NE THEATRE CONFERENCE CONVENES

By Mr. Robert Allen

The fall series of lectures sponsored by the Earth Sciences received high praise from the audience at Wednesday's meeting when Professor Henry S. H. Smith, Department of Earth Sciences, delivered his talk on "The State of the Art".

The climax of the day was reached early (8:00) when Mr. Orlin Corey presented his lecture on "Theatre in the American Theatre". The audience was left in awe of the talent on display, and the Convention ended with a toast to the future of theatre.

Get The Urge: See Tom Rush in Concert

Tom Rush, the renowned folk singer, will be in concert on Saturday night at 8 P.M. in the gym. The concert will be in the gym with special guests on sale at the door for $2.50. Advanced tickets are available for $2.00.

Well, once again, the truth is out. Anyone can go for the COM- MENT to take stronger action. We believe that our one percent urged the board to function properly the CONVOCATION CEREMONIES. Thus, we can conclude that anyone can go for the COM- MENT to take stronger action. We believe that our one percent urged the board to function properly the CONVOCATION CEREMONIES.

Kiernan Addresses Convocation Ceremonies

The Kiernan lecture series kicked off with a lecture by Professor Kiernan on "Theatre in the American Theatre". The audience was left in awe of the talent on display, and the Convention ended with a toast to the future of theatre.

On October 6, the Assembly Committee presented the Scraps a series of events that were as exciting as it was informative. The first assembly was held on October 6 with Mr. Kiernan addressing the students on the topic of theatre in the American Theatre. The second assembly was held on October 8 with Mr. Kiernan addressing the students on the topic of theatre in the American Theatre. The third assembly was held on October 10 with Mr. Kiernan addressing the students on the topic of theatre in the American Theatre.

Whether you are a theatre enthusiast or just curious about the topic, these assemblies are a must-see event. Don't miss out on the opportunity to learn more about theatre in the American Theatre. Make sure to attend all three assemblies to get a complete understanding of the topic.
BCS'S DORMITORY RESTRICTIONS: TIME FOR A CHANGE

What happens to a girl when she is elected to an office outside an individual dormitory or in the Women's Dorm Council? Presumably, when elections are held, the candidates are of the same age, of the same sex, and of the same educational level as the dormitories they represent. And one of the main reasons for concern and intelligence in seeking like-minded individuals to represent them on these powerful bodies is that their policies will affect how they live in the dormitories.

But if this is the case, then why, why, WHY is dormitory life so unhappy in a gluten-free dormitory? Why is it necessary for women who are fat and socially classified as adults at 18 to submit to room checks, bed checks, curfews which are only somewhat less ridiculous as the girl progresses through sophomore, junior, senior status, "rituals" by dorm boards without council or say? And if any hope of appeal and eliminating disdain of "ugly" sheets which require everything from a constant radio contact with these havens which protect and preserve their girlhood.

The only provable answer is that the state of affairs which the previous statements describe is completely replete with high degree of accuracy, is not necessary, that such a rules system constitutes a serious violation of personal freedom which has been allowed to exist for far too long. Make no mistake; whatever restrictions are placed on women's dorms are placed by the women themselves. The public mind, and the dorm officers themselves, may choose from among the various scapegoats for this dis- gregous situation; and since Dean Dean takes an interest in students, and is often present when the various facets of student government meet, it is convenient to digress and refer to him.

"Dean Dean" is somewhat of a maverick, as he was one of the first of the "new crowd" to take an interest in students. "Dean Dean" still wears a uniform.

American servicemen were gentlemen. They fought to defend the Constitution, B.I. The Constitution was passed in 1789 by the U.S. Bible, a document chosen for the purpose of providing protection to the rights and freedom of the American people. The picture below is of a telephone pole. However, it is not the ordinary, run-of-the-mill round pole. In fact, it is square. A square pole existing in a world of round ones? What value can it possibly have?

I feel that this square telephone pole can offer insight into a world of functional non-conformity. All telephone poles, whether square or round, are united in the purpose of telephone service. Yet there's no need to provide support for wires that can't be improved between poles that we have come to rely on to provide support. The poles that we now have are just that: poles. The same holds true for individuals in society. If we fail to do that, it loses its meaning or becomes purposeless pole. Yet the members of this society receive it. They extend it, and live it. They give it their whole life of activity. They all go round, each one else.

