, the new assistant to the president for affirmative action and minority affairs, joined the staff on February 1, 1997.

- Campus Climate Action Group: A collaboration among faculty, staff and students, the Campus Climate Action group was established to help promote understanding of differences and appreciation of diversity among members of the campus community, and to facilitate the development of an open, welcoming and supportive environment on campus.

- Honoring 25 Years or More of Service: At Convocation 1996, a new tradition was inaugurated by President Tinsley as more than 90 faculty and administrators who had completed 25 or more years of service to Bridgewater received handsome silver medallions crafted by Professor John Heller of the Department of Art.

- Tenth Annual Hall of Black Achievement Celebration: More than 350 people were in attendance at the Sheraton Hotel in Boston to help

- Recognizing Academic Excellence: Two new traditions were inaugurated during the 1996-1997 academic year to recognize outstanding academic achievement:

  1. The “Awards in Excellence Program” was begun to honor students who were Freshmen Dean’s List students, McNair Scholars, ROSE Scholars, and Who’s Who recipients.

  2. At Spring Commencement, 1997, each student who graduated with academic honors wore a distinctive color honors cord denoting his or her achievements.

- Retirees honored in May: The second annual retirement dinner for faculty and staff was held in May and 18 members of our community were honored for their service to the college.
Serving Southeastern Massachusetts

Bridgewater is the oldest permanently located public college or university in Massachusetts. The college values its connections to the schools, businesses, and public and private agencies and organizations which are helping the region to prosper. In 1996-1997, we initiated a number of new programs to serve southeastern Massachusetts:

- Institute for Regional Development: Dr. Victor DeSantis of the Department of Political Science is the coordinator of this new resource which opened in September, 1996. The Institute represents point-of-entry for the connections we already have — and the connections we anticipate developing — with people, schools, organizations, agencies, and businesses that are part of this region. The Institute also sponsors the Center for Legislative Studies, headed by Dr. George Serra of the Department of Political Science, and the Center for Public School Leadership, headed by Dr. Carl Smith of the Department of Early Childhood and Elementary Education.

- Southeastern Massachusetts Economic Development Forums: Two major conferences on economic development in the region were hosted at Bridgewater in the spring, 1997, by the Southeastern Massachusetts Legislative Caucus, co-chaired by State Senator Marc Pacheco and State Representative Joan Menard.

The first conference, in March, focused on progress made over the last three years on the “Agenda for Southeastern Massachusetts,” a set of goals and objectives established when the caucus met at Bridgewater in May, 1994. U.S. Congressman Barney Frank was among the participants.

The second conference, in June, focused on setting new goals and objectives for the region. Both conferences were well attended by legislators, business and education leaders, and public officials from a number of regional agencies.

- Political debates at BSC: In cooperation with the region’s major daily newspaper, The Enterprise, the college sponsored two political debates last fall at the John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications. In the first debate, U.S. Congressman Barney Frank debated his opponent, John Raymond. The second debate featured Plymouth County District Attorney Michael Sullivan and his challenger, John Buckley.

- BSC Receives “Spirit of Cooperation” Award: In fall, 1996, the Bristol County Convention Visitors’ Bureau awarded its “Spirit of Cooperation” to the college’s Southeastern Massachusetts Atlantic Canada Association (SEMACA). Founded in 1993 by Professor Anthony Cicerone of the Department of Economics, SEMACA provides elected officials and business leaders from southeastern Massachusetts and Atlantic Canada cities the opportunity to meet and explore business opportunities.
Academic Highlights

A number of initiatives were undertaken during the 1996-1997 academic year to help the college strengthen and expand academic programs and services:

- School of Management and Aviation Science Established: The Board of Trustees, on September 26, 1996, accepted the recommendation that a School of Management and Aviation Science be established, effective with the opening of the 1997-1998 academic year. The School of Arts and Sciences and the School of Education and Allied Studies had been established four years earlier. In January, 1997, the Department of Management Science and Aviation Science was separated into three academic departments: Management Science, Finance and Accounting, and Aviation Science.

