THE POSITIVE DR. FOSTER

Bridgewater - Dr. Charles W. H. Foster, secretary of environment, praised the environment in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, spoke to 600 students and faculty at Bridgewater State College Wednesday evening, and told them "there are a great many positive things happening in the control of the quality of life in this state."

The environmental chair was the guest lecturer of the Department of Earth Sciences, and Geography Club at Bridgewater.

Speaking in a positive tone, Dr. Foster held the college leadership as essential, groups taking an active part in the environmental movement, the increasing concern of the principal problem for the environment as the reason of his optimism.

"In the last few years we have witnessed an upsurge in involvement on all fronts, and I believe we are on an exciting threshold of a brand new era, an era that will be marked by a better standard of environmental conditions than previously existed."

"The environmental chair is the latest development of his own environmental agency in Massachusetts and explored how the process of consolidation still continues.

"It was only a few years ago that there were some forty-four independent agencies for the environment in the Commonwealth. Legislation reorganization established cabinet posts to bring together all independent agencies for the environment."

Foster called upon them to "remodel the space question," he said. "We have to protect our natural resources, and with the increasing population and building boom it is absolutely essential that our natural resources be used as efficiently and as profitably as possible. This will be as crucial for the future as our ancestors were to our predecessors."

"The environmental chair made reference to the BSC, the student union building, and recommended dissemination of measures for violators. They also recommended adoption of stronger remedial measures for violators."

"The undergraduate curriculum committee has adopted the following procedures in an attempt to open up to the discussion with the faculty and students regarding their consideration prior to submitting the recommendation of the under- graduate curriculum committee to the President, the Faculty Council, and the SGA."

Tuesday, Tuesday, October 8th, at 5:00, the SGA held its weekly student meeting. First on the agenda were the committee and advisor reports. Senator Peter Hartle spoke disingenuously about the Campus Development Committee and its meetings this semester. He also mentioned the possibility of reviewing the entire cabinet posts to bring together all independent agencies for the environment."

Chairman of this lecture series is Professor Reed F. Stewart, assistant professor of Geography and geography at BSC.

Foster presented his working paper to the Environmental Group and later at the Langdon Field. This year's Homecoming Weekend will be played in a football field. However, graduate students who have earned and enjoyed the full of BSC for four years and suddenly find themselves solving or working in some way, could provide the students with some kind of rewarding behind bedding students."

"There are still some agencies, which asserts the rights of all Massachusetts students to a clean and healthy environment."

You have to remember the potential of all Massachusetts students to a clean and healthy environment.

"It is legislation like this, coupled with strong public interest, that means we are enabling a beneficial change in the environment," he stated.

"We have to continue to be frustrated in at- continued on pg. 5..."

STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN CURRICULUM CHANGES PLANNED

by Kity Nason

The 1973 Homecoming Event is propelling ahead with plans for the big celebration on November 19th to 21st. What is the significance of having a Homecoming Weekend? Perhaps an undergraduate student could not answer that in the light of a happening, then a homecoming. However, graduate students who have endured and enjoyed the full of BSC for four years and suddenly find themselves solving or working in some way, could provide the students with some kind of rewarding behind bedding students.

"Homecoming... back to see how college has changed, to reminisce about old times like Ralph's, the posters, the frats, the pledging, the crowning of seniors, the famous BBQ parties that usually to see old friends, to keep in touch..."the graduate would like to see what the radicals of his class are doing now that they are not in college."

Do Something!

It's very easy to say, "I don't like it," but much harder to say why. "Why?" might be expressed, "because," or "I just don't like it." Condemnation without a suggestion for improvement is window-dressing.

On the other hand, a valid criticism would combine both elements. This is effective in criticism, expresses not just dislike, but also improves something.

Criticism is the constructive form of this art. Everyone possesses an opinion that is set in stone. This opinion is the "The Comment" in our selection. We are not happy with the paper in its present form, but are working towards improvement. This is an area where you can help us. We need suggestions. Fill in the following evaluation form, and bring it to "The Comment" office. This is the bar marked for three, or go across our fence in the office. Have a cup of coffee with us, you're our paper! Maybe, you'll even decide to help us, read writers, typists, layout staff, or just workers.

We need you to be a part of us! Join us in taking a little time, with a little time, to improve our paper. We'd like to have you join in our little project, and leave it in our hand at the Information Booth. No do it! Don't just complain, do something!

The paper is in need of many improvements. We ask that you do an honest job in helping us improve. We want to make this a better paper for you. To help us, please fill in the form and drop it off, or mail it, at the corner pigeons will leave it in our hand at the Information Booth. But do it! Don't just complain. Do something!

