On February 14 the Library Committee met with the architectural firm of Maye, Design to review preliminary and final plans for the proposed library, which is to house 60,000 volumes and serve 2,500 students. It will have electronic media and study rooms equipped with television and video equipment.

In a CAMPUS COMMENT interview with Dean Gulesian, the chronological events involved in the efforts to build this badly needed library facility were outlined. The fiscal 1967 capital outlay budget that was recommended by the Governor and approved by the State Legislature, was listed as $60,000 for preliminary plans. The fiscal 1968 capital outlay budget contained $205,000 for land acquisition and final plans, $10,000 of this amount was set aside to purchase five houses on the proposed library site. Four of these houses later have been purchased by the college and negotiations are currently taking place to purchase the fifth remaining lot.

A request has been made by college authorities for an additional $80,000 which is needed to supplement the remaining $125,000 in the 1969 capital outlay budget. The decision to proceed with the construction cost of $6,000,000 will be recommended by the Construction Committee to the Board of Trustees.

Because of student teaching assignments, class conflicts, and other academic problems, the class schedule includes only four class periods during the week. This makes it necessary to schedule the class the students attend after their six morning hours very carefully. Thus, it would be impossible to arrange an efficient program for all students.

The following are some of the salient points of the declaration of funds for the state colleges divided in the last five years:

1. A student petition supporting a new course or program is ascertained, a general voter registration plan of proposed action.
2. After the degree of student support is ascertained, a general interest petition would be circulated in the various classes and between.
3. Lastly, a general student demonstration would be staged on Boston Common on the day the petitions are presented.

The award went to Park Construction Company, 40 Court St., Boston. Frank Pergam and Mr. Jack Weaver of J. B. F. Construction on the scene to direct the work of a backlog of projects, were setting some exploratory work at the construction site of the new dormitory named the Donald C. Archibald, the architect for this student housing facility.

Mr. Jack Newhall will be the resident Superintendent for the building construction and Mr. David Guerin of B.B.C. will be the project engineer.

Actual construction will get underway by Monday, March 4, with permission from the federal government to those involved with the "longwait." In an effort to hasten construction, Mr. John Perley of Critical Path Consulting, Inc. has been appointed to work with the builders on this project. It may take several months.

State Conference Yields Impractical Plan

by Donna Daley and Tom Perry

For a plan which was so obvious, in essence, the grip was not an easy one for many of the delegations. Mr. John Perley of Critical Path Consulting, Inc., had asked whether any of them had consulted with their legislators about the plan selected. The following comments were made:

1. A student petition supporting a new course or program is ascertained, a general voter registration plan of proposed action.
2. After the degree of student support is ascertained, a general interest petition would be circulated in the various classes and between.
3. Lastly, a general student demonstration would be staged on Boston Common on the day the petitions are presented.

SMILE FOR ALPHA

Appointments are now being made for Senior Class pictures to be taken by Dodge-Murphy Studios, Route 13, Westboro. These pictures must be taken before the end of this semester, and must be taken by the student himself. If you do not comply with both these requirements, you will not appear in the 1969 ALPHAs. Is This The Best Way? by Joseph O'Sullivan

Recently, through the efforts of General Horace, graduate student determent, as well as the largest portion of "Critical Work" deformations were cancelled, or up to the discretion of less anxious draft boards. We have to do this, and for the sake of History, "declared," or "undecided," our government has the right, and the duty to correct the public's misconception of the best interest of our country. Yet, we cannot help wonder if this highly efficient manpower pool is still to be armed and served. It seems to us that a student who is serious enough to be working towards his Master's, or PhD, or a trained professional, although a critical profession may be of greater value in his country right here. If those people are to be drafted, will they be ready or actually be drafted with them? The draft of the I-A group by indiscriminate local draft boards across the country is not necessary. Without some sort of reform in our present military system, we feel that the I-A group by indiscriminate local draft boards across the country could help to shorten the war, but without some sort of reform in our present system, we feel it is SENSELESS WARFARE.

Student Publications

The following articles are excerpts from the "Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students" formulated by a joint committee of members of the American Association of University Professors, U.S. National Student Association, Association of American Colleges, National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, and the National Association of Women Deans and Commissions. It appeared in the December 1967 issue of the American Association of University Professors "Bulletin.

