Red-faced and blustery, with a baseball cap on his head, Coach Edward Swenson has been a familiar sight for the Bridgewater College Community. This year Coach Swenson announced that he was retiring as head football coach, marking the end of his eight years of team building. To Coach Swenson we, the Class of 1968, dedicate ALPHA 1968 to honor his achievements in improving the athletic program and developing increased interest and participation in intercollegiate sports.

Determined to disprove the ideal that "a normal school by any other name remains the same," the Class of 1968 set a quick pace for a new generation of Bridgewater students. This "new" student was to look beyond Fall River and Brockton for direction. He was interested in many things: civil rights and migrant workers; the funding of higher education and student power. Unable to accept the provincialism which characterized many facets of our college community, the class began questioning the traditions and practices of the college.

Rebellious, restless, and sometimes reckless, we demanded recognition and attempted action. During our four years this desire for involvement remained. However, it was tempered and mellowed by increased understanding of college policy and proper channeling of student energies. Although sometimes less than a cohesive unit, the Class of 1968 rallied often to insure its own prestige. From the construction of our Freshman Class Fortune Telling Booth to our Senior Prom, we have proved our effectiveness.

A bit cocky at times, the members of our class wasted little time in becoming active members of the Bridgewater college community and eventually leaders in state, regional and national organizations. We had to assert ourselves to keep pace with the physical growth of BSC. We saw Bridgewater—not the Normal School, but the Liberal Arts College—take shape. We helped christen the Conant Science Building; we supervised, from start to finish, the Great Hill Dorms, the New Parking Lot and the Newman Center and St. Basil's Chapel; we watched the official gold-plated shovel groundbreaking and the unofficial heavy duty excavations of the Student Union; and we have seen the Library through its final plans. Too, we have witnessed the increase of the academic community. New administrators and faculty were drawn to Bridgewater bringing new ideas and new methods.

The editors of ALPHA 1968 have tried to capture the "Spirit of 68". Although we emphasize our newness, we must also admit that we have frequently looked to the past for support and stability. Like Janus, the Class of 1968 has faced both the future and the past. Hopefully, we have chosen the best of each. We created new problems, caused many headaches, but most importantly we brought something necessary to Bridgewater—pizazz!!!
MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

A college like ours derives its character from three different sources. The first source is the history and traditions in American higher education as a whole. The second source is the history and traditions of Bridgewater State College. The third source is the climate of issues and values in the rest of society.

The individuality and personality of an institution are subtle and not easy to define. Yet we all recognize them just as we recognize the individuality and personality of a person. Perhaps the words that come closest to describing what we sense as the special nature of the Bridgewater State College character is the phrase, "The Bridgewater College Community." "College Community" because we are deeply committed to a fundamental proposition; namely, that if the values of democracy, of sharing, of participation, of partnership, of dialogue, of striking a balance between the authentic rights of every individual member of the college community, and of every group of individuals in the college— if all these values of democracy are to be real, we must have faith in them and we must work together to make them vital and meaningful, for democracy is the most difficult of all forms of government to implement.

Yes, we are deeply motivated by two convictions at this College. The first conviction is that though democracy is the most difficult form of social organization at a college or anywhere else, it is the best form. The second conviction is that we must make democracy work in a college community like this where, after all, we have so much in common. For how can we go forth into other communities or into the nation or into the world and hope to make the principles of democracy work in those incomprehensibly more difficult and complex situations, unless we have a reasonable measure of success in our relatively homogenous community.
CONVOCATION

"The Changing and the Enduring", Dr. D. Justin McCarthy's convocation address, captured the spirit of the Class of 1968. While the class size increased and Bridge-water grew, traditions such as convocation were still retained.
DSA CHRISTMAS BANQUET

Santa Claus in the guise of Bill Versecakes, V. P. of DSA, once more provided the day students with an enjoyable Christmas banquet. The accompanying pictures endeavor to show the enjoyment of all who attended.
CHRISTMAS DANCE

The Christmas Dance rounded out the Christmas festivities at Bridgewater. Sponsored by the Junior Class, the dance provided an evening of pleasurable entertainment.
The 1968 Mardi Gras proved to be one of the highlights of the social year. The French club presented a superb Mardi Gras atmosphere along with equally fine music for dancing. Costumes worn by the faculty and students were colorful and displayed a great amount of originality.

GROUND BREAKING—STUDENT UNION
What would Homecoming be if the football team didn’t win? Well, the Class of 1968 really couldn’t say because this year the Bears turned in a fantastic win over Nichols’ Bison. In fact, we couldn’t even describe a losing year for the football team, as the Bears made it 4 wins and 3 losses.

Although there were several holes to fill when the squad first reported for training, Coaches Swenson and Mazzaferro began rebuilding and remodeling. Too, it was a young team with the underclassmen accounting for many of the starting positions. The opener against Frostburg won 13-6. Everyone was ecstatic, but the sugar bubble burst when Maine Maritime downed the Bears 27-6. Amazingly enough, Curry fell to BSC 27-6 on home ground while Quonset Point was zapped 34-6.