One pole asks the question why. The pole that is round, square? So, it is square. Its action might not have important meaning outside of its own world, but it is there for its true importance lies. This pole, by being square, has gained its own individual identity. This is not the identity of a single member of society, but an individual identity which becomes more important. For itself. Through this act it comes to be a pole in the hand of others and gains control over its own destiny. It functions within the society yet remains separate and distinct. The point is that if a square telephone pole, an inanimate object, can make it as a non-conformist then certainly human beings with their powers of logic and reasoning can use this idea. Mature up in machinery of an established society, whereby it functions in its own way.

Lakeville Project

The Christian Fellowship and Newman Club cordially invite all interested students to join in our Lakeville Project. Usually our project is held at the hospital on Thursday evenings. The bus will be in front of Great Hill Dorms at 7:45 and Woodward at 8:00. As visiting hours are over at 8:00, the bus returns to campus at approximately 8:30.

While the volunteers are at Lakeville, they visit with various patients and interview them by playing games, listening to records, writing letters, etc. The favorite age group is the young children, but the teenagers are also visited by the students of our own age. The students at Lakeville greatly enjoy having visitors. Therefore, if you can use this time every Thursday from 7:45 to 8:00 at Lakeville, we are sure that you will find it a very enjoyable and rewarding experience. Come along and you will find yourself helping others. If you have any questions please contact: Sharon Renshaw 687-2073

Science Building Renovations

The ground floor of the Science Building is undergoing a great change. According to Mr. David Gardner, the building's custodian, an extensive renovation lab with adjoining equipment room is being constructed. Along with this, a plant growth control unit is being installed. For students interested in mathematics, the changes will make this life, worse than a death pit, bearable to live in for four years--the most important years of the student's life. In the science building, three more are being put in. A chemistry lab, a biology lab, and sinks are being installed. A student who wants to be a biologist will find his classroom on the doorway nearest the gym. Work is scheduled for completion in December.
In our country's history, the Vice-president who has been influential in the outcome of a presidential campaign has not been able to take as significant a role as the President. If the Vice-president were to be influential within the campaign, he would have to be perceived as having the same stature and influence as the President. This is one of the key points of view at the Wallace rally.

The only candidate who can do this is George Wallace into the camp of Humphrey. Contrary to what many people believe, Humphrey is not a candidate who can make a significant impact on the campaign, and it is unlikely that he will be able to make any substantial gains in the polls. However, the presence of Edward Kennedy in the Democratic Party could provide a strong platform for Humphrey's campaign.

The core of Humphrey's campaign is support from a certain group of people, and it is this group that Humphrey aims to reach. Humphrey wants to be the candidate of the people, and he is confident that he can win over this group.

In conclusion, it seems likely that the elections will be won by Humphrey, and he is fortunate to have such a strong platform to work with. Humphrey is a candidate who is well-prepared and knowledgeable, and he is confident that he can win over the people of this country.
It is a frightening fact that millions of American voters aren’t even nearing the presidential ballot box to make their choice. But who is to blame for what he does? The election system itself needs to be reformed. The current system is broken and needs to be fixed.

George Wallace remained relatively consistent in his campaign promises. He continued to push for a strong civil rights bill, which he believed would protect the rights of all Americans. He also continued to push for a strong anti-poverty program, which he believed would help lift Americans out of poverty.

In conclusion, the American小康社会 needs a strong leader who can work together with Congress to pass a strong civil rights bill and a strong anti-poverty program. George Wallace was not the right choice for the presidency, but he did bring attention to issues that need to be addressed.

November 5, 1968, then you have no one to blame for the next four years but yourself!
STRANGE BREW

by James G. H. Moore

Wallace was in Boston, with his strangely inchoate yet appealing political views. Three things-one might say Wallace's reputation, his style, and the way that he was perceived on the political scene-had been established. He had a reputation as a man who was willing to take a strong stance on issues, even if it meant going against the wishes of his political party. His style was that of a man who was willing to take a stand, even if it meant being inconsistent with his own past actions. His perceived political scene was that of a man who was willing to take a stand, even if it meant being inconsistent with his own past actions.

