Graduates of the Class of 1934 Receive First Teaching Positions

Quincy, Wemouth Welcome Several.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to the new." After we have greeted the new freshmen, and the rush and bustle of getting settled is over, we upper classmen begin to feel lonesome. We wonder what those people who so efficiently played the part of seniors last year are doing now. These people are a part of Bridgewater, although their classes have ended. About a percentage of them are following their chosen profession in various towns and cities in Massachusetts.

Betty Strozmahl and Ruth Ferris are roommates no longer. Ruth will teach in Brevet and down on Cape Cod, and Betty will teach in Lexington. Hazel Dumas also has a position in Lexington.

Attleboro has employed three teachers from the class of 1934. Grace Curley's literary talent, Natalie Thielski's art, and Volta Davis' charm ought to have some effect on the youngsters in Attleboro.

Let's take our hats off to Wemouth! This town has hired seven Bridgewater girls this year. These fortunate people are Eva Bernier, Jeanette Hayes, Alleen McGrath, Helen O'Halloran, Josephine Caruso, and Sadie Lamb.

Would-Be Reporters Given Opportunity

There is an opportunity for several freshmen, men and girls, to obtain positions on Campus Comment this month.

SEVERAL OPENINGS

Any who are interested in newspaper work, or who believe they might be interested, should apply for the position of reporter, in room 24, Miss Lovett's room, next Tuesday at 3:30 P.M.

Any person who has been making a "B" in English should have no difficulty in passing the examination which will be given at that time.

At least one reporter from each section will be chosen, and probably several others in addition. This is one of the earliest opportunities for freshmen to become affiliated with an extra-curricular activity. In fact, such activities are of great importance in the college life. Furthermore, those who become reporters now will be first in line for higher positions later in the year.

TYPISTS NEEDED

Typists have a special opportunity to enter this field of examination. Simply interview the editor in room 24 next Tuesday at 3:30 P.M.

Typists will later have opportunities to be transferred to the field of reporters.

Upperclassmen who wish to join the paper should also report to room 24 next Tuesday at 3:30.

Social Activities Committee Plan Acquaintance Social

As a further method of welcoming the freshmen and of providing for their introduction to members of the faculty as well as the students, the Social Activities Committee is planning the annual acquaintance social, to take place in the Albert Gardner Boyden Gymnasium on Friday evening, September fourteenth.

Freshmen, set aside the date now in anticipation of a good time under the escort of your big sisters. Plan to come.

In Auto Accident

Miss Hill, Miss Carter, and Elizabeth Maynard were in an auto accident last summer, when they turned out and hit a tree to avoid hitting a child.

We understand that they are well on the way to recovery now.

New Shelves Built For the Library

We wandered up to the library the other day and found that renovations had been made. There is a new set of shelves along the wall by the library, and one of the old cases has been moved over to partially enclose this area. The new arrangement will no doubt be a great improvement.

The library is anxious for this school to cooperate in the campaign for better use of the libraries, which is being carried on throughout the state. Miss E. Louise Jones of the division of public libraries, state department of education, spoke on this work at the conference last week.

Another change in library arrangements is that the books formerly kept in the gymnasium will now be on shelves in Boyden Hall.

Miss Harriett Huldstrom is the new student chairman of the library committee, taking the place of Miss Ber- nice Trulson, who graduated last June.

Gleaned from a Summer Interview With our President, Dr. Scott

This September will mark the beginning of more changes at Bridgewater, particularly in the academic life. In March, 1932, of course, all State Normal Schools in Massachusetts became State Teachers Colleges, and since that time everything has been tending toward making these schools college in scholarship as well as name.

Probably the most important change is in connection with the four year college curriculum now in full operation. Because of this plan, there will be greater opportunity to give both academic and professional education. Therefore the scholarship in subject matter will be on a basis with schools in the professional, hitherto impossible because of the variance in courses.

It will now be possible for the freshmen to elect French or German, chemistry or physics.

Because of the reduction in courses, a student may begin his major in his first year at college, giving more opportunity for research in the subject than before.

Another change is in the fact that the college year will be divided into two terms of eighteen weeks each. There will be no important changes in regards to the time or type of examination to be given, and cards will be issued at the end of each semester, as before.

However, the practice teaching will necessarily have to be changed. Juniors and sophomores will be on an equal footing in regard to the number of weeks teaching. The sophomore class will have nine weeks in the Training School and the Juniors nine weeks in an outside field. As formerly, there will be one sophomore and one junior division out during the last nine weeks of school.

Beginning this year, all freshmen will have a course in Introduction to Civilization, the purpose of which is to furnish a background for understanding development to our present day.

Without any doubt there will be other changes throughout this as well as the following years, all for the better, as were seen at the college last year.

