The Normal School movement in America began with a group of dedicated men who appealed to the people and to the Legislature through the press and other means of public address, urging the establishment of a State Board of Education and of Normal Schools for the better training of teachers for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

After twelve years of persistent effort, an act of the Legislature establishing the Board of Education was signed by Governor Edward Everett on April 20, 1837. The Board at its first meeting elected Horace Mann, Secretary and immediately made plans to hold conventions in every county for the discussion of public education.

In March, 1838, Edmund Dwight of Boston, a member of the Board, offered to furnish $10,000 "to be expended under the direction of the Board, for qualifying teachers for our common schools" if the Legislature would match the amount for the same purpose. On April 19, 1838, the Legislature placed at the disposal of the Board $20,000 for the establishment of schools for the education of teachers as an experiment for three years.

Plymouth County was the first to petition the Board for the location of the school in the Old Colony district. The Board voted to establish a Normal School in Plymouth County "as soon as suitable buildings, fixtures, furnishing, and the means of carrying on the school, exclusive of the compensation of teachers, shall be provided and placed under the control of the Board." Six months later, in December of 1838, it was voted to establish two other Normal Schools at Lexington and Barre.

A convention was held at Hanover, Massachusetts, on September 4, 1838, to spark the idea of teacher training on the local level. It was well attended and included such supporters as John Quincy Adams, Horace Mann, and Daniel Webster. A resolution was introduced to raise in the several towns of Plymouth County another matching sum of $10,000 for the erection of a school. At meetings held in various towns, a total of $8,000 was pledged with individual citizens pledging $2,000 if the school were established in their town.

The competition for the site was among Bridgewater, Plymouth and Middleborough. At a public hearing on March 26, 1840, the decision was to locate the School in Bridgewater; the Normal School at Bridgewater opened its doors in the Old Town Hall on September 9, 1840, to a class of 21 ladies and 7 gentlemen.

As the Normal School experiment continued, the idea of providing permanent buildings for the schools took root with some 30 or 40 supporters of popular education. Meeting with Horace Mann in the winter of 1844, this group petitioned the Legislature for a sum of $5,000 to be placed at the hands of the Board of Education for the purpose of providing proper accommodations for the Normal Schools.

On March 10, 1845, the Legislature appropriated the sum of $5,000 for the permanent founding of teacher training schools with the stipulation that a matching sum be provided by the towns concerned. Plymouth pledged the amount required and made strenuous efforts to have the school relocated there. The citizens of Bridgewater were also willing to comply with the conditions and thought that since the school had been established experimentally at Bridgewater, that it would now continue indefinitely.

After some deliberation, the Board of Education voted on May 28, 1845, to erect a permanent Normal School building at Bridgewater; and more than a year later, on August 19, 1846, the first State Normal School building in America was dedicated at Bridgewater.

DEDICATION

The memories of four years of our lives, perhaps our most important years—
The shedding of our youth—
The forming of our adult selves—
It is here that this has been accomplished.
Those who came before us, one hundred twenty-five years ago,
made it possible for us to be here—
We have made our contributions and departed—
Those who will come after us will carry on where we left off, growing, building, fighting for an ideal.
It is to this, the Past, the Present, and the Future of Bridgewater, that we dedicate the 1966 ALPHA.
THE COLLEGE
A multitude of individuals converge within a single institution, then scatter to form a multiplicity of patterns. Each individual comes for a time, makes his contribution, then departs.
In an endless cycle, the story of student life is told. It is told in the cheering crowds, the ambling masses, and at times when the soul is its own companion.
It is told in the fierce competition of athletics,
in the intense pursuit of knowledge,

in the mastery of an artistic skill.
The story is told anywhere—
everywhere—
The joyfulness of man prolongeth his days.