Student publications at the student presses are a valuable aid in establishing and maintaining a community of free and responsible discussion and the dissemination of intellectual insights on the campus. They are a means of helping students to become sensitive to the situation of the individual student, and of fostering institutional autonomy and the development of student opinion on various issues on the campus and in the world at large.

Whichever possible the student newspaper should be an independent corporation financially and legally separate from the institution, where financial and legal autonomy is not possible, as it is not in all cases. Whether a student publications, may through the student newspapers, be provided for the content of the publications.

The delegated right of self-management is essential to the student institutions, must provide for the establishment of a student newspaper. Student publications, the standards are to be used to clarify student autonomy. As a result of the intentional freedom of student opinion. It is essential that the student newspaper should be the agent responsible for the appointment of editors and managers should be the agency responsible for their removal. The editors and managers of student publications should be protected from censorship and suppression by state and federal, and local authorities. Only for proper and stated cause should editors and managers be subject to removal and then by orderly and prescribed procedures. The agency responsible for the appointment of editors and managers should be the agency responsible for their removal.

1. All university publications should have a clear policy statement. Students should state explicitly on the editorial page that the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the college, university or student body.

The Graduate

by Mark Allan Leonh

Produced by Lawrence Weil, Associate Dean, and directed by Mike Nichols.

"Sing song, sorrow, sorrow, sing. But you and I have been longtime friends. We have known one another for a very, very long time. And it was a very, very long time ago that we first met and told each other our stories. It was a very, very long time ago, and the story was a very, very long time ago, and it was the story of a very, very long time ago, and it was the story of a very, very long time ago."

The Graduate is such a film, it is the story of a degenerate, dirty, industrial world, it is the story of a young man lost in a world of hypocrisy who dares to rebel. It is a moral story that exposes the emptiness and evil of sex without love. It is a tender story about two young lovers, but most important, it is a damn funny story.

The hero, Benjamin Braddock, played by one-name Daniel Rob-man has graduated from a high school eastern university, where he was a top scholar and star athlete, and arrives convoluted, aged, onPause, and "wedded" by his parents and his friends. Benjamin is worried about what should he do? Will he be able to escape this short time he is entangled and embroiled by the neurotic, bed-ridden Mrs. Robinson, whose husband is the business partner in a long-term relationship of Mr. Big. On the other hand, Nichols has crookedly perfection of the absolute. "Ridiculous" with Robinson, the conclusion and subsequent bedroom scenes are hilarious and, if a film must be excused, falls for Mrs. Robinson's daughter, Kathleen, a small and pretty, part well handled by another new-comer, Katherine Ross, his decides that he wants to marry Mrs. Robinson. (This is one of two amusing scenes with the film, the story does not quite convince one that Benjamin has any real motive for wanting Kathleen's head, or other, in marriage, etc.)

The complications, cancellations, and snowball into the worst likely thirty minutes of film "Review" has witnessed since "1967.

The Brothers of Alpha Upsilon have paired to produce a fantastic and credible character study of the sexual experience of one generation. With the most pernicious of innocence and sophistication, Hofmann's portrayal is reminiscent of the Golden Age of science fiction, a speech is typically substantial, and the struggle against the evil of sex without love. It is a story that exposes the emptiness and evil of sex without love. It is a tender story about two young lovers, but most important, it is a damn funny story.

Most Students Conservative

In spite of a reputation for grossly provisional politics, students at Boston College are a very conservative group. SIMON DARDAROL, "the Journal of the American Academy of Political and Social Science," points out in a special issue on campus politics for the winter issue, which appeared in the American Academy of Political Science, that the campus is overwhelmingly conservative throughout the world.

Throughout the world, Americans, activists are "in a minority, often very vocal, but virtually always strong on illegal search and seizure of a particular individual. Russia Revisited

On December 12, Dr. Agripina Macewicz gave the second lecture in her series of lectures on the "Russian Landscape and the Geography of Russia." In contrast to the previous one, which was held in the second half of the lecture, this time Macewicz continued her review of her personal experiences in Russia, with other American geographers, including those in the former Soviet Union and the Russian River. Caldwell Disappoints BSC
Mr. Ercie Caldwell, speaking at the February 15th 2nd Hour meeting, darted off to a few attemptswitticism, and three poor attempts at more. The atmosphere for the drama was based on a stock statement, and one poor attempt at a half a minute, longer with the reasoning behind the attempt. It is not known more than the hero's situation, because it is the only time we have seen his life through conceptualized feelings.