- New Faculty Appointed: 32 new faculty members were appointed for the 1997-1998 academic year, 21 to tenure-track positions, including 14 faculty in the School of Arts and Sciences, 6 in the School of Education and Allied Studies and 1 in the new School of Management and Aviation Science.

- Master of Public Administration Program: The college's new MPA program admitted its first class of 10 students in September, 1996. The first graduating class is expected in May, 1998.

- Grants for Educational Reform: During the 1996-1997 academic year the college continued to secure grants for educational reform initiatives. A grant for $280,000 for mathematics and science education was received to support the activities of the PALMS (Partnerships Advancing the Learning of Mathematics and Science) collaborative, a partnership between the college and K-12 schools in southeastern Massachusetts.

- Teacher Technology Center Established: The college received a $187,000 grant from the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education to establish the Teacher Technology Center in the Moakley Center, which opened in the summer of 1997. The center provides technologies, support services, and a location for pre-service and in-service P-12 teachers and college faculty to preview, test, design and develop multimedia instructional materials.

- Dr. Kerry Kerber Appointed Dean of Continuing Education: Dr. Kerry Kerber was appointed dean of continuing education and joined the staff on August 1, 1997. As dean, he will lead the effort to extend the college's outreach to the greater southeastern Massachusetts community through expanded offerings of credit and non-credit educational opportunities. Dr. Kerber was most recently assistant dean for public service and outreach at Western Illinois University.

- Dr. Howard London, Dean of Arts and Sciences: In June, 1996, the Trustees appointed Dr. Howard London dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. Dr. London has been a member of the college faculty for twenty years and is the recipient of a major Ford Foundation grant.

- Dr. Laurence Richards Appointed Dean, School of Management and Aviation Science: Dr. Laurence Richards, the founding dean of the School of Management and Aviation Science, joined the staff on July 1, 1997. Dr. Richards comes to Bridgewater from the position of chair of the department of engineering management at Old Dominion University in Virginia.

- Dr. Mary Lou Thornburg Appointed Acting Dean, School of Education and Allied Studies: Effective July 1, 1997, Dr. Mary Lou Thornburg was appointed acting dean of the School of Education and Allied Studies while a national search is conducted for that position. Dr. Thornburg served for more than thirty years as a member of the college faculty.

- Dr. Frances Jeffries Appointed Director of Grants and Sponsored Projects: Effective August 1, 1997, Dr. Frances Jeffries began her duties as director of grants and sponsored projects. Dr. Jeffries came to Bridgewater from the California State University at Stanislaus.

- Dr. George Weygand Named “Science Educator of the Year”: Dr. George Weygand of the Department of Physics was named the state’s “Science Educator of the Year” by the Massachusetts Association of Science Teachers. Dr. Weygand has been a member of the college’s faculty for nearly forty years.

- RiverNet Watershed Access Laboratory and Teacher Development Center Established: On March 3, 1997, U.S. Congressman Joseph Moakley was present for the unveiling of the new RiverNet Watershed Access Laboratory and Teacher Development Center, which is housed in the John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications. Through this resource, teachers from school districts throughout southeastern Massachusetts will receive training in current technologies used to study water quality. Dr. Kevin Curry of the Department of Biological Sciences submitted a proposal which resulted in a $100,000 grant from the Raytheon Company for this program.

- Academic Achievement Center: The college approved the framework for the reorganization of the current Advising Center into an Academic Achievement Center at Bridgewater. Planning continues and a national search for a director will be conducted in the 1997-1998 academic year.

Technology: A Key Component of Bridgewater’s Future

The opening of the John Joseph Moakley Center for Technological Applications in 1995 and the subsequent networking of all academic buildings and student residence halls for voice, video and data transmission have given Bridgewater an extremely strong technology base. Faculty, staff and student use of the college’s technology resources is continually expanding, and the impact of those resources to enhance teaching, learning and communication within the community grows ever more significant. The following developments occurred in 1996-1997:

- Chief Information Officer Appointed: Mr. Bill Davis was appointed chief information officer after a national search and began his duties on March 1, 1997. Mr. Davis came to Bridgewater from the State University of New York, College at Geneseo.