Ecclesiastes 10:20
on campus
or off campus—
in every season
It is told in the noisy comraderie of dormitory life, in the ceaseless buttock conversational interchanges, or during moments of solitude
It is the story of a college at work—the scene of concentrated study, self realization, and frenzied activity.
The story is a vibrant one, for it deals with scores of human beings—persons possessed by the desire to learn, persons determined to discover themselves.
THE YEAR

HOMECOMING 1965
We march as one silent body and file into ageworn seats. The academic year is open. We are Seniors! Riveted faces—minds think of pride and future—we ponder the present, reflect on the past—friends become dearer. The subject is time—we realize all too fleeting. The file moves slowly out—meeting at one. Christmas cards in September? Sell! Sell! Sell! The prom. "Give me ten angels." "I hate Currier and Ives." The frantic ride to the Rob. Friends are dearer!

Elected student leaders are responsible for the smooth running of all campus activities. Acting as a bridge between administration and student body, SCA is a center and catalytic agent for student action. Through its allocation of funds, the Student Co-operative Association promotes many cultural events on campus, runs a bookstore co-op, and supports our publications and athletic teams. This year they hosted the two most important events of the year: the Kingsmen Concert, and the Associated Student Governments Conference.
It begins with dusk to dawn concentrated efforts involving chicken wire, plywood, and countless sessions of napkin stuffing. Then with the unveiling of floats the weekend is launched with the Friday night rite of fire, acrobatics, and “yea team.” And it’s “yea for the Queen” too, and off to the endless round of parties. The morning of the big game comes—brisk and sunny. Alumni in huddles of friendly, but restrained conversation. KICK-OFF Bridgewater beat Nichols. Cheerleaders—red and white against the noon day sun, popcorn crowd, giant mums, cold hands, hot coffee, war yell, half-time havoc, hot dogs, bugle blare, TOUCHDOWN. It’s over. Frenetic transformations for the Homecoming Banquet and then the pagentry of the Dance, the crowning of the Queen and the close of a hectic weekend.
Go-Go-Go Cleat torn mud flies against the sweaty players as the battle wages on. Our greatest asset is our spirit. We’re young, we’ll grow, we are growing. The game is lost but it was played and it was played well.

The undenied universal appeal of Shakespeare had its influence on the cultural vistas of the campus when the National Players presented the classic plays, Twelfth Night and Romeo and Juliet. The fusion of modern technique with classic literature brought about a different viewpoint and resulted in an artistic success.
The one hour combined attack by the Compass Players and the Assembly Committee upset everything in its path. The strategy was biting satire and the victims were the administration, "kiddie lit," student practices and tradition—We were conquered but died laughing.

A first for Bridgewater—the appearance of Senator Edward “Ted” Kennedy. An hour before his arrival, students, faculty, and townspeople converged on the Horace Mann Auditorium. Soon every inch of space was taken—many were turned away. His arrival was met by students eager to hear this man speak. His topic—Vietnam and our commitment in Southeast Asia. The applause was warm, long, and enthusiastic; the hour, enlightening, thought-provoking and much too short.

Let's deck the halls—all of them! It's the Christmas season and there are lights in the conifers and a wreath in every door. Then there's merry caroling arm in arm, and snow, frost, and candy and oranges thrown as gifts. Hmmm... cranberry bread and turkey eaten by candlelight, a Christmas concert... (Palestrina and Irving Berlin)... parties... sparkle and joy and a little Dickens... and then, it's leaving for the holidays at home with greetings of "good-bye until next year."

"Tender is the Night"...
Crystal chandeliers, superb food, elegant gowns, the heavy scent of a myriad of perfumes, conversation in the Piano Bar and the Polynesian Village. The mood, the music, the magic combined to form a memorable evening which soon dissolved into after-the-prom parties and the misty purple shadows of dawn.
COMMENCEMENT

a beginning
but also a cancelling agent.
No more exams, fraternity parties, football games, cutting classes, 2 hour bull sessions, all nighters, and most important—no more irresponsibility.

It was over—
For most of us it seemed impossible—almost unthinkable that four years had elapsed so quickly. College life was rapidly drawing to an end.
The procession, Crowds pushing in from all directions, scores of cameras bearing down to catch every detail—the sobriety of organ music. Then the long wait— the wait when the present and its challenges are remote and the past with its memories seems more immediate. A four year whirlwind had subsided.

