Aquabrytes Drown in Applause

The Aquabrytes' Show is at once thought to be a performance of water ballet only. However, the show presented on April 27, 28, and 29 was a unique combination of ballet, acrobatics, and dance. The performance was a visual treat for the audience.

The show's unique costume design was inspired by the use of texture and color. The costumes were made of materials such as tulle, chiffon, and sequins, which added a shimmering effect to the performance. The men wore traditional suits with a splash of color, while the women were adorned in elegant gowns with intricate patterns.

The Aquabrytes' performance was a blend of classical and modern ballet. The routine was choreographed to a classical music score, which added an extra layer of sophistication to the performance. The movements were precise and graceful, with each dancer perfectly in sync with the music.

The Aquabrytes' Show was a spectacular event that showcased the talent and hard work of the performers. The audience was captivated by the elegance and beauty of the performance, and the applause echoed in the air as the curtain closed. The Aquabrytes' Show was a testament to the power of art and the beauty of human expression.

Students interested in developing their understanding of the logical structure...
The Arena
presented by the political science club
Spring and Cherry Blossoms in Washington

by Christine Hebert

During the week of March 1986, a group of students from the Political Science Club, along with several faculty members, traveled to Washington D.C. The purpose of the excursion was to allow students to observe politics in action. The trip included visits to various locations such as the Supreme Court, the U.S. Capitol, and various government buildings. The trip was organized by Dr. Nancy Klassen, the department head of Political Science.

The students were divided into three vans with competent drivers, such as Steve McLaughlin, Tisevich, Rhonda Pruss, and Barb Fotopoulas. They were accompanied by the group's advisor, Dr. Nancy Klassen. The tour started with a visit to the Supreme Court, where the students observed the proceedings and discussed the political process. The group then proceeded to the U.S. Capitol, where they took a tour of the inner workings of Congress. The afternoon was spent at the Smithsonian Institute, where the students viewed various exhibits and collections.

The evening was spent at the White House, where the students attended a reception hosted by the First Lady. The next day, the group visited the National Mall, where they observed the monuments and memorials dedicated to American history. The trip concluded with a visit to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where the students learned about the process of printing currency.

The experience was educational and enlightening for all the participants. The students gained a deeper understanding of the political process and the workings of the federal government. The trip was a success, and the students expressed their appreciation to Dr. Klassen for organizing such an enriching experience.

Hello,

This letter is to announce an organizational meeting for an All-Campus Spring Spruce-up which has been set for Friday, April 29 and Saturday April 30. The Spruce-up will consist of:

* Painting classrooms in the second floor of Boyden Hall.
* Reseeding the lawn area in front of Boyden Hall.
* A general campus trash pick-up.

The Office of the President has assured me that everything from paint to trash bags can be supplied, all we need is the student power. If your group would be interested in planning this weekend, please attend the meeting on Monday, April 11th, in the Club organization of the second floor of the Student Union Building, at 7:30. If you have any other questions, please call me, Sue Lawson at 697-4609 in the evening, or leave a message at the Comment Office, ext. 260.

Fair Teaching?

my learning center is a requirement of the course. I looked over the evaluation and didn't understand one of the marks. After class I questioned my professor about the mark. He himself wasn't sure of the reason, but said I must have done something wrong in my presentation. I accepted this, but questioned the fact that my mark should have been lower. (This was honored; he avoided an answer) He then turned and walked away, saying very sarcastically, "Well, no one dares," and replied, "It's my call, and that's the end of it."

What bothers me about this whole incident is that my professor has preached about fairness with students, how he should learn from their problems, and above all we should never use our status as teachers to over-ride students or put them down. Before this incident, I had respect for him, now I am disillusioned and disappointed. It isn't the role fitting to practice what you preach.

Statesmen Visit Clinic

by Dave Wilson

Massachusetts State Senator Robert McCreary and State Representative Peter V. Finn recently visited the Children's Physical Developmental Clinic at Bridgewater State College to observe the Clinic's programs which are designed to help special needs children with physical, emotional, and neurological handicaps improve their physical skill and social development.

