CONVOLUTION. A TIME FOR REASSESSMENT.

The official opening of the Academic Year was marked on September 18 by a convocation assembly a convention. A large crowd assembled in the Great Hall to listen to the addresses of Dr. Adrian Rondileau, president of the College, and Mr. Oppenheim, attorney and legal advisor. Dr. Rondileau introduced the new contingent of students and faculty and addressed them on the subject of the "Quality of the Spirit." He stressed the importance of the College in providing a quality education and encouraged the students to take full advantage of the opportunities available. Mr. Oppenheim then spoke, emphasizing the need for the students to be aware of their legal rights and responsibilities.

NEW PARKING PROPOSAL

Kegging a two week "wait and see" policy, the Traffic Control Commission met on September 21 at 11 a.m. to discuss solutions to alleviate this problem. Chaired by Deep Novak, the meeting was attended by various students and faculty. Oppenheim's representative, after thorough discussion with the S.G.A., proposed a solution to the parking problem. The proposal was an increase in carpools, which would reduce the need for additional parking spaces.

S.G.A. HIRES LAWYER

by Richard Facer and Nancy Davis

The Student Government Association (S.G.A.) has retained the services of a legal counsel for the first time in its history. Mr. H. Oppenheim is now available to advise the S.G.A. on legal problems when they occur. Mr. Oppenheim was hired due to the need for legal advice in the S.G.A.'s day-to-day operations. He is available at any time to provide counsel.

INNER SPACE

by Gail Laffey

Available classroom space is readily at Bridgewater State. The problem is a difficulty in space allocation. The S.G.A. has an exorbitant amount of people, so the need for more space is acute.

Mr. Oppenheim will be at the Student Union every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. and will make his hours flexible. He is available to any student who wishes to meet with him. Students may contact him directly at his office in the Social Science Building. Under Oppenheim's contract with the S.G.A., he can only spend one time-slot at a time to meet with the students. As a result, his hours are necessary just for the time during which he is meeting with the students.

Mr. Oppenheim does not have to meet with any group of more than 30 people. This is to ensure that he can meet with the students individually. The S.G.A. has requested that a student have to be present with him at all times, to ensure that no legal advice is given to any individual student without the S.G.A.'s knowledge.

The official philosophy of the S.G.A. is that all students should be treated equally. Mr. Oppenheim does not have to meet with any student in particular. WASHINGTON — "There's a problem with these facts," said the officer at the State Bureau of Revenue. "The figures don't add up." This is a common scenario where conflicting statistics can create confusion and misunderstanding in the public sphere. Inaccuracies in data can lead to misinterpretations and, in some cases, to the erosion of trust in government and the entities that provide it. To combat this, it's crucial to ensure the accuracy and integrity of the data we use and present to the public.
ON EDUCATION.

Paul Seng of the Union Globe gave permission for the Greater Student Government Association for the use of a picture here created for the cover of their Student Guide. In addition, the picture is presented. The picture is original and made by Mecklenburg County.

I believe it was Ezra Pound who once claimed American education to be sheepish and yearned for the fact that true education is expected for the very, very day.

Some friends and I recently noticed the idea that if we had determined to be educated, then we must tell persons of every calling what others. So must we all, for we, too, have a promise to share. Anyone who knows of any we buy, the food we eat, the house in which we live, the way we use our traditional Christmas Concert. What does it say to our church and college calendars? What message does group a hard-working singing to us in the now: "The church is the church only when it exists for seems to be devoting all his efforts

Based on the statements, the text appears to be discussing the importance of education and the role it plays in society. It mentions the need for individuals to be educated and to share their knowledge with others. The text also touches on the role of education in shaping our lives and our environment, and it emphasizes the importance of being aware of the impact of our daily actions and decisions on others.
UNDERGRADUATE Curriculum Committee

Working Paper on

General Education Requirements

Part I: New Curriculum

1. Diane Stewart, Se Mrs. Holt in the humanities.

2. Guaranteed $3000 per hour. Call 209, ext. 226. My home address is Diego.

3. The German, French, Italian, Latin, and Spanish language courses may be required or elected as part of the major field. Students who do not demonstrate competence in any of these languages will be required to take a course in these languages. The requirements for the GER will be greater than for the B.A.

4. These objectives include development of:

a. An ability to communicate sufficiently well in order to work toward a meaningful life in one's own culture and in understanding others.

b. A knowledge of one's and one's place in the change of things, historical, social, and natural.

c. An awareness of and ability to explain the manifold dimensions of human nature, e.g., the physical, intellectual, social, emotional, and spiritual.

d. A recognition of or an appreciation of aesthetics, with an understanding of the function of a work of art to the world of art and mankind.

5. An active possession of the conceptual, institutional, logical, and interpretative techniques necessary to achieve all of the foregoing.

6. Goals such as these must be recognized as the minimum goals in the educational well-being of all students. Although the sub-committee has been concerned with goals and the means of achieving them, it has also been concerned with the college education here considered, which implies proper preparation for success in life. Education must be a service to society at large, filled with experiences which are worth while and essentially strongly as they are instrumentally. The common emphasis on "practical education" is without sufficient substance, at least as it stands at the present time.

7. The student takes additional courses in one or more social and behavioral sciences, without restriction on the selection of courses or the level of the courses. This should be the case with any social and behavior science courses. The student should develop a grasp and facility for the methods and goals of the social and behavioral sciences.

8. The goal of the Bridgewater State College curriculum is to make the student better able to make continuous progress in the world of work, life, and culture. The objectives are to be met in terms of the college's curriculum and degree requirements, and in other institutions of higher education. The individual is expected to develop a grasp and facility for the methods and goals of the social and behavioral sciences.

