ALPHA
In the following pages, we hope you find a tangible record of all that your college days have meant to you. We have tried to make Alpha a portrait of us as we were, and as we wish to be remembered. May it bind us together in the future as we have been one in the past.

Message from President Kelly

You are students today . . . leaders tomorrow!

No greater public service can be rendered than that of helping to build the minds and characters of those who in turn will build a better world.

Throughout the world, as never before within the memory of mankind, there is a fervent desire for lasting peace and security. But the task of attaining these aims is not an easy one, and our responsibility as Americans and teachers cannot be overstated. The job will be doubly difficult if American education, business, and industry do not plan a way to tackle it together.

There are no boundaries or limitations to the scope of education offered to America's teachers, especially to you who are about to enter into the complexities of world problems or confine yourselves to the intimate pleasures of the Arts.

From the classrooms of America come our future citizens, the bulwark of our way of life. No phase of American life should be overlooked in a well-rounded curricula. Boys and girls are the material of which democracy is made.
They must be taught the material and spiritual values of living.

Fortified by the philosophy of your Alma Mater, the love of God, country, and service to fellow-man, and the traditions of Bridgewater, go forth to meet the challenge. May success be yours.

JOHN KELLY,

President
Dr. Joseph I. Arnold

Dedication

To Doctor Joseph I. Arnold

Professor of history we dedicate our book in recognition and loving appreciation of all he has done to inspire and instruct us.
Threads and Patterns

Personality and world culture are the master threads of life. They are mutually creative, so modify each other as they are woven into the patterns of life. Two things are important—the quality of the threads and the patterns into which they are woven. Education has a threefold task—to improve the quality of the threads, to aid in selecting patterns, and to guide the process of weaving. Democracy is vital to each of the three.

Emergent world culture had its most meaningful origin in personality, and has become the most promising expression of personality. It is the only field dynamic enough to save for personality the immense achievements of nationalism and to save personality from the dangers inherent in nationalism. Personality and world culture are congenial to the field of human values. It is in this field that current educators in democratic countries seek the most significant educational trends.

Democracy walks on two legs—democratic personalities and democratic institutions. If either leg is weak, humanity can scarcely hobble along. Educators in a democracy integrate personalities and institutions in democratic processes to achieve human values. May the Class of 1948 enjoy to the very fullest its creative walk with democracy in the achievement of human values—within the classroom and outside in the broader fields of life!

Joseph I. Arnold
And now our faculty . . . the people who lectured to us, tested us, laughed with us, despaired of us, and eventually turned us into seniors. May we never forget the ideals they have given us, the example they have set.

In Memoriam

MISS ANNA L. GASSETT

For twenty-three years housemother of the Tillinghast Dormitory, died November eighteenth, 1947.

We shall always remember her gracious hospitality at our Thursday afternoon teas, her sympathetic approach to our problems, and her wisdom in guiding us.
Here we are after four profitable years . . . years of knowledge gained, friends made, and obstacles overcome. New experiences will come to supplant our memories, but never will we forget the inestimable joy of being called a Senior.
A hum of excitement filled the Horace Mann Auditorium that warm September morning in 1944 as a group of eager freshmen assembled, anxiously awaiting their organization as the class of '48. Then followed busy, active days—days crowded at first with high-school memories; —and later with dreams and ideas of what lay ahead—new friends, studies, gay social affairs, campus life, and an ever-widening sphere of knowledge.

Flowing, white “angel robes” were the fashion during the first week at college, while we were put through a rigorous physical examination by sympathetic Dr. MacLeod in the gymnasium. Checking up on our stamina before handing us over to the sophomores for initiation, we thought apprehensively.

Ah, yes! Initiation! All the horrible rumors became reality on the first Monday morning of classes. Every nervous freshman form sported a cotton dress, inside-out, a saddle shoe and a sneaker, and various assorted ribbons, curlers, toy animals and sandwich boards. Never were the tennis courts weeded so industriously, or the steps of the Administration building scrubbed more energetically, as under the watchful eye of a sophomore. Our trials were soon over, however, and the initiation was closed by the Freshman Party, given in our honor by the sophomore class. Thoughts of revenge then turned to liking for our sister class, for from that day until their graduation, we had an opportunity to learn what a friendly group they were.