Wallace was prepared to be objective and constitutional. But the action taken by many young people and the whole day (many openly showing their bigotry and intolerance) were called up from a day off, so that the mayor of the city, who had been averse to the action, was willing to cut power—power that he wants to cut. Wallace was willing to take a stand, even if it meant being inconsistent with his own past actions.

The contradictions that Wallace had made clear in his statement about the need for law and order, impatient with the police's repetitive call for "law and order" and the repetition appears to be a contradiction. Wallace has not turned his speech from one step to another and the repetition appears to many to be a statement "It's like this." The technique is marvellous; he can say nothing and it will repeat itself, and it will sound like the truth. Neo-nationalism is the only label that can be applied to Wallace's repetitive call for "law and order," and his statement about law and order in general about dissent. "When I'm President, I will be the most law and order policeman." The contradictions that Wallace had made clear in his statement about the need for law and order, impatient with the police's repetitive call for "law and order."

"This seemed to be the best way of simplifying every­where the collaboration and some of the experience of doing one of Shakespeare's most historic pieces of photography." The contradictions that Wallace had made clear in his statement about the need for law and order, impatient with the police's repetitive call for "law and order." The contradictions that Wallace had made clear in his statement about the need for law and order, impatient with the police's repetitive call for "law and order."

"They're still too conservative," says a senior male student looking up from the book and blue color, "and I don't know if they're not doing it. Great work the Jeans and the Weilings."

On the more conservative side we heard "They all right with me standing up but when she sits down they're kind of gross." Along the same line we are told it just goes in proves "invasion is everywhere". "I'm for the invasion of them even on old women and with ugly legs. They should be at least be honest with themselves," Azen, brother, and now for the last part. This movie reporter writing about how to wrap up this all-state argument article when he caught sight of some leg action out of the corner of his eye. The uncertainty surrounding the invasion of a gun, a genuine R.S.C., "I'm not sure if I like it. I should see the invasion." And I've got to write this article. After this response, who could pass up another interview—"I think this is a good idea."

"They don't have any money," says a student who was giving an oral report. "They wouldn't have had the remotest chance where another student (female type) who was giving an oral report. "They'd all be in line for the University stage presentation such a model of restraint, Cacosted with Oliver and are Maggie Smith as Beatrix Potter, Rachel Unrath as a girl, a genuine R.S.C., Y'hear, you like it? You should see the invasion," says a student who was giving an oral report. "They wouldn't have had the remotest chance where another student (female type) who was giving an oral report. VERSE CHOIR CONDUCTS TRYOUTS

This year the Verse Choir is presenting its annual Christmas program. Practice sessions started on Monday morning, December 17th, during the third hour. In addition to the regular tryouts, the Verse Choir will present the program in the local community. In the past the Choir has presented many original and stimulating programs. Last year's music by Louis Unwelcome, Carl Sandburg, and Lawrence Ferlinghetti is the one food of the most original programs ever presented at R.S.C. The spring program for the Verse Choir is "POEMS IN NORTHERNS." SANDBURG was a virginal example of invasions. A virginal example of invasions. The production of this year will be as original and invasions as those of the past.

A Verse Choir is a speech choir, not a singing choir. The director may use soli­ccts, quartets, or the entire choir. The director has the freedom of being in a singing choir. Instrumental accompaniments of any sort of accompaniment may enhance the production. If you are interested in one of Bridgewater's most active organizations, contact Dr. Karl Dahlin at the Union.
RAMBLING

The Theater Company of Boston is currently presenting "Benito Cereno" at the FTC Playhouse in the Fenway Theater. "Cereno" was originally produced this past spring at the Rhode Island Summer Theater Festival and was well received. For additional information write to Theater Company of Boston, 126 Main Ave., Boston, MA 02210 or phone 1-426-6629.

"There's A Good Man Charlie Brown", Boston's longest running musical, continues at the Wilbur Theater. Performances are given on Tuesday-Saturday nights at 8:00 with a Saturday matinee at 2:00. A must for those fond of "Little Sally Hayes" and "Good Ole Charlie Brown."

