OFFERS STUDENTS JOBS

Beginning the week of September 19, Mr. F. K. Kelley will be interviewing any interested student for the Full Economic Opportunity Program which will begin September 29. There will be one hundred openings for this program. If you are always looking for new skills, such as clerical workers, beavers, or operators for the production line expanding the program even more.

Archer's conception of the Student Union Building

In part is due to the loss of one thousand volumes in the past year which is equal to the annual received yearly from the Maxwell Library.

Library Services Expanded

Extended library hours, installation of self-operated copying machines, and additional librarian services are among the innovations made in the Maxwell Library. New library hours are:

7:00 to 9:00 P.M. Tu.

7:00 to 1:00 A.M. Th.

9:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M. Su.

The copying machine has been installed in the lobby for general use.

Mr. Empson believes that Adhesite Esta will be working full time in the cataloging, and a reference librarian will be on duty in the main reading room Monday through Friday with the authoritative seven thousand volumes added in the past year. The-library has recently acquired a series of classic volumes dating from 1837 to 1931.

EDITORIAL
Freshmen - Don't Read This!

This contains invaluable advice handed down from generation to generation of college students. Just basic advice. You've heard it all before. Tradition dictates that you heed it all again.

1. Don't ask teachers questions. Write and wait. On the bottom of your final, notes telling them you think all college professors are incomprehensible. This will frighten them, and you can tell them that you may or may not argue with you in class, and expose you to dangerously different ideas.

2. Don't attend assemblies. Anything you may learn at them will be of no value. Whatever do you think of you on your first day in college and Cram!

3. Keep all your ideas to yourself. Teachers and students may argue with you. You've heard it all your finals, notes telling them you think all college professors are incomprehensible. This will frighten them, and you can tell them that you may or may not argue with you in class, and expose you to dangerously different ideas.

4. Don't waste time taking notes in class. More gauche to buy 5 or 6 outline books (100 pages each) the day before finals and cram.

So much for tradition.

Just be sure you don't make any idealistic speeches enriching you to study, to plaster your pages with notes pages each day before finals and Cram!