Soon a spirit of college loyalty and class co-operation began to arise, and enthusiasm was displayed in the support of our officers, Barbara Talbot, president; Jeanne Moynihan, vice president; Janet Allen, secretary; and Marie McGowan, treasurer. Immediately we planned a frankfurt roast to swell the treasury. To our gratification the venture was a huge success—both socially and financially.
During the year that followed we freshmen found clubs and sports to engage our time after classes. Our members were well-represented in each of the many active groups on campus, open to the student body. We struggled with new subjects, passed mid-year examinations with gratitude and relief, became more “collegiate” as time passed; and before we realized it, our introduction to Bridgewater was swiftly drawing to a close.

The hand of war had touched many phases of our life at Bridgewater, and had reduced the number of men to an almost negligible quantity. However, in the spring, the freshman class assembled proudly to participate in the traditional and impressive ceremony of the Ivy March at the graduation of the class of 1945—symbolic of our true acceptance into the spirit of Bridgewaer Teachers College.

The brightest spot in our lives when we returned to college in the fall was initiation. At last we were to have our turn! We had plotted the torture down to the last detail and could hardly contain ourselves with our plans. The class of ’49 turned out to be a group of exceptionally good sports and the topic of initiation was good conversation material for months to follow.

W. A. A. organized its annual Supper Hike that October. The women students of the college gathered in the sand pits to join in games and community singing, and to cook supper over the open fires.

We all struggled through sophomore geography and physical science. The girls often spent Friday nights serving as junior hostesses at the near-by Army camps. We gave our support to the scrap paper drive, and we spent long hours in the auditorium where the National Sophomore Tests challenged our knowledge of a variety of subjects. We saw our first Mardi Gras, sponsored by French Club. The theme that year was “Claire de la Lune sur La Rivi- era.” Gay, bright costumes were the order of the evening as the dancers recaptured the spirit of Old France.

We had re-elected Barbara Talbot as president, assisted by Mary Ruth Sullivan as vice president. Carol Hill served as secretary that year and Lillian Wilson was our treasurer.

February found us ready to launch our largest undertaking thus far, a semi formal dance in the gym. It was a wonderful dance—practically every student in the college attended and we were terribly proud of our success.

The months sped by and soon we were packing again for the summer vacation, extracting promises of faithful correspondence from our friends and looking forward to the far-off fall when we would return with the long-awaited status of upperclassmen.

The most impressive sight on campus that September was the increased enrollment of male students. We had been primarily a women's college for so long! The waiting lists were crowded with the names of hopeful ex-G.I.'s.

That old bogey, Training School, was now uppermost in our thoughts. Expectant of every fear known to man, each division solemnly entered upon eight weeks' practice teaching under the able guidance of the faculty. At the end of that period, we emerged having encountered the prescribed number of pitfalls as more mature individuals, fully appreciative of the great task which lay ahead.

Varsity sports at Bridgewater once more came into prominence, and the men received the enthusiastic support of their fellow students. Social life gained impetus; and the juniors, not to be outdone, experimented with an off-campus formal in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Kenmore in Boston. Formerly all dances had been held in the gym. This new idea was eagerly accepted by the student body as evidenced by the large attendance.

The biennial Gym Jam took place in spring. It was then that we realized the physical and emotional benefits derived from active participation in sports during the year. The junior class was rightly proud of the girls who so expertly demonstrated their skill in tennis, modern dance, basketball, tap dancing, apparatus and tumbling, and a wide variety of other activities.

Mildred Duggan headed our class this year and in her absence we were led by Mary Ruth Sullivan. Phyllis Jones was kept busy with the secretarial work at the frequent class meetings, while Ruth Moriarty handled the treasury department. The Kernel Korn Radio Revue was decided upon as our class project, and when the program was presented in the spring every member of the class took an active part. We became more fully conscious of the extreme importance of class spirit. It was this fine sense of loyalty and co-operation which underlay the success of all our ventures.

After three long years, we took our places in the daisy chain at graduation. Our minds were troubled with thoughts of finals, yet we took time out to reflect upon the difference the years had made. But a few months more and we would be in the places now occupied by the seniors. It was inconceivable! Not even the excitement which accompanied the realization of our elevated status could quell the sense of loss we felt as we watched the Class of '47 assembled for the final ceremony of their college life.