Neil Simon's "Promises, Promises" is currently in its last week at the Colonial Theater. Although the action sometimes lags, the line scores by Bart Bacharach and Hal David do more than compensate.

The O'Daly Carole Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company of Boston will give eight performances this week at the Theater on Washington Street. Saturday evening's performances will be the "Pirates of Penzance" and on Sunday the company will present "Mikado", 1, 1:30, 2, 5, 8, 8, 10, 10, 12, 12, 12, 12, 12, 12.

Edith Piaf and Peter O'Toole star in the much-celebrated film, "The Lion in Winter" opening November 7th at the Paris Cinema screened by the Theater Company of Boston on Boylston Street.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" seventeen year old Leonard Whiting and seventeen year old Olivia Hussey is currently running at the Albery Cinema on Commonwealth Ave. Franco Zeffirelli has added a new depth and dimension to the story by casting two teenagers to play the roles of the teenage couple. One of the finest Shakespearean films to come out in a long time, it has to be rated a must.

"The Paper Chase", Dick Van Dyke's account of what it means to go to Harvard Law School, promises to be amusing and enlightening.

The Boston Patriots, More Or Less

by Chris Brady

I wish somebody would tell the Boston Patriots that the game they're playing is called football. They're perpetually losing but it is in their interest to realize that there is one thing, they are good at. There isn't another sport in which they can shine. Wreathing is more believable than the Boston Patriots. So get them into a real football game, throw 54 passes against Houston, completing only 12. That's just fine for the.coordinates. Even Parrelli was better than that. As for running a game when he gets into the huddle Trafton probably had better ideas. Instead of considering the offensive line they ought to be put on waivers. Maybe the Rams "Fear some Faceoff" could use them.

The entire Boston defensive line ought to get to the edge. They're having trouble trying to stop Mike Glennon.

That man among men, Mike Holovak is dragging his favorite catch "can whoosh" of football all the way to Boston. Unfortunately all of the knowledge of parrots. He has gone all over the place and gained a bad idea.

This tomes as to just about the entire team, lacking them until the team town isn't a bad idea. If it is now "somebody" ought to move them. Boston has got to get a vengeance in the Patriot's game they ought to be removed quickly.

Cheerleaders: up Individuals and Full of Pep

by Candy Parrett

The WRA Representatives from each dorm have been elected. The girls who were elected to this special group of ladies will meet Tuesday-Saturday nights at 8:30 with the girls of the all-star team against a similar team from the V.A. Office. The girls who were not chosen to be cheerleaders will be held in the V.A. Office from now until November 5th and will include a proviso football game at halftime. Money was presented to the proviso for equipment.

A coffee hour is held annually for the proviso and cheerleaders before the game October 19th.

The cheerleaders are chosen in the spring for the following year by the head cheerleader, WRA president, faculty supervisor and other faculty members. The girls perform a series of cheers and stunts, and are chosen according to academic standards, personality, and popularity.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

by Scott Berman

As previously predicted, the race for the top spot in intramural football is a hotly contested battle. There are two undefeated teams in this date. The Valley Boys and the R. F. 's, but they are under heavy pressure from the other teams who are looking for an upset victory to push them back in the ranks.

R. F.'s: The Valley Boys and the R. F. 's have a very good team. They have a lot of experience and are well organized. They have a good chance of winning this game.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS:

BEARS SPLIT WITH MAINE, FROSTBURG

The Bears lost a tough hard-hitting battle to Maine Maritime Academy on Saturday, October 5, at Bridgewater. However, they bounced back to defeat a tough Frostburg in Maryland on October 12.

The Maine game pitted the strongest defenses in New England against each other. Bridgewater ended up on the short end of a 14-7 score Bridgewater street fight when Maine attempted a 4th and 1 play on their own 40 yard line. The Bears’ defense held and the offense quickly moved the ball in. Fullback Bob Woodman took it in from the 6 yard line behind full blocking. LeFever added the conversion.

That is about all the offense the Bears could muster as the Mariners became rigid and a hard battle ensued. Maine then began to move the ball and hailback Bob Palestino scored from 33 yards to tie the score at 7 at the half.

