Linda is a bright young woman, thirty-two years old, who came to college after a gap of seven years. After several years of college, she decided to take a break from the stress of college and started working in a food service job. She continued to work in this job for two years before coming back to college. After several years of working in the food service industry, she decided to return to college and pursue a degree in public relations.

During her time working in the food service industry, Linda was able to gain experience in managing large teams of people. This experience was valuable when she went back to college and was able to manage her classes and work schedule effectively. In addition, working in the food service industry allowed her to develop her skills in communication and interpersonal relations.

Linda's decision to return to college and pursue a degree in public relations was a significant one. It required a lot of planning and effort to balance her work and school responsibilities. However, Linda's perseverance paid off, and she was able to successfully complete her degree and find a job in the field of public relations.

The story of Linda is an example of how returning to college after a long gap can be rewarding. It shows that with effort and determination, it is possible to successfully pursue a degree and make a career change later in life.
For a change. Take a moment to read this article about the chance to take a course at the Bridgewater College Student Life Office. The course will last for two to four weeks, with a maximum of 25 students per course. The course fee will be $300, which includes all materials and supplies. The course topics will be determined by the Editor-in-Chief, and will include topics such as photography, writing, and computer skills. The course will be taught by a qualified instructor, and will be held on Monday nights from 7:00 to 9:00 pm. An essay based on the course topic will be assigned, and will be due the following Monday. The essay will be graded on a scale of 1 to 10, and will be a factor in determining your grade for the course. The course will be held on the Bridgewater College campus, and will be open to all Bridgewater students. For more information, contact the Office of Student Life at 508-335-5000.

"Student Life" O.K.!

To the Campus Community
In response to the article "Student Life" which appeared in last week’s COMMUNITY mentioning the various activities available for students, I would like to express my agreement with the point of view stated in the column. In my opinion, the various activities available for students are very attractive and contribute significantly to the overall quality of student life on campus.

Letter to Editor

To the Editor,

I would like to express my appreciation for those who helped me by providing information on future events. Your suggestions are greatly appreciated, and I look forward to attending these events.

Sincerely,

Officer of Class ’78

Found a Sweater?

On Tuesday, September 20, 1977, I attended a Career in Psychological Services Conference. The course was scheduled for noon EDT in the University Union Conference Room. I had recently been looking for a sweater and was thrilled to find one that fit just right.

"An Irish Priest? A Sage!"

When on campus we find a large Irish priest that is not an Irish priest but a Sage! That's because the Irish priest is Rev. Joseph McNamara, S.J., a controversial figure on campus.

The Irish priest is Rev. Joseph McNamara, S.J., a vital figure on campus. His presence is often felt in the form of impromptu talks, which are usually given in the Student Union afternoons. These talks are often heard in the dining hall, where the Irish priest is often seen conversing with students.

The Irish priest is often quoted as saying, "I'm not a priest, I'm a Sage!" His wise words often bring laughter and contemplation to those who hear him.

But beyond the humor, the Irish priest is also known for his commitment to helping others. He has been involved in numerous activities, from tutoring schoolchildren to helping the homeless.

In conclusion, the Irish priest is a unique figure on campus, and his presence is both appreciated and missed when he is not around.

Although classes at Bridgewater State College have only been in session a couple of weeks, problems have already developed in the parking situation at the college. The administration of the college announced several new parking rules. It is expected that these changes will be implemented by the fall semester and will help to alleviate the parking problems currently being experienced at Bridgewater State College.

The deadline for registering for the Student Job List will be extended until the Office of Student Life and distributed to members of the faculty and staff on Tuesday, September 30. Babysitters, house painters, tennis instructors, tutors, yard and house cleaners and the like are urged to join the list!

The application deadline is October 21, 1977. For information regarding the foreign language and mathematics majors, please consult the Office of Student Life.

For further information and test application, please go to the Office of Student Life.

Field Hockey Rallies to Win

The 1977 Bridgewater State College field hockey team has officially opened their season with a double victory over Boston College.

Returning varsity coach is Linda Sears, who led the team to a 4-5 record last year. Expecting to have a stronger squad this season due to the return of 17 veteran players, the team's goal is to win 80% of the scheduled games in order to participate in the Eastern Regional Tournament in November.

