Williness To Work
Essential For Leadership
Declares Cameron Beck

"When opportunity knocks at your door are you going to be ready?" Thus Cameron Beck, well-known lecturer and vocational consultant, immediately gained the attention and interest of the students, in his lecture on Thursday, January 12, presented by the Lecture Fund Committee. Mr. Beck gave a brief survey of his observation, convictions, and suggestions in developing his subject, "The Leadership for Tomorrow."

In order that we may be the ones to constitute this leadership for tomorrow he said that we must be ready for those opportunities which make for success. We cannot all depend on marrying the president's daughter, or on being graduated from a university. There are three classes of people: those who do not do as they are told, those who do just what they are told, and those who do what they do not have to be told to do. Since we are going out into a topsy-turvy world, it is our place to set it aright. The man with self-confidence, who "knows, and knows that he knows" is the one who will get ahead. The reason this college is here is to give us these convictions which will help us attain our success.

Mr. Beck quoted John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s answer to the question, How does success come? "Success comes to him commonly well." Another motto for success is, "When opportunity knocks at your door are you going to be ready?" Thus he said that we must be ready for those opportunities which make for success. The paper has changed its size and shape many times. The first one was hand set in the college print shop and then printed in a four page, two column, 6 by 9½ inch format. Since then has run the gausstner through three, four and six times, and sectioned as a monthly, bimonthly and a six week periodical.

Some factors have changed but many have remained constant. Most important have been the help and suggestions of Miss Lovett, faculty adviser. She has aided the paper to grow through these twelve years and deserves many thanks. The second constant is the name "Campus Comment." The uniqueness of twelve years ago must be thanked for that.

The third constant is the many staffs of students who have cooperated through the years, devoting time, labor and imagination to the performance of a difficult task.

The last factor is, and always has been, that great group of subscribers, the students, who have appreciated and encouraged the maturing of Campus Comment.

Miss Lovett Entertains
Campus Comment Staff
At Anniversary Party

The staff of Campus Comment held a party at the home of Miss Lovett, faculty adviser, on Tuesday afternoon, January 17. The party celebrated the twelfth anniversary of Campus Comment. The general committee was headed by Eleanor Savaria, editor-in-chief; Florence Kamandulis, sophomore, was chairman of entertainment, and Gertrude Twoghi, sophomore, served refreshments, aided by Mary Larkin, Ruth Stone, and Marguerite Hallissey.

Games were played and informal luncheon was served. Lee Fleming acted as master of ceremonies, and Dave Levenson and Marguerite Hallissey entertained with character monologues and humorous poetry. Elito Bongarzone, accompanying himself with a guitar, rendered several vocal selections. The party ended with group singing.

Senior Art Class
Makes Field Trip

On Monday, January 16, sixty-three senior art students took a field trip to Providence, R. I. Under the supervision of Mr. Gordon L. Reynolds, instructor, the group visited the Rhode Island School of Design and the art museum. Student guides assisted the visitors in their tour of the various classes, and different stages of design were discussed. The observations will correlate with the present studies of the seniors.

Campus Snow Queen
Twelfth Year of Service

Happy Birthday to us! Campus Comment is celebrating its twelfth birthday this month. It was born January, 1928 as a junior journalism class project. It lived successfully through the dangerous years and is now an integral part of the school as it enters its adolescence.

At the Crystal Snow Ball held at the Boyden Gymnasium on Friday, January 13, Miss Faye Postle, Brockton sophomore, was crowned Snow Queen of 1939.

Miss Postle, who was attractively crowned in pink net and wore a corsage of gardenias, was selected for outstanding beauty and charm. Patrons, patronsesses, and students in the receiving line acted as judges. The queen was crowned by Mrs. J. A. Ferris, wife of the president of the college.

The Sophomore-Junior prom, an annual event, will start semi-final of 1939. The atmosphere of an ice carnival was accomplished by glistening snow, snowmen, and icicles. Refreshments were served during the evening in a lounge in the balcony.

Patrons and patronsesses were: President and Mrs. E. A. Pease, Miss Edna Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reynolds, and Mr. and Mrs. Balfour Tyndall. Canteen and refreshment were: Barbara Taylor, vice-president of the junior class and Gertrude Twoghi, sophomore vice-president. Committee heads were: Miss I. A. Stange; music, Genevieve Doeherty; decorations, Agnes Richardson; tickets, Eleanor Mullen; hospitality, Eleanor Murphy; publicity, Florence Kamandulis; and clean-up, Lawrence Berch.