A moment of reflection upon classmates and friends and those we had come to love...we had worked together, played together, laughed together, and sometimes we even cried together. It was over.
Then—a sudden burst—the rains came, triggering confusion and chaos. A scramble for diplomas and certificates. Seniors, still clinging to memories of student days, unawaringly became alumni.
The rains swept away the remnants of what once had been a "class"—the Class of '66. Now we were graduates with all of the responsibilities that go with the title.
The air was fresher—the oppressive heat was gone. The sky began to clear at the horizon. One last glance at the campus.
The “world” was waiting—new goals had to be set up new tasks to accomplish
new friends to meet—

Yet—somewhere there would still be a remembrance of those days of youth and carefree exuberance—and a remembrance of the people and events that were crowded into our four years at Bridgewater State College.

That God may make you very useful is my best wish for you; for I know that if useful, you will have the happiness which always comes when we are in the path of duty.

For the years that will fall on our parting, I would like to wish you happiness. But happiness being such a vague term, let me wish you rather an open mind and the ability to love. The first will assure you of a refreshing life, the second of a rich one.

May God bless you.

These affectionate wishes and entreaties to faith and duty between Bridgewater's graduating daughters and sons of a century ago are a fitting reminder of our proud, unbroken heritage of professional achievement in education.
Message from the President

It is an honor to write a brief message to the seniors in this Anniversary Yearbook. As members of the 125th Anniversary Class you realize the tremendous basic contributions which Bridgewater has historically made to education in the Commonwealth, in the nation, and in the world. You are all familiar with the fact that we are the oldest continuously operated teacher training institution of higher learning in America at its first permanent location. You know how students from our college then enrolling only two or three hundred students—went forward to further educational systems throughout the United States, Mexico, Japan, and Turkey—and our students founded or became presidents of 23 American and foreign institutions of higher learning. You know we are now a multipurpose institution which is currently graduating its first Bachelor of Arts class.

I suspect that all of you may not fully realize you too have been making history. Since you and I came here—bear in mind that I joined the college four years ago as most of you in the graduating class did—we have been engaged in a radical, truly revolutionary program of making the idea of the "College Community" more than idle words. No one realizes more than I that such efforts are imperfect because human beings are imperfect. Nevertheless, you have been part of a sincere concerted effort to share democratically in formulating objectives and ways and means of teaching those objectives. This has applied to every basic policy that affects members of the College Community be they faculty, students, staff, or administrators. I am making this point about things which I am sure most of you take for granted because only by contrast do we realize what is different in the familiar. For instance, the American abroad only begins to appreciate the great influence of America after he has been through the mud roads and mud villages of Latin America, Asia, and Africa.

It is my hope that many of you will feel that some of these things we are doing are fruitful, sound in conception and execution, and that because of that feeling you will find ways and means as you become teachers and administrators of applying—and I would hope more effectively—the principles you have seen in action at your Alma Mater. I need only refer to several of the typical implementing structures and processes with which we try to build a true college community:

1. The College Community Relations Council with five elected members of the student body, five elected members of the faculty and several administrators.
2. The Town College Committee with five students chosen by the S.C.A., along with faculty and administrators meeting with the Town Selectmen and other leading Bridgewater citizens.
3. The Academic Incentives Committee in which students, faculty and administrators are wrestling with what is perhaps the most difficult problem in American higher education, namely, how do we break through the lock step of credits, grades and degrees to concern for learning for its own sake, or how the love of learning may be more important than the vocational or dollar sign so readily attached to education.
4. More generally, the policy of genuine student and faculty participation in decision making through many other appropriate vital committees.

I venture to emphasize the meaning of the familiar because I know how easy it is, in the field of teaching and educational administration, to become discouraged with the difficulties and complexities of communication and other problems of implementing democracy. One message I would like to leave with you. It is that the results in the feeling of belonging, the sense of participation, and the release of creative energies—in place of debilitating frustration and resentment—are far more than worth the very considerable effort to implement a philosophy of democratic education in a school community or a college community.

May the efforts made at Bridgewater in the past and in the future be not unworthy of your emulation and your bettering, as you go forth into the schools and colleges of the Commonwealth and the nation.