- Technology Resources: More than 1,200 computers were in place and operational during the 1996-1997 academic year. The college has twelve multimedia-ready classrooms.

- College Web Site: The college’s page on the World Wide Web went on-line in September, 1996. Visit us at www.bridgew.edu to learn the latest news of activities and events at the college.

- Fiber-Optic Cable: A fiber-optic link has been installed by the MBTA for the college from the campus to Boston. This enables BSC to have a direct fiber link to Boston and ultimately to institutions, schools, and organizations throughout the country.

- President Tinsley Appointed to Technology Boards: President Tinsley was appointed by Governor Weld as the public higher education representative to the Massachusetts Technology Collaborative. She also works with the New England Board of Higher Education on its initiatives in telecommunications and distance learning.
Annual Report

Student Development

- Financial Aid:
  - Almost 60 percent of our undergraduate students (4,481) received financial aid in 1996-1997.
  - Total aid from all sources — scholarships and grants, loans and work study — amounted to $19.6 million dollars, an increase of $1 million over the previous academic year.
  - During the last five years, the percentage of aid in the form of loans has increased from 44 percent to 63 percent.
  - Loan volume has increased by 150 percent during the past five years. Borrowing by students has more than doubled, while the volume of non-need based loans has tripled.

- CareerNet Successful: The Career Services Office, in cooperation with the Alumni Office, has enlisted the cooperation of 600 alumni who help Bridgewater students explore career options.

- Office of Multicultural Affairs: In 1996 the Office of Multicultural Affairs was established to develop programs of interest to students from diverse ethnic and racial backgrounds and the community at large. The office also provides academic advising and leadership training for the students who are members of the African-American Society, the Cape Verdean Student Association and La Sociedad Latina.

- LEAD Program: Established as a collaboration with the Brockton Public Schools and sponsored by a grant from the Massachusetts Educational Opportunity Program, LEAD provides high school students with academic year and summer enrichment programs, giving priority to students of color.

- Mentors in Violence Program: A project designed to make "a positive change in the way that men view violence toward women" has been initiated at Bridgewater. "Mentors in Violence" enlists college student athletes in a coordinated effort to increase rape awareness and reduce sexual violence against women. Staff in the college's counseling center and athletics department are responsible for the new program.

- Student Services Summit Held at BSC: The Massachusetts Board of Higher Education chose Bridgewater as the site for its Student Services Summit in March, 1997. More than 250 administrators and students from 13 campuses of the Massachusetts public higher education system attended workshops on improving services to students.

- Dr. Lynn Willett Elected President of National Student Affairs Organization: Dr. Lynn Willett, vice president for student affairs, was elected president of the American College Personnel Association. She was installed as president at the association’s annual national convention held in Chicago. The organization includes more than 7,000 members.

- Baseball Team in College World Series: BSC’s varsity baseball team finished the 1997 season with 29 wins, 11 losses, and 1 tie mark, and the team won both the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference Championship and the Mid-Atlantic Regional Championship. For the second year in a row, the team was invited to play in the Division III NCAA College World Series in Salem, Virginia. The Bridgewater team finished eighth in the nation.
Financial Data

The college's operating budget has seen a steady increase in recent years. For example, FY 1997 saw an increase in state appropriations from the previous fiscal year of approximately $1.6 million, while total revenues from all sources increased by $2.3 million.

Bridgewater State College's unadjusted revenues and expenditures for the 1996-1997 academic year are represented in the charts below:

$79,322,583 Unadjusted Revenues

- Government Grants and Contracts: $17,907,847
- State Appropriations: $31,893,418
- Private Grants & Gifts: $440,391
- Auxiliary Enterprises: $7,772,485
- Other: $1,257,862
- Local Tuition/Fees: $20,050,580
- Other: $1,257,862

$79,322,583 Unadjusted Expenditures

- Operation, Maintenance of Plant: $7,581,454
- Scholarships & Fellowships: $18,436,858
- Auxiliary Enterprises: $8,319,526
- Instruction: $23,053,625
- Institutional Support: $7,395,420
- Student Services: $7,013,086
- Academic Support: $7,522,614

Facilities

In addition to regular construction and maintenance projects, the coming of the MBTA to Bridgewater—with the train station for Bridgewater located in the heart of the campus—has resulted in major changes to the physical plant. Among the most significant developments in the facilities area:

- Footbridge Goes; Passageway Built: In June, 1997, the footbridge over the railroad tracks which separate east and west campus was removed, and a pedestrian passageway was completed in July. This million dollar renovation funded by the MBTA means the two halves of the campus are connected for the first time in the college's history.