Along with the varsity team, returning players for the 13 game schedule are seniors Linda Quintiliani and Cheryl St. Onge, juniors Debbie Draper, Erin Egan, Donna McGilvary, and Becky Welch, sophomores Sandy Buscemi, Debbie Hill, Sara Hoague, Paula Hutch, Gale MacAuley, Carrie O'Donnell, Cheryl Patterson and Sharon Rogerson. New players for this year include sophomores Debbie Hutchinson, June McLaughlin and Barbara Sarno, freshmen Kathy Boggan, Kathy Bush, Michelle Demers, Sally Dodge, Jackie Fay, Helen Garber, Robin Holden, Judy Ide, Cheryl Jackson, Beth Latessa, Cathy MacAllion, Cheryl Mesheau, Karen Pignataro, Claudia Reed and Lisa Vallincourt.

BSC opened their season last Thursday against Boston College. In the varsity game, Bridgewater found themselves having trouble working together as a unit by being overpowered by the offense. This resulted in a 1-0 lead in favor of B.C. But this goal triggered Bridgewater into putting it together as a team and from then on, BGC took control of the game and led at halftime 2-1. The first 2 goals were scored by left inner Carol Bolduc and center Carol Bolduc respectively.

The 2nd half showed BGC playing as a powerful offensive team scoring in the opening minutes of the half by left wing Sue Waletkus, making the score 3-1. Boston College came back and scored 2 unanswered goals, one resulting from a penalty shot, which tied the game at 3-3. Approximately 5 minutes later, Erin Egan scored her 2nd goal of the game, giving Bridgewater the win and sending the team off to a good start for the season.

In the Junior Varsity game, BSC proved again to be unbeatable by defeating Boston College's J. V. team by a score of 2-1. Scoring for Bridgewater was Jackie Fay and Lisa Vallincourt.

BSC will be traveling to URI on Sat. 1 with the varsity game starting at 1:00. The next home game will be on Tuesday Oct. 4 against Saturday against Providence College. All home games are played at the field hockey field in front of Great Hill.

PUBLIC WATER QUALITY WORKSHOPS

The Old Colony Planning Council is a nonprofit, environmental education organization which helps to identify and solve water quality problems in the Old Colony region.

To encourage maximum public involvement, workshops will be held at several sites throughout the month of October. These workshops will be open to all residents of the region and will provide an opportunity for community members to learn about water quality issues and to share their concerns with professionals.

The first workshop is scheduled for October 25th. More information on this event will be available soon.

ENROLLMENT COMING HOME COMMITTEE

There is still plenty of room for additional students and, as mentioned earlier, there will be a try-out for the fall. If you are interested, please contact Mrs. Cathleen McLaughlin, Chairwoman of the committee.

FREE LECTURE

The Harvard Group of the Student Library Committee of Bridgewater State College will be holding a public lecture by Dr. Guido Krannich, in SU 206 on Saturday, October 8 at the Library Hall.

Dr. Krannich's topic will be an English essay from the 1950's, and he will be accompanied by several students who will discuss their own experiences with the essay.

National Theatre of the Dead

The National Theatre of the Dead finds it very easy to overcome the fearlessness of death. They take the central idea of the novel and transform it into a comedy, a parody. It is a satire on the transformation of a novel and its interaction into a good play.

Coming Events in the Rat

The S.U. Program Committee's upcoming events are:

"The Three Musketeers" is a collaborative production celebrating the National Theatre of the Dead's 10th anniversary and the 100th birthday of the Dead Theatre. Educational activities. Founded in 1967, the theatre's accomplishments include the creation of a new theatre format based upon social and political issues. Geils Concert Review

by Doug Schor
"Sticks," formerly known as the J Geils Band, celebrated their 10th anniversary at the Boston Music Hall last week, with "The Big Train," the 11th. The concert was a fitting sendoff to the venerable venue, which closed after the show. The band's performance was a tribute to the legendary venue, offering a mix of rock, blues, and soul.

"Dennison Breakdown," a fast-paced tune amid the audience, was a highlight of the evening. "Lover's Tears," with its driving rhythm and soulful vocals, brought the crowd to its feet. "Lady of the Night," a moving ballad, showcased the band's songwriting abilities. The encore, "The Big Train," a powerful anthem of triumph and resilience, rounded off the evening on a high note.