Novel Chapel Program
Presented By German Club

Novelty in the presentation of chapel programs was introduced by Der Deutsche Verein of German Holbrau entertainment. This type of program was decided upon as a result of a visit of the club to such a restaurant. The stage was set to represent the main dining room of a Holbrau, and club members were seated at tables, waited upon by other members, arrayed in typical German dress. Singing waitresses, in a quartet, offered several German songs, and other waitresses, joined by waiters, also in costume, performed folk-dances. Music was supplied by a German band. The audience found enjoyment in singing several selections with those on the stage, especially in the rendering of the "Scheerfluberk" song, a humorous tune caricaturing familiar objects which were depicted on a large screen.

The entire program was managed by Dave Levenson, president of the club, Donald Merrill, Nellie Kucinskin, Phyllis Jacobson, and Merilyn Studley. The quartet of singing waitresses was composed of Betty Hayden, Marilyn Studley, Amella Aceto, and Fanney Szathmary. The dancers were: Lillian Warren, Nellie Kucinskin, Phyllis Jacobson, Joseph Plouffe, J. William Costello, and Dave Levenson. The members of the band were: Loretta Patti, Edward Barry, Donald McDonald, Irving Scalanore, and Donald Merrill. The stage setting was arranged by Ira Smith who was also in charge of properties.

FRENCH CLUB

"The play's the thing" was the central idea of the French Club meeting on January 19, when the club presented Moliere's play "Le Medecin Malgre Lui." The French drama was staged in the Horace Mann Auditorium where six "clowns" filled the roles of their guests, and alumni, who capable role portrayals by E. Senesac, M. Cingolani, G. Johnson, N. Keyes, J. Devitt, H. Spatz, L. Dupre, and L. Morin.

Edmond Senesac, the club president, after we devoted our attention to supervision of Miss Edith Bradford, club adviser. Whitfield Silveira was in charge of the musical part of the program, M. Fazio, Kaczynski was wardrobe mistress, and William Kearns supervised the stage setting.

SCIENCE CLUB

The pros and cons of socialized medicine were considered at the January meeting of the Science Club. After a heated debate by Joanna Skozulek, Sylvia Roper, Jerry Connolly and Frank Crockford, the subject was referred to the club for open discussion.

UNIFIED ACTIVITIES CALENDAR

Each student should, if he or she desires it, be able to attend all of the activities. As our calendar now stands, it is impossible, for Varsity games, concerts and dances are scheduled on the same night, or during the same period.

As matters now stand, we waste many good times. Consider the almost empty gym on some Friday evenings while a orchestra plays, the refreshments have been purchased and the gym decorated. But where are the guests? Our concerts and plays do not get the audiences they deserve. Don't you think it is discouraging when, after rehearsing for months, the performance is given but there is no audience to see it?

This same general principle holds true of the intercollegiate sports. This waste should be eliminated. Perhaps it can be done as easily as it is to be done in the case of socialized medicine. Perhaps it can be done by intelligent planning.

CAMPUS CAPERS

Commutors have dropped style show plans... Louise D. Rich, one of B. T. C.'s most literary alumnae and a bridge-water girl, has a new story tagged "Don't Worry" in the Feb. issue of "Woman's Home Companion"... If mention in a newspaper column makes one successful, Clem Delys has attained success, for he made the "Town Crier", one of the better Brockton Enterprise pillars... Judging from the second senior pro-tern elections, some of the seniors changed their minds (?)... Harry Dunn has passed all the red lights on the road to recovery... Mr. Durgin could qualify as a member of the local chamber of commerce after speaking on the glorious bridge-water at the Topics of the Day Club meeting... Was Charlie Wintermeyer's countenance crimson not too long ago when he lost an essential article for his satirical splendor... Rumors of a bus to Fitchburg for the hoop game... Anne King and the mid-years are in a new dark double in the romance... Louise Forythe could qualify for an international, for she has been to Chine, has travelled in the Philippines and has taken up residence in this state... Roses to Barb Taylor, Gert Twoghi and their helpers for the joint junior-prom... Roses to the basketball squad for many victories... Winnie Silveira in the race for the agogies at the prom leads this week's caricade of chic... Skipper Hoves is becoming an ace lecturer with his frequent talks here and there... Helen E. Kelly's initials is self-explanatory... Lola von Berger and Van Anne are at the steady stage... The baseball committee will have a new committeemore solos by Thelma Hill... We wonder when Bridge-water will add a swing club to its list of extra-curricular activities... Rosalie Lynch's vedy funny articles are missed by all.