9. Through completion of the requirements of the GER, the student is expected to develop a grasp and facility for the methods and goals of the social and behavioral sciences. These objectives include development of:

a. An ability to communicate sufficiently well in order to work toward a meaningful life in one's own culture and in understanding others.

b. A knowledge of one's and one's place in the change of things, historical, social, and natural.

c. An awareness of and ability to explain the manifold dimensions of human nature, e.g., the physical, intellectual, social, emotional, and spiritual.

10. The German, French, Italian, Latin, and Spanish language courses may be required or elected as part of the major field. Students who do not demonstrate competence in any of these languages will be required to take a course in these languages. The requirements for the GER will be greater than for the B.A.

The GER aims at preparation of the synthesis and extension of the student's awareness of the diverse dimensions of human culture and experience, and study (as opposed to specialization) through the interdisciplinary aspects of the college. Within the framework of this specialization, special emphasis is given to the study of the arts, history, and culture, but which are areas that must be understood in the context of the social, intellectual, and natural sciences. Through completion of the requirements of the GER, the student is expected to develop a grasp and facility for the methods and goals of the social and behavioral sciences. These objectives include development of:

a. An ability to communicate sufficiently well in order to work toward a meaningful life in one's own culture and in understanding others.

b. A knowledge of one's and one's place in the change of things, historical, social, and natural.

c. An awareness of and ability to explain the manifold dimensions of human nature, e.g., the physical, intellectual, social, emotional, and spiritual.
The Sociology Club wishes to remind you that this is your very last opportunity to take advantage of the Student Discount, 10%, which is available at the Secretariats, 4th floor. The club is located on the third floor and is open from 10am-3pm Monday through Thursday.

The club is open to all students, regardless of major, and is dedicated to providing a supportive environment for students interested in sociology. The club hosts regular meetings, guest speakers, and field trips, and encourages members to participate in community service projects.

The club is also seeking new members, so if you are interested in learning more about sociology or meeting new people, please come and visit us. We aim to make the club a welcoming and inclusive space for all students.

Contact the club at socclub@bridgewater.edu for more information or to join our mailing list. We hope to see you soon!
Movie Review

"Casino" made me laugh, thought Robin Hood.

It's about 100s, 100s, 100s... and it's about the lack of it. What happens is different (and brilliant). But even the most tightly packed houses play part of their role with some of the most selective groups of people. The two characters seem to stand out, both out of place and out of character in the world of today. It's a good film, a very good one. And I'm not just talking about the words and the people that I see. I'm talking about the world as a whole. And I'm talking about the people that I see through the eyes of an optimist and a pessimist. I'm talking about the people that I see through the eyes of an optimist and a pessimist. I'm talking about the people that I see through the eyes of an optimist and a pessimist.

Project People

Project People, a program at Weymouth, is a self-help organization serving a counseling and referral service through a Health and Drug Center. We are seeking to expand our service to better serve the communities and its people. It is our goal to work with people to help them become the best they can be. We are currently offering a program, the Project People, to those who wish to become involved. The Project People is held in the Community Center and Braintree Press. The sessions are held on Tuesdays at 7:30 P.M. at the Weymouth Commercial Center, 1 Commercial St., Braintree.

"Ali, Ali, Ali"

At the end of the fight, when Ali was finally declared the winner, the crowd exploded. Ali bled from the eye, a swollen eye. His face was a mess. He was hit by some very hard punches. His stamina was in­credible. So was Norton's, for that matter.

Ali dominated the first four rounds. They both threw and took a lot of hard punches. It was amazing that neither went down or even got stopped. Ali barely shook more slightly, and Norton from the op.

Bears To Host Providence College

Bridgewater - With the first two games of the season now in the book and the Bridgewater State College football team at 6-0, it appears better than ever now to the town of Bridgewater that it has a team with the hopes of making the New England Conference; and if nothing else, a Bridgewater State College that has been a sleeping giant for quite some time with a little excitement.

On this Saturday night the Bears meet Providence College at home under the lights on Legion Field. Kick-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. The game will be the feature of the annual "High School Night," and revenues from area high schools have been invited to bring their teams as guests of the Bears, which is expected to be a large crowd.

On Saturday night, Coach Macaluso's quartet of Colleens is one of the two teams to enter the Western Conference Athletic Conference playing club football, and although the Bears have a large number of seniors, freshmen and sophomores that they have not "had a team in years," according to the coach, they are expecting a game to rival last year's teams. It is in the pro-rated experience of these three players that the Bears have a few key players lost due to the coach.

Bears To Host Providence College

NO MONEY, WANT SOMETHING DIFFERENT??

Plenty of research materials that I have heard repeatedly on the college campus in the last three years are "We don't do it with the sorority or the fraternity." And very few of them have any money.

As any informed person has learned, there are so many organizations on campus which can solve both of these problems for all of the women and sometimes even the men. It is in the research department.

The program is designed to put on a variety of recreational activities throughout the year for the women of the college.

In the men's pro-rated experience of competition of Colleens, such as Squash, Basketball and Modern Dance are open in all that is to be expected in dancing, skating and many other recreational activities throughout the year.

By the time the first half had run, the Board of the Bears were in their respective half of the football field with the win and the Renaissance Association has been especially pleased with the Bear Facts.

One首先要考虑的因素是，当游戏doc玩耍时，需要考虑it的等级，以及可能影响结果的因素，如卡牌的类型和玩家的策略。
