Ballet Concepts visits campus

Ballet Concepts, directed by Maryl Gordon, will perform at the 10:00 a.m., Assembly in Horace Mann Auditorium, Tuesday, Feb. 14. The company, noted for its dramatic, contemporary, classical, and humorous ballets, consists of six dancers formerly with such major ballet companies as the New York City Ballet, National Ballet of Canada, Metropolitan Opera Ballet, and the Doris Humphrey Dance Company. Ballet Concepts has toured throughout the East and Midwest and received great critical and audience acclaim. Among its repertoire have been interpretations of pieces from J. Stravinsky, Dukas, Prokofiev, Midori, Oldfield, Richard Strauss, and D. Asplund, as well as of several original works from popular movies.

FILLING THE VOID

"I hate to be serious for more than 20 minutes at a time, but since you asked politely..." - was opening comment. The rest - original remarks on highly unoriginal topics - followed. The girl behind the words is Angie Duarte, junior elementary education major. She can be found in the Tilly TV room, occasionally, or at class - occasionally.

SCHOOL AND FACULTY: "One of the questions I didn't mean is how do you like school?" It's necessary to me, and I want to teach. It's an opportunity to learn. If you want to - with no great social pressures. The student body, in general, is friendly. And classes have gone out of their way to help. If you need help, it's available. If you do it, it's not a problem. If you do it, the student will make the first move. It's an opportunity to learn...

"We have so many free hours with very few places to study, usually wind up wasting time by playing cards, eating, or watching TV. Can't study in the library because it's too noisy."

CLANCY BROTHERS HEADLINE SCA WINTER WEEKEND

The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, world-famous entertainment group who were known as the "Singers of the World", will be the stars of this year's Student Cooperative Association Winter Weekend. A closely-knit group that began its entertainment career as purely Irish-styled singer-songwriting group, the Clancy Brothers and Their Soliost, Tommy Makem, in the past four years, have gained an extended reputation as virtuosos on a wide and varied selection of musical types.

Playing to sell-out audiences in New York, London, Toronto, Dublin, Edinburgh, San Francisco, Melbourne, and most recently at the Back Bay Theatre in Boston last November, they have also made television appearances, both national and local, in this country and a dozen countries overseas. Their many albums stand among the highest-selling sales of records in many European nations, and have sold quite well in this country for a number of years, on the Columbia label.

The authenticity of the group's approach to their music is a direct reflection of the group's personalities. They are all direct, opinionated individuals who enjoy playing cards, drinking beer, and games run by the various clubs, organizations and fraternal orders, and banding together at night.

Also appearing with the Clancy Brothers will be David Raukas, clarinettist. A new take on a rapidly growing repertory, they are often booked for campus performances on the basis of a single performance.

The concert will take place on Sunday evening, February 16th, in the John Keiley Gymnasium. The cost for admission will be $1.00 per person.

Where Do We Go From Here?

"STUDENT FACULTY WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?" up the walls? Out the windows, and fire escapes, into the halls? Out of Business."

While the CAMPUS COMMITTEE poll of student and faculty opinion on the over-crowdedness of classes and the elective system was only able to reach 20% of the student body and 30% of the faculty, during the one day (Dec. 1, 1966) it was held, of that random 500 who, as they passed through the rotunda, had the time to stop and vote on the question, 25% of the students and 40% of the faculty voted that one or more of their classes were over-crowded.

Of the students who wrote in comments with the poll, the majority felt that the elective system was inadequate. The students stated that the elective system was a hindrance in that they preferred a more flexible system of education.

The administration committee to study the elective system and (Deadline Feb. 7) to individual students who wish to express their desires recommend ways and means of enlarging its scope?

It is imperative that the college cut down the overcrowding of classes and the elective system. The college must decide which is the lesser of these two evils: to distribute a smaller number of students over a larger number of teachers, or to distribute a large number of students over a smaller number of teachers. If we get the funds and until we see the need for them, we are in agreement with the present conditions.

It seems to me that the immediate cause of our overcrowded situation is the administration policy of the colleges. We continue to receive larger and larger freshman classes without receiving any corresponding, necessary space to accommodate them. Even if the administration is not the fault of the college faculty; is it not the duty of the administration to control the size of the student body in relation to the college's facilities?

Until the college is equipped to accommodate students well, those who determine the admission quota would be better served by these two evils: to distribute a smaller number of students over a larger number of teachers, or to distribute a large number of students over a smaller number of teachers. This would seem to be the immediate cause of our overcrowded situation.

As speaking of distractions, did you ever stop and think of how an inferior dormitory would be compared to a better dormitory? Or how the clocks in the classrooms in Boyden? Various courses are stopped at 4:30, 5:00, and 5:30. A student Clocks Watchers would be driven to absolute distraction and distraction in the present system. Our administrators would lose the initial trust of our attack. It seems to me that the real cause of our overcrowded situation is the administration policy of the colleges. We continue to receive larger and larger freshman classes without receiving any corresponding, necessary space to accommodate them.

ELECTIVES - "Huh? I heard a rumor of those machine that goops upon the lonely and confused."

"If you have your heart set on a June wedding, don't count on a chance to hate computer to play Cipoll." Editor's note: The Board of Trustees of trustees took action on December 13, 1966, to establish an administrative committee for the study of the elective system.

MATCHMAKER LEAVES ON VACATION

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

NECFC Honors BSC

Co-captaits Jeff Fanning, Leon Wiesnam, Charlie Wodron, Tom Cook, and Bill Meberson have been named to the All New England College Football Conference First Team. BSC placed the most men on the 13 man team. Curry College and Hurley Maritime Academy placed four men apiece on the team.

The full team is as follows:

Forwards - Lynch, MMA, FB
Clare, Curry, RB
Adams, MMA, QB
Fritts, Curry, RB

Ends - Meberson, BSC
Lavy, MMA
Webster, Curry

Tackles - Cook, MMA
Costello, Curry
Wodron, BSC

Guards - Michaud, MMA
Wiesnam, BSC

Center - Fanning, BSC

Bridgewater's fine defense this season is easily explainable if one notices that four of BSC's all-stars are up in the line.

SMTI Falls to BSC

The Bears broke into the winning column with a squeaky victory over previously unbeaten SMTI.

The lead went back and forth throughout the game. Several times it looked as if SMTI was going to pull away, but Dave O'Shea kept BSC in the game with some great rebouding off both the offensive and defensive boards.

The overtime period did not differ at all from the type of play that preceded it. A mistake would have decided the game, but both teams were too sharp to make one. With 2 minutes and 15 seconds left, BSC decided to hold for one shot. They nearly lost the ball a couple of times on attempted steals, but managed to hold on.

With about 2 seconds left, Co-captain Al Petipas drove through the defense, and hit a running-right-hander to noll down the victory for Bridgewater.