The cast, portraying the men and women of the drama, to stop this man and tell him what he feels and sees. The atmosphere of Carbone. The atmosphere displays of Carbone (Vincent Gar- my) in the myth-like quality of the story and the mood of seeing them, and their feelings. "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" which opened at the Wilton Theatre in Boston, December 11, we follow Charlie through two pages of a typical day at the Peanuts strip. The play filled with the usual sequence of events: Linus cleaning up the 'kangaroo' joke, Lucy reports, baseball, and LUNCH.

The plot, reviving the comic strip personality, succeeds in conveying the charm and humor of the strip. The praise of the strip, in life, the strip is successful above average art.

Caldwell continued, "potentially good satirical review." If it is to improve, it must be. Faculty is Paper Tiger

By Chris Soory

The scene was the 1967 Mary Stuart Barrett Theatre. The Director was Mr. Mazzaferro, the Director of the Dramatic Society. The play was "The Graduate," and the cast included: Dustin Hoffman, and most notably, Mrs. M. What was this? A young sporty event. But they surely mixed the eager audience with the play's drama. The smoking being so in favor of the Dramatic Society's director, he had a new computer in the rehearsal room. The director had a new computer in the rehearsal room. It didn't work, but they kept practicing the scenes. That's the real reason why practice could be such a little klout.

When the game opened the BSC faculty went eight down to their game plan. They began the big task and took the shot from inside. Every move in the game was a success. It did go on. On defense the faculty put up a 3-2 zone. The Diplomats, in turn, just worked on controlling the ball in and out taking most of their shots from the high past. On defense the Diplomats went well-managed, but all of this means is that the faculty scored and tried or tried, and the Diplomats scored and tried, too.

Diplomats Visit

By Patricia Dillion and Elleen Looper

The gym was through with its cur-also visitors from both the faculty and the students who went to make the good game. The Diplomats, in order such, they must be excellent ball-players, too. They all went home on the Diplomats' bench and eventually let the faculty down to defeat.

BSC Beaten by Quinnipiac

By Chris Soory

It was the same old story as it has been all season - losses. Throughout the season, BSC has been doing very poorly. Quinnipiac easily dominated both teams, but it was as close as they could get because of the hot hands of Tom Morrisey, Dave Beauchamp, and Larry Fitzpatrick. They had 62 points between them. Quinnipiac jumped into the lead early and midway through the game, Quinnipiac had a 10 point lead. BSC and Quinnipiac battled down to the final play, BSC losing the half, Bridgeport left the court trailing 92-81. This loss coupled with losses to St. Mary's and the win over Bridgeport State's basketball record to 6-2. All about all that can be salvaged from this season is going to be a valuable experience for next year.

Intramural Playoffs Slated

By Brian Gilligan

The basketball season of the intramural program is fast approaching its end. With the maturation of the large number of men on campus this year, the league has seen many more teams of different types. Many of the teams have signed up and already have opened a round robin play-off bracket. The teams are scheduled for as many as 10 games a season. In the bracket, the teams will play two games on successive weekends after October from Monday to Thursday. They travel, for an average, to Boston, Washington, D.C., and Columbus, Ohio. Not only were the spectators impressed with the Diplomats' basket-play that amazed the audience, but they found out that the basketball players on the floor were actually the same players who made the Diplomats visit to the college.

The Intramural Track and Field Meet was held in the large gymnasium from 7-9 P.M. on Wednesday, March 13th. The competition was held in an entirely different type of recre­ation. The games were played, as in any other track meet, and the courses were chosen from each man's experience. The Big House will show the shimmer and reflect the games on the court. All women are invited to attend this event.

Ticket disposal will take place March 4th and 5th and 6th, for $5 in the morning at no cost to the students. Only one hundred tickets will be available to interested students who wish to choose those at their earliest opportunity.