Annual Conference of Educators Held Here September 5-7

Dr. Bullfish Speaks. Group I Discussions

From Wednesday afternoon, September 5th, through Saturday, September 7th, the seventeenth annual conference of State Teachers Colleges was held at Bridgewater, with Dr. H. Gordon Bullfish of Ohio State University, Columbus, as principal speaker.

Dr. Bullfish addressed the conference twice, his first address being on The Philosophy of Education in a Changing Social Order, while his second was Concerning a Proposed Educational Holiday.

After the general session on Wednesday morning, Dr. Bullfish gave his first address, departmental conferences on Curriculum Construction were held in the various classrooms. These included, generally, education; English; social science; mathematics; art and handicrafts; music; physical education; librarians; and deans and matrons.

On Wednesday evening a half hour music, consisting of baritone solos and piano selections, was followed by Dr. Bullfish's second address.

On Thursday morning, Dr. Bullfish addressed the group on A Final Report on the Survey of Uses of Mental Hygiene in State Teachers Colleges.

The first and second conference hours on the Book Exhibit which followed was a feature of the conference. These well-organized round table conferences to examine and discuss new books. More than nineteen hundred books from seventy-five publishers were distributed by subject and explained by various people. The exhibit included books and magazine articles written by faculty members of Massachusetts State Teachers Colleges, as well as work done by art instructors at the various colleges.

On Thursday afternoon the regular business meeting was held, during which reports of officers and committees, reports of committee on nominations, election of officers, and report of the committee on resolutions were given.

Tennis Courts Used

The people of the town were privileged to use the tennis courts during the summer months. The committee in charge of arrangements included Steve Lovett, Stanley Hunt, Allan Schaffner, and Mary Campbell.

Little Larry had been to church, where he had listened to a sermon mostly devoted to the origin of Eve. At dinner he indulged in ice cream and cake. A little later his mother found him with his hands pressed tightly to his ribs and in great pain.

"My goodness, Larry!" she exclaimed. "What on earth is the matter?" "O-o-o-h!" Larry groaned. "I'm afraid I'm going to have a wife."—Am. Legion Monthly.
Begining

"Well, here we are at the beginning of another year", said one underclassman to another as they passed down the corridor.

This issue is the first of the new Campus Comment which we hope to give you this year.

As a first issue it of course has a number of "rough edges" which we must have a few weeks to polish up; but in the main we have tried, as we shall try, to offer a paper which will best serve the school.

Our objective is a four-page, four column paper, published bi-weekly, with plenty of fresh news and with a worthwhile, interesting editorial page, appealing to both undergraduates and alumni.

We begin an open forum in an early issue, and will appreciate your criticism there.

THE FIRST DAY

Yesterday morning we listened to a splendid opening address by our President. Congratulations, Dr. Scott.

We believe that this will be a year of great progress not only for Bridgewater as a college but also for us as individual members of the institution, under the leadership of a leader who has vision, ability and purpose.

The idea of a day set aside for conferences has indeed proved sound. We all appreciated it greatly.

One of the items mentioned by Dr. Scott which most deserves our attention is the school store. Let us cooperate with the students who are running it, to the best of our ability.

How would the "Coop" be, for a "short" name for the store?

A SENIOR LOOKS BACK

Mr. Editor asked me to tell what I got out of B. S. T. C. during the three years that I have had the privilege to attend it. An impossible task, Mr. Editor! I cannot tell of all that I have received from Bridgewater, but I will tell a few of the things I have enjoyed.

In the first place, no course has made a very great impression on me. From these, however, I have gained certain facts and attitudes that will no doubt assist me in later life. Let me first mention associations and friendships with instructors, with students. These, I consider, are the best of what Bridgewater has given me. I have always enjoyed discussions. They may be in the form of parleys, debates, "bull sessions", or midnight matinees. The chief value here lies in the somewhat startling fact that the other fellow is quite often right.

Chapel programs and lectures appealed to me as a worthy attempt to lift us out of our little sphere and show us what lies beyond.

Last, let me state that I appreciate the fact that I have just scratched the surface of knowledge and education; something far richer lies beneath. I guess that a four years' course here and a bachelor's degree by no means makes me an educated person.

WHO'S WHO AT B. T. C.

In the general confusion of the first days at college, so many new faces are seen and so many people presented that it is difficult to remember who's who. For the benefit of the freshmen, therefore, we offer a list of some of the prominent people you will soon learn to recognize.

Student Cooperative Association
President, Irene Kidd; Vice-President, Audrey Tripp; Secretary, Helen McGinn; Treasurer, Caroline Feindel.

Dormitory Council
President, Ruth Mannion.

Day Student Council
President, Alma Foley.

Senior Class
President, Kenneth Murphy.

Junior Class
President, Stephen Lovett.

