8 PM - Rondileau Campus Center Auditorium
The clash of opposing cultures spells tragedy for a young girl when she becomes trapped between two worlds. Cio-Cio-San, a shy Japanese geisha of fifteen, renounces family and religion to become the bride of an American Naval Lieutenant, Benjamin Franklin Pinkerton. Known to everyone as Butterfly, this gentle creature clings steadfastly to her faith in Pinkerton throughout his ensuing three-year absence, only to find that he has taken an American woman as his real wife. Shunned by her own people and rejected by her husband, Butterfly takes the only honorable path left open to her: she ends her life. Composer is Giacomo Puccini.

The Bridgewater Alumni Association seeks nominations for its annual awards, to be presented Alumni Weekend. We would appreciate it if you would attach supporting materials.

The Bridgewater Alumni Award for Outstanding Service to the Alumni Association is given to an individual whose qualifications include the ability to build understanding and awareness through involvement, leadership that fosters a caring community, and programs that promote strategies for drawing others into a network of cooperation.

The Dr. Catherine Comeau Award for Outstanding Professional Achievement is presented to a graduate of the college's Department of Movement Arts, Health Promotion, and Leisure Studies. The recipient will be a graduate of at least five years and be an influential role model in the field.

The Dr. V. James DiNardo Award for Excellence in Teaching is presented to a member of the faculty whose contributions include mastery of subject matter, enthusiastic teaching style, and personal attention to the students.

The Adrian Rondileau Award for Professional Achievement and Community Service was established to recognize an alumna/alumnus who demonstrates the qualities most valued by Dr. Rondileau, the eighth president of the college. The recipient must demonstrate exceptional service to the community, resulting in improvement of the quality of the community's life.

The Nicholas P. Tillinghast Award for Achievement in the Field of Education was named in honor of the college's first president. The award is given to an alumna/alumnus who demonstrates qualities of outstanding leadership, excellence in performance, and personal achievement in the field of public education.

Dear Alumni and Friends,

On Friday, September 25, 1998, I had the opportunity to address the class of 1999 at fall convocation exercises officially opening the new academic year. I would like to share highlights of those remarks with you because the subject matter is, I believe, of interest to alumni, parents and friends of Bridgewater.

The following are excerpts of my remarks:

Convocation is probably the best opportunity we have in any year to reflect on where we’ve been as an institution, where we are right now and where we appear to be heading. I say that because this is the one occasion when we recognize our seniors as they enter their final year of college, when we invite back an outstanding graduate to speak to the seniors through the Convocation address — in this case Mr. Charles Nechtem, class of 1976, and where we honor those faculty and professional staff who have dedicated 25 years of service to this college.

Those who’ve spent the last quarter-century of their lives here know full well where we’ve been as an institution because they’ve each lived through the enormous number of changes the college has gone through in that time span. I’m sure also that our Convocation speaker, Chuck Nechtem, was surprised to see how different Bridgewater is today than it was when he was a student graduating from here in 1976, back before there was a Moakley Center, or a Student Apartment complex, or a Miles or DiNardo Hall, back before there was a campus bus service or escort vans, back before there was a major in management science or aviation science, or economics or music.

But where Bridgewater is right now, and where we think Bridgewater is heading, those are issues we can all relate to, and I believe with all my heart that as fast and as much as we’ve changed in the past several decades, the pace of change will, I’m convinced, pale in comparison to what we will see at Bridgewater in the years immediately ahead.

Academically, our faculty and staff are working to continue to strengthen the college’s curriculum. At the same time, the state’s Board of Higher Education is — as you’ve no doubt read in the newspapers — working to make Bridgewater and its sister state colleges much more difficult to get into by significantly raising the standards for admission. But Bridgewater will also be a more challenging place to get out of as well. In fact, for you who are seniors, you may be among the last classes here NOT to have to prove your general literacy skills in order to graduate.

The tightening of academic standards is already having an effect at Bridgewater. This fall, we denied admission to seventeen percent more applicants than we did a year ago, and I predict to you that that number is going to rise higher year-by-year.

I for one can understand why Bridgewater is so attractive to students and families considering colleges. We have an outstanding faculty and staff, top-notch technology resources, an affordable cost, a beautiful campus, and a great location in the fastest-growing region, population-wise, in the entire Northeastern United States. But we also have something else in our favor, and that is ambitious plans for the future. This is where the pace of change that I referred to a moment ago is really going to be most visible and evident.

We are in the process of either working on or planning for a brand new $16 million dollar field house, a new 300-bed residence hall, a 700-seat dining facility, and a Campus Center Courtyard project that will turn the area behind the Campus Center into Bridgewater State College’s own public garden. Early next month we will open a new home in property purchased for us by the Bridgewater Foundation that will house the Department of Political Science, the Institute for Regional Development, and the Center for Legislative Studies. Meanwhile, major construction work to renovate completely Harrington Hall and Boyden Hall will commence within a year.

Take all of these changes together — the academic changes, new investments in technology we’re planning, and the construction projects I’ve discussed — and it’s clear we are in the midst of a period when this campus is being literally transformed in a number of very important ways. As the reputation and prestige of this college continue to grow, so too will the pride you feel — the pride we all feel — in our affiliation with Bridgewater, and so too will grow the value of the Bridgewater degrees that you, our seniors, will earn from this institution.

The above comments, though directed at the class of 1999, summarize why I am so enthusiastic and optimistic about the future of this college. These are indeed very challenging but very exciting years for Bridgewater.

Sincerely,

Adrian Tinsley

BSC Community Enjoys its MBTA Advantage

By Paul E. Kandarian

Boston drivers are insane. And who better to judge motorist sanity than a sociologist?

"I do a lot of driving, a lot, around 25,000 miles a year," says Robert Goldstein, a visiting lecturer in sociology at Bridgewater State College. "And I know Boston driving behavior, so I'd much rather do this than deal with that."

This would be taking the T to Boston, which for the first time in 40 years, is happening again on the South Shore and has been an available option for the BSC community since late last year. Professor Goldstein was taking the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) train to the capital city one late summer day with a colleague, Orlando Olivares, an assistant professor of psychology at BSC, who pretty much agrees with Professor Goldstein's assessment of the mess that is vehicular Boston.

"I'm from northern California" where train travel is more prevalent, Dr. Olivares says. "I like trains, they sound pleasant, it's a relaxing way to travel. It does beat driving in Boston."

"People cut you off, they flip you off, it's a madhouse," Professor Goldstein says. "No rules apply, all rules are broken."

In that regard alone, many feel the new commuter rail service and station in Bridgewater will be a godsend. Getting the train, which is part of the MBTA's restored Old Colony line, was a long, careful process, according to Dr. Dana Mohler-Faria, vice president of administration and finance at BSC, who was the chief negotiator for the college in dealing with the MBTA.

"There was an original agreement as far back as the mid-1980s to locate a station on campus," Dr. Mohler-Faria says. "When we began to negotiate three or four years ago, we'd talked about using the old train station off campus or locating one here."