Senator McCreary was particularly impressed with the Clinic's activities, which he described as "outstanding." He was especially impressed with the Clinic's ability to involve special needs children in meaningful activities that help them develop their physical skills and improve their self-esteem.

The Children's Physical Developmental Clinic is a community service of Bridgewater State College for special needs children. Children are referred to the Clinic by schools, hospitals, and other agencies. The Clinic provides ongoing support and resources to help students achieve their goals.

Applications are available from the Office of the Dean of Student Life, Bridgewater State College, Bridgewater, MA 02324.
The Bridgewater State College Ensemble Theatre will present an evening of English Farces on May 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1977 at 8:00 p.m. in the BSC Auditorium. The evening entails two hilarious one-act plays.

THE REAL INSPECTOR HOUND, by Tom Stoppard, is a play within a play introducing Lady Cynthia Muldoon, her girlfriend guest Felicity Cunningham, and the third member of the triangle, Simon Gascoyne. The fun with confusion of identity begins when Inspector Hound arrives and investigates the unusual side-splitting murders. Playwright Stoppard also wrote the Tony Award winning TRAVESTIES.

GUTRAGEOUSLY funny play opens with a dark stage (which is light to the characters) and then blows a fuse, throwing them all into the dark (which is light to the audience). It deals with a unique combination of individuals in a strange household, and the zany events that take place in the dark. The cast includes Judi Bergeron, Donna Borges, Donald Capen, Jeffrey Entwistle, David Finlay, Helen Gallagher, Brian Hall, Jane Laffey, Steve Martin, Tony Mastrovili, Joseph Mulhern, Denyce Musial, David Nadell, Bob O'Haver, and Richard Pacheco. Stage Manager is Sandra Ross. Tickets can be reserved or purchased across from the Bookstore at $1.50 for students and staff, $2.50 for others. Buy now!

T.V. Trance

by Maes Carley Brindisi

At the year's Academy Awards the film Nebraska won Best Picture, Best Actor and actress. Judging not from these facts alone, but from the emotional level, too, a film venture was an extremely successful one. To see the movie is to see the ultimate in T.V. Trance: the most stolid observer. The present day statistics, however, are even more overwhelming.

The movie "Sex, Lies and Videotape" aroused the sensitivities of even the most casual theatergoer, guaranteed to please the TV audience in the information age. There were more TV sets at home than people in the United States.

It is not unusual for people to watch television for years without realising that they are watching television. The present situation is that the average American household, more so than the television set, is the world of information. With only 6.5 per cent of our viewing time devoted to TV, most of the information, or lack of it, is in the minds of the viewers rather than the minds of the networks. The viewer is seldom subjected to any kind of mental challenge. There is a whole new kind of viewing audience added to these networks. The networks, however, have not been able to move along without a loss of the ratings they have been known to attain. At a time of so much social and political upheaval, becoming mainstreamed, by watching television, drug and alcohol use, the physics of the TV Trance has meant the mental escape of a generation. Alcohol, after all, is often considered as the elixir of hope.

1. Do you sit closer than three feet while watching television?
2. Do you spend three hours a day watching television?
3. Do you become large amounts of people and their problems a day while watching TV shows that are characterized for their lack of educational value?
4. Do you spend more money on television sets, which are essentially a piece of electronic art, than on books and movies?
5. Do you watch more television in the evening, morning or afternoon?
6. Do you often have the TV set on while reading, working, or doing household chores?
7. Do you often have the TV set on while performing, cooking, driving, or engaging in other activities?
8. Do you sit closer than three feet while watching television?
9. Do you spend more than five hours a day watching television?
10. Do you watch more television in the evening, morning or afternoon?
11. Do you often have the TV set on while reading, working, or doing household chores?
12. Do you often have the TV set on while performing, cooking, driving, or engaging in other activities?

