"Good Job"

To the Editor:

I just wanted to raise this opportunity given the health of SGA, the hill for their free effort of planning and ensuring everything went smoothly during the past week.

SAC, Academic Committee, Bridge competitions - they all helped branded to a lower level and are well-appreciated by all. It was especially close the books on this year with our water problem. We normally see something of the year with not water problem. The house was being filled with some kind of symphony. Sony took so long for this letter to be written due to the heavy workload. Now you know what you say, better than never.

More bookstores complaints...

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my frustration with the lack of customer service at the local bookstores. I have been a frequent customer of these stores for several years, but recently, the level of service has been disappointing.

On my most recent visit, the sales associate was rude and unhelpful. When I asked for assistance with a particular product, the associate seemed annoyed and rushed to complete the sale. This type of behavior is unacceptable and is not representative of the high-quality service I have come to expect from these stores.

I hope that management at the two bookstores will address these issues and work towards improving the customer experience. I look forward to receiving better service in the future.

The final outcome of the 1978 SAC Conference was a positive one. The conference was well-attended, with a good mix of students and faculty in attendance. The atmosphere was lively and engaging, with many productive discussions taking place.

Participants were encouraged to share their ideas and concerns, and there was a strong sense of community and cooperation among those in attendance. The conference concluded with a closing ceremony, where participants were thanked for their contributions and encouraged to continue their efforts in promoting positive change on campus.

Spotlight on international students—The Diversity Effect

This is my favorite place to visit. I have been here for over a year now and I have never felt more at home. The people are so nice and welcoming. I love the culture here and the food is amazing.

The diversity of the student body has been a great source of inspiration for me. I have made so many new friends from all over the world. It has been a learning experience to be exposed to different cultures and beliefs.

I would recommend this place to anyone who is open to new experiences. It is definitely a place that I will miss when I have to leave.

The Board of Soda Cola is experimenting with many things: cancellation of classes, getting stuck on Friday, one-way traffic to the library, and finding that they probably need to be more services the students by various members of the college community. To the best of our knowledge, there is no kind of service that is going to work well for all the people and in groups. To my knowledge, a customer-service oriented student organization is the only one that will be able to work well for all the people and in groups.

At the House of Health, Student Union, and Student Life many people, the dedication made it a little easier to work as one.

New England Contemporary Ensemble Review

by Michael Baume

The Carpenter's Shop sponsored the New England Contemporary Ensemble's Monday, February 14th, performance of 'From Dixie to Dada'.

The lone piece on the program was a 1977 composition titled 'From Dixie to Dada' by John Cage. This piece uses atonality, dissonance, and aleatoric elements in an attempt to evoke a sense of the new versus the old.

The performance was well received by the audience present. The Carpenter's Shop, located at 53 Blue Hill Ave, is a noted arts venue in the Boston area.

For centuries we've wound our clock by hand. And for centuries we've made Cuervo Gold by hand. At the Cuervo distillery it's almost as if time has stood still. Our Blue Magueys are nurtured by hand, picked by hand, and steamed to perfection by hand. So if you've ever wondered how Cuervo Gold is made, come to our next meeting on Tuesday, February 21st, at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union Auditorium. The officers will show you the entire process of how we make Cuervo Gold. The meeting is free and open to everyone.

Cuervo Gold has been producing the same award-winning tequila for over 200 years, using traditional methods passed down through generations. Our Blue Magueys are hand-picked and meticulously steamed to perfection. The resulting agave juice is then carefully distilled and aged in oak barrels to produce the smooth, complex flavor that has made Cuervo Gold a beloved spirit around the world.

The Distillery is more than just a place where tequila is made. It's also a cultural landmark where visitors can experience the history and traditions that have shaped Cuervo Gold for generations. A tour of the facility includes a trip to the fields where the agave is grown, a visit to the stills where the alcohol is distilled, and a chance to see first-hand how Cuervo Gold is made.

Cuervo Gold is not just a drink; it's a symbol of Mexican heritage and craftsmanship. From the Blue Magueys to the oak barrels, every step in the process is done by hand, preserving the authenticity and quality that has made Cuervo Gold a favored drink for generations.

For more information or to schedule a tour, please contact your local distributor or visit our website at Cuervo.com.

by Jean St. Andre

According to Dean Wallace Anderson, Academic Dean, classes cancelled last week because of the snowstorm will not have to be made up at any time barring any further cancellation of classes.

The reasoning for this decison is the following: First, before the longer vacation the college can afford the less time it is open; second, because of the Saturday-Friday schedule, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday-night classes will not be affected; and third, because it is possible to cancel classes Wednesday-Friday, and Tuesday-Thursday classes, students have only missed 3 classes of each course.

Anderson noted the difficulty in arranging a suitable period for these classes should be made up. Extending the academic year further might cause problems for students and teachers and interfere with summer jobs. Taking a week out to make up for the snow problems with students and teachers could cause a problem with students who have jobs on the weekends. Realizing the above problems, the Administration tried its best to simply absorb the 4 days that were lost, Anderson stated.

A problem, however, may arise in regards to student teaching. Some students are assigned to teach public school systems do not have to make up these lost days either, causing a possible problem. Since student teachers must acquire a certain number of teaching certificaton requirements, special arrangements will have to be made. Details of how this problem will be solved is still unknown at this time, but Dr. Anderson feels that a statement concerning this problem will be announced by the end of the week.

Top: Two women come to the startling conclusion that this MIGHT not be their car. Middle: You'd think Fr. by Ann St. Andre

According to Depe Wallace Anderson, Academic Dean, classes cancelled last week because of the snowstorm will not have to be made up at any time barring any further cancellation of classes.