Out with the old and in with the new was the prevailing thought, although the old train station has survived in a far different incarnation: It is now a Burger King. BSC officials and the MBTA agreed the site of the new station would be on the growing east side of campus, across from the Moakley Center.

“First and foremost we wanted a train station that would fit the campus and campus culture, one that would not disrupt student life or the educational process,” Dr. Mohler-Faria said. “We feel we have that.”

It took more than three years to iron out the deal with the MBTA, a state agency that was having more than its share of trouble locally with towns fighting the location of train stations within their borders. That didn’t happen in Bridgewater, on the college or local government levels, officials said.

“There were some tough moments, it was an intense and long negotiation,” Dr. Mohler-Faria says. “But both sides wanted something that would work for everyone, we had the same bottom line, the same interest.”

The project, which included creating an underpass from the campus side of the tracks to the station on the other side, development of a 500-car parking lot and building a new access road on the east campus, cost nearly $7 million, a financial obligation that was solely the MBTA’s.

Regular commuter service began in Bridgewater late last fall, for the first time since 1958 when after 112 years of operation, trains stopped running in the area. MBTA officials say that BSC is only the second public college in the state to have commuter rail at its doorstep (the other is the Massachusetts College of Art in Boston).

The station opened last fall, but didn’t open to full-time use until December, Dr. Mohler-Faria says. Student usage was not that high last year because service didn’t come until the middle of the school year.

Besides the train itself, students exiting the MBTA commuter rail cars from Boston must be the fastest things on campus on any given morning.

Leigh McConnell, a senior English major from Weymouth, bolts down the ramp from the Old Colony platform on her way to school, timing her arrival time to within five minutes of her first class of the day, not an unusual occurrence for students or working commuters. While she likes the ease of riding a train to school, Ms. McConnell says taking to the tracks is also a matter of brotherly love.

“I share a car with my brother,” she says with a shrug before quickly descending into the underpass that connects the commuter rail parking lot with the main campus. “And I can’t afford to get another car, so I take the train. It’s convenient.”

Shaleeka Rogers, a political science freshman, has to take two trains to get to Bridgewater from Needham. As much of a pain as that can be sometime, it beats driving, she says.

“I may drive sometime, but this is easier,” Ms. Rogers says.

The location of a commuter train station at BSC wasn’t a prime consideration in picking a school, but it helped.

“I wanted to go to college and found out the train went by here,” she says. “So I went here.”

Aubrey Algar of Quincy, a senior communications major at BSC, had automotive concerns in making her decision to ride the train to school.

“My car wouldn’t make it here,” she says. “And besides, you don’t deal with parking this way.” One gripe she has is the cost: $112 a month. The college is trying to work out hooking up with the MBTA’s semester pass program, which offers a discount for buying a pass for an entire semester. For Ms. Algar, it’s not worth it.

“It’s too expensive, they make you buy a whole semester for what, 11 percent off?” she says. “You still have to spend $400 all at once.”

All in all, however, riding the rails to and from school works, she said.

“I started using it last year, when it first opened,” Ms. Algar says. “So yeah, it’s a pretty good thing.”
"We’ve had a marked increase in the number of inquiries about the train, and suspect we’ll see a dramatic increase in usage," he says.

No numbers exist as to the number of students using the train, according to the MBTA, because the college is not part of the MBTA's semester pass program, in which students buy rail tickets at a discount. Why BSC is not in the program is a point of continuing dispute between the college and the MBTA.

Dr. Mohler-Faria and T officials say they will work to resolve the pass program dispute as quickly as possible, hopefully in time for the spring semester. If the college were part of the pass program, T officials said students could get a four-month pass for $400, an 11-percent discount off the regular rate.

Whatever the numbers of BSC students riding the rails, it should be on the rise. Of the college's enrollment last year of nearly 9,000 students, 96.2 percent were in-state residents, both undergraduate and graduate students, officials said. According to Dwight Cook, associate director of admissions, that bodes well for train usage.

"Last year, I noticed a lot of students riding the train and doing their homework on the ride," Mr. Cook says. "Some might have viewed the train initially as down time and mindless, but a lot use it productively."

Mr. Cook says for students without "the luxury of a car, this is a tremendous asset. We see it as a key to opening us up for students from the inner city in Boston to come here. Typically, they tend to stay within the urban setting, not wanting to look further afield for an education. With the train, there's lots more opportunity."

Average train ridership at Bridgewater is 565 on weekdays, MBTA officials say. The projected ridership by 2000 for the entire line, which originates in Middleboro, is 5,000 a year; it now stands at around 2,800. A chunk of those numbers should be BSC students - and the occasional professor.

"This is a beautiful facility, a great train," Professor Goldstein says. "When it comes to taking the rail into Boston, this is the upper crust of the T."

John "Lenny" McLean, '90, A Master of Priorities
by Paul E. Kandarian

John "Lenny" McLean's life has been about setting priorities.

As a probation officer in Framingham District Court, Mr. McLean (class of '90), sets priorities for others, making sure that his clients who are trying to make it show up for their jobs, come to probation meetings, and generally toe society's line.

And in his own life as a student at Bridgewater State College, Mr. McLean had to set some harsh priorities for himself. In his first year, Mr. McLean was pulled in a variety of directions and found himself teetering on the academic edge as a result.

"I was too involved in too many things," says Mr. McLean, 32, a Somerville resident now and a native of Brockton. "I nearly flunked out my first year because I switched majors, was in a band, was working two part-time jobs, I had college work study going. Something had to fall."

It was nearly Mr. McLean. On the verge of dropping out of school, he dropped out of the band, one of the major passions of his life.

"It was the hardest decision to make, but I had to," he says. "I stayed with my industrial psychology major after switching from business, and got just one job. I stayed with it, and BSC gave me a second chance."

Admitting he wasn’t a top student, Mr. McLean says with a laugh when asked what his GPA was on graduating, "Uh, let’s just say 2-point-something."

Beyond grades, Mr. McLean says his BSC education laid the foundation for the work he does now.

"When I first got out of school, I worked as a counselor for four years for the Department of Corrections, then left that to become a probation officer," Mr. McLean says, adding that the psychology studies at BSC taught him "how to deal with people, all people of all cultural and economic backgrounds. You see them all in probation."

The band that Mr. McLean was forced to abandon didn’t stay abandoned long. He put it back together a few years ago, a jazz band that goes by the name "On Kee" that has played at the House of Blues a few times, opened for acts in Providence clubs, and done the wedding circuit. Mr. McLean’s the man on keyboard.

"It was always a dream of mine to have a band, and do the kind of work I’m doing," he said. "Now I’ve got both."

Another dream is to give back to other black students at BSC what he got out of it: A solid education. Mr. McLean is president of the Afro-American Alumni Association, a group tall in pride, short in numbers.

"Realistically, we have only about 10 members, and of that, only two or three of us show up for meetings," Mr. McLean says. "We want to get those numbers up."