Student Voice Recital

by Karen Tobin

Senior Vocal Recital, featuring tenors Mozart and Baxa, was presented on Wednesday, April 26, in the Brockton Art Center. Both singers played the role of the major composer. The main feature of the program was Mozart's "Requiem" and Baxa's"Missa Brevis".

The recital was entitled "In Search of the True Artist" and the program was divided into two parts: "The Artist as a Singer" and "The Artist as a Composer". The recital was quite good. The program was well prepared and the performers delivered their songs with great care.

Jim Monahan, Karen Tobin, Dennis Blanchard, Liz Smith and Lyn Marzilli talkng, or indulge in a letterwriting or discussing events. And there are those who are always talking about the future and the past, and the present. They are always looking for something to do, something to say, something to think about. And they are always looking for something to believe in, something to fight for.

The recital was quite good. The performers were well rehearsed and the audience was enthusiastic.

The recital was performed by Maura Curley Bostorf, a freelance writer and editor, who has written extensively on the subject of television. The recital was presented in the Brockton High School auditorium.

James Taylor will play at Brockton High School on May 14 to benefit the Brockton Art Center.

Tonight's performance was Mr. Stein's "Requiem" and "Missa Brevis". Both recitals were performed with great care.

SPRINGFEST!
Sponsored by Students for a Better BSC

On Saturday, May 7, Students For a Better BSC will proudly present the First Annual SPRINGFEST. This is the second event the group has undertaken to sponsor and produce without any guaranteed success. Last October the group sponsored OCTOBERFEST with Ben Blake providing the entertainment. The cost was minimal at $3.00 with all the ice cold beer drinkable from noon to six. An estimated five hundred satisfied people attended and had what was described as one of the best social events ever to take place in Bridgewater.

Reflecting on the highly successful OCTOBERFEST, Students for a Better BSC are now planning the First Annual SPRINGFEST. The extravaganza will be held at Leaches Grove. Softball, football, frisbee, wet tee-shirt and underwear contests, goldfish swallowing, and much, much more. The cost for this much-needed event is only $3.00. Limited tickets are now available.

The event will be held at the spacious "Lenox-like" Leaches Grove. It is one and a half miles down route 18 heading towards Middleboro. Don't miss the event of the season. See you at the SPRINGFEST!

Mike Chakour of the Mission Band will come to BSC on May 7th. Be there!

An Evening of English Farces

The Bridgewater State College Ensemble Theatre will present an evening of English Farces on May 5, 6, and 7, 1977 at 8:00 p.m. in the BSC Auditorium. The evening entails two hilarious one act plays, THE REAL INSPECTOR HOUND, by Tom Stoppard, a play within a play introducing Lady Cynthia Middleton, her girlfriend, and guest Felicity Cunningham, and the third member of the triangle, Simon Gascoyne. The fun with confusion of identity begins when Inspector Shadbolt arrives and investigates the unusual side-splitting murders. Playwright Stoppard also wrote the Tony Award winning TRAVESTIES.

The second farce, BLACK COMEDY, was authored by the highly acclaimed EQUUS. This outrageously funny play opens with a dark stage (which is light to the characters) and then blows a fuse, throwing them all into the dark (which is light to the audience). It deals with a unique combination of individuals in a strange household, and the zany events that take place in the dark. The cast includes Judi Bergeron, Donna Boga, Donald Capen, Jeffrey Emchelwe, David Finlay, Helen Gellinger, Brian Hill, Jane Laffey, Steve Martin, Tony Mastroiilli, Joseph Mulhoney, Denyce Musial, David Nadell, Bob O'Neill, and Richard Pacheco. Patriot's Day Marathon

by JoAnn Merzigian

A Patriot's Day Marathon was held Tuesday, April 19th, at 11:00 a.m. to benefit the Heart Association sponsored by the Political Science and Physical Education Organizations. Each entry paid 50 cents in order to compete in the three mile course. Of the approximately 50 entries, the Marathon Man turned out to be freshman Jim Kane, a resident of Durgin Hall at Bridgewater State College.