September, 1947. The enviable prestige of seniors was at last ours. No more did we hold doors for upperclassmen. No longer did we arise upon the arrival of fellow tablemates. We, the wide-eyed, motley crew of '44 had attained the rank and dignity of SENIORS! The full importance of this new station in life came to us when, on Cap and Gown Day, we marched into chapel to the accompaniment of Pomp and Circumstance.

The burdens of preparation for Open House and Alumni Weekend fell upon our shoulders and we carried them successfully. Continually we were faced with problems demanding judgment and responsibility, and we were quick to perceive the wonderful benefits procured therefrom.

In philosophy class we came to realize the small but vital part we were to play as teachers. Interviews with superintendents worried and intrigued us all, and before graduation many had already signed contracts.

Our professional training was furthered by our off-campus training in the public schools. The personal value to each of us is something which can never be measured. We grew in strength of character, wisdom, and understanding.

The majority of student organizations were presided over by members of the senior class, who proved themselves capable, efficient, and inspiring workers. As a group we launched the traditional sale of Christmas cards. Noon-times and after classes we found representatives displaying a wide assortment of greeting cards and other holiday supplies in the Rotunda.

As reaffirmation of our faith in Mildred Duggan, we had once more elected her to the class presidency. She was capably assisted by Louise Payne as vice president, Mary Cronin as secretary, and Anna Gibbs as treasurer. Under their leadership, we held frequent meetings to plan the details of graduation. There were so many things to occupy our minds outside of classes, that we often wondered if we would ever have time to do all the things we wanted to accomplish. Endless hours were consumed in discussions of the picnic, the banquet, baccalaureate, and graduation luncheon. We adjusted caps and gowns, concentrated on term papers, hurried to and from classes and then stopped long enough to notice that the pages of the calendar had rapidly fallen away. It was with a deep sense of gratitude for all she had done that on June sixth in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-eight we bade farewell to Bridgewater Teachers College. Our feelings were mixed with sorrow and joy—sorrow because we had reached the end of four wonderful and valuable years, joy because we had now attained that distant goal where we would have an opportunity to put to practical use the harvest of four years’ toil. The years are gone, but the memories we shared will always be ours. They are for each of us to cherish in his own way.

Class Ode

PORTRAIT

Autumn days were heavy days—heavy with the smell of summer’s death and whispering leaves—a symphony of sound and color.

“Grow with us,” the ivy whispered. We watched the ivy—groping—climbing—reaching—

And we listened—listened to the organ in the quiet of the Chapel—Our Father . . . hallowed be thy name . . .

In the library we heard the stillness of the autumn dusk,
And we listened to the lullaby of the rain as it soothed the weary day;
Listened to the learned and we felt the joy of knowledge—Shakespeare, “All the world’s a stage,” The Age of Pericles, the magic world of science—
We felt the surge of knowing as we pushed against the door of wisdom.

The days passed.

Time took the leaves and left the naked trees against a melancholy sky.

The beacon’s rays revealed a campus bathed in crystal fantasy
And caught the ivy clinging to the wall, undaunted by the cold hand of Winter.
The ivy had grown stronger and we were strengthened with it—
“Not to be ministered unto, but to minister”—and we learned to guide and give.

And now the campus sings a Spring song.

The earth is drenched with newness and the days are bright with promise,
And virgin leaves are coaxed to birth by warm sun and cool rain.
And still the ivy climbs and grows because its roots are strong and the earth from which it springs is firm and true.

. . . The ivy will always grow.

ACTIVITIES

We have tried in the following pages to capture that elusive quality of "college spirit"... the all-important extra-curricular affairs which so effectively augmented our classroom work.
Student Cooperative Association

Here at Bridgewater, as at every college, we find a group of students whose interests in campus life vary. Yet despite the variety, everyone has a common interest in the Student Co-operative Association, the largest and most important organization in the college. Upon entrance to Bridgewater, each student becomes automatically a member of the association.

The purpose of the Student Co-operative Association is to regulate all matters of student life which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the faculty, and to develop and maintain high standards of thought and action in the college.

Throughout the years, with the loyalty and co-operation of both faculty and students, the Student Co-operative Association has striven to make Bridgewater a greater and finer college.
Campus Comment

Campus Comment is the college paper and the voice of the students in the college. It has been the policy of the paper to cover every phase of college activity. An active staff of over fifty students, with the aid and advice of Miss Olive Lovett, the faculty adviser, prepare the monthly issue of Campus Comment. This year the paper staff has made good use of its office in the Administration Building. Besides publishing the monthly issue, the staff of Campus Comment sponsors a dance during the year and a banquet in the spring.