Because of his hard times at BSC and the college giving him a second shot, Mr. McLean says he owes education something.

Good things come to those who wait. And wait. And wait.

Stephen Sheppard waited for nine years to get his degree from Bridgewater State College, where he was an English major for ... well, a good long time. Granted, the wait was by his own slow hand, but he waited nonetheless.

"I went to UMass Boston one semester in '71, and then I came to BSC, left, came back, left, came back ... " Mr. Sheppard says, adding with a laugh that after finally earning his degree in 1980 and leaving the BSC fold, "the registrar's office couldn't wait to get rid of me."

Mr. Sheppard, class of '80, is editor of Nantucket Magazine, a publication for which he had been freelancing since it began 10 years ago. He has spent most of his adult working life in the writing business, including several years as assistant editor and sports editor at the Inquirer and Mirror on Nantucket, and a stint at the Patriot-Ledger of Quincy.

It had always been Mr. Sheppard’s dream to write, he says, and he got his career in gear at BSC.

"I wrote for the former Hard Times newspaper, the underground campus rag, and also wrote for the literary magazine, which in my time was called Bottom Knots," Mr. Sheppard says, doing straight reporting for the former, short stories and poetry for the latter.

His education at BSC was an “absolute help” to his career, Mr. Sheppard says.

"Because of the size of the school, I was able to have a more personal relationship with my English professors,” he says. “I think professors at BSC are among the best in New England. I had teachers like Don Johnson and Charlie Fanning who nurtured my writing a great deal and encouraged me.”

Mr. Sheppard has also written a book, which awaits acceptance by a publisher: The Great Brockton Novel.

Mr. Sheppard, 45, is a Brockton native.

While most college students count their time on campus as the most important of their academic lives, for Mr. Sheppard, off-campus life was equally if not more significant. Working as manager of the former Bookland bookstore at Campus Plaza on Route 18, he met Karen Ganga, class of ‘79. They married seven years later.

"Funny thing, she was an early childhood education major at BSC and she hasn’t used that degree for one day, she never went into teaching," Mr. Sheppard says. "But actually, she does utilize what she learned in helping to raise our children," Blaise, 12, and Liesel, 10.

What adds to the twist is that it’s Mr. Sheppard who finds himself teaching these days: He’s the full-time substitute teacher at Nantucket Elementary School, “thanks to liberal arts,” he laughs.

His wife, a Nantucket native, is a professional weaver, doing handweaving of such items as blankets, tweeds, rugs and fabrics for Nantucket Looms, some of the company’s design, some of her own. She and her work were once featured on a national TV show, "Home Matters," hosted by Robin Young, and in addition, she bottles (continued on page 8) numbers of them not graduating are something no one talks about," Mr. McLean says. "We need to do something about that."

Toward that end, Mr. McLean is also involved with current black students on campus, meeting with the Afro-American Society every Monday when school is in session.

"You have to work with the kids, get them to stay in school," he says. "If we can support them and let them know we're here for them, let them know we know the issues that might make them want to drop out of school and guide them, work with them on those issues, we can help. We can't change it for everyone, but they need to know this avenue is there for them if they need it."

It's all about priorities, Mr. McLean says, stressing what's important, weeding out the rest.

"It's tough when the numbers aren't great," Mr. McLean says in reference to minorities graduating, "but the goal, that is great."

her own salad dressing, "Karen's Eat Your Greens Dressing," sold exclusively on the resort island.

"You know what's weird? I took a weaving course at BSC, and Karen ends up being the weaver," Mr. Sheppard says.

Mr. Sheppard has another artistic side to him, the start of which can also be traced back to his tenure as manager of Bookland.

"I met Dave Poland at the store, he was a musician, I was a musician," Mr. Sheppard says. "I had been playing at the coffeehouse on campus, and later Dave and I hooked up again."

They play on Nantucket now in The Dave Poland Trio, with Mr. Sheppard on guitar and vocals. Mr. Poland lives on Dean Street in Bridgewater, and commutes to Nantucket for the gigs in local clubs and pubs. The band plays "an eclectic mix of folk, Celtic, original music," Mr. Sheppard says.

Mr. Sheppard also plays on his own, doing sea shanties aboard the Endeavor, a Friendship sloop in Nantucket.

Mr. Sheppard counts his years in those on-and-off times at BSC as some of the best of his life, saying "I think I got as good an education there as I could have gotten anywhere else."

But as to continuing that education that took nine years to complete, perhaps in a graduate program, Mr. Sheppard laughs at the thought.

"Uh, no," he says. "I think after all the time I spent there the first time, they probably wouldn't let me back in."

Very soon, the Department of Political Science faculty will become closer, the Institute for Regional Development will have a home to call its own and Professor Victor DeSantis won't have to beg office space from colleagues when conducting telephone polls.

All of these minor miracles, brought about by the purchase of a house on Summer Street, are the most recent achievement of the partnership between Bridgewater State College and the BSC Foundation.

The 180 Summer St. property, located on the corner opposite Scott Hall and two doors away from the Davis Alumni Center, will be the new headquarters for the political science department. The facility will also house the Institute for Regional Development, which has not had a physical location since its establishment in 1996.

The department is expected to move into its new home during the fall semester.

Dr. Richard Cost, vice president for institutional advancement and executive director of the BSC Foundation, said the property was always viewed as a potential addition to the college because of its location on the campus perimeter. When the property went up for sale last fall, the foundation, a private fund-raising entity, ascertained that the college did have a need for it and then negotiated with the seller and purchased the facility.

Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Ann Lydecker said the political science department's needs were a perfect match with the newly acquired building. Currently located in Tillinghast Hall, the political science department has no meeting space of its own to accommodate events held by the Institute for Regional Development, a problem that the new building will remedy.

The political science department also happened to be just the right size to fill the office space available at the new building. The office space they're leaving behind in Tillinghast Hall will quickly be filled by faculty from other parts of the campus who are sorely in need of office space, Dr. Lydecker said.

The political science department was thrilled to learn it would be moving to the new building. Michael Kryzanek, chairperson of the political science department, said the move should bring faculty members closer together - literally. While political science professors were scattered about in Tillinghast, they will be in much closer proximity to each other at 180 Summer St.:

"I think it'll give us a little bit more visibility and a sense of homeness," Dr. Kryzanek said.

For the Institute for Regional Development, that sense of "homeness" is especially important.

"It gives us a visible, central place on campus where we can bring people together, run our programs and really enhance the mission of the college and the institute," said Dr. DeSantis, an associate professor in political science and director of the institute.

In addition to a conference room that can hold up to 30 people, the new headquarters will feature a phone bank, making it easier for the institute to conduct political polls. In the past, such polling required that Dr. DeSantis ask his colleagues at Tillinghast Hall for access to their offices - and phones - during the evening. The phone bank will eliminate that problem not only for the institute, but also for any other campus department that needs phones for polling or other purposes. For example, the development office will use the facility for the annual phonathon.

"The polling center will be a college-wide resource," Dr. DeSantis said.