Now that President Nixon has chosen a successor in April, Ford, he may have selected the man who will be president within six months. Gerald Ford could conceivably be residing at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue six months from now. Watergate has kicked started to fill the skies of Washington with the scandalous cloud of deceit.

Ford, when asked by reporters what constitutional grounds for impeachment are required. "Gerrymandering is an example of what the House and Senate are able to do. The majority of the House of Representatives feel it is." ALOHA!
By Jonny Turpin
On the morning of January 4th, seventy-four lucky BSC students will be boarded a DC-4 jet for Honolulu. As the plane takes off, the students will be busy making their plans for the thirty-three day Hawaiian vacation. Upon arrival in Honolulu, they will fly to the island of Kauai and enjoy a week of sightseeing, and hotel stay at the new Holiday Inn, located on Waikiki beach. The price of this fabulous vacation is just $338. Students from other colleges will also be on the DC-4 jet, making the total 225. The other three colleges are Southem Connecticut State University, Manchester Junior College and Genesee.
This trip is being carefully planned by Bob Sharkey, Assistant Director of the Student Union. A blowout is located on the second floor of the Student Union. At present, there is space for five more students to sign up. It is the result of five recent cancellations. If you are interested, don't hesitate. If you miss this trip, there will be another trip planned for the spring, which will be placed on a new waiting list.
On December 3rd, there will be an orientation meeting where movie will be shown, for those that are definitely Hawaiian-bound. It will be held in the demonstration room at 7:15 P.M.
If you miss out on this January vacation, don't worry. Plans are now in the process for a March vacation as well.

Sunday night maybe? "Stilts, I'm Greg Allison. Welcome to Macon, Georgia. Right from the start you knew the concert was going to be great. It was a night that will be remembered for a long time. The Allman-Brothers Band will be remembered for the last 25 minutes the Allman Bros. hit the stage. They left all with "Hardcore," Great Dyanamic power! Musical power, creativity. They left me with such awe! I couldn't help but feel the air was filled with '70s energy when they played. 'M guide's Name the Song' and I'm sure the audience didn't refrain. They finished up with "Melissa's Blues," realizing a fantastic night of music. Keep on coming to Macon.

PUOSTO COFFEEHOUSE

Allston, Mass., located in the Old Methodist Parish House on Centre Street, is sponsoring a coffeehouse every Saturday night at 8:00 P.M. It's open to anyone of any age who enjoys listening to folk music in a relaxed atmosphere with candle-light music. Puosto will be featuring folk groups from the Greater Boston area. The donation is $1, and there is no entrance fee. This night is for your benefit, no cover charge and no take advantage of it.

FEMINIST FM FILM FESTIVAL

The Boston Women's Group at Bridgewater is sponsoring a film series for the Fall Semester. The series will focus on "Growing Up Female," will be shown Tuesday, November 2nd at 6:00 P.M. in the Union Auditorium. The Women's Rights Group would like to extend the invitation to all women locally and administrators to view this film. The Women's Rights Group feels that the representation of women in academia at this college has been greatly neglected. Our organization is working towards developing and creating women's studies and workshops on campus. We are interested in inviting accredited courses in the curriculum, in all areas of education. History, economics, psychology, art, sociology, law, physical education. Perhaps that is to evolve the co-operative and energy of everyone is necessary. We hope that you will be able to meet with us this Tuesday and discuss your ideas for developing women's studies at Bridgewater. Please bring any interested persons.

INTIMIDATION

by Sarah Calvin

INTIMIDATION is one of the inherent factors in many educational institutions. It is difficult to say exactly what the problem is, as our solutions, motives, and even our own system are confusing. But the problem is real, and we must face it. Students who participate in violent or threatening behavior are responsible for doing so. The situation is not unique to our college, but exists on a larger scale in society at large. This is why it is important to recognize and address the issue of intimidation.

To take a step into the high school years. As a freshman, the student is bravely intimidated. He accepts it, but doesn't forget it. The time will come in the near future when he will be his turn to intimidate those younger than him. But then he is负责任 for his behavior. The freshmen turned junior is ready to see intimidation can be an effective device.

That which happens after graduation? If the student goes on to college, he finds himself in a more serious and destructive environment. The confidence he gained by being an intimidator will be unshaken by the facts that he is now a university freshman. Yet, it seems that the student is more fearful than ever. The reason is that the student realizes that the responsibilities of educating younger students is now on his shoulders.