Campus Comment is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Every year delegates from the paper attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Conference at Columbia University.
Woman's Athletic Association

All the women of the college are members of the Women's Athletic Association. Yearly class awards are earned by those who have met the requirements of their class. A healthy interest in sports is promoted by the organization, which awards the 4-S pin to any senior who has shown leadership in service, scholarship, stability, and sportsmanship.

Men's Athletic Association

The function of the Men's Athletic Association at Bridgewater is to provide the male students of the college an opportunity to participate in varsity and intramural athletics.

New uniforms were supplied, giving added color and enthusiasm to the participants in the school's varsity play. The schedule of contestants in soccer, basketball, baseball and tennis was greatly enlarged over past years, enabling us to have a well-rounded sports program. With returned war veterans and a freshman class consisting of many young high school graduates, we find a good mixture of experience and spirit. Therefore, it now appears that the men of Bridgewater are underway in the sports world.
Day Student Council

The purpose of our Day Students Organization can be explained by quoting from the preamble of its constitution: “For the purpose of regulating matters pertaining to the life of the day students at Bridgewater and for the promotion of fellowship among its members.”

Various social affairs including the “Big-Little Sister” party, the Christmas party, and Parents’ Night are conducted by the organization.

Phillips Brooks Club

The Phillips Brooks Club is open to Bridgewater students of all faiths. Its activities are concerned with social service work and its members participate in a well-rounded program.

Left to Right: Betty Morton, Sally Mapes, Fred Gustafson, Joyce Dawson

Standing: M. Cunningham
Seated: Marie McNeil, Francis Mulgueeny, Munya Wisotsky
Tillinghast House Board

This group is directly responsible for making and requiring observance of rules governing the conduct of the girls in Tillinghast Dormitory. With the co-operation of all members, it is possible to adapt dormitory life to constantly changing conditions.

Woodward House Board

Through the organization of the student officers and councillors in the House, order and dignity have been promoted. When each girl in the dormitory takes pride in her contribution, the work of the Board becomes greatly simplified.
Men's Club

After concluding its second consecutive year, since its inactivity during World War II, Men's Club has again become an active organization.

The Men's Club is primarily a social group and sponsors and supports such affairs as dances, men's banquet, and men's show. Every man automatically becomes a part of the whole upon his entrance at the college.

Student Fellowship

The Student Fellowship, Bridgewater's oldest Protestant organization, once again takes pride in a successful year. The meetings, held in the homes of Mr. George O. Jenkins, Miss Pope, and Miss Decker, the Congregational Church and Tillinghast Reception Room, have included speakers, a hymn sing, movies, a supper hike, Halloween Party, Christmas Caroling at homes of invalids and the aged and candlelight communion. The Student Fellowship has sung once a month at the Congregational Church. The Reverend M. Walker Coe is the club's advisor.
Newman Club

Newman Club at Bridgewater is affiliated with the National Federation for the Advancement of Catholic Culture and Fellowship in the secular colleges. The aim of the club is to deepen the spiritual and enrich the temporal lives of its members through a balanced program of religious, intellectual, and social activities, and to assist the college and its students whenever possible.

Menorah Society

Menorah Society of Bridgewater is a club for the Jewish members of the student body. The activities of the group revolve about the study of the Jewish religion, culture, and nation so that the club's members receive a better knowledge of their heritage. Affairs in collaboration with Jewish organizations of other colleges, debates prepared and presented by Menorah members, motion pictures, speakers, musicals, and parties in celebration of festive Jewish holidays are among the various activities enjoyed by Menorah Society.
Glee Club

The Women’s Glee Club is comprised of sixty-two members, all of whom enjoy good music and strive to uphold the high standards of music in the college. The Club holds an annual Christmas Carol Concert, a Spring Concert with guest soloists and provides the music for the baccalaureate service. The Glee Club is under the able direction of Miss Frieda Rand.