- New Parking Lot, Great Hill Drive: The MBTA completed a new parking lot on Spring Street to accommodate 560 cars and a new access road to the Great Hill parking lot opened this fall, providing entrance and exit to Route 104.

- Boyden Hall Tower Repaired: The college's most recognizable symbol—the bell tower atop Boyden Hall—was removed prior to 1997 Commencement, repaired and reinstalled in July, 1997.

- Elevator Installed: An elevator was installed in Harrington Hall, making that building accessible to the handicapped.
Stewardship

In this economic climate, where private funds must provide the ‘margin for excellence’ for public colleges and universities as they traditionally have for private institutions, building the college’s Annual Fund and its endowment are crucial. Key developments include:

- Annual Giving: Last year was an extraordinary year for gifts to Bridgewater. Unrestricted annual giving reached $317,426 while another $165,215 came in from restricted and endowed gifts. Special corporate gifts brought total giving for the year to $882,651. In addition, the college qualified for more than $260,000 in state matching funds (see chart). Total gift income for the year exceeded one million dollars, the highest single year total in the college’s history.

- Public Higher Education Endowment Incentive Program: The state legislature authorized this program to help provide incentives to encourage private giving to its public colleges and universities. Through a match of one dollar for every two dollars in private donations, Bridgewater received more than $260,000 through this program. The matching program has been continued in 1997-1998.

- Other Gifts to the College: Bequests and life income gifts are increasingly important to the college. A full range of planned and deferred gift programs are available.

Total Gifts by Designation, 1996-1997

- Match Received from State $261,444
- Corporate Gifts $400,000
- Endowment Gifts $45,957
- Restricted Annual Gifts $119,258
- Unrestricted Annual Gifts $317,436
- Total Giving $1,144,095

Chairmen’s Dinner: The fourth annual Chairmen’s Dinner was held on May 3, 1997, co-hosted by Mr. Eugene Durgin, chairman of the college’s Board of Trustees, and Mr. Louis Ricciardi, ‘81, chairman of the Bridgewater State College Foundation. Raytheon Company was honored for its $100,000 support of the RiverNet Watershed Laboratory and Teacher Development Center.
Conclusion

For those of us in higher education — especially in public higher education — these are immensely exciting and challenging times.

In the years ahead, as the population of southeastern Massachusetts grows, we can expect increasing numbers of students to seek the educational opportunities available to them here. Providing those students with a first-rate educational experience at an affordable cost is fundamental to Bridgewater’s mission as a regional public college.

At the same time, by offering a range of quality academic programs and investing in educational technology, Bridgewater will continue to help encourage economic development in this region. We plan to expand our outreach as we continue to serve our students and the people of southeastern Massachusetts.

As this report demonstrates, Bridgewater State College took a number of significant steps in the 1996-1997 academic year to strengthen itself for the opportunities and challenges that are ahead. Bridgewater has grown into a dynamic, multifaceted institution of higher learning with an impact that reaches people, institutions, and businesses far beyond the campus itself.

I am proud of the accomplishments of our faculty and staff, I have confidence in the talent and ability of our students, and I am grateful to all of our alumni and friends who support Bridgewater. This report is testimony to the success of your efforts.

The Nicholas P. Tillinghast Award for Outstanding Leadership and Professional Achievement in the Field of Public Higher Education

Robert C. Jones

Robert “Bob” Jones has enjoyed a life-long career in the Brockton Public School system. He began as a science teacher in the junior high school, became an assistant principal, and worked in the administrative services department for 24 years before being appointed superintendent of schools in 1995.

