Dear Editor,

Recent reports have made it clear that the committee tasked with selecting the Dean of Students at Bridgewater State College has not yet been fully formed, and the search for a new Dean is expected to take several months. This delay is unfortunate, as it is critical that we have a qualified individual in place to lead the student affairs department.

In the meantime, I would like to suggest that we create a临时的 (temporary) committee to oversee the search process. This committee could be composed of faculty and staff members who are knowledgeable about the needs of our campus community. They could work together to identify the key qualities and skills that a new Dean should possess, and to develop a detailed job description for the position.

I believe that this temporary committee could provide a valuable service to our institution during this challenging time. I look forward to hearing your thoughts on this matter.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
President Rondileau, President of BSC, which was during the debate, Senator Stephen Gray. He was replaced by a freshman commuter, Howard Tuskey. The committee’s student block was then submitted to Dr. Rondileau before the deadline of 12:00 noon Wednesday. Further debate was possible in this executive move and the move of Vice-President Pechelon to be heard. To complete the evening of large and small issues, the Senate agreed to President Rondileau’s energy conservation proposal of degrees for comfort. However, the Senate was freeze during their heated debates.

A controversial issue on the Bridgewater State College campus recently has been the question of the SU fee increase. The Board of Governors has proposed a $5 per semester increase; total SU fees for the 1977-78 academic year would be $35. Ms. Hunt then offered four motions to the Senate. The first three motions were defeated by the Senate, and the fourth successful motion to the Senate was presented and voted on.

BOOKSTORE: FRIEND OR FOE?

Candice Killion

Many students have come to consider buying books as a form of unmitigated torture, aWhich had earned books are usually returned. If money is unavailable, books are already depleated back accounts, to an invariable source of hungry valuations — the College Associates Bookstore. There just stand, sweats, anxiety and a little blue bookchapel, hoping that the total price of your book will not seem unreasonably high. The sales clerk, possibly a tireless student who is working for the new establishment in an attempt to ease her charges from housing, stuffs up each book, one at a time. Already, a mere past is the way.

Finally, after what seems like 1 hour. 15 minutes, you are finally through. ACHECK FROM BouncinG, is ringing up each book, one at a time. SLOWLY . . . it's more painful that rip off, outrageous prices, Books do cost more this year, in a consumer economy. It's our duty to consider the interests of the students. It's our responsibility to maximize efficiency and minimize costs. That's why we need to control the amount of waste produced in our society.

Harpsicord: A Trip to the Past

by Jenny Olive

Last Tuesday evening an audience of about 50 people in the Student Union auditorium took a trip back to the time of early European music. The program included two harpsicords, one a grand, a harpsicord with a pedal, and one a spinet.

The program began with Ms. Nolan giving the audience a brief history of the instrument. A harpsicord is a pipe instrument, different from the piano in that the strings are plucked by a single, wooden lever. It is the ancestor of the harpsichord.

Ms. Nolan gave us a tour of the New England Conservatory at a performance major in piano, then demonstrated to harpsicord after hearing her played, she has two 15-year experience with the instrument.

Ed Maneye, BIC Director of Planning and Development, at recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, outlined a construction schedule that includes, among other projects, three high-school elevator shafts for the Green Hill dorms, a new residential apartment complex, completion of Woodside Phase II, and the construction, in two phases, of the campus teaching library center. Ground-breaking for the $7 million state-of-the-art library building will take place in June. The first phase call for the library's core structure, in preparation for the teaching library center in August 1978. The library will include 240,000 square feet of instructional spaces. The construction will be complete in May 1980, allowing for the completion of Phase I in July 1978. Residence of Woodside would then be reflected, starting a long renovation program there. Exterior renovation plans for Phase II, included on the project schedule, will begin in April. All three buildings will undergo renovation of the front and rear. Many windows and doors will be replaced. During this summer, temporary work will be done in Paine, Scott and Guest Hill.

Harpsicord a Trip to the Past

By Jeanne Oliver

Last Tuesday evening an audience of about 50 people in the Student Union sat gazing on a rare musical instrument. The performer's name was James Nicolson, and his instrument was the harpsicord. Nicolson's harpsicord is of an antique style, made hand-painted with beautifully intricate designs and Latin mottoes. The estimated value of a harpsicord built today was $7000 because of the many months it requires to build one. Nicolson gave a little background on the instrument with a careful performance major in piano, then.jpg

SGA Senate Candidate

After losing the careful statistical considerations I have decided to treat the office of SGA Senate Candidate. I would like to thank those of you who have given me support in this campaign. I am pleased to announce that I am running as a Democrat. Second, my exploratory last weekend should have been made available earlier sufficient to show you that I am not afraid to stand up for what I believe in. Third, I have been regularly attending meetings of the Senate and following the proceedings of the Senate. The great issue is what advantage over an earlier non-senator who might be more easily swayed by the tricks of parlor consultations.

I hope you will give me the opportunity to prove my abilities in the Senate. I will do my best to keep abreast of issues and hot topics and to represent the interests of students in my own way. I am assured the Student Union. Building most of the time every day and night and after the school day, I will make every effort to be in the Senate. I will keep you apprised of any developments and I will be happy to answer any questions you may have. If you have a problem the Senate can do something about bring it about to you at my attention. It will do its best to answer your questions. Effective will be held on February 10 in the Student Union Building. All students will be welcome to take the vote on this issue. Thank you for giving this letter and my appreciative correspondence.

President Rondileau:

I am writing to you this morning to acknowledge the principle of the high priority of student issues and concerns. However, your proposals for the structure of the student government and the election candidates of the OHS Senate. Students do not select the principle of overseeing student concerns.

Your proposal for the structure of the student government is one that is not only realistic, but also feasible. It recognizes the needs of students, their rights, and responsibilities.

I believe that this system will work well for our students.