The Bears’ offense was stymied again and forced to punt. Maine then had the only substantial drive of the game as they moved the ball well and scored on a quarter-back sneak.

On the ensuing kickoff, Bears’ halfback George Sullivan, who ran well all afternoon despite being injured, fumbled the ball 50 yards for a touchdown only to have it nullified by a penalty. Thus, perhaps, was the turning point of the game.

The second half saw a brutal defensive battle as neither team could threaten. The Bears had the ball on Maine’s 30 yard line no less than three times in the last quarter, but a tough defense wouldn’t allow a tying score.

Box Score

MMA 7 0 0 0

The Frostburg game played after a thirteen hour bus ride was almost a reversal of the Maine game. Bridgewater again scored first the second time they had the ball. It was Sullivan, again as he was on the recroofing end of a 20 yard Stella aerial and slipped the remaining 10 yards into the endzone. The conversion was blocked and the Bears led 6-0. Again a tough defense caused for the remaining half until the Bears recovered a Frostburg fumble on the 10 yard line. Stalays later quarterback Stellis, behind great blocking, brought the ball in. The point was good and the Bears led 13-0. Frostburg moved the ball well in the last moments of the period but their drive was stopped by Freshman Jack Endlky.

The second half saw a tough defensive game once again. Another blocked punt led to Frostburg’s only score in the second half of the season in “snow” time that the Bears’ defense wouldn’t allow a touchdown.

The point was good and the Bears led 13-0. The remainder of the game was an sloppy play on the part of both teams.

Frostburg had plenty of opportunity as three points were blocked and they had first and 10 at the Bears’ 20 at least 3 times. The Bridgewater defense (number three in the nation) dug in and ended all three threats. The defense is credited with saving the ball game as they recovered on less than six Frostburg fumbles.

The game should be a treat for all, and we expect the Bears will upset the Clarion Penn State Sea Bees. The game is set for Saturday, October 19, is Parents’ Night at Bridgewater as the Bears host the Quonset Point Sea Bees. The game will start at 7 p.m., and we expect the Bears will upset the Clarion Penn State Sea Bees once again.

FOllOWING two losses to Barrington and Worcester State, the B.S.C. cross country team bounced back to victory over the last two meets as all six Bridgewater runners were either first or second. The depth of the harriers was shown in each of the following two races. Following two losses to Barrington, the B.S.C. men placed six of the first ten places and three out of the top five.

B.M. & McC. senior Bruce Nelson and Dave Layton both ran their best races of the season and had only each other to duel for the next two spots. A strong finish by the senior captain edged Layton for third. John L.R.C. Dennis Dinan took 5th, another Bridgewater dual developed between Steve Wirtzburger and Tom Steele which completed the Bears’ scoring. The long-legged Steele had to use everything he had to edge Wirtzburger by one second.

In the second half of the season the cross country squad’s schedule looks like this:

NOTE

HEMLOCK FOR THE OLYMPICS

As this article goes to print the “modern” Games of 1968 are about a week old. These are the “modern” Olympic Games differing markedly from the original Games which were celebrated in Greece on Mt. Olympia, Greece, a nation just recovering from a civil war, again led the Olympic “peace” around the field this year symbolizing the opening of the games but it is quite plain to see that the real Olympic Games are about to be tomorrow and that there were only 9600000 spectators in the Olympic Games held during either World Wars. Although the people of the world as a whole have been affected by the Olympic Games, a nation just recovering from a civil war, again led the Olympic “peace” around the world in 1968.

The 1968 Olympics are programmed to be just as big thrillers. Many Negro athletes boycotted Olympic trials because of the apartheid policy of South Africa. This demand by the Olympic Games, a nation just recovering from a civil war, again led the Olympic “peace” around the world in 1968. Political matters might again ruin the Olympics.

The Olympics ideal, that was a reality in ancient Greek civilization, is lost, and it’s expected the Bears will upset the Clarion Penn State Sea Bees once again.

NOTE

Our cartoonist explains his torch bearer as representing the Olympic break with tradition by allowing a woman to carry the Olympic torch. As far as the “BSC,” you’ll have to figure that out for yourself.