Orchestra

The college orchestra, under the able direction of Miss Frieda Rand, is made up of those students who play musical instruments. In the spring, an annual concert is held at the Horace Mann Auditorium with outstanding artists as guests. This organization aims to bring musical enjoyment to the college from the works of the great masters.
Dramatic Club

The purpose of the Dramatic Club is to train members in the various techniques of the stage; to develop ability to speak before an audience, and to provide entertainment for the college at large. This year the club has presented "The Patsy," the traditional Christmas play, and a Spring production.

Upper Elementary Club

The Upper Elementary Club, founded only a year ago, has started a successful season with a large membership. The club is not only open for those who are in the Elementary Course but for anyone in the school who wishes to orient himself with additional knowledge of the training school and the work connected with it. With the aid of Mr. Rucker, faculty advisor, and a capable program committee, the aim of the organization is being reached.
Dormitory Council

Dormitory Council is an organization that is directly responsible for making and enforcing such regulations as will govern the general conduct of the dormitory students while in Bridgewater. It helps students to enjoy the advantages offered by it with extensive opportunities for self-directed activity, for self dependence, and for social responsibility. The council includes its own officers as well as the house boards of Woodward Hall and Tillinghast Hall.

K. P. Club

The Kindergarten Primary Club is composed of people who are interested in the primary grades. Miss Marks is the faculty adviser. Many of the meetings are held in Tillinghast Reception Room and in the training school. The members often discuss problems tangent to their interests, hear a noted guest speak, or plan programs which are of interest to the group. It is the only club in the college which is a branch member of the Association for Childhood Education.
French Club

"Le Cercle Français," under the supervision of Mrs. Frost, faculty adviser, offers membership to students interested in French. At the meetings of the club, members "parler Français et rien que Français." The purpose of the club is "s'instruire en s'amuser" or "learn the fun way."

This year "le Cercle Français" sponsored Mardi Gras, its biennial attraction, an all-college affair, in which each club chose a King and Queen and entered a float to represent it. From these a King and Queen were elected to preside over Mardi Gras. The theme this year was "Rendezvous." The setting was a village square in France, where costumes, prizes, and delicious French pastries were featured.

Library Club

Library Club, under the direction of Miss Carter and Miss Hill, endeavors to stimulate and develop the literary interests of its members. Meetings are held bimonthly during which speakers in related literary fields, book reviews, workshop periods, recordings, and social programs are presented. Library Club has an elastic program fitted to the needs and desires of all members.
Kappa Delta Pi

The Epsilon Iota Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is a professional society whose purpose is to encourage high professional, intellectual, and personal standards and to recognize outstanding contributions to education. Members are selected on the basis of commendable personal qualities, worthy educational ideals, and sound scholarship. The program of meetings consists of speakers, social activities, and an annual banquet.

Science Club

Science Club, the oldest club in the college has been reorganized under the supervision of Miss Graves and the leadership of Israel Greenberg. Its program includes lectures, movies, field trips and laboratory experiments.

The work of Genevieve Powers, Israel Greenberg, Marshall Laforet and Walter Morrison was also valuable.
Alma Mater

1. Within thy life we grew; The task you set we knew: To burn thy beacon bright, Where fail the rays of right.

2. Within thy life we sang Of love and peace that rang Throughout thy sounding halls Now memories in thy walls.

3. Beyond thy life we raise Thy worthy name in praise Where e'er we chance to be, We honor B. T. C.

Chorus

O Alma Mater, thy children strive To keep thy faith alive O Alma Mater, we sing for thee This song of loyalty.
O Alma Mater, thy voice alone Will guide in paths unknown.
Girls' Sports

Genevieve Powers

Our four years at Bridgewater Teachers College have been made more pleasant by the addition of sports to our extra-curricular activities. W. A. A., consisting of nine board members, twelve activity directors and four physical education teachers as advisors, has been responsible for this part of our college life.

Many members of our class have served capably and efficiently on W. A. A. to insure a varied sports program to fit all of our abilities. Most of our class have participated to some extent. Our six physical education majors plus some of the sturdier “generals” have contributed their energy to this worthy organization.

Most of us tried our wings during freshman year and “attempted” some of these sports which include field hockey, tennis, basketball, softball, archery, badminton, modern dance, bowling, swimming, and the perennials—hiking and biking.

This was the year the Phys. Ed.’s joined our campus and the idea of sports in a college girl’s life soared. Competition was keen.