And by providing meeting space for community outreach programs, the property will be a region-wide resource as well.

"It will be a visible, central place on campus where we can bring people together, run programs and really enhance the mission of the college and the institute," Dr. DeSantis said.

Director of Admissions Appointed at BSC

Steven P. King of Bridgewater has been appointed director of admissions at Bridgewater State College. He began his new assignment June 1.

"I am looking forward to introducing prospective students to the exciting programs Bridgewater has to offer," said Mr. King. "I will work to make sure they receive the same warm welcome I have enjoyed."

Mr. King comes to BSC from the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga where he served as associate director of admissions for almost eight years. He was responsible for the daily operations of the undergraduate admissions office, including new student recruitment, staff supervision and training, maintenance of computer database, and application processing.

He holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville and a master's degree in guidance and counseling from the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Academic Achievement Center Welcomes New Director

By Julie Santos Reardon, '91

Signs on the second floor of the Maxwell Library this summer read "Welcome Peggy Smith."

They might also have read "Welcome Academic Achievement Center," since that is the newly created entity of which Dr. Smith has been named director.

A native of New York state and now a resident of Bridgewater, Dr. Smith began her own academic training at the Ferry Normal School in Boston and finished her bachelor's degree in elementary education at the University of Arkansas. She then earned a master's degree in special education with an emphasis on learning disabilities from Utah State University. She was the director of the Academic Development Office at the University of Arkansas for eight years before the university eliminated the department. In May of 1997, she earned her Ph.D. in curriculum and instruction from the University of Arkansas.

Throughout her career in higher education, Dr. Smith has worked to ensure that all students get the services they need to help them graduate. She will continue that work at BSC.

In simplest terms, the Academic Achievement Center is "one-stop shopping" for students who want to take advantage of support services on campus, Dr. Smith said. Students who come to the center, either on their own or after being referred by an instructor, can find out what kinds of services are available and which are appropriate for them. In one location, students can learn more about the wide array of services available to them, including academic advising, tutoring and assistance coping with disabilities of any kind.

The center was born, Dr. Smith said, because the college felt it would be "beneficial to faculty, administrators and students if there was a network that answered to one administrator." The "one-stop shopping" concept should eliminate the possibility a student will get bounced around from one place to another before finding the services he or she needs.

Support services have become increasingly important as the face of the student body has changed in the last quarter-century, Dr. Smith said. Years ago, few people attended college, but now the majority of high school graduates pursue some kind of higher education. Many of them come from families who have no history of college education, and many are from racial and economic groups that weren't represented in the collegiate arena a generation ago, Dr. Smith said.

Her job at BSC will be to make sure that the services for these students are set up properly and are accomplishing what they intend to accomplish. Emphasizing the importance of student development theory, she said she wants "to be certain that everything we put out is theoretically sound."

She also wants to be sure that faculty are comfortable referring their students to the center. Sometimes people equate academic support services with "hand-holding," but Dr. Smith said giving students assistance does not mean giving them lower standards.

"Clearly, it's necessary that we hold very high academic standards for our students," Dr. Smith said. "Our role is to help students learn the skills and strategies necessary to perform at those levels."
Dr. Kerry Kerber Named New Dean of Graduate and Continuing Education

By Julie Santos Reardon, '91

Kerry Kerber wasn’t surprised - or intimidated - when he learned he’d be wearing two hats here at BSC: one as the dean of continuing education, and the other as dean of the graduate school.

“I’m really quite honored to be challenged to take on both roles,” Dr. Kerber said.

Dr. Kerber became dean of continuing education in August of 1997, and just recently became dean of graduate and continuing education. It is a dual role that is common at state colleges throughout the commonwealth, Dr. Kerber said, and is a natural fit here at Bridgewater as well.

In his new position, Dr. Kerber will be working to create “synergy” between two departments that were previously separate, and to expand upon the current programs offered at the graduate school. The graduate school is already well known for its programs in education, and Dr. Kerber wants to develop more programs in accountancy, finance and computer technology in response to the needs of the southeastern Massachusetts business community.

And in response to the needs in the students in the region, Dr. Kerber wants to develop more off-campus programs.

“The marketplace is changing,” he said. “People expect colleges and universities to be responsive to their needs.”

During the month of July, Dr. Kerber worked closely with outgoing Dean of the Graduate School Marilyn Barry. Her assistance was invaluable in making the transition a smooth one.

“I’m following in the able shoes of Marilyn Barry, who has provided a great deal of leadership in graduate study,” Dr. Kerber said.

Janet Gumbris Named Director of Financial Aid

By Julie Santos Reardon, '91

Unless they are independently wealthy or related to one of the “Lucky 13” winners of the Powerball jackpot, most students will have some contact with the Office of Financial Aid during their collegiate careers. Janet Gumbris, director of financial aid, wants to make sure that contact is a positive experience.

“I’m very enthusiastic about working with the campus community to enhance the quality of service to students, which is the crux of our mission,” Ms. Gumbris said.

Ms. Gumbris, who has 17 years of experience in financial aid administration, has been acting director of the office since February and was officially named the director this summer. She holds a bachelor’s degree in sociology and a master of education degree in educational administration, both from the University of Lowell, where she began her career in financial aid in 1981 as student employment coordinator. Since then, she has held a variety of positions in financial aid administration at such institutions as Bay State College, New England Tractor Trailer Training School and K&L Associates of Wellesley before coming to BSC in 1992.

She is responsible for managing the office and staff of 10, taking care of fund management and making sure financial aid is disbursed to students on time. Ms. Gumbris is also involved in the Project User committee, a campus-wide group working to enhance student services, and the Enrollment Management committee, another campus group working on meeting higher student recruitment and retention goals.

Ms. Gumbris said she enjoys her work because it offers her the chance to perform a wide range of duties. “You’re not just doing one thing; there’s a lot of diversity, and there’s a lot of student contact,” she said. “So there’s a variety of things that keep work challenging and exciting.”
June, July, and August are thought to be quiet months on a college campus. For many BSC staffers, the lazy, hazy, days of summer never arrived.

"We try to complete our major renovations and improvements during the break periods between semesters and in the summer," said Dr. Dana Mohler-Faria, vice president of administration and finance.

Returning students, faculty, and staff found a noticeably different campus.

Improvements to the area behind the campus center and to the signs around campus, initiated by BSC's Beautification and Landscape Committee, are underway.

Phase one of a three-phase plan for the campus center area began this summer. It involved the redesign of the recreation area behind Scott Hall. The existing playing surface was removed and replaced with grass, and a new playing surface was constructed closer to Scott Hall.

Future plans include connecting walkways and crosswalks to provide a clear route of passage across campus and refurbishing the fountain area.

"All of these enhancements will greatly improve the center court area," said Dr. Mohler-Faria.

The creation of a new signage system will make it easier for visitors to maneuver around campus.

"Maps encased in plexiglas will be placed in strategic areas across campus to assist those searching for a particular location," said Dr. Mohler-Faria.