Jim, originally from Braintree, Mass., is a 1976 graduate of Miami Palmetto High School, Miami, Florida. Here at BSC, Jim is a chemistry major with strong interests in athletics. Hobbies and activities include running and skiing.

Jim's previous experience in running consisted of cross-country, track, and field. Although not a member of the track team, Jim ran 8-10 miles daily during the weeks prior to the race and will continue to work out for possible future races.

What would make a person pay to run three miles? Reasons behind Jim's running were held together by a strong interest in competition which were rewarded by a sweet victory. Jim's interest in competition is leading him into serious training for the next Boston Marathon. Who knows, maybe the Bridgewater Marathon Man will eventually become the Boston Marathon Man!

Best of luck, Jim; we'll all be watching for you!

A sincere thanks is given to Charlie Dahlgren, Jim's manager, who stuck with Jim through the training period. Thanks Charlie!

Spring and Cherry Blossoms in Washington

by Christine Hostetler

During the week of March 30th, eight men from the political science club, along with Professor John Hyeon, visited Washington, D.C. to experience the sights and sites of the nation's capital. The greatest was natuur at the Benjamin Franklin High School. The main attraction was the Jefferson Memorial and the House of Representatives. The days were spent touring the various government buildings and landmarks.

Commentary

By Doug Scher

The month of April has been a month of pleasant surprises for the students here at Bridgewater State College. During the past few weeks of April, some unexpected things have occurred that have been uncharacteristic of Bridgewater State College. One of the most surprising things that has happened is the emergence of a star athlete on the Bridgewater State College football team.

According to the coach, the following improvements will be made to the Bridgewater State College football team. First, the team will be restructured to include a new position of head coach. The new coach will be selected by the Bridgewater State College administration. In addition, the team will be coached by a new head coach who will be responsible for all aspects of the team's performance.

As for the rest of the team, the following improvements have been planned: there will be additional practice sessions, including at Woodfield's and Edwardsville; more intense training at Woodfield's and Edwardsville; and more intensity training at Woodfield's and Edwardsville. These improvements are necessary to make sure that the team is ready for the upcoming season. The team will be coached by a new head coach who will be responsible for all aspects of the team's performance.

Bears Elect New Co-Captains

The Bridgewater State College football team recently announced the election of new co-captains. The new co-captains are Tom Cobb, Tom Harrington, and Joe Reagan. The co-captains managed three area systems. They have each received the highest marks from the coaches and the team. They will need the help of the other two co-captains.

Philosophy Offerings

Students interested in ideas will have an opportunity to explore the philosophical tradition in the context of their experience. The class will focus on the study of various philosophical topics such as the nature of reality, the human condition, and the meaning of life. The class will meet on Wednesdays at 2:00 PM in room 203 of the Philosophy building. The class will be taught by Professor John Doe, who has a PhD in Philosophy from Harvard University.

Bears Start Drilling

The Bridgewater State College football team has started their season with some surprising results. The team has started with a 2-0 record, which is the best start in school history. The team has been led by new co-captains Tom Cobb, Tom Harrington, and Joe Reagan.

The team has played three games so far and has won two of them. The first game was against the University of Lowell and the team won 6-3. The second game was against the University of Connecticut and the team won 6-0. The third game was against the University of Massachusetts and the team won 6-2.

Although the team has been successful, there are still some concerns. One concern is the team's defense. The defense has been weak in some games and has given up more points than expected. However, the team's offense has been strong and has scored more points than the defense has allowed.

Open Mouth

By Anne McAlpin

It's time to get those tongues out of the closet, along with the taboos and prejudices that have kept them in. It's time to accept that the mouth is not just a place for eating and speaking, but a place for expressing ourselves as well. It's time to reframe the concept of the mouth, and see it as a space for personal expression.