Responsible for the educational leadership and systemwide management of the Brockton Public Schools, Bob has myriad achievements. Among recent accomplishments are the School Committee/Administrative Team review of the policy manual and the completion of a school strategic plan. In addition, he provided leadership for acceptance by the State Board of Education for the long-range voluntary desegregation and educational equity plan for the system, including plans for two new schools. As interim superintendent Bob spearheaded the implementation of Educational Reform efforts in Teacher Certification and was instrumental in revising the approach to hiring minority candidates in teaching, administrative, and support positions.

A graduate of the Brockton Public Schools system, Bob received an undergraduate degree from Tufts University and a master’s degree in guidance/psychology in 1960 from Bridgewater State College. He is a member of the Mass. Association of School Superintendents and the NAACP Local Chapter and a recipient of the 1996 Outstanding Educational Leader Award from MY TURN, Inc.

The Dr. Adrian Rondileau Award for Professional Achievement and Community Service

Joan Hickey Menard ’67

Joan Hickey Menard received a bachelor’s degree in education in 1967 and a master of education degree in 1971 from Bridgewater State College. She worked as an elementary school teacher from 1967-1974 and served as Director of Special Education for the Town of Somerset from 1974-1978, before first being elected to the State Legislature in 1979.

She has since been re-elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives from the 5th Bristol District many times and is presently serving her 10th term in office. Joan is Vice Chair of the House Committee on Election Laws.

When House Speaker Thomas McGee appointed her Majority Whip in 1984, Joan became the first woman to ever serve in a leadership position in the House. In 1993, she reached another milestone when she became the first woman to be elected chairperson of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee. Joan recently was reelected to a second term in that important position.

Her professional affiliations include the League of Women Voters, the National Organization for Women, and the Massachusetts Women’s Legislative Caucus. In addition, she has been a volunteer for the college’s Women’s Institute Day, and currently serves on the Board of Directors of both the Fall River Five Cents Savings Bank and Steppingstone, Inc., a Fall River alcohol rehabilitation facility.

no issue or student concern that is insignificant to her. If it is important to students, it is important to Dorie.”

Tradition Makes Innovation Possible at Bridgewater State College

Bringing together the old and the new, tradition and innovation, Bridgewater State College is pleased to mark the return of the commuter rail to campus. Symbolizing a new era of campus unity, a state-of-the-art passageway, positioned under the rails, now links Boyden, Tillinghast and Woodward Halls with the newer buildings of the Great Hill campus.

The rails, long in place, have not brought students to campus since 1958 when coeds were sporting poodle skirts and a new Thunderbird was the envy of all. Returning to the tradition of greater campus accessibility, Bridgewater will be home to a geographically diverse student population drawn to an institution renowned for academic excellence and the quality of its graduates.

Many alumni and friends of the college can remember days past, when the sounds of the train passing through campus were as reliable as words of advice from Miss Pope, dean of women. Others, whose memories are more recent, will recall the drudgery of climbing the stairs of the footbridge. Bridgewater State College, today, comprises the experiences and contributions of both eras.

Yesterday’s traditions shape tomorrow’s innovations. Join the college in celebrating the return of the train to campus.

Yesterday’s gifts gave us the Bridgewater State College of today.

Support the 1997-‘98 Annual Fund and create the Bridgewater State College of tomorrow.

Your support is more important than ever. As students from throughout the state are attracted by the breadth and quality of the academic programs here, by the beauty and charm of Bridgewater’s rural campus, and by the ease with which they can commute, the college will need to meet the challenge of providing a superior academic experience. You can help.

Gifts to the Annual Fund support student financial assistance, faculty development, curriculum and library resources, buildings and grounds maintenance and other operating expenses. More importantly, your gift to the annual fund supports public education. While much about the college has changed through the years, including the train’s presence on campus, the mission of Bridgewater has remained focused on keeping an education within the financial reach of all who seek one.

Please help Bridgewater State College fulfill its mission by making your gift to the 1997-‘98 Annual Fund today.

An envelope is enclosed for your convenience.
Boyden Hall tower was refurbished during the spring and summer of 1997.