Existing signage for each campus structure will be upgraded. New signs will be located in front of each building so they are visible from the street. Signs at the campus entrances will direct visitors to a campus building by its function, for example "Boyden Hall" (administration building).

The finishing touch is a large "Welcome to Bridgewater State College" sign which will be located behind Kelly Gym to identify the area for those riding the commuter rail.

One campus center attraction also received a face-lift. Changes made to the interior and exterior of the Rathskeller will provide students, faculty, and staff at BSC with an updated area to socialize on campus.

The Rathskeller will be an all ages club with a separate area to accommodate the sale of alcohol to those of legal drinking age. Previously, no one under 21 was allowed inside the Rathskeller when alcohol was served. A new outside entrance to provide handicap accessibility and to allow the club to remain open after the campus center has closed will be completed in late fall or early spring.

This summer, in addition to remodeling existing structures, plans for constructing a new athletic field house underwent an initial review.

"We envision a comprehensive facility that will house our athletics department and academic programs," said Dr. Mohler-Faria.

A designer was hired in July to begin a study that will be completed in December. The study will determine the best location for the field house, the activities and programs that will be housed there, and the cost for the facility. The groundbreaking for the field house project will take place 12 months after completion of the study.

"It is important to the well-being of our students and those who live and work here that we have a well-functioning, beautiful campus," said Dr. Mohler-Faria. "Our plan, over the next two to four years, is to have the most attractive campus not only in the Commonwealth, but also in New England. I think we are well on our way."

Judith Deckers Associate Professor, Elementary and Early Childhood Department

Stimulating good reading habits, in Professor Judith Deckers’ opinion, is the basic foundation of education.

Professor Deckers taught reading at the Saugus Public Schools and Silver Lake School District before coming to Bridgewater State College in 1972 as an assistant professor in the undergraduate and graduate program of elementary and early childhood education. She served as interim director of teacher preparation in 1990-1991 and as chairperson of the elementary and early childhood department from 1990-1994.

Professor Deckers recently spent a year in Texas as a project editor for Resources for Christian Living Publishing’s (RCL) curriculum program “Echoes of Faith,” developing a series of workbooks and videos for Catholic education. She served as editor and adviser on a catechism workbook called “Our Catholic Identity,” designed to make the learning experience meaningful for young children.

A frequent in-service instructor on reading to public schools in Massachusetts, Professor Deckers also lectures to education groups around the country.

Despite her busy schedule, Professor Deckers remains dedicated to the undergraduate and graduate reading programs at Bridgewater. She is a patient and caring classroom instructor who takes seriously her supervision of prospective teachers. Professor Deckers received her bachelor’s degree in education from Worcester State College in 1964 and a master of education from Boston University in 1965.

The Dr. Adrian Rondileau Award for Professional Achievement and Community Service,
Ronald J. Carroll ’58

A member of the Class of 1958, Ronald Carroll, M.D. is the founder and president of the Maine Center for Cancer Medicine in Scarborough, Maine, and serves as director of the Maine Cancer Research & Education Foundation.

Upon graduation from Bridgewater, he continued his education as a Fellow in the Department of Physiology at the University of Illinois at Champaign and received his M.D. from the State University of New York at Buffalo, School of Medicine.

Dr. Carroll’s postdoctoral training was completed at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, Boston; Maine Medical Center in Portland; and University Hospital in Boston. In 1981 he was appointed associate professor of medicine at the University of Vermont Medical School and in 1982, he was named clinical associate professor of medicine at the medical school. At present, Dr. Carroll is an affiliate staff member of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, an attending physician at the Maine Medical Center in Portland, and an attending physician at Mercy Hospital in Portland.

Among his many professional affiliations are membership in the American Society of Internal Medicine and the American Society of Clinical Oncology.

He is married to Mary Lou Canniff Carroll ’59. The couple has five children.

Anthony L. Sarno, Jr., ’64

Anthony “Tony” Sarno has dedicated his professional life to the children of Stoughton, spending 16 years as a high school biology teacher and a combined total of 14 years as assistant principal and principal of Stoughton High School. One colleague described Mr. Sarno as a man who, “continually challenges all to provide the best possible programs for the children of Stoughton.”

Since 1995, he has been the superintendent of schools for the Stoughton Public Schools. A member of the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents, Tony also serves as chair of the Board of Directors of the Southeast Massachusetts TECH PREP Consortium.

An undergraduate biology major, Mr. Sarno served as senior class president of the Class of 1964. A resident of Bridgewater, he is married to Nancy Seablom Sarno ’64 and has two children.
The Bridgewater Alumni Award for Outstanding Service on behalf of the Alumni Association

Isabelle Bragg King, Ph.D., '51

Isabelle Bragg King '51 is an active member of the Bridgewater Alumni Association, serving on the Council, helping to plan her class' reunion activities, and taking part in several committees.

In the words of one classmate, "When it involves the needs of the alumni association, Isabelle can be counted upon to take the helm and put together programs not only for the good of the college, but the community at large." Isabelle also is a member of the Bridgewater State College Foundation.

A psychologist, Dr. King went on to receive a master's degree in education at Bridgewater in 1954 and a doctorate from Boston College in 1972 in educational psychology. She is Massachusetts State certified in reading, elementary education, school psychologist, and moderate special needs, and is licensed by the Massachusetts State Board of Registration of Psychologists.

Dr. King began her career as a grade 6 teacher and later became a supervisor of student teaching for the Massachusetts state college system. Formerly a member of the faculty at Bridgewater State and Cape Cod Community Colleges, Isabelle also served as chief of psychological services at the Crow's Nest Clinic in Bourne.

For the past several years, Isabelle has had her own private practice in Brewster, offering educational and psychological services.

The Dr. Catherine E. Comeau Award for Outstanding Professional Achievement in the Field of Movement Arts, Health Promotion, and Leisure Studies

Maria L. Melchionda, '83

A K-12 adapted physical educator for the Brockton Public School system, Maria Melchionda is dedicated to working with students with disabilities. A 1983 graduate of Bridgewater's physical education major program, Ms. Melchionda began her career as a K-6 physical education instructor and adapted physical educator in the Quabbin Regional School District. She went on to the Massachusetts Hospital School in Canton as the assistant program director of the student independent living experience. There she assisted physically challenged students in an experiential residential learning program.

She is the past president and finance chair of the Massachusetts Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, a member of the curriculum revision committee for elementary physical education in the Brockton Public Schools, and a member of the public relations committee of the National Association for Sport and Physical Education. In addition, Ms. Melchionda also volunteers time as an after-school program instructor at the junior high level in Brockton.

Ms. Melchionda, who also holds a master's degree in education earned in 1993 from BSC, is a member of the Bridgewater Alumni Association Board of Directors.