Sophomore Class

At Mt. Wachusett

In the general rush of the last week of school, back in June, one little escapade escaped attention. Of course we all know that the prep ent senior men are a stalid and dignified lot; but you should have seen how the boys got together for dinner at a restaurant in town and then a trip to the theatre in Brockton, after which all adjourned to the home of one of the fellows. It was a merry night.

But when the wee small hours came around nobody wanted to go home and all kinds of mischief were planned.

There are, indeed, some wise ones who shake their heads and say that if all had gone well it would have been just too bad for residents of the dormitories who would have disliked to come running forth into the chilly night clad in pajamas.

A "MYSTERY CRUISE"

However, one of the party who had planned the escapade, gave special attention to the features of the editorial page, including that interesting and enlightening column, the Pothole. We will not doubt find them ready to accept any letters to that department, in their capacity as associate editors.

The position of news editor, vacated by Pangman, has been filled by Ruth Bumpus.

TEAM WORK FORECAST

David M. Pope, member of the senior class, will be a special assistant to Harold Holbrook, the advertising manager. This team should be able to get plenty of "ads." Another timely combination, Miss Golding, Miss Graves, Mr. Gordon L. Smith, assistant. The business man is Raymond Cook.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Directory Offered to Any Newcomers Who May Be Lost

Freshmen, Special Attention!

Many freshmen each year find it difficult to find their way to and fro in the long corridors and remote corners of the main building.

For their benefit we publish this brief directory:

NORTH CORRIDOR

Starting at the rotunda, where we find the office of President Zenos E. Scott on the left (as we enter the front door) and Miss S. Elizabeth Pope on the right, with the business office opposite us, we proceed along the corridor to the right.

On our right hand we have the room of Miss Alice B. Bain, supervisor of training, then the History of Education class room, on the left that of Miss Iva V. Lutz, instructor in methods. Beyond this is a stair hall, from which we enter the office of Mr. John J. Kelly, Dean of Men.

SOUTH CORRIDOR

Proceeding again from the rotunda, along the corridor, to the left we have on our right the classroom of Mr. Renselle Hunt, instructor in psychology. On the left we find the classroom of Mr. George H. Durgin, Miss Mary V. Smith, and Mr. Joseph Graves. Mr. Durgin teaches mathematics, the others history.

Opposite Mr. Arnold's room the corridor turns right. On the left is the classroom of Miss George C. McMillin, whose subject is reading. At the end is the demonstration room.

SECOND FLOOR

On the second floor we find that the library serves as the entrance to the library—a door leading to the library—after which the lecture room over the business office. In the corridor toward the steps, we find Miss Edith P. Lord's office, the subject French. Further on, up the steps, are the rooms of the biology, art, and music instructors, Mr. Louis C. Starnon, Miss E. Irene Graves, Mr. Gordon L. Raynolds, Miss Priscilla M. Nye, and Miss Frieda Rand.

In the south end of the corridor are the rooms of Mr. Harlan P. Shaw, whose subject is philosophy, and Mr. Paul Huffington, who teaches geog-raphy, with the blackboard drawing room next to Mr. Shaw's room, and the chemistry laboratory opposite. Around the corner is the chemistry laboratory, whence it is sought, found, and returned to.

Several new appointees to the staff of our newspaper have been made, in addition to those announced last week.

The changes in policy which are to be inaugurated this year, of which the most important is the combination of the publica- tion is most important, will necessitate an expansion of the staff organization with a larger division of labor.

Accordingly, several new positions have been created, and these have been as promptly filled.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Francis Champagne of Taunton, a senior, and Edith Hayden, of Quincy, a junior, will give special attention to the features of the editorial page, including that interesting and enlightening column, the Pothole. They will not doubt find them ready to accept any letters to that department.

The position of news editor, vacated by Pangman, has been filled by Ruth Bumpus.

Vivian Pickett, class of 1938, who had been teaching in Randolph for several years, married Frank Crow- ley, Saturday morning at St. Thomas Aquinas Church.

The Rotunda

Well, all I know is what I hear in the rotunda.

Mr. Joseph A. Arnold of the history department is now Doctor Arnold, having received his Ph.D. from Harvard University last summer.

He spent the month of August visiting in Kentucky.

Mr. Durgin enjoyed a vacation at Mattapoisett on the Cape.

We are told that one member of the faculty grew a Van Dyke beard last summer. It was red and curly.

All last June and July before we had a chance to see it—the old meanie.

Mr. Huffington spent the summer touring the western states, visiting Yellowstone National Park among other places.

We are looking forward to next week, and that annual sack rush. I understand the poor freshmen are shivering in their boots already.

There will be eleven students from town (I mean Bridgewater) in the freshman class.

Another high spot of next week will be the opportunity the lower classes will have of standing in the corridor and admiring the grace and dignity of the seniors as they pass by clad in cap and gown.

Miss Pope, Miss Deckner, and Miss Caulfield have taken an apartment together.