The Biannual Gym Jam, held that year, was an exhibition of the gym work of all classes. We entertained with our somersaults, tumbling, centipedes and pyramids, performed to the tune of “The Umbrella Man.” We were amusing examples of willingness, if not perfection. Martha Walsh represented our class as the All American Girl. The year ended with a bang at the annual W. A. A. banquet when some proud members of our class earned and received their first W. A. A. sports award, a maroon and gray emblem with ’48 in the corner.

As sophomores, benefitted by our one year of experience, we showed a vast improvement. We held our own in basketball, field hockey and bowling especially. Modern Dance enthusiasts formed their own club and improved their technique vastly from freshman year. We were busy at all sports and gloried in our title of sophomores. We weren’t “green” anymore. Again, many of us received our emblems at the W. A. A. banquet.

As juniors, we had plenty of exercise in the training school for eight weeks which seemed to limit our participation somewhat in extra-curricular activities. When basketball started, our teams were beginning to be feared. Our class membership was decreased, but our competitive spirit kept us up on top. It was Gym Jam year and we contributed in the form of a demonstration of volleyball and badminton. Our lack of skill was abetted by our general carefree attitude. At least, we “entertained.” This year, Gen Powers represented us as the All American Girl. Under a new policy adopted by W. A. A., we received maroon and gray “B’s” at the banquet. We felt like real sports now, since we had earned our first letter.

Senior year, we were apparently more interested in caps and gowns, for only a few loyal ones kept the senior’s sport spirit alive. We did our best in field hockey, basketball, and swimming, and bowling. We were subdued by the overwhelming amount of underclassmen. We might have been outclassed, but not out-fought. Our last W. A. A. banquet turned out to be a gala affair. It was our last chance to add a star or bar to our “B’s.” Those of us who earned them are proud of the fact, and none of us ever regret the time we spent participating in sports. We feel that we are all the better for it. Maybe this experience will make us better teachers. We have learned to give and take, to win modestly, and to lose graciously. It is with this spirit that we shall remember our W. A. A. days at Bridgewater Teachers College.

All of us have benefited, at least indirectly, by aid given us by our Physical Education teachers. Miss Lois Decker, head of the department, put forth her energy to help the board, especially in relation to modern dance and archery. It was under her direction that Modern Dance Club was formed. Miss Mary Caldwell has helped to direct the activity directors. Thus she has to deal with all sports. Her special interests seem to lie in sports which do not appeal to a popular majority of students. She “pushes” volleyball, swimming, badminton, hiking, and biking. Miss Mary Moriarty, Director of the Physical Education Major Curriculum, has plenty to do to keep her “darlings” from participating in sports too much. It is a hopeless task for her.

Miss Doris Brooks was a member of our faculty during our sophomore year. She inspired us with her philosophy of the value of sports in a person's character. Her interests were mostly in basketball and softball.

Miss Sally Merrow joined us during our junior and senior years. By teaching both generals and physical education majors she helped both groups with her advice, especially in basketball.

Back to us. Trips to various colleges such as Rhode Island State, Wheaton, Wellesley, and Radcliffe made sports more interesting. We held our own in basketball, field hockey, volleyball, and modern dance. Playdays were held here when teams from Lowell, Salem, Framingham, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and other colleges were invited to compete with us. Whether here in our familiar gym and campus or on a strange court, we played fairly and squarely.

We are grateful for the opportunities presented to us for sport participation. The interest engendered in them will make our personalities more completely rounded. The true spirit of athletics, the devotion to the ideals of scholarship, stability, service, and sportsmanship will remain with us, becoming an integral part of our character.

Sports Personalities

By Israel Greenberg and Marshal Laforet

An analysis of sports at Bridgewater Teachers College reveals the names of the fellows who have engaged actively in athletics, and who have shown outstanding ability during the two years following the termination of the war in 1946. BILL SIDES, witty and good-humored, has been especially prominent in soccer as co-captain and fullback. Noted for his forceful defensive work, Bill aided the team greatly. . . . Popular DICK GRIMLEY is quite a versatile athlete as was shown by his capable record made as co-captain and fullback on the soccer squad, center during the basketball season, and pitcher in baseball. . . . ED ZION displayed great spirit and talent while a member of the basketball squad, maintaining steady playing in energetic games throughout the season. . . . Soccer enthusiast, accurate pitcher and first baseman, and capable and skillful guard in basketball, BOB TEAHAN was easily recognized for his excellent performances. . . . RICKY SARGENT, all around athlete was quite at ease whether he safely defended the goal in soccer, or captured balls in the outfield, or played expertly in basketball. . . . Small but aggressive GEORGE "SWISH" PAPPAS was recognized for his aptitude and agility in basketball, baseball, and soccer. . . . Dependable and ambitious JOE KUDERA was proficient whether he was asked to perform as shortstop in baseball or as guard in basketball. . . . Dextrous and skillful JOHN HUGHES saved many a run from being scored by his superior fielding in baseball. . . . AL "HAPPY" MAZUKINA, noted for his dynamic attitude and vigor in soccer, for powerful hitting in baseball, and for ardency in basketball, capably fills the picture of a good athlete.