The Award for Exceptional Dedication to Students

Mary Ann McKinnon

Mary Ann McKinnon is the certification officer/field experience director at Bridgewater State College, where she advises faculty, staff, and students in matters relating to the certification and re-certification of educational personnel in Massachusetts and the Interstate Certification Contract. She coordinates the placement of undergraduate and graduate student teachers, interns, and clinicians (approximately 500 per year) enrolled in certification programs.

Ms. McKinnon received her bachelor's degree from the University of New Hampshire and a master's degree in elementary education from Bridgewater State College in 1991, while she was the assistant to the director of professional education at the college.

She recently was appointed to the Massachusetts Certification Review Panel by the Commissioner of Education.

Nominated for this award by the School of Education and Allied Studies, Ms. McKinnon is being recognized for her dedication, cheerfulness, and patience in dealing with students on certification issues and the new teacher testing.
The Spirit of Philanthropy Remains Strong at Bridgewater State College

It is often said that successes build upon success and that is certainly true for fund-raising at Bridgewater State College. Total giving exceeded one million dollars with unrestricted support growing by 16% and gifts to endowed funds reaching the highest level ever in the college's history. Alumni, friends and organizations have made these achievements possible, providing the "margin for excellence" for which the college is renowned.

Challenged and inspired by the Commonwealth's Public Higher Education Endowment Incentive Program and by their own belief in the college's mission, generous individuals supported the college at unprecedented levels. These thoughtful gifts, combined with the state's matching funds, totaled over 1.6 million dollars.

Gifts for Restricted and Unrestricted Purposes

Many supported the college's ongoing operations by contributing funds for immediate use. Each gift, large or small, designated or undesignated, made up the cornerstone of the college's development effort—the Annual Fund. The impact of these gifts is witnessed daily and the opportunities they provide for students are endless. A strong Annual Fund continues to be a priority to enhance ongoing programs and activities.

Gifts to Endowed Funds

With endowed contributions the college is able to establish permanent funds in which the principal is reserved and the interest income is spent or reinvested. Growth of the college's endowment, as a result of generous gifts, highlighted the year. As we prepare for a fiscally sound future, independent of fluctuating state funding, a strong endowment is critical.

Share in our Celebration

On the pages that follow we celebrate our success with a tribute to all those whose pride and commitment to the college are demonstrated with their contributions. For the generosity that invigorates the daily teaching and learning at Bridgewater State College, we are grateful.

A total of $26,787.69 in bequests was received by Bridgewater State College in fiscal year 1998 from seven individuals. As a result of their foresight and generosity, the college’s ability to offer quality programs and adequate financial assistance to students is enhanced. BSC extends its deepest appreciation to the alumni and friends of the college who provided for public education in southeastern Massachusetts through a bequest.

Margaret Burns ’42 $10,000 purpose: to benefit the Alumni Association Endowment Fund
Jeffrey R. Butz, faculty member $10,000 purpose: to establish the J.R. Butz Mathematics Competition Prize
Evelyn Cole Hunter ’39 $1,541.93 purpose: unrestricted
Mabel Woodward Mitchell ’24 $2,000 purpose: unrestricted

Ethel Haire Phillips ’26 $1,000 purpose: Alumni Association
Evelyn Mantyla Pontz $1,500 purpose: scholarship endowment fund in memory of Lawrence J. Mantyla, BSC alumnus and first husband of Mrs. Pontz
Arthur L. Thayer $745.76 purpose: Alumni Association, in memory of Florence (Ferguson) Thayer ’37

Established in 1997 to recognize individuals who have included Bridgewater State College in their wills or who have provided for the college with a life income gift, The 1840 Society now includes 18 members. The college deeply appreciates the thoughtful philanthropy of the following alumni and friends:

Alumni Update
Programs, Dates and Events

Boston Breakast Series
BSC alumni and friends living or working in the Boston area are invited to the Boston Breakfast Series, meetings designed to provide briefings on the college and showcase Bridgewater's faculty and students. For additional information regarding the next meeting, please contact the Alumni Office at (508) 697-1287.

Catholic Center Open House
Many alums shared in the life of The Catholic Center during their student years: spaghetti dinners, peer ministry, service, projects, and more. The Catholic Center invites all alumni to its family dinner and benefit fundraiser following Mass at 4 p.m. on Saturday, October 24, 1998. The dinner will be held in the Rondileau Campus Center Ballroom. For information, please contact Sr. Mary Ellen Dow or Fr. John Denning at (508) 697-1346.

Spotlight on: Alumni & Professional Fall Panel Series
On Monday, November 9, the Offices of Career Services and Alumni Relations will sponsor a panel discussion on Careers in Aviation in the Davis Alumni Center from 6-8 p.m.

Fall Networking Event
Co-sponsored by the Offices of Alumni Relations and Career Services, the Senior-Alumni networking event will be held in the Rondileau Campus Center on November 19 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Don’t miss this opportunity to serve as a professional contact for current BSC students. For information, please call the Career Services Office at (508) 697-1328.

Basketball Hall of Fame is the Site for Alumni Gathering
Alumni in the Springfield area, mark your calendars: on Thursday, December 3, the alumni associations of Bridgewater are meeting now, so contact the Alumni Office to be part of the fun.

ACE is Success!
Thanks to the alumnae and seniors who joined us at the April 29 Alumnae Career Exchange (ACE). Formerly known as Women’s Institute Day, this event brought together more than 80 women to network and share advice about a variety of career fields ranging from communications to education. The keynote address was given by Congressional candidate Marjorie Clapprood who told those present that networking means that women need to support each other in the workplace and in college.

Alumnae interested in being part of ACE '99, scheduled for March 2, 1999, should contact the Alumni Office at (508) 697-1287.

Pictured here in the home of the U.S. Ambassador to Portugal are Senator Marc R. Pacheco (D-Taunton); BSC student Janny Axelar; BSC trustee and chairman of the BSC Foundation Lou Ricciardi, '81; his wife, Cynthia Booth Ricciardi, '81, past president of the BSC Alumni Association; Ambassador McGowan; and Representative James Fagan, '69, (D-Taunton). The group had the opportunity to get together while visiting the World Expo held in Lisbon, where Miss Axelar was serving as a guide at the U.S. pavillion. A resident of Taunton, she was one of only three students in Massachusetts selected for the honor. Mr. Pacheco was the chairman of the Massachusetts legislative delegation visiting the Expo, and the Ricciardis were on vacation.
When Carrie Kulick-Clark left Bridgewater State College with a bachelor's degree in speech communication in 1985, she knew she'd be back some day.

"I had a very deep feeling for the college," she said. "Some day, I knew I'd want to give back."

She'll be giving back plenty of time and effort this year as president of the BSC Alumni Association, a post she took over officially at the association's June board meeting. She's not alone in her efforts to give back to the college that gave her so much as a student - her husband, Frederick W. Clark Jr., '83, is chairman of the BSC board of trustees for the year 1998-99.

Mrs. Kulick-Clark first became an actively contributing member of the BSC community while participating in the Student Government Association.

"I always felt like I got my fees' worth and everyone else's," she said.