The fans now held their breath. Homecoming was next on the schedule. If the Bears won this one it meant a winning season. Could it be done? YES! A crowd of over 1500 saw a great offensive and defensive playing as BSC took it 28-16. Seniors Ralph Robinson, Carmen Guarino, and Tom Humphrey (named Most Valuable Player) were phenomenal assets to the team. According to CAMPUS COMMENT statistics, Robinson totalled almost 400 yards in six games; Humphrey successfully converted 15 of 1 PAT; and Carmen Guarino specialized in ruining the oppositions offensive attack. Although the last two games were lost, nothing could negate the spirit and enthusiasm which had manifested itself during the season.

Experimentation was the key to this year's Drama Club productions. During the course of the year we were introduced to Russians, Fanny Brice, the "American Dream," the Jack's and the Robert's on the stage of Horace Mann's Auditorium. One audience was asked "if a Jewish girl could join the convent," another witnessed the "American Dream" strip, while still another attempted to find meaning in Chekhov.

Each of the major productions was especially unique this year. The pre-Thanksgiving production, "Three Sisters," presented us with a new dramatic experience—a twentieth century Russian play. During the four act, the actors and director attempted to give meaning to a foreign cultural experience. Somberness, complexity and melancholy were conveyed to the sometimes bored and troubled audience.

"Funny Girl," the spring musical, was an extravaganza. For years students have jokingly called Mr. Barnett "Cecil B." but now, the truth is out. He is really Florenz Ziegfeld! Presented with the fanfare that characterized the original Ziegfeld Follies, "Funny Girl" dazzled the crowd. Costumes, singing, dancing, staging, zipazz—everything was there to entertain and delight the audience.

Not only did April showers bring May flowers, but they also hatched "Jack" and "The American Dream." If the Drama Club confused the audiences with "Three Sisters," and dazzled it with "Funny Girl," it now shocked with the two one-act plays. That both were of the "Theatre of the Absurd" is understatement. "The American Dream" was humorous, cynical, and relatively understandable. "Jack" was confusing, disturbing, and had a meaning that, when and if it became apparent, hit like a ton of bricks.

The Class of 1968, of course, had a great many representatives in the Drama Club. Kathy Camara was a four-year "on stage star," while people like Kathy Cotter worked behind the scenes. Lin Curtin, Lyn Baldwin, Bruce Taylor, Pete Liberman, Bernice Savoie, Jane Lopes, Maureen Condon, Anne Wright, Diane Winchester, and Ed Martin rounded out the casts of many of the productions. Note must be made, however, of three seniors who "made the big time" during their senior year; Cheryl Faris, everyone's favorite Jewish mother (and she's Lebonese, yet), Jimmy Tavares, singer and hoofer extraordinaire, and Donna Daley, the performer of the first "sock-it-to-'em" "American Dream" strip.

CHAMELEON COFFEE HOUSE

Where do many of Bridgewater's students wander to on Friday night? Frat parties? Sometimes. The C. C.? Often. Is there any place else? Well, due to the efforts of a hard core group of the Class of 1968, a BSC student has a place to go when the thoughts of more soul music or beer threaten to blow his mind. Where it's at is the Chameleon Conversation Coffee House located in the basement of the former Christian Fellowship Center.

Last year a group headed by Karl Crowell, Lucy Mansfield, and Rita Galateros began investigating the feasibility of establishing a coffee house at Bridgewater. Eventually, they thought it was worth the try, and planned the first program for late spring. After the successful opening of Edward Albee's "The Zoo Story," the Chameleon began to collect a small, but loyal group of habituates. When it reopened last fall, it was obvious that this nucleus of students, faculty and townspeople intended to support the Chameleon's programs 100%. Each week an attempt was made to introduce new and provocative speakers and performers ranging from local folk groups to members of the Boston Draft Resistance Group to FIRST to the Fisherman Players. After each program, open discussions were encouraged. Yogi, Viet Nam, drugs, classical music, and racism were discussed and argued.

Certainly the entire college has benefited from the opening of the Chameleon. Besides Karl, Rita and Lucy, several other seniors were particularly involved. Mary Sue McLaughlin and Helen Murray managed the kitchen so that hot coffee and fresh donuts would be available for the earliest arrivals. Several others of the Class of 1968 (namely Maureen Condon, Cheryl Faris, Yvette Tetrault, Peggy Chiulli and Donna Daley) served as fly by night waitresses, chameleon hunters, and chair "setter-uppers" during the year.
CELEBRITY SERIES

Extra! Extra! Bridgewater took another step forward in the fight against cultural stagnation at Bridgewater. The newest combatant added to the ranks was Mr. Barnett's brain-child, the Bridgewater Celebrity Series. Opening in October, the Celebrity Series offered students, faculty, and other interested persons four different and exciting programs at reasonable prices.