MARGARET CURTIN, R.N.—a kind, warm-hearted person who served Bridgewater students faithfully for many years.

Nurse Curtin, as she is affectionately called by the students, retired with the Class of '66, after serving many years as residence nurse. Her cheery disposition and friendly manner will be missed on the Bridgewater campus, especially by Pope Hall and the Men's Dorm residents.
Charles E. Foth—a charming, outgoing man whose true love of learning was so strong that he found the fulfillment of that love in teaching.

A teacher of history and English in addition to directing the Hyannis Summer Session for twelve years, he served quietly and efficiently. In everything he showed a great lovingness of existence. A philosophical spirit led him to seek a deepening of his understanding of humanity, and he communicated his faith and sense of peace with the universe to his students. His heart was wide open to life, and his interests ran from Bach to the Bible. He loved contemplation and solitude and found a deep pleasure in the beauty of art and music, and particularly in the awesome view of the collision of ocean upon rock at Pemaquid Point on Maine.

Charles Foth loved Bridgewater and he is remembered with love by his colleagues and students.

It is difficult to believe that the 1966 Alpha is now complete. At times the task seemed endless; there was always one more thing to do. Caught in a whirl of deadlines, exams, papers, photographs, copy, meetings, and appointments, there just didn’t seem to be enough time for everything. Yet, somehow a book was created.

First came the ideas. Some were carried through; some, discarded. There were changes to be made, a continuation of the new look, the addition of color, departmental pictures, no distinct clubs’ section, etc. Yet, there was a feeling among the class to return to the old, team pics, more copy, etc. We made an earnest effort to accomplish the task of pleasing the class. In some ways we were successful; in others, we were not. However, I feel without a doubt that we did accomplish one very important task—that of creating a yearbook which represents a class, OUR class. If for no other reason than this, I am proud to have been editor of our yearbook.

Putting the Alpha together was no easy task, nor was it one that could be done alone. There are many people who deserve a great deal of credit and to whom I wish to express my gratitude. A special thanks to Joe Donovan, Jewell Gates, and the art department of Wm. J. Keller Inc. for their advice, understanding, and extreme patience; to Mr. Ben, and Joe, and Claire of Benrimo Studio, Winchester, for their fine portrait work, excellent service, and availability for last minute coverage; to Judie, who had the misfortune of being roommate-to-the-editor, for acting as “idea man” and keeping me half-way organized; to Dean Shea for her words of confidence and encouragement; to Dean Harrington for aiding us in scheduling faculty pics; to the faculty and students for their cooperation; to Armand and George, whose literary talents are evidenced throughout the book; to Tom for his photography; to Coop for the use of her car in that last minute rush to the Post Office; to Joyce Pombo, who, at the last minute, accepted a “not so glamorous” position on staff and did a great job; to Miss Guerin and Mr. Lemos, who served as our advisors; to Joyce Rodrigues for her excellent work on the history section; to Miss Pope and Dr. Fiore for their cooperation with the history section; to Em and Danny for keeping the records straight; to the Alpha editors for their ideas, time, devotion, backing, and ability to work; and last of all, to those staff members who will not receive any credit or glory for their part in putting out the Alpha, but without whom the job could not have been done. My year as editor was a rewarding and very exciting one; I shall never forget it. Thanks to all of you who helped make it as successful as it was.

The 1966 edition of ALPHA commemorates the 125th Anniversary of the founding of the State Normal School at Bridgewater in 1845. The name was changed in 1960 to Bridgewater State College.

This issue consists of 224 pages—the first 16 pages are on Tan Teton Text printed in Gravure Brown ink, depicting the early years of the College. Balance of the book is printed in black ink on 80# Velva Dull paper. A running commentary through the first sixteen pages describes the historical changes from the founding in 1845 through to the present time.

This anniversary issue is further complemented by the use of 4/color process units in the College section and on the Commencement pages.

The cover is a rich Windsor Red fabricoid, using cordova grain and a black overtone rub, and featuring the school seal in gold metalay.
