CAMPUS BRUSHES UP

Business administrator Henry F. Werner has listed the following renovations of campus facilities made during the summer recess.

The Clement C. Maxwell Library has been completely air-conditioned during the summer.

A new hardwood floor has been installed on the stage of the Horace Mann Auditorium.

All the remaining rooms in Boyd Hall with the original wooden floors have been removed and replaced.

The ladies' rest room area in the north wing of the Academic Building has been completely remodeled and should be ready for use on September 20th.

The new power plant is in operating condition and will service the campus starting in October.

The Armstrong house between the gymnasium and the武术 dormitory has been acquired by the Commonwealth and will eventually be razed for widening Center Street and beautifying the campus.

A new public address system has been installed in Woodward Dormitory and six auxiliary stations have been added.

For the remainder of the academic year, the campus will remain open to students throughout the summer, allowing them to continue their studies and social activities. The college administration has made arrangements to keep the campus safe and welcoming for all students, regardless of their background or circumstances.

Although it looks like Sydney Leek stopped by for a visit, a worker merely dropped his broom to take a coffee break. Men's hands have been

Unfortunately, the information provided does not include any specifics about the Memorial Service. It only states the date and the location where the service was held.

The memorial service was conducted at the college in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Foth's family. After his death, his wife, Dorothy Foy, took charge of the music department. On the second and final service, which accompanied the service of Mr. Foy's songs, was composed by the late composer, Dr. Niels Munk, whose pieces included a few of Mr. Foth's classics. The service was conducted by Mr. Barnett.

In Washington, D.C., I saw a drunkard curled up in a corner. In one hand was an empty whiskey bottle. His eyes were closed, his face was bloody red, and he lay there, curled up in a fetal position of his own arms.

Only a few feet away were half a dozen children playing jump rope and laughing. They seemed unaware of the consciousness of the drunkard. Of course they knew that he was there. But scenes like this are common. There was no reason for them to be so excitable or frightened, because the drunkard had abandoned the drink as a way of life.

The Drama Club will sponsor the production of Fredric Clegg, an emotionally disturbed but brilliant student. The storyline involves the character of Miranda, a young art student he kidnaps. The dialogue bristled with sketches relevant to the life of their author, who was also hired by Yeshiva University. The production, which has just been announced, is due to open on October 18 at 8:15 in the Horace Mann Auditorium. The current production schedule marks a high point in 17 years of touring the classics by National Players.

National Players to Present "Romeo and Juliet"

"Romeo and Juliet," the Juliet of the title in Shakespeare's greatest romantic play, ROMEO AND JULIET, to be presented by National Players of Washington, D.C. The production, which has just completed a highly successful European tour, has Charla Sarandon and Halo Wins as the key roles, Halloween's John Merrick and "Mary Moore" in addition to playing "Music Man" on the summer circuit. Miss Wins has had an impressive background in the theatre in addition to a feature role in the recent motion picture, "Advise and Consent."

NEW BRIEFS

During the summer Mr. Barnett lectured at the University of Buffalo and also addressed 250 doctors on "Creativity in Medicine" at the Albert Einstein School of Medicine in New York.

The Charlatan Fellowship is sponsoring a "themed" lunch on September 21st at the Hotel Bostonian. Don Tacko, a former student, will be here with his singing group, The Few, there will be four other acts. It starts at 5:00 p.m. Get your tickets now.

How would you react if a college student admitted you simply for having a well-founded conviction that you belonged there? Would you have a different attitude toward college, a deeper commitment to learning, if the admissions' choice were yours, not the college's? Would you be able to deal with your college in a more comfortable and fruitful manner if you knew that it had no interest whatever in your past?

A small group of students will actually find the answers to these questions this year by taking part in a new admissions research study at Franciscan College, provincetown, New Hampshire. The study, which is being conducted with the aid of personnel from Boston and Brandeis Universities, is designed to find out how successful students are at the institution.

This is how the study works: every third person inquiring about admission or transfer to the small liberal arts college will be invited to take part in the study. If he chooses to do so, he will send his application, not to the college, but to a neutral consultant in the Boston area. This consultant is then instructed to keep the applications strictly confidential, and will not notify the applicant of what happens to the burden of the student's past is on the student instead of the institution.

NEW MAN CENTER NEAR COMPLETION

The Newman Center, which has been under construction since the Spring, is scheduled to open in a few weeks, although Mass is being held in the Center's auditorium now.

The long-awaited Newman Club Center and Chapel on the lower campus with its construction completed "within a month," according to Father John Daly, the club's new chaplain. The formal dedication ceremonies will take place as soon as possible after the Center's completion. While plans for this are not yet definite, it is hoped that Richard Cardinal Cushing will participate in the ceremony.

Every Sunday two Masses will be offered in the chapel at 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. The building also contains a student lounge, a study hall, and a general library. An auditorium, which can be converted into two classrooms, and a cafeteria complete the interior layout.

NEW MAN CHAPLAIN NAMED

Recently appointed Newman Club chaplain John Daly spent five years at the University of Rhode Island before coming to Bridgewater. A Bostonian and Notre Dame graduate, Daly says he enjoys working with young people, evidenced by his enthusiastic experience in giving retreats for teenagers and college students.

In an interview Father Daly said he wants to get some "visibly demonstrable, particularly on campus," more involvement.

Father Daly is a Holy Cross Father, the order which staffs Notre Dame University and Stonehill College.

CF DRIVES FOR $60,000 IN SEVEN DAYS

BBC's Christian Fellowship is purchasing a house on Pomona Street in Bridgewater and is presently raising funds to finance the purchase.

In a pamphlet designed to explain the center's use, the objectives of establishing a permanent Protestant center and home for the chaplain, it stresses the need of a full-time chaplain to serve the college's 600 Protestant students.

The "Kick-off" banquet for the campaign will be held in the Congregational Church, September 27, 7:00 p.m.

students care to tell. The reason for keeping these records confidential has been explained by Robert G. Greenway, Director of Educational Research at the College, who designed the study. "By allowing students to come in 'clean' we hope to try to break the vicious circle of academic success or failure which frequently results when students are judged on the basis of their past records.'"

Follow-up studies of the students involved in the study will be made periodically during the next several years, in order to determine the effects of the admissions policy.

Bears Kick-Off September 25

First kick-off - Frostburg, Maryland. Homecoming? Nichols college, Fall River. Thrust, with the football season getting under way, BSC will see a revival of spirit.

The team should inherit its impressive record of last season. Building around a strong nucleus of returning lettermen is no problem for Coach Swenson. Barrowing drops and injuries, things look good for the Bears.

Changes in offense and defense are being worked on in the squads.