One way to do this is by incorporating the use of mimesis. Mimesis is the process of imitating another person's behavior, and it can be used to express a wide range of emotions and ideas. By using mimesis, we can create a space for personal expression, and use the mouth as a tool for self-expression.

Another way to reframe the concept of the mouth is by thinking about it as a space for communication. The mouth is not just a place for eating and speaking, but a place for communicating with others. By thinking about the mouth in this way, we can create a space for dialogue and understanding.

Finally, the mouth is also a space for personal development. By taking care of our mouths and using them to express ourselves, we can create a space for personal growth and development.

In conclusion, it's time to get those tongues out of the closet, along with the taboos and prejudices that have kept them in. It's time to accept that the mouth is not just a place for eating and speaking, but a place for expressing ourselves as well. It's time to reframe the concept of the mouth, and see it as a space for personal expression.
Cheerleaders Take First

On April 15, Bridgewater State College was announced the winner of the annual Intercollegiate Cheerleading Competition held at Boston State College. The event featured teams from various colleges, including physical education, education, psychology, math, and business majors. The competition was judged on cheerleading skills, synchronous movements, and use of props.

The Bridgewater State girls took first place with a perfect score of five judges, receiving 480 points. Their cheerleading routine included various dance moves, synchronized jumps, and an impressive use of props. They were judged on their originality, precision, enthusiasm, and execution.

Their toughest competition was Salem State University, but Bridgewater State managed to secure their victory. The girls were led by their Vice-President, Vincent, and their President-elect was Frank DiCristofaro, both juniors.

The Bridgewater State girls brought home the FIRST PLACE trophy. Their non-stop, four-minute routine earned them a perfect score from the five judges. The girls said the experience was a whirlwind of excitement and teamwork.

LaCrosse Falls to UNH, Brown

It's been an uphill battle so far for the Bridgewater State lacrosse team, but they managed to make it past their first opponent, UNH, last week. The team won a close match against the UNH Black Knights, matching their record to 4-2, while Bridgewater's record dropped to 0-3.

In other positions, the Bridgewater State girls brought home the Toothless Wonder Award. During a match against Tufts University, Tufts escaped with a 6-5 victory, upping their record to 2-0. The Bridgewater State girls fought hard, but their momentum couldn't overcome the Tufts defense.

M 4 News

As had been expected, two close games highlighted the 1977-78 Men's Athletic Association season. The game between the Men's Basketball team and Tufts University was particularly exciting, with the Bridgewater State team falling short of victory. The final score was 74-72 in favor of Tufts.

In another game, the Men's Lacrosse team faced off against the Babies, their annual rivals. The team managed to secure a win, earning a score of 10-6. This victory brought their season record to 3-0.

The Bridgewater State men's basketball team was represented by a number of talented players, including Mark Medeiros, Peter Shaw, and John Lally. Their efforts were recognized, and the team was awarded the Toothless Wonder Award for their excellence in the sport.

Throughout the season, the Bridgewater State athletic teams faced tough competition, but their dedication and hard work paid off. The team is looking forward to future matches and the possibility of securing another victory.
Aquabrytes Drown in Applause

The Aquabrytes' Show is at times thought to be a performance of water ballet only. However, the show presented on April 21, 22 and 23 was a unique combination of ballet, tap, jazz, and modern dance with a wonderful sound track.

Creative ability and hard work went into the show. The Aquabrytes' Show is at times thought to be a performance of water ballet only. However, the show presented on April 21, 22 and 23 was a unique combination of ballet, tap, jazz, and modern dance with a wonderful sound track.

Although all the numbers were very good, several deserve the term excellent. Rosemary, a tall, slender dancer, showcased her skill in the number "Calypso," performing with a flowing motion that was beautiful to watch. The performance was a unique combination of ballet, tap, jazz, and modern dance with a wonderful sound track.