Miss Beale will live in Wood, and I guess that's all.

Edgartown was the goal of Miss Beale's vacation travels.

Miss Graves visited her sister in Buffalo.

Miss Taylor is now married, and her place in the training school is taken by Miss Evelyn Linquist of the class of 1931.

The work of grading the new athletic field is now completed, and the track and field meets that began as Dr. Scott predicted it would.

Mr. Denton is a special friend to the seniors. He hopes it will be hot next week.

Yes, sir, all I know is what I hear in the rotunda.

Bright Outlook for Sports During the Coming Year

Training to Start Soon

The coming year should be one to arouse the interest and enthusiasm of the sports followers at B. T. C. as there are prospects of having fine teams in the three major sports: namely, soccer, basketball, and baseball.

Genial George Morris of Fall River is captain of this year's soccer eleven and is expecting to do things in a big way.

An excellent schedule is being arranged which should surpass last year's rather inadequate schedule of one game. This season we will play Nichols Junior College, New Bedford, Teachers College, Tabor Academy, and coach, Paul Hill, Will Bradbury, freshmen men start training at once, and others.

Among the candidates for this team will be John Nolan, last year's captain and coach, Paul Hill, Will Bradbury, Dan Kelly, Bill Nugent, Gene Hill, Ken Coombs, and Charlie Whitchcomb. These veterans should form the nucleus of a strong team.

Last year the lower campus was the scene of many an amusing and hectic football game between the various classes. Undoubtedly the gridiron heroes will retain their high personalities at an early date this year.

It is suggested that the incoming freshmen men start training at once, because even in the event that these games are not held, the freshmen-sophomore sack rush usually turns into an impromptu football game and their training will be appreciated.

The basketball and base-ball schedules will remain about as they have been during the past years, and both teams should have a good season.

It is rather doubtful as to whether or not the baseball team will make a Southern trip as they did last Spring, but time and perseverance will tell, but time and perseverance will tell.

Editor's Note:—We asked the soccer manager for the schedule, but he wrote back saying "I never allow business to interfere with my vacation." Wherefore, no schedule.

C. C. Members Meet 3:30 Today

The entire board and staff of Campus Comment will be present at a general meeting at 3:30 today, Thursday, in Miss Lovett's room. This includes editors, assistants, managers, and reporters. Excuses should be submitted by those who find it impossible to come. Several pertinent subjects will be discussed and full attendance is necessary.

MISCELLANEOUS

The auditorium is in the north end of the building, and may be approached from either the basement or the main floor.

In the basement are the classrooms of Mr. John J. Kelly, instructor in printing and mechanical drawing, and Miss Prill G. Beckwith, whose subject is handicrafts. The commuters' room and domestic science rooms are also located there.

The offices and classrooms of the physical education department are in the gymnasium.

And we suppose that those who live here do not need to be told about the dormitories, who does not know that the dining room is in Tillinghast Hall?

Good luck!

Number One

 Quincy is another city that has shown itself loyal to Bridgewater. Ruth Koss, Esther Lindberg, Alice Magnusson, Maria Fair, and Jessie Macsea may be found teaching in the Quincy schools next year.

Polly Dewlinsky is going to teach the youngest in Stoughton how to sing. She wishes to be successful. She popped up the commutors to the extent of winning the inter-dormitory singing contest.

Eleanor Packard, Doris Grade, and Madeline Caswell have all accepted positions in Mattapoisett. Two girls, Helen Robinson and Barbara Stockbridge will teach in Boxboro this year.

Many of the other girls may be found teaching in various nooks and corners of Massachusetts. Ethel Beedle will teach in Norton, Eloise Godfrey in Falmouth, Olives Smith in Amherst, Olga Anderson in New Salem, Ruth Henry in Walburn, Grace Knox in Plainville, Miriam Fisher in East Bridgewater, toll Lewis in Somerset, Charlotte Murray in Winchendon, Dorothy Shaw in Carverington, Ruth Rider in Wellesley, Louise West in Ashburnham, and Patricia Holmes in Townsend. One girl has accepted an out-of-state position. Emily Shaffner plans to teach in New Hampshire. She will be principal of the school at South Hampton and teacher of grades 6-8. Several girls are planning to continue their scholastic work in education.

Marella Moran will attend Radcliffe, and Madeleine Bingle, Elizabeth Pebler, and Edna Royster will return to Bridgewater.

Cupid has cornered two of our fair graduates. We hear that Constance Tobin and Doris Hunt are both to be married this fall.

Five men of last year's class have positions. Frederick Meier will teach in Stoughton; Otto Petersen in Ludlow, and Earle Sukoforth in Wareham, Joseph Taylor in Medway, and Alfred Wood in Littleton.

Senior MAN on summer vacation sends cards of sincerity from Vassar to classmates. "Having a fine time. Wish you were here", he said.