CANDID CAMPUS SHOTS

Jean Whiting and Ruth Chadwick carrying letters into the Junior High School... Lillian Fransis fixing her stockings on the auditorium avenue... Rosalie Hatchfield chasing Agnes Higgins in Brockton... Faye waving to Justin... Elise Church reading a letter while crossing the street... John Solvonock squiring Eric Johnson about the campus... Irene Martin and Mary Gamperoni cruising around the campus for a parking space... Campus kids cheering the Lone Ranger at the local cinema spot... Mrs. Lyons, the Globe photographer, took pictures at the pie-eating contest at the Men's Club smoker... Wes Coulter trying to throw cough drops upstairs... Island College of Educational students getting an eyeload of the campus.

CAMPUS CONVERSATION

"Your answer is sound. In fact it's all sound..." "What he was in grammar school he was fond of apples, but now that he's in college he's fond of peaches and dates..."
"Your face is very beautiful... Does it take much time?"
"Her mind is so narrow she's using it to good advantage..."
"I'll B. T. C.—you..."

A TALE OF WOE

"Hello, hardware store? Will you re- serve all your pictures for the dorm students who need to do a little plugging after "Lights Out", if they ex- pect to pass the midyears?"
"Hello, drug store? Will you kindly send all your headache powders to us poor innocents who are forced to suffer through the night?"
"Hello, grocery store? Will you save all your coffee for the sluggards who have to keep awake and plug the night before exams?"

"The real truth of the matter is that the situation is almost as black as it is painted, and we all probably repent our past laziness..."

After a study that has taken many hours of research, we have come to the conclusion that there are four types that inhabit dear ole B. T. C.

First is the plug who gets on about meaning the fact that he ever came to college, declares that he is totally un- prepared, and yet knows that he never got less than 95 on an exam. This type runs to girls, with an occasional boy tossed in.

Then there is the chap who has done reasonably well, is perfectly confident that if he looks over his notes he will pass the exams, not with an A, but sure- ly in the upper half of the group. This type runs to girls, with several boys tossed in.

No matter which group we're in, we say...

"See those headache powders right away!"

BOOK REVIEW

"American Labor" by Herbert Harris. This book is especially useful to la- bor students, but lay readers will find it both informational and fascinating. Mr. Harris' major contribution in this book is to the unionizing of the laborers. His traces unions from their source to their present stand- ing, with emphasis on diversity, thus giving the different aspects of industrial life.

The Week After Exams

B. T. C. Wins 5th Straight

Bridgewater's Basketeers continued from where they left off against R. I. C., and roamed over Newport (41-21), outplayed Salem (30-26), and clowned through Durfee (45-36).

Wednesday night they came from behind in the fourth period, overcame an 11-point lead and won in the final period, 31-29. It was a rough and tough game with Augie and Daley receiving no mercy from their guards. The conclusion of the game changed in the last period, however, with Woodward and Costigan dish ing it out to their forwards and Augie, Clum, and Martin up front scoring just enough to win. Vive La B. T. C.!

Highlight of this year's basketball season was the John Augustine finals. He has missed but three foul shots in the first five games, sinking during this same period, twenty-two, for an average of .881. Freshman Martin and Costigan are proving capable of holding down positions in the first string.

A composite box-scoring for the entire team will give you an idea of how well the boys have been clicking.

Augustine 21
Costigan 22
Daley 8
Sampson 7
Tobin 2
Sparks 5
Woodward 2
Costigan 2

The first half of the basketball program is drawing to a close. Both periods in the week of January 16, will be given over to the Finals of the Elimination Tournaments. Monday afternoon—Freshmen Finals—Whirling Dervishes, captained by Anne Connell, will play out against the Polar Bears, captained by Nat Keyes. Friday afternoon's schedule includes a game between Anna Mcgraw's Communists and Nan Purzell's Galloping Ghosts. Incidentally, both of these teams are from the Junior class—take a bow, Juniors. As an added attraction—a challenge game, Whirling Dervishes will take on the Senior Class—of course, this will take place between the halves of the Finals, so we can all get home in time for supper! Go to it, girls, and MAY THE BEST TEAM WIN!

The names of the members of the four class teams going to Salem will be posted Monday of Exam week. This is to give those people a chance to organize, and practice. The gym will be available any time that Captains arrange with Miss Caldwell! Eleanor Murphy, the head of Et Cetera Sports, hopes the Ping-Pong players will sign up soon for the Tournament which will start after Mid-Years. Remember, Girls, you must participate in the tournaments offered to get your credit for the sports. Another point—Tournaments are not for the experts only, they are for everyone.

Activity Directors, watch for notices for a meeting to arrange dates for next term!