She also felt as though the SGA had an especially good relationship with college administrators, which helped to foster within her a deep attachment to the institution. After graduation, she and her husband often returned for homecoming events, and eventually were nominated to serve on the board of directors of the alumni association. Mrs. Kulick-Clark then served as president-elect for a year before beginning her term as president this summer. Her friend and former SGA colleague Dan Darcy, now assistant director of student activities at BSC, is president-elect this year.

Not surprisingly, one of Mrs. Kulick-Clark's major goals is to convince more former BSC students to become involved in alumni events. Among other things, she plans to establish a publicity committee within the association, survey past students about what would bring them back to the BSC community, sort out constitutional issues and formalize the organization with induction ceremonies for officers.

Mrs. Kulick-Clark understands that busy lives often preclude alumni from becoming involved with the association. Her own life has been pretty busy as of late: as the mother of two sons, she just earned her master's of education in counseling at BSC this spring and began work as a guidance counselor at Braintree High School this fall.

But finding the time to be involved with the alumni association is a priority for her. In addition to providing them with the chance to "find old friends and make new ones," the association gives alums the opportunity to "reconnect" and remember some of the things that used to be important to them.

"If it's important to you, then you need to tend to those things," Mrs. Kulick-Clark said.

Alumni and Parents: Looking for a Gift for Your Physical Education Major?

Own this comprehensive history of the physical education major!

A Noble Legacy

Physical Education Major 1937-1987

Bridgewater State College

authored by Dr. Catherine Comeau
Professor Emerita and Former Department Chairperson

This book covers the development of the Physical Education Program and its people, from the inception at Hyannis Normal School in 1937 to the present Movement Arts, Health Promotion and Leisure Studies Program at Bridgewater State College. Learn about the beginning of the program before it became a major, its curriculum, and the people responsible for making this a major at BSC.

Please call the Alumni Office at (508) 697-1287 to order your copy.

Cost is $28 per book, if book is to be mailed (includes $3 for postage and tax)
The Power of Your Will

Your last will and testament is more than a legal document; it is a personal testimony to the core values and commitments that have emerged through a lifetime of working, learning, and growing. Through the provisions of your will, you express what you have come to truly believe about the meaning of life. A will is the ultimate personal statement you choose to make about life.

For many people education has been a central value affecting and guiding their lives; and as a result colleges and universities are often named as beneficiaries. For these individuals college years are viewed as a very important part of their journey, or as an especially happy time of transition, and they wish to leave a legacy of support to education for future generations. In recent years Bridgewater has benefited enormously from such bequests.

Memorial scholarships, beautiful additions to the campus, and a growing endowment to meet the ever-changing needs of the institution are just some of the aspects of campus life that have been touched by bequest gifts. Michelle Poirier, Bridgewater's director of major and planned gifts, is available to meet with you to discuss in confidence your interest in making a bequest gift, or other estate planning issues.

Michelle can discuss with you the various forms bequest gifts can take, and how to best word them to accomplish the objectives most important to you.

If you do not yet have a will, we hope you will think about this very important personal statement and that you will consider Bridgewater State College as one beneficiary. If you already have a will, is it up to date, and does it reflect those institutions and persons most important to you? If you would like assistance in reviewing your estate plans, or in working your bequests, please contact Michelle Poirier at 508-697-1200, extension 2694.
The Class Notes printed in this issue were received by July 3, 1998. Information received after this date will be held for the next issue due out in February 1999.

Read at the Class of 1948 50th Reunion Dinner
No one asked me to speak today.
No one asked me to write.
So you see...one of your alumni, Obviously, is not too bright.
Do you recognize this face?
Does my voice ring a bell?
If you’re having a Senior Moment,
It’s okay...I’m Estelle.
Our entering class was sixty or so.
We came here during World War II.
With a shortage of guys on campus,
We hit the books...nothing better to do.
There were activities...clubs to join.
And, boy...were there ever rules to swallow:
Sign out of the dorm, sign back in.
There were study hours to follow.
Remember the study bell that rang at eight?
Housemother, Miss McKenna, never forgot.
Anyone trying that trick today Would...probably...be shot.
Our own TV, a phone in the room?
Good Lord! That would be a distraction.
Booze on campus? Sit-ins?
(We missed out on all the good action.)
If you were lucky and had a date,
You were afraid they’d lower the boom
If a guy got beyond the dorm lobby,
Or, God forbid, was found in your room.
Not only did we have a curfew,
At 10 p.m. lights had to be out.
From the back door, we sneaked out to the Diner
And stole back in with the help of a “look-out”.
Bridgewater has changed since our college days.
The “Ad” Building was where most classes met.
We had no pool...no fancy gym.
We ordered the gym clothes they told us to get.
There were two dorms, the training School.
All our meals were served in “Tilly.”
Some of the commuters are our active alumni:
Ruth, Munya, Anna, Pat, and Millie.
This sprawling campus is beautiful.
We can still picture it long ago.
Quiet...unhurried...peaceful.
A far cry from today’s status-quo.
Our class came here to be teachers.
Many of us did Bridgewater proud!
We went on to Administer to Others -
The Bridgewater motto we had avowed.
Has anybody here seen Miss Pope?
I’m certain her spirit is still here.
S. Elizabeth Pope sure ruled The Roost.
Her presence set us trembling with fear.
She taught us to be
I’m certain her spirit is still here.
S. Elizabeth Pope sure ruled The Roost.
Her presence set us trembling with fear.
She taught us to be...ladies.
She taught how to serve tea,
How to make finger-sandwiches,
Cut a pie into pieces for five, nine, or three.
Remember Mr. Davoren’s Speech Class -
"There’s my last duchess hanging on the wall?"? All semester, we recited that poem. Boy... didn’t it bore us all.

One day Mr. Davoren didn’t show up. It was time, I thought, for some fun. I was writing a parody of My Last Duchess. And it just so happened... it was done.

Ruth Moriarty took the stage. She was a star in anyone’s book. "Estelle transformed the duchess," she announced, To... "This is last year’s overcoat hanging on a hook."

John Davoren sat in the back row, Slouched down low; he could not be seen. Ruth finished. We cheered! A voice rang out: "WHO WROTE THAT?" Mr. Davoren sounded mean.

No one answered. Of course, not me. (I sort of invoked the Fifth.) I couldn’t imagine what our professor would do.

For a nice guy, he sure was missed.

"The writer will come to my office today," (I remember every... single... word.) "If not, everyone’s mark will be dropped a grade." That would make me the class tard.

I had no choice. I faced the music.

That afternoon, I knocked on his door. I didn’t dare look at Mr. Davoren. Instead, I studied the pattern on the floor.

Mr. Davoren said, “So you’re the one. Miss Potter, I had to find out. I want you in my Creative Writing class. That’s where you belong. I have no doubt."

Great! But this would take some work.

Courses, in our time, were fixed.

Elementary Majors had to take Crafts.

My request to Miss Pope was nixed.