The first performance in the series was by Emlyn Williams, world-renowned actor, playwright, director and author. The program presented Mr. Williams in his highly acclaimed "Dylan Thomas Growing Up," but indeed, the show very nearly did not go on. During the afternoon, Mr. Williams suffered a slipped disc in Pope Hall. Upon his return from the hospital, he informed on-lookers that he would definitely go on. Seated painfully in his chair, he performed brilliantly.

Although Emlyn Williams is obviously a "hard act to follow," the Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles held their own. Arriving with costumes appraised at over $80,000, the dance troupe dazzled and awed the Bridgewater audience. The many facets of Flamenco music were displayed ranging from the sophistication of the Bolero to the melancholy of the fado to the frenzy of the finale, "Taberna Del Arco." Once again the Celebrity Series scored with the audience.

Obviously the idea of bringing sixty-five college men to a predominantly women's college is inherently successful. Thus, the third offering of the Celebrity Series—the Villanova Singers—were assured a welcome reception. The Villanova men, however, soon proved that they did not need built-in success. A varied repertoire, sonorous quality and flawless enunciation were among the chief attributes of the group.

The final offering of the 1967-68 series was John Houseman's The Honorable Estate. Starring Geraldine Fitzgerald, The Honorable Estate was a loosely strung together series of excerpts about marriage. Although this program was not as well-received as the earlier ones in the series, it did offer the Bridgewater audiences a chance to see professional actors at work.

The Celebrity Series was truly a worthwhile and stimulating addition to Bridgewater's cultural life.
Because one of the local banks decided it was better to have a drive-in window and a parking lot than for Phi Pi Delta to have a fraternity house, Bridgewater's campus was not graced by the presence of a frat house this fall (unless, of course, one wishes to count Kappa's wing in the Lower Campus Men's Dorm). Alpha Upsilon, after years of mixers, zillions of raffles, and hundreds of copies of Collage (the Free Ticket to the Great Society notwithstanding), decided to rectify the obvious need for a frat house. After many minor legal problems were settled, Alpha Upsilon purchased the large white frame house at 25 Park Terrace overlooking the Student Union excavations.

Hence all dedicated members were spotted in '68 as they STEAMled their way toward their monthly copies of the Massachusetts Teachers Association Journals.

When not trying to squeeze in such outside reading, members tried to acquaint BSC and Mrs. Helen Mara, president of the aforementioned organization. Her appearance was before the Student Teachers' Educational Association of Massachusetts activities in '68, as members got tips from a real pro.

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

The Assembly Committee programs, with a good reputation established from junior year, started the '67-'68 season with a full house and a good show—singers Lynn Blair and Mark Howard.

From then on, the quality of the entertainment was as varied as the size of the house.
Top honors go to Alexander Scourby () who Walt Whitman-ed to a captivated audience of one hundred. The small but dedicated group followed Scourby from Horace Mann auditorium to room 36 for an additional hour of biography and poetry, free of charge!
Less profound, but admittedly more flashy was the swashbuckle-type demonstration of Rod Colbin (xx) who fenced, flashed and flagellated his way before an audience of five hundred.
A fine mixture of ham, corn and thick-sliced bologna provided substantial fare for the blood-thirsty audience.
A () rating also goes to the Blair-Howard singing performance which began the year in fine musical style.
Willy Ley (*), the noted author of books-spatial, was most likely well aware of the typical spaces which abounded in the BSC audience. The students who were there were the only ones who liked the show.

With malice toward none and justice toward one, Erskine Caldwell's program must be rated as far from successful. The half-full, half-hearted, and ultimately half-asleep audience weathered admirably the arrows of the outrageous fortune that fated their arrival.

Due to circumstances beyond his control, (an audience of, roughly, ten students,) Dr. Richard McLoxathan's program on modern art was barely in the running.

Whatever the rating of performance or audience, the Committee program offered diversity and diversion for those students that partook.

So, now that the Class of 1968 has joined the Alumni Association, what does the future hold for Bridgewater. Well, a sneak peek at the long range plans reveals a great many physical changes. The two most desperately needed building projects are underway—the Student Union and the new Library. Both of these structures will be ready within a few years. Still in the early planning stages is a new Professional Education Building, while dreams of a Great Hill Cafeteria, an Athletic Complex, and increased Classroom and Dorm space creep towards reality.

The next few years will see even more curriculum changes as Bridgewater keeps pace with New England's famous liberal arts colleges. Major departments will be academically strengthened while minors attempt to move up to the big time. At present, the long range projection is for roughly 5,000 students by the 1980's, and with the present plan of graduating 500 students and taking in well over 900, this projection does not seem at all remote. New projects, programs and federal grants for research and institutes will all help to attract many varied types of students who will give life and enthusiasm to America's oldest continuing teacher training institution.
