Editorial

This will not be your ordinary, everyday editorial complaining about the food provided by Campus Food Services. I am not going to complain about the general quality of the food, but rather about its impact on the dining experience. At least, in the past, the Food Service had been somewhat uniform in its approach to meal selection and preparation. Now, however, the food seems to vary widely from day to day, with no pattern or rhyme or reason. Sometimes, you get a decent meal, but other times, it's just plain awful. And it's not just the food that's the problem; it's also the service. The wait staff is often unhelpful and occasionally even rude. It's frustrating to have to ask for something several times and still not get it. The atmosphere of the dining hall also seems to have changed; it's less pleasant and more chaotic. The noise level is often high, and there are times when it feels like you're eating in a restaurant instead of a college dining hall. Overall, the experience is far from what you would expect from a college dining facility. Why can't they just give us what we pay for? It's been a long time since I've been able to enjoy a meal at the dormitories, and it's sad to see how far we've fallen. I hope that the administration will take notice of these issues and make the necessary changes to improve the dining experience for all students.

"It is not the winning, but the participating, not the conquering, but the playing."

—Baron de Courtray

Many of us here at Bridgewater College are very interested in sports and how they can be used as a way to bring people together. When something like track and field is one of the activities available on campus, it is important to know how it can contribute to the overall culture of the school.

The team was one of the top performers at its meet this weekend, leading the way in track and field events. The Bridgewater College men's track and field team was victorious in their second meet of the season against the University of Richmond. The field had six athletes compete in the meet on Saturday, with five of them participating in track events.

The meet took place on the track at Bridgewater College and was attended by over 1,000 spectators. The team's performance was led by junior varsity athlete, who set a new school record in the 400m dash with a time of 48.2 seconds.

The team's success can be attributed to the hard work and dedication of the athletes on the team. They have been training hard throughout the season, and their efforts have paid off.

The next meet for the Bridgewater College men's track and field team is scheduled for May 12th against the University of Virginia. The team is looking forward to continuing their success and looking forward to their next meet.

Action Center for Women's Benefit for the Equal Rights Amendment

By Delilah Evans
"Equality of rights under law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex." These few simple, direct words of the ERA can mean different things to different people. For the women of the Action Center for Women's Benefit, the ERA is a reminder of the importance of ensuring equal opportunities for women. The Center's focus on the ERA is one of their many initiatives aimed at promoting gender equality.

The ENSEMBLE THEATRE will present "TWO MILLIONS FOR FOUR YEARS," a play by Arthur Miller. The play tells the story of a group of women who came together to form the Action Center for Women's Benefit. Through their journey, they learn about the importance of activism and the power of collective action. The production aims to inspire and educate audience members about the ERA and the ongoing efforts towards gender equality.

Theatre of the Mind: Two private companies have announced plans to merge, creating a new entity with combined assets of over $1 billion. The merger is expected to be finalized by the end of the month. The companies involved are Theatre of the Mind, Inc., and Mind of the Theatre, LLC.

Theatre of the Mind: Theatre of the Mind has announced that it will be launching a new initiative aimed at supporting emerging playwrights. The initiative will provide grants of up to $25,000 to playwrights whose works showcase innovative ideas and perspectives. Applications for the grants are now open and will be accepted until May 31st.

Theatre of the Mind: Theatre of the Mind has released its annual report, which highlights the organization's achievements in the past year. The report includes details on the number of productions staged, audience attendance, and financial outcomes. The report can be accessed on the Theatre of the Mind's website.
New SGA

The new officers of the Student Government Association were sworn in May 3, 1977. The Student Government Association is an organization of students working for students, and tackles issues on all aspects of college life. Take advantage by dropping by the SGA chambers, located on the third floor of the Student Union, with any questions or just to say hello.

President

Joe Lamothe

- ceremonial head of the SGA
- appoints members to all-college committees
- calls meetings of the Senate and prepares the agenda

"The Student Government Association will work best in representing students' interests if the students make their views known to the SGA.