These men who competed for varsity standing on the various Bridgewater teams surely deserve recognition for their contribution to our school! Let's remember though, that they were not individualists; they were team men. Other participants could be mentioned who were staunch supporters, but the exigency of space prevents their inclusion.
COACH ANDERSSON

Versatile and capable Knute H. Andersson, dean of men, coach, physical instructor, and science professor, was enthusiastically welcomed by all the men of the college upon his arrival here at Bridgewater Teachers College.

Dean Andersson is liked by all with whom he comes in contact, because of his fine sense of humor, amiability, friendly personality, and beaming smile. He makes everyone feel at ease while in his presence, by his unassuming manner, likeable countenance, and cheerful conversation. Coach Andersson was an all around athlete at Springfield College, where he excelled, especially in track.

Professor Andersson has had multi-experience in coaching for over fifteen years in football, soccer, swimming, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, etc. His coaching career has carried him into high school, college, and semi-pro instruction. Bridgewater is grateful and fortunate to possess a coach of Knute H. Andersson's calibre.

CO-OPERATION FOR SUCCESS

Possibly the greatest ideal of all, for which the entire world now is searching, is complete and willing co-operation. Nothing in college life so completely trains for this as do sports. In Bridgewater, where the number of losses usually outnumbers the wins, where no single individual seems to excel, this spirit of co-operation has been especially magnified.

BASEBALL REVIEWS FOR 1947

Since there was no sports section last year, we now take the liberty of including the general results of the 1947 baseball campaign in this issue.

Although faced by many obstacles, mainly the lack of veteran players, Coach Fred Meier (now on leave for graduate study) molded together a squad which gave a creditable account of themselves on the diamond. Against superior opposition, the local nine displayed aggressive spirit and determination despite their winless record. Even though no captain was officially elected, the ability of Dick Grimley made him the natural leader. Besides Grimley, the fielding of the Hughes' boys (John and Jim), and the hard hitting of Ricky Sargent was particularly worthy of attention. The whole squad improved vastly as the season progressed; this factor might provide us with an optimistic outlook for the '48 season.

The abbreviated eight-game schedule of last year will be enlarged, and last year's team will be augmented by several talented freshmen. It is with confident anticipation that we look forward to our second postwar year of baseball under the skilled hands of the new head coach, Knute H. Andersson.

SOCCER NOTES

Launching its 1947 battle under Coach Andersson, the soccer team waged a hard-fought, although a none too successful season, against experienced opponents.

Taber triumphed over a B.T.C. team, 3-2, on October 8, at Bridgewater. The flashes of individual talent and power exhibited by Pappas, Gregg, Williamson, and Mazukina produced the home tallies; while the skillful goal guarding offered by Ricky Sargent prevented the invaders from rolling up a greater score.

On the following day in Boston, the Teachers were outclassed by a strong Suffolk group, 4-1. The lone Bridgewater thrill occurred when George Pappas effectively screened to allow Williamson to penetrate the enemy's goal. Much progress was evident in the Red and White play, and the stellar performances of Dick Hovey was of definite aid to the team.

The B.T.C. chargers were downed by the Durfee defenders, 3-1, at Fall River, on October 14. Neither team was up to par in their play, and the game found both sides wasting numerous scoring opportunities. Happy Mazukina thwarted a complete loss by sinking a penalty shot for the locals.