Due to the rigid degree requirements the student is anxious to be a part of the class. The college has specified. It may not be his role to be a part of the college community. It is a certainty, confused, educational system. He must be taught, because he is forced to take the position. To understand the problem more clearly, the function of intimidation will be covered. It all starts with the top of the power system, with the faculty council in the middle, and the President of the college on top with the final say on any matter. Now where does this function figure in a scheme of things? Obviously, where the student is concerned, because he is the basic unit. The question of who is the one to speak is raised.

For quite some time students have been playing an active part at the college on an administrative level. But they are intimidated. The faculty council turns all students from attending the meetings. They are afraid of losing self-esteem by placing themselves in the same class as everyone else. Unfavorable results are often found. But if that remains the only way to deal with the situation, it is a greater chance of failure. But wouldn't the success be more rewarding if we were trying to help them to win? It would seem as though most people lack self-esteem to be in our own environment. They are not being exposed to the system they don't realize that their own friends are5,000 lbs., so they blindly follow the authority immediately, not really thinking about their own position. A note may be: "Where does this idea of intimidation come from?"

So a cycle is in the high school years. As a freshman, the student is bravely intimidated. He accepts it, but doesn't forget it. The time will come in the near future when he will be his turn to intimidate those younger than him. But then he is responsible for his behavior. The freshmen turned junior is ready to see intimidation can be an effective device.

The Buddy Club at UMass is coming of its em this year. New students, three years ago, the club and its members found their identity and extracurricular validation in this realistic approach to some of the problems they faced in this year. under the guidance of president Daniel Case and vice-president, Pat Moorhead, the club has been organized to meet its needs and still function effectively. In a meeting held last spring, David outlined the changes the club has undergone in the past year. This year the Buddy Club is concentrating on helping youngsters in the Bridgewater area, between the ages of six and sixteen. Applications for the youngsters are sent out, and if the parents agree, the application is completed. Applications are being sent out to members of the Buddy Club that have been selected. Instead of a meeting every other week, the club has a set up a system in the Student Union and the club members that will help students new to the club to contact the Buddy Club. Bears Lose to Conn State BRIDGEWATER: All season long the Bears have depended upon the upper two of Joe Barnes for their offensive punch, but last Saturday another senior had them in a tailspin. Captain Curley Chaves kicked two field goals and threw a touchdown pass to take the momentum out of the Bears in a score of 9-6.

The Bears are now 0-2 in the season as they go against Nichols here on Saturday, with kickoff scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at Lagoon Field. Both Nichols and Bridgewater are undefeated in conference play. Nichols is 4-1 on the season, and just lost their first game last weekend.

Looking forward to Saturday's contest, Bears coach Pete Miniatures sees a tough game for the Bridgewater eleven. "They are a fine team, and every player has the ability to lead in several places. They have a good passing attack, and we'll have to contain that. They have some running backs, a solid defense, and a lot of momentum built up. Our team has come too far to not win today, but we're going to be right in there. It should be a good contest!"

Coach Miniatures said that this Saturday's game is the annual contest between the schools. "The Bears have played against Nichols and Simon's for the last three years, and this is the first time in the conference that we've played together. We're looking forward to it, and I think it'll be a good contest."

Bridgewater's cross country team remains undefeated after swept weekend competition at Dudley with Nichols College and Salem State College. Bears showed at at depth for the top two schools and captured with a first place finish by Peter Gregory, the Bears won an overwhelming victory.

The course was a 5k.3 miles. online, only the last mile was raced. The last mile was won by Salem State. Salem State won the Meet at that point.

The Bears had some in the race and seemed to have emerged as a conference title contender. This Saturday's game against Nichols could be the key.

They are a fine team, and every player has the ability to lead in several places. They have a good passing attack, and we'll have to contain that. They have some running backs, a solid defense, and a lot of momentum built up. Our team has come too far to not win today, but we're going to be right in there. It should be a good contest!"

Nichols and Salem State

The Bears are now 0-2 in the season as they go against Nichols here on Saturday, with kickoff scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at Lagoon Field. Both Nichols and Bridgewater are undefeated in conference play. Nichols is 4-1 on the season, and just lost their first game last weekend.

Looking forward to Saturday's contest, Bears coach Pete Miniatures sees a tough game for the Bridgewater eleven. "They are a fine team, and every player has the ability to lead in several places. They have a good passing attack, and we'll have to contain that. They have some running backs, a solid defense, and a lot of momentum built up. Our team has come too far to not win today, but we're going to be right in there. It should be a good contest!"

Coach Miniatures said that this Saturday's game is the annual contest between the schools. "The Bears have played against Nichols and Simon's for the last three years, and this is the first time in the conference that we've played together. We're looking forward to it, and I think it'll be a good contest."