Miss Davis was our Elementary Advisor. She was ahead of her time... more than a bit. Luckily, she agreed to speak with Miss Pope. In the end, Miss Pope told me: “Go-for-it!”

Have you seen Miss Lutz, Mr. Foth, Miss Graves, Miss Caldwell, Miss Decker, T. L. Kelly, Miss Hill, Miss Low?

Is Miss Rantz roaming in the Music Room? Is Dr. Meir playing on the tennis courts below?

To see the buildings named for our professors Makes us feel still part of the scene.

It’s like putting Bridgewater... Past and Present On a Giant, Split, TV Screen.

It’s our Fiftieth Class Reunion And for those of us here, it’s amazing. It almost seems like yesterday We went through Freshman Hazing.

To the classmates I see today Who shared so much of the past, I want to say I haven’t forgotten you And it’s great being with you at last.

To those males here not in the Class of ‘48, Your presence gives us great joy. We have what the war took away from us... A macho, warm-blooded boy.

To the Committee who worked hard To plan for this weekend’s success, You have our thanks and gratitude For a magnificent job! Yes!

Archambault Burton remembers the many friends she made at BSC and still has... Hester Barnes Brooks recalls four years of Glee Club under Miss Rand and ice skating on Carver Pond... Frances Burbank Nesmith’s memories include Glee Club, friends in the dorm, meeting Don, becoming engaged, and marrying in 1949... Falmouth resident Alvarina Costa Farrell went on to receive her master’s degree in 1955... D. Rita Davis Todd remembers freshmen initiation scrubbing the front steps of Boyden Hall with a toothbrush and glass of water and getting caught in a snowstorm at Mt.Monadnock on a geology class trip...

Pennsylvania resident Lorraine Dolliver Opitz recalls some "profound" conversations in the commuter room... Mildred Downer Jarvis remembers being able to stay out until 8 pm on week nights without having to sign out of the dorm as seniors... It was the best of times for Class President Mildred Duggan Hoy. She recalls the arrival of many GI’s on campus sophomore year. Miss Pope comes to mind for Ellen Galligan Tracy. She knew everything you did or were about to do and kept a loving eye on all... Elizabeth Gilligan Cavanaugh remembers life in the dorm as a growing up experience as well as a time of experiments... Anna Gloster McGovern remembers dropping the box and breaking all the cookies for the all important weekly tea... Vermont resident Richard Grimley recalls his many birthdays at Thabgood Latham hall, Will Alden teaching Al Costa how to drive until she ran into a tree, and Louis Souza accepting his definition of a baseball field’s bull pen... Class Treasurer Lillian Wilson Grimley remembers the day the bottom fell out of the huge water jug as Mr. Kelley picked it up in the science lab and Dr. Arnold’s tests - “either, neither, both, or 50/50”... Phyllis Jones Ryder enjoyed living abroad for many years as her husband was a foreign service officer... Franklin Kroell still thinks of Bridgewater as almost a “one building” college... Jean Littlefield Nummi recalls Miss Decker’s archery class with her dog and being the first class to be “P. E. Majors” at BTC... Sarah Malina Keren says she received a good education, and the preparation was excellent - academically, as well as social... Eunice Manchester Crompton remembers severe initiation requirements September 1944, Mardi Gras, and conversations with S. Elizabeth Pope...

Otis McCorkle recalls taking Miss Graves’ favorite parking space and how easy it was to get Oliver Lovett to digress from the subject at hand, especially when we were not prepared... Ruth Moriarty Winsor learned to play bridge and pinochle and recalls hiding someone’s violin in various lockers and gang gym showers with Mary Caldwell at the controls... Jeanne Moynihan Bombardier enjoyed participating in Day School Council, Glee Club, and Newman Club... James Pettengill appreciated the kindnesses by all the faculty and president to returning veterans... Marjorie Phillips Holmes remembers playing bridge in the but room and having the nurse wake you to give you a sleeping pill when you had been ill... Genevieve Powers took part in every sport and is grateful for the many good friendships which have lasted through the years... Patricia Roberts Provost enjoyed many happy hours with friends playing various card games in the commutors room and Glee Club... Florida resident Grace Shea Sabatini was active in the K. P. Club and Newman Club... Miriam Shapiro Asbel has traveled extensively throughout the United States, Europe, the Mid East, and India... Mary Ruth Sullivan Conabee recalls friendships and an atmosphere of a lovely small New England town in the 40’s... Mary Wisotsky Miller remembers the dances in the gym, discussions and friendships developed during the bus ride to and from college, and meeting her two best, dear, wonderful friends, Mildred Duggan Hoy and Frances Mulqueney McClellan... Phyllis Zeldin Chait’s memories include hitchhiking, weekend dances at the Cape and Martha’s Vineyard, crying in Miss Pope’s office, Cynthia Jones’ 100 pin curls, dressing for dinner Wednesday nights and Sunday noon and then getting Spam, and the many friendships that have lasted.
Congratulations to the 50th Anniversary Class of 1948!

Margaret Caulfield, class of 2000 and president of DiNardo Hall, Nicole Andries, class of 2000 and vice president of finance, Wood Hall, speak with Lisa Evaneski, assistant director, residence life and housing, as they welcome freshmen to their new home.

Freshman resident students started making themselves at home at Shea/Durgin Hall on moving day, Saturday, September 5.

The Class of 2002 had the campus to themselves for a couple of days before the rest of the student residents moved in September 7. Freshmen, both residents and commuters, took part in orientation activities that were a continuation of orientation sessions they attended earlier in the summer. On September 8, Opening Day, freshmen received an official welcome from the college administration and were presented with their class banner.

Fraternity brothers from Kappa Delta Phi help lighten the load for moving freshmen.

Orientation leaders Bridget Russo and Kevin Rust, both of the class of 2000, greet incoming freshmen at Shea/Durgin Hall.

Sigma Chi brothers Rob Battista and Tom Mattrazzo lend a hand to the freshmen moving into Shea/Durgin Hall Sept. 5.

Freshman Monique Taylor gets a helping hand from her family on moving day.
DiNardo Gallery Unveiled

The Dr. V. James DiNardo Gallery honoring 15 of the most distinguished instructors to serve at BSC was unveiled September 25, just before convocation.

The Dr. V. James DiNardo Award for Excellence in Teaching has been awarded annually since 1984. It is the highest honor that the college can bestow upon faculty members for their teaching.

The portrait of Dr. V. James DiNardo is first in line in the gallery in the hallway near the Boyden rotunda. Dr. DiNardo, the first recipient of the award named in his honor, was on hand to unveil the gallery.

DiNardo award recipient Dr. Michael Kryzanek, chairman of the department of political science, looks at his portrait with his mother, Mary Kryzanek.

President Adrian Tinsley speaks to the audience gathered in the Boyden rotunda for the unveiling of the DiNardo Gallery. Many past recipients of the award were in attendance.

The 1998 DiNardo award recipient, Professor Judith Deckers of the elementary and early childhood education department, poses next to her portrait in the DiNardo Gallery.