The Teachers almost set a precedent for the year, but instead of the hoped-for victory, they drew a tie against a powerful Suffolk eleven, on October 21, on lower campus. During one of the fastest and most skillful games of the season, B.T.C. matched Suffolk University, 3-3, in a tournament that proved the worth of the Teachers spirited play. Limelighters were Gregg, Williamson, Nolan, Pappas, Topham, and Laforet. Bill Sides was notable for his strong defensive tactics; it should be mentioned, however, that on the whole, every man contributed towards making the contest a moral success.

Durfee challenged the power of the Teachers on November 4, on lower campus, and managed to win by the slight margin of one goal. Ed Sweeney and George Pappas, backed by the brilliant defensive work of Dick Hovey, added to the color of the game.

In the final game of the season, B.T.C. missed their last opportunity to score a win, by presenting a 9-2 triumph to an energetic Fitchburg team, on November 6, here at Bridgewater. Dick Grimley valiantly tried to bolster the B.T.C. defense; Bernie Miller, who tallied two marks, led the forward line against their opponents, but were unable to match the clever passing attack of the up-staters.

We must admit that despite their improvement, the Teachers are not champions, as yet. However, they did show great spirit, co-operation, and determination in their play. This sport also contributed much to the strengthening of school spirit among the students.

BASKETBALL HIGHLIGHTS

This year's basketball season found B.T.C.'s quintet under the reins of a new head coach, Knute H. Andersson, who led them into the recently organized Southern New England Coastal Basketball Conference. With an ambitious twenty-five game schedule before him, Coach Andersson greeted a number of candidates, including a nucleus of ten veterans of last year's squad, and immediately set to work. A pre-season encounter with an Alumni five found veterans Captain Ed Zion, Bob Teahan, and Joe Kudera leading the students to victory. Two promising young freshmen, Thomas Douthart and Jim Planagan, also made an impression by their energetic display of talent. Other veteran players were Ricky Sargent, Bob Lemos, Hap Mazukina, George Pappas, and Marshall Laforet. The newcomers who rounded out the team were Fred Nolan, Bob Firing, Bill Ford, Gordon Dennison, Chet Smolski, Phil Cleary, Warren Thuotte, and Malcom Dillon.
A GOOD START

The Teachers opened the season well by conquering Salem Teachers College, 51-46, at Salem, on December 2. The Red and White also hurdled over Worcester Teachers College, 44-41, in a home game on December 4. The "Little Five" (the junior-varsity squad) also earned their share of the glory by winning their first two games. We must say that the team has advanced over last year's playing, so we can hope that a reasonably successful season will result.

Due to the necessity of meeting an early deadline, Alpha can do little but offer to you a glimpse of the games to be played after December 4, 1947. The team had scheduled two games in Boston, one at the Boston Garden, on December 10, against Keene (N. H.) Teachers, and the other at the Boston Arena with Suffolk University, on February 24. Besides these two games, the complete schedule included twelve home games and thirteen away games. Among the opponents were: Worcester Teachers College, Salem Teachers College, Keene Teachers College, Westfield Teachers College, Suffolk University, New Bedford Textile, Bradford-Durfee Textile, Calvin Coolidge College, Becker College, Burdett Business College, Bryant College, Rhode Island School of Design, Massachusetts Maritime Academy, and our arch-rival, Fitchburg Teachers College.

The team was led by steady and dependable Ed Zion. The fine all around performance of Bob Teahan set the pace for the rest of the players and gave considerable cause for optimism. Tall Thomas all Douthart's work on pushup and rebound shots combined with the clever ball handling of Jim Flanagan or Ricky Sargent made an offense which opponents found difficult to stop. The back court work and teamplay of Joe Kudera proved to be an unheralded spectacle. The JV's featured the play of George Pappas, Chet Smolski, and Gordon Dennison on their debut and hope to improve last year's record.

ENTHUSIASTIC LASSIES

This year's games were considerably enlivened by the appearance of energetic cheerleaders who were attractively clad in outfits consisting of bright red corduroy dresses set off by white blouses. Our sincere thanks for their fine efforts go to the girls who participated. They were: Joan Bull, Jean Parkinson, Catherine Sala, Mary Correia, Ruth A. Henderson, and Margaret Jenkins.

Vida S. Clough, A.B., M.Ed., Director
Discriminating service for administrators.
Exceptional openings for qualified teachers desiring opportunities in public schools, independent schools and colleges.
“An agency organized by educators to serve educators”

It cannot be stressed too urgently that better light means better sight.
In study make sure that there is ample light for protection from eye-strain.