Second Vice President

Carole Hamilton

- homecoming chairperson
- chairs Social Activities committee
- Senate representative to the Program Committee

"It is both an honor and a pleasure to be a member of SGA and in the position to represent the students at ESC. And, as second Vice President, with the help of the Homecoming Committee, I plan to do my best in representing a variety of student interests in organizing the best Homecoming event!

Treasurer

Lisa Gorman

- deals with financial procedures such as annual and semiannual budgetary requests, audits, and freezing or revocation of funds
- chairs Ways and Means Committee

"As a member of SGA, I have an obligation to keep the students informed of all happenings within the college community. As chairperson of Ways and Means, I will try to distribute all funds fairly to all clubs and organizations and will make myself available to answer any student's questions about club funding and policies.

Officers

First Vice President

Al Silva

- chairs Senate meetings
- appoints members to standing Senate committees
- takes over in absence of the President

"I would like to see the SGA become more responsive to the students. I feel that if students have a problem they should feel free to come to us and that we could direct them. I wish to run orderly meetings by enforcing the rules and to have a tighter reign on committees.

Secretary

Anne McAdams

- records the minutes of the SGA meeting
- attends to all correspondence

"I am very excited about being Secretary of the Student Government Association and am in the position to answer with any questions or problems that they might have concerning SGA.

Assistant Treasurer

Biche DiGallo

- in absence or at the discretion of the Treasurer, executes the duties and executes the power of the President

"I fractured my back in a skiing accident in March and feel the bigger chair will do wonders for my back... and ego.

Many a time the Blue and White has been the place to be on a warm sunny afternoon. The track team has been there, and many a team has come to, or has left without a victory. But the fans have been there, and they have cheered and taunted in equal measure. And they have never been left without a story to tell.

The opening meet of the season, April 5, at Fitchburg State, was the beginning of the season. A win over Salem State College would be the start of a new era for the track team.

The first of the season was a great one for the Blue and White. A win over the Salem State College would be the start of a new era for the track team.

Editorial

This will not be your ordinary, everyday editorial discussing about the things provided by Carter's Food Service. We are asking for a report concerning their meal plans.

As of today, there is no evidence that anything like this is going on. The food service provides weekly meals for students, but there is no evidence of any other form of meal plan. The food service is responsible for providing meals to students, and there is no evidence of any other form of meal plan.

Letters to the Editor

To the Student Body:

I'd like to take this opportunity to address a few issues that have been of concern to many of you. I would like to discuss the recent changes in the meal plan and the associated costs.

Firstly, please be aware that the meal plan has been revised to accommodate the diverse dietary needs of our student body. The changes include an increase in vegetarian options and the introduction of gluten-free and dairy-free options. I understand that these changes may have caused some inconvenience, but I assure you that they were made in the best interest of our students.

Secondly, I would like to address the issue of cost. The meal plan has been designed to provide a balanced and nutritious diet at an affordable price. However, I understand that the cost is a concern for many of you. I want to assure you that the university is committed to ensuring that all students can afford to eat on campus.

I am confident that these changes will lead to a positive experience for all of our students. I encourage you to share your feedback and suggestions so that we can continue to improve our meal plan.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
The Student's Role in Bargaining

By Dotty Twaroch

The Minnesota article was printed on January 19, 1976. It explains collective bargaining’s importance in the coming 1976-77 sports season and the role of faculty organization, as seen by the Minnesota Club. Faculty and student organization are justly concerned in collective bargaining. Direct participation and influence in collective bargaining is best served through the faculty-student relations. The three main factors in collective bargaining are: the faculty/student relations, the faculty/staff relations, and the faculty/union relations. Faculty and student organization are both important in these relations.

Collective bargaining is the result of the faculty/student relations. The meetings between these parties are called sessions and are governed by rules determined in preliminary meetings. If the faculty and student organization do not agree, the meetings break down.

The effect of collective bargaining is the result of the decision-making process on campus, whereas the role of the faculty has been strengthened. Often the faculty are not represented because they have never been involved in any campus activities. The faculty are often concerned because they are the ones making the decisions, whether it be the faculty or the student organization. In some cases, the faculty and student organizations are the same. Possible courses of action for students are the appointment of faculty and students to represent the student body. Some of these students are unable to represent the student body, and others may not be able to represent their institution.