The reasons for the decision are the following: First, the college can absorb the lost days into its schedule. Second, knowing the weather conditions for the coming Monday through Wednesday, Friday, and Tuesday, Thursday basis, students have only missed 3 classes of each course.

Anderson noted the difficulty in arranging a suitable period when these classes could be made up. Extending the academic year further into May would cause problems and interfere with summer jobs. Taking away a week's vacation and combining this with students who come from the same communities. Another solution would be the problem with students who have jobs on the weekends. The administration, however, decided to absorb the 4 days that were lost.

A problem, however, many agree to student teaching. Public school systems do not have to make up these lost days, other, causing a problem. Icemen keep trying...

Bears nip Worcester

by Coriea Killen

Bridgewater's senior leader has a knack for keeping an ice team going. He remembers his days as a freshman in the University of Connecticut's 1978-79 Worcester State College Oceans.

Whether it is because the team as a whole is currently playing or because it is a game against the Icemen, he always finds a way to keep things moving.

In the past month, the Bears have taken advantage of their strong defense and solid play to keep winning games. Their recent success has allowed them to make a push for the top spot in the league.

The Bears, led by an experienced group of veterans, have been working together since the start of the season. Their teamwork and chemistry have been the key to their success so far.

The Bears' next game is against the Oceans on February 25. With the team riding high, fans can expect a close and exciting match.

Women Tracksters-Dedication

by Elaine Morris

With 17 goals and 10 assists for a total of 27 points, Mike Cheney has been a key player for the Bears. His dedication to the team has been evident throughout the season.

Cheney's leadership on the field is accompanied by his work ethic off the field. He is always looking for ways to improve and contribute to the team's success.

On this special day, we celebrate Mike Cheney's contributions to the Bears and wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

Bears nip Worcester

Worcester: The Bears played just well enough to slip the Worcester State Bears 79-72, this past Saturday night. Despite not being able to fill complete team practice because of the snow storm, the Bears showed signs of being sharp, crisp, and ready for the next game.

In the opening minutes of the game the Bears were behind 17-3 and 7-2 in passes of flashy basketball grace. 3:50 into the game the Bears reached 30 and held on to the lead until the half. The Bears managed to control the second half, scoring 57 points in the final stanza.

Bridgewater girls had an excellent day as five of their six competitors scored their all time highs. Freshman Maria Scarpa led the BSC team.

Laliberte despite a hard fall still managed a 4.2. Lynne Scott, Gail Spillane should be especially commended for her fine execution on the beam. Cathy had been out earlier this season with a bad ankle but she was back in the saddle.

The vaulting event was close as UConn's Cindy Heneage and Nancy Fey.

In 1963 Violence Subsided

By Peter Taylor

In 1962, the U.S. and Columbia signed the Thomas-Urrutia Treaty, which had been proposed by former U.S. President Franklin Roosevelt. This treaty was meant to resolve the long-standing dispute over the Panama Canal Zone. The treaty was signed in 1946. In this treaty, Colombia acknowledged that the Panama Canal Zone belonged with Panama.

The U.S. agreed to withdraw its troops and provide financial assistance for the Panamanian government.

In 1963, violence subsided in the area around the Panama Canal. The treaty had been successful in bringing peace to the region.

The U.S. has a long history of military intervention in Latin America. In 1962, the U.S. and Columbia signed the Thomas-Urrutia Treaty, which had been proposed by former U.S. President Franklin Roosevelt. This treaty was meant to resolve the long-standing dispute over the Panama Canal Zone. The treaty was signed in 1946. In this treaty, Colombia acknowledged that the Panama Canal Zone belonged with Panama.

The U.S. agreed to withdraw its troops and provide financial assistance for the Panamanian government.

In 1963, violence subsided in the area around the Panama Canal. The treaty had been successful in bringing peace to the region.

Fire At Pope!

Some things only happen to other people...it seems. On Saturday, May 29, the Panamanian government issued a formal complaint against the Vatican for its alleged interference in Panamanian affairs.

An investigation launched by the Vatican into the case of the Panamanian government has been ongoing for several months. The Vatican has been accused of interfering in Panamanian affairs by providing financial support to opposition groups.

The Panamanian government has called on the Vatican to cease its interference in the case.

The Vatican has denied any involvement in the case and has stated that it is not interfering in Panamanian affairs.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the Panama Canal dispute has been a long-standing issue that has caused conflict and tension between the U.S. and Panama for many years. The Thomas-Urrutia Treaty was meant to resolve this conflict and bring peace to the region. However, the treaty had its limitations and did not completely resolve the issue.

The U.S. intervention in Latin America has been a contentious issue. It is important to consider the historical context and the impact of U.S. intervention on the region.

It is essential to address the root causes of conflict and promote peaceful resolutions to conflicts. Diplomacy and dialogue are key tools in achieving these goals.

In the case of the Panama Canal, the U.S. and Panama should work together to find a solution that respects the rights and interests of both parties. This would require a commitment to peaceful resolution and a willingness to compromise.

The Program of Continuing Education at Bridgewater College, in addition to its regular center and the Harriet summer school center in West Barnstable, has established a first center in Maine. The program will be directed by David Farris, Jr., Director of Continuing Education. The program is designed to attract students from all over the country who are interested in continuing education.

The program will offer a wide range of courses in various fields, including business, economics, and law.

This is an excellent opportunity for students to continue their education and improve their skills in a convenient and accessible setting.
